SEE NO SPLIT

LONDON (AP) — Diplomatic informants reported Tuesday that the U.S. and British ambassadors in Moscow have detected a peculiar atmosphere of political uncertainty lately. But the informants added the envoys have found little evidence to support a imminent split or change of policy in Soviet leadership. In Paris French official sources expressed doubt that some big development will be taking shape in the Kremlin.

Expect Pension Increase, Baby Bonus Age Extension

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The shape of the government's legislative program in what is generally conceded to be a pre-election session of Parliament opening Thursday, will determine to a large degree when federal accounts will switch from red ink to black.

With a general election in the wind, the government's program is expected to have a strong appeal to the voters.

There has been widespread speculation that the central feature will be an increase in old age pensions.

There also had been speculation that family allowances will be extended to cover children beyond age 16 still in school.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has already announced his government's intention to give drought-hit Prairie farmers acreage payments similar to those in 1958 and 1960 which cost around $42,000,000 each.

It's almost a certainty that the treasury will be called on to bolster the unemployment insurance fund.

TAX CHANGES

Any tax changes the government may have in mind won't be disclosed in the session-opening throne speech. They must await a formal budget speech.

However, the government is known to have been studying a variety of tax-cut proposals designed to provide incentives for increased production capital investment and industrial research.

There has been little speculation about possible general tax cuts in a pre-election budget. But it's probably the government is remembering the 1957 election defeat of the former Liberal government following a budget which provided some income tax easements but no general cut in rates.

A continuous downpour of rain Monday in the Picton district settled the gigantic snow drifts along county and township roads in the southern section of Prince Edward County. Some drifts, such as the one above near Cherry Valley village, were more than 10 feet in height early yesterday morning. This area of road in Athol Township is at the east end of East Lake and the snow is blown the full length of the lake before piling up across the roadway. (Hodgson).

Britain Switches To Centigrade Measure Scale

LONDON (AP) — Temperatures took a step dive throughout Britain Monday—but winter weather had nothing to do with it.

Britain began shaking off tradition and switched to the Centigrade scale from the Fahrenheit scale of thermometer marking.

The change to the continental way of measuring relative temperatures was the first phase of an official program to convert Britons to the decimal system of measuring. Eventually they will use decimals to reckon how rich, as well as how hot, they are.

In London Monday, it was about 40 degrees Fahrenheit. But, translated into Centigrade it was five degrees.

In the Centigrade scale, water freezes at zero and boils at 100 degrees. In the Fahrenheit scale the freezing point is 32 degrees and the boiling point 212 degrees.

Military, Space Programs To Get Bulk Of Increase

Kennedy Sends Record Budget to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, in the first federal budget of his own making, trailed today for record-peacetime spending of $92,500,000,000 and—or surplus of $403,000,000 possible only if revenues soar and the price of mailing a letter is increased.

The 1,500-page spending blueprint, which covers the 1963 fiscal year beginning July 1, foresees a spending increase of nearly $5,500,000,000 compared with the current level. More than 75 per cent of the increase would go to military and space programs.

Kennedy told Congress he expects outlays to total more than $92,500,000,000 — an amount unmatched in any year during the Second World War. If a surplus were estimated at $83,000,000,000, an unprecedented level and $11,000,000,000 higher than this year's indicated.

Highlighting the 7,460 - word budget message which Kennedy sent to Capitol Hill were these recommendations:

A defense program of $52,700,000,000, up nearly $1,500,000,000.

Allocation of $2,400,000 for space research an increase of $1,000,000.

A foreign aid program boosted by $1,000,000 to $4,900,000.

Repeal of the 3-per-cent tax on rail bus and boat fares and a number of adjustments in aviation taxes.

Enactment of a new farm bill designed to cut farm program spending by $5,800,000,000 from $6,300,000,000.

Increase the "temporary" $236,000,000,000 national debt limit to a record high of $308,000,000,000.

Doubts Cause Of Blast Can Be Determined

EDSON, Alta. (CP)—Mystery still hangs over the cause of a natural gas pipeline explosion that killed eight workmen and injured four others Tuesday.

H. H. Sommerville, Alberta's deputy minister of mines and minerals, said he doubted whether the cause will be determined.

The blast, worst of its kind in Canada, occurred 35 miles northwest of here, mutilating or severely burning its victims.

The men were testing the pipeline at the time of the accident.

PIPELINE LIMITED

The ruptured line is part of a 46-mile feeder which Pigott began building last November. About 90 per cent of the line has been completed, except for testing.

Mr. Sommerville suggested a particle of metal inside the pipe might have caused a spark when the valve was opened.

Secret Army Explodes 17 Bombs in Paris

PARIS (Reuters)—The right-wing Secret Army Organization exploded a record 17 plastic bombs in Paris during the night in defiance of the French government's announcement of an all-out drive against the extremists.

Most of the bombs exploded in apartment blocks, causing no casualties but extensive damage. Police said it was the largest number of plastic bombs ever exploded in Paris in one night.

Leaflets found scattered near the scene of several explosions said the blasts were part of "Operation Lisa" carried out by secret army commando groups and directed at supporters of Algerian Independence movement and "traitors to the cause of French Algeria."

All Canada Stays Gripped In Cold Wave

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nearly all Canada remains under the influence of a huge Arctic air mass that kept temperatures below zero here, much everywhere, except southwestern British Columbia.

Except in regions bordering the Great Lakes, and on New Soundland's west coast, clear skies have accompanied the cold wave. Strong westerly winds added to the briskness in central Canada.

PREDICTS U.S. GROWTH

WASHINGTON (AP) — The census bureau says it expects the U.S. population to reach 200,000,000 in the fall of 1968. This prediction was issued Wednesday by the bureau. At the same time, it said the country is growing faster than expected.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An area of light snow in the midwestern United States is moving slowly eastward. Milder weather will prevail with passage of the Great Lakes. However, some bitterly cold weather is likely in southwestern regions during the day. Little change is expected elsewhere.

He wore the white tie and tails, and his military and civilian medals. She wore a turquoise blue silk floor length gown.

The crowd fell silent and stood, two-deep, on the broad vice-regal avenue for them under the crystal chandeliers. The governor-general and his wife—curtsied to acknowledge the Queen's representative.

General and Mme. Vanier sat on a raised platform and chairs in a corner of the cream and gilt ballroom, and held court, while their aides ushered guests one by one to the receiving line.

Then he and Mme. Vanier received 400 other guests for the late evening reception.

Five Provincial Seats Up for Grabs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The outcome of today's "little general election" in Ontario may rest more on the hardiness of the party supporters than on the strength of leaders in the campaign for the five seats at stake.

Later Premier Frost talked with Dutch Ambassador C. W. A. Schurman and Indonesian Ambassador Sukarda, Wikjomidjojo. Informants said he notified them formally of his cables to the governments.

Sukarda told reporters Indonesia is "flexible." He added, however, that his government favors negotiations only if the Dutch government commits itself in advance to abandon its intransigent attitude on the question of West New Guinea.

Dr. Subandrio, Indonesian foreign minister, was reported in Moscow to have told Soviet officials that Indonesia will not attend the Geneva conference on West New Guinea.

Dr. Subandrio is expected to arrive in Ottawa Jan. 24 to negotiate with Diefenbaker and Howard Green, External Affairs minister.

Dr. Quay cabled Thant Tuesday that his cabinet had expressed readiness as early as Jan. 2 to negotiate with Indonesia "under your auspices and without any preconditions." He said the offer still stands but reiterated that his government reserves the right of self-defence if Indonesia attacks Dutch territory.

The Dutch are reconciled to giving the Indonesians control over the territory. But appearances they are withholding an advance formal U.S. hope of obtaining some assurance in the negotiations that the Indonesian population of West New Guinea (Netherlands) will be allowed a plebiscite in which whether they will be independent or Indonesian.

Thant Asks Dutch, Sukarno Accept Him as Go-Between

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant pressed a peacemaking effort today to bring The Netherlands and Indonesia together for negotiations to settle their dispute over control of West New Guinea.

Thant cabled identical appeals to Indonesian President Sukarno and Dutch Premier Jan de Quay to accept his services as go-between. He asked both to hold off from any drastic action in retaliation for Monday's armed clash off the coast of New Guinea.

Later Thant talked with Dutch Ambassador C. W. A. Schurman and Indonesian Ambassador Sukarda, Wikjomidjojo. Informants said he notified them formally of his cables to the governments.

New Plum-Color Furniture Will Greet Senators, Guests

OTTAWA (CP)—New benches with plum - colored upholstery have been provided for senators and their guests attending the opening of the new parliamentary session today.

The softly - polished, oak-panelled benches for the senators, replacing ones used since 1867, are the first new ones are the only new feature of the opening.

The session will be opened with the reading of the speech from the throne by Governor-General Vanier. The speech, written by the government, outlines the administration's legislative program.

Because they are commoners, the country's elected representatives are not permitted on the floor of the Senate. The one exception is the prime minister, who sits to the right of the governor-general.

Former governor - general Vincent Massey, Mr. Vanier's predecessor, will again attend the ceremony, sitting at a special spot on the Senate floor to the immediate right of Ontario, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island also have accepted invitations to attend.

For the first time, the Senate chamber will be equipped with simultaneous translation equipment. This is the Commons, ceremonies will continue to be conducted in both English and French. The throne speech reading the throne speech in both languages.

The event, made all the more colorful by gowns of the women guests, the scarlet of the Senate and the diplomatic corps, will be televised nationally.

Gen. Vanier is due to arrive by horse-drawn state carriage at the entrance to the parliament's centre block at 2:55 p.m. He will be met by an inspection a 180-man guard of honor from the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, now stationed at Camp Ontario, drawn up opposite the Senate foyer. A 21-gun salute will be fired from nearby Nepean Point on his arrival and departure.

When the governor - general leaves his seat in the Senate, Maj. C. R. Lamoureux, gentleman usher of the black rod, will lead him to the Commons where members of the Commons to the Upper House for the reading of the throne speech.

Thomson Says Earl Man of Great Ability

LONDON (Reuters) — Canadian newspaper boss Roy Thomson said today the Earl of Snowdon was appointed artistic adviser to the Sunday Times because of his ability.

Thomson denied that the royal name of Princess Margaret's husband was "probably a big draw" for readers.

"He is a man of great ability. He is in the press conference business know that, and we want him for that ability."

Thomson said tonight it right to employ a royal personage in a battle for newspaper circulation. The Sunday Times, he said, not think he is employed on that basis at all. If I had thought it was not right, I would not have done it."

Asked about the salary which the appointment would carry, Thomson replied: "I do not know and if I would not tell you."

COMMENT FROM THOMSON

Commenting on a recent newspaper circulation contest the appointment, Thomson said: "I would be more concerned if there were criticism from the public. It is not certain that that is not prevalent."

Latest of a stream of comments following the appointment came today from a Financial Times columnist who described the appointment as a "coup" for Thomson and said it would guarantee the success of the new color section of the Sunday Times.

The columnist said Snowdon's appointment also helped solve the problem of how to give writers agents who have contended the new magazine supplement is to be lavishly filling.

The Snowdon appointment has been followed by the discovery on the part of the Fed-Eral Trade Fairwell Fewer Agents that it can recommend its members to the Canadian color section after all," he said.

Boy Not Aware Of Action Says Psychiatrist

ST. THOMAS (CP)—An Ontario Hospital psychiatrist testified today that his patient, Keith Adsell, 17, was not aware of the seriousness of the fatal McIver Darlus (Mac) Appleford, was shot to death Oct. 18, by Adsell in Dalton Lake. The first defence witness in the Supreme Court trial of Adsell, charged with capital murder.

The youth, a farmhand, was arraigned in the bullet that killed the dog. Mr. Appleford died at the door of a granary on the family farmstead with his body riddled with .22-calibre rifle bullets.

Dr. John Harold Stafford told the jury before opening his defence that he had been asked to prove Adsell was "not guilty because of insanity." He said it was his opinion the youth had committed the murder "left the gun and then returned to shoot."

Dr. Johns said he believed the youth may have been affected by a "dissociative reaction."

FATHER TESTIFIES

Robert Abell, Sr., father of the accused, testified through Mr. Stafford. He said he had known his son to have had no previous explainable fainting spells.

Mrs. Appleford said she asked her nephew what he was doing with the rifle but "he didn't answer, he just started shooting." She said she "ran" and "heard many shots were fired but "it was more than once."

She told the court she suggested that the boy call a doctor and that he subsequently call the police.

She said she asked her nephew whether he realized what he had done and told him he had killed Mac. Their relationship had been good and the boy was well-mannered and a good worker. The trial continues.

POLICE TO ASK GREEK GIRLS TO EXPLAIN MOVE

Refute Affidavits Given to Paper

TORONTO (CP)—Two sisters from Greece, who accused a travel agent of trafficking in immigration visas and then reportedly died themselves, are going to be asked to explain.

Superintendent John D. McFarlane of the immigration department said Wednesday "the whole matter is in the hands of the police."

He said the RCMP has asked for the case on instructions from Ottawa.

The situation arose when columnist Pierre Berton of the Toronto Star ran a series of affidavits from Greek immigrant women saying they had been assaulted (Gus) Mlasakalis has charged them a fee on the understanding he would eventually get an immigration procedure.

Then the Telegram produced affidavits from two of the five—Rena and Alexandra Damianou who said they had signed blank documents and claiming they signed them without fully understanding what they were doing or what was in the documents.

Mr. Georgas said he read the documents to the girls "in Greek" to make certain they understood them before signing.

INTERVIEWED AGENT

Meanwhile, Mr. McFarlane said he has interviewed Mr. Mlasakalis and the travel agency has explained all his actions to customs and immigration officials and there is no evidence of wrongdoing in the immigration department.

A third statement of denial came to light when Dan Kastratis, brother of Mrs. Anna Mlasakalis, said he knew about all the arrangements, in his sister's dealings with the travel agency. He said he and the dead had been confused over them. Mrs. Theodosia Kastratis said she, too, swore out affidavits against Mr. Mlasakalis.

In her statement Wednesday Alexandra Damianou said she had been told by Mrs. Mlasakalis a man who kept "calling me after we had separated, advising me that if I signed the papers I had against Mr. Mlasakalis that he would take care of me, that he loved him and that he would obtain a divorce from his wife and that he would marry me instead."

Rena said she signed the first statement to assist her sister.

SIGNS LABOR RULES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has ordered federal government regulations governing labor relations of federal employees to join unions and negotiate agreements on their behalf. Parliament Back At Work; For How Long?

Argumentative Session Seen as Vote in Offing

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament goes back to work today. The big question is for how long.

The fifth session of the 24th Parliament, elected March 31, 1958, is being generally regarded as the last before the next federal general election.

It may run its full course into the summer—if the government is panning a fall election — or it may be ended abruptly by a call for an early spring test at the polls.

Some have even suggested it will last just a day or so. But Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who makes no secret, has already said he won't follow the example of former Liberal prime minister Mackenzie King, who in 1940 called Parliament into session and then solved it for the session all in the same day.

An indication of the government's election thinking may be given in the throne speech outlining the administration's legislative program, to be read at today's opening by Governor-General Vanier.

Gen. Vanier is to start reading the speech—in both official languages—at 3 p.m. EST.

Members and senators will be crowded into the Commons chamber and the diplomatic corps, with full uniformed splendor.

Gen. Vanier is due to arrive by horse-drawn state carriage at the entrance to the parliament's centre block at 2:55 p.m. He will be met by an inspection guard of honor from the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, now stationed at Camp Ontario, drawn up opposite the Senate foyer. Elegant New French Queen of Seas Has a Bar in Every Quiet Corner

LONDON (CP)—With Gallic impudence, a dazzling new French queen of the seas takes to the water just a shilling's folk start to wonder where the money went. She is the France, 66,000-ton liner.

The France, $80,000,000 flagship of the French Line, makes her maiden voyage from Cherbourg Islands Saturday. She starts her regular run to New York Feb. 3 and challenges the rivaling other operators may have. Nonetheless, she is high among the crew of the 66,000-ton liner.

Built as the longest ship in the world—her 1,035 feet gives her a four-foot edge over the Queen Elizabeth — the France will carry up to 2,044 passengers, 566 in first-class accommodation. There are 11 decks, a theatre also used as a wide-screen movie house, and what shipping correspondents call the "longest bar afloat."

David Fairhall, a British reporter who went along on a trial run to Southampton, wrote: "bars are dotted on all the floors, including a cabaret, swimming pool and theatre."

The France replaces the Liberte, a converted World War II troopship, which has been withdrawing its passenger fleet from the Atlantic as a time when there is some talk about what may be a diminishing market.

The French Line has already announced this month that it is withdrawing its passenger fleet from the Atlantic as a time when there is some talk about what may be a diminishing market.

3 Farm Wives Take Up Cudgels For Health Plan

By JACK BEST

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three Manitoba farm wives insisted Wednesday that Canada ought to have a national health plan compulsory for all. They refused to budge from their stand under close questioning by members of the royal commission on health services.

Their handling of the tough, probing questions won them an accolade from Chief Justice Emmett Hall of Saskatchewan, commission chairman, who told the three at one stage they were acquitting themselves "very well."

The three were Mrs. Olive Aitken of Glenella, secretary-president of the 19,000-member Manitoba Farmers Union; Mrs. Mary Mowbray of Hartney, past union's president, and Mrs. Margaret Wood of Oberon, women's vice-president.

The union's brief called for a national health plan financed, tered by the provinces and Ottawa, largely through federal grants, "coupled with personal premiums set at a level which can be met by all self-supporting citizens."

MORE BE UNIFORM

It was one of the few times since the commission began public sittings that the word "national" has been used in reference to a possible federal-provincial health plan.

Chairman Hall drew the delegation's attention to the apparent national issue involved—health being primarily a provincial responsibility under the B.N.A. act—but what was meant by the term "national health plan."

Mrs. Aitken explained: A scheme subsidized by the federal government and Parliament or less uniform across Canada . . . covering the same opportunity to everyone regardless of his station in life or geographical location."

The chairman asked whether it would be necessary to wait until all 10 provinces reached agreement on a plan.

Mrs. Aitken said until all 10 were ready before launching such hospital insurance plan, Mrs. Aitken said.

COW RUNS WILD

MONTREAL (CP) — A runaway cow from the stockyards caused a traffic jam on Notre Dame and Victoria Bridge across the St. Lawrence River and led a half-hour police chase at rush hour Wednesday.

The animal escaped from a 45-minute chase Wednesday. It jumped a protection railing on bridge railing and slightly damaged two patrol cars before it was shot.

Illustrious Potentate Hall greeted the Shrine members of the district outlining the plans for the Imperial Conference to be held in Toronto in July which will be attended by approximately 30,000 Shriners and their wives from the U.S., Mexico, Hawaii and Canada.

The guest speaker of the evening, Noble Dr. Russell Scott, chose as his subject "the Centennial Observance of Our Canada". After a series of highlights of the recent International Flowing Match (the greatest ever), Noble Scott went on to tell interesting facts about the growth, trials and tribulations, agriculture, education and Canada's interest in the widely publicized Common Market.

Noble Scott was thanked on behalf of the members and guests by the Potentate's Aide.

Foxboro Store Entered, Some Articles Taken

The Foxboro District Co-Operative Association was discovered broken into early this morning, when employees of the firm arrived for work around 8 o'clock.

Police manager Orval Mursell said entry had been gained through the front door, after being struck over a pinch bar.

He said the thief, or thieves, made way with clothing valued between $100 and $150. Pants, shirts, boots and coats were reported missing.

Mr. Mursell said it appeared they were getting ready for the cold weather.

The Co-Op plant is located at the north end of Foxboro, about five miles north of Belleville on Highway No. 14.

The theft is being investigated by Const. A. G. Oliver of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Attacks Those Who Refuse Children Blood

TRENTON — Claiming that members of certain religious sects, who refuse to allow their children to receive blood transfusions, (when such treatment is recommended in order to save the children's lives) are no better than "medicine men", Dr. Gordon Bates, medical officer of health for Prince Edward County, told Coroner's Jury Wednesday.

Mr. Tufford has been chosen to represent the club at an area speaking contest in Scarborough in March. He will also act as chairman at the annual Northumberland public speaking contest in the Wooler school on March 8. Ken Lawson, Tom Minaciola and Leo Seguin of the Trenton club will act as evaluators at this meeting.

The speakers were introduced by "toastmaster for the evening," Jim Rombonard and evaluated by Ken Lawson, Leo Seguin and Ken LaPain.

Grammarian was Gene Frederick.

Jim Byers was inducted into membership.

FRACTURES ELBOW

TRENTON — Tax collector G. Alas Weaver underwent surgery in Trenton Memorial Hospital Wednesday morning for a fractured elbow, sustained when he fell down icy steps at the back of the municipal building at 15 Dundas St. E., around 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday. Mr. Weaver expects to be back at work in a few days.

Bishop Evans Addresses Brotherhood

Bishop Evans congratulated Canon K. F. Blachford on his recent appointment as canon, and said that this honor had been awarded him by the rector for "parochial leadership and diocesan service."

Bishop Evans looked back pages of history for his subjects by recalling that Bishop John Lewis had been the first Anglican bishop ever consecrated in Canada. (the first outside of England), and said that this first bishop of the Ontario diocese had done much to bring about the strong unity of the church in Canada.

The bishop said that the diocese will mark its centennial this year and urged members of St. George's Brotherhood to "do 100 per cent" in the anniversary celebrations. A mass rally of churchmen and laymen will be held in the community centre at Kingston on June 10th.

Bishop Evans was introduced by Archdeacon A. J. C. Ward, president of the local brotherhood, and thanked by James Utley. Mr. Ward also congratulated Canon Blachford on his recent appointment.

later James Maloney is opposed by Liberal Leonard Gully—who lost to Mr. Maloney in 1959, by 6,000 votes—and Social Credit candidate of the NDP.

In Kingston, Renfrew became, the outstanding issue in Ren. frew South, organized gambling the issue in Lennox and Addington ridings.

The two Toronto seats at Ottawa traditionally been held by the Conservatives, but neither party was quite willing to concede defeat.

In Egmont, the Liberals have a proven vote-getter — at least at the municipal level — in former Toronto controller Mrs. Jean Newman. Also opposing Leonard Reilly's bid to retain the seat last year won by former education minister William Dunlop by 6,800 votes, is NDP candidate Eamonn Martin.

Toronto Beaches, held by the Conservatives only once since 1934, was held by conservative W. H. Collings, retiring Ontario commissioner, who had a plurality of 2,962 in 1958.

Seeking to keep the riding in the government fold is John Harris, a department store executive. Stockbroker Donald MacGregor is the Liberal nominee, while prime Liberal hope Jack Lawlor is running for the NDP.

In Brant, the only Tuesday Liberal premier Harry Nixon is seeking the seat left vacant by his father's death. The elder Nixon, who held the seat more than 40 years, at least had a plurality of 1,116.

Robert, a former school teacher who now operates a family farm, is running against Robert Good of Brantford, son of a former associate of Harry Nixon in forming the old United Farmers of Ontario party, and Conservative Garnet Brown, Paris businessman.

Kenora, Ontario's largest riding in area, has seen intensive campaigning. The seat was last held by the late Albert Wren, who won by only 40 votes in 1959.

Lawyer Robert Gibson has endorsed Mr. Wren's campaign in campaigning as Liberal-Labor. He is opposed by Conservative Pete Robertson, a CPR conductor, and the NDP's Mel Blouin, a Kenora high school teacher.

The polls opened at 9 a.m. local time, and will close at 7 p.m. Eastern Time. Because of time zone, is an hour behind the other four ridings.

Plans Received For New School Says Chairman

TRENTON — The Board of Education has received the complete architectural plans for the new technical addition for Trenton High School, T. S. Ketchison, chairman of the building, stated today. Tenders will be advertised before plans, early 30th, with contracts to be in by February 21st, Mr. Ketchison stated. Tenders can be started on the new building immediately after. The new addition will accommodate 570 more pupils than are now attending the high school

Legion Plans Meet to Hear All Candidates

TRENTON — As a means of stimulating, area interest in the possible federal election this year, Trenton Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion, will hold a "Meet Your Candidate" night in the near future.

Candidates in the two counties of Hastings and Northumberland — six in all — will be invited to "say a few words" and a question period will follow. The Conservative, Liberal and New Democratic candidates will all be accorded the same treatment, and members, honorary members and social members will all be invited to attend the banquet (no charge) and listen to the political statements.

Canadian Legion halls are often made available for such meetings, and the Legion, makes it clear that no particular party receives any official endorsement from the body.

BREAKS ARM

TRENTON — Around noon today, Mrs. Clarence Scrivens, Sidyiburo, 84 Carrying Place Road slipped on ice in the market, breaking her right arm just north of a fractured arm. She was treated in the emergency ward at Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Chief Gloster Forced to Take Rabies Shots

DESERONTO — The life of the chief of police in a small town is not always a happy one as evidenced by a story that came to light last week.

A couple of weeks ago a rabid fox attacked some cattle in the barnyard of Peter Whalen just north of the town. In an extremely large one, crossed the farm lands from the boundary road north of Maple Ave., until it came to Peter's farm where two young calves were in the barnyard a short distance from the house. The fox took after the cattle and was seen by Whalen's dog at the same time it was noticed by Mr. Whalen. The dog immediately attacked the fox and held it until Mr. Whalen had a chance, to kill it with an axe. Mr. Whalen called Chief Gloster and they took the dog, which was wounded, and the fox, to the proper authorities. When the fox was found to be rabid, the dog had to be dispatched too, but worst of all, Mr. Whalen and Chief Gloster were compelled to take rabies shots.

The two are still under observation by the police but Chief Gloster has not bitten anyone and he may pull through.

Debts and Frauds

Even those of us who have never read Dickens—and personally we congratulate them on their escape—know that there was a time when people were jailed for debt.

Most of us regard this as indefensible and we would have been numbered with the majority until quite recently.

Today we are not so sure. At Windsor a girl of 20 has pleaded guilty to 81 score of fraud charges. Fraud is a crime. We are not so sure, though, that it is always a crime against the person defrauded. Sometimes, those who accept bad cheques seem to make little effort to determine whether they are good. Losses by fraud seem to be accepted as merely a part of the cost of doing business—and, of course, all the rest of us help to pay these costs. Similarly bad debts have always been regarded as part of the cost of doing business, and those who pay their debts have helped to pay this cost, unless they have insisted on, and received, a discount for cash.

The difference between the person who defrauds and the person who incurs a debt he cannot pay is one of intent—which, while always of the highest revelance in a court of law, has no effect whatever on the ultimate distribution of costs amongst the innocent.

Our sense of justice tells us that a person who contracted a debt with the full intention of paying should not be punished by a jail term. But, today, so many debts are being incurred, with relatively scant attention by the debtor to the difficulties which will be involved in payment, that we are not at all sure jail terms would not be appropriate punishment for those who discover later what they ought to have realized from the first—that the debt is beyond their ability to pay.

Flypaper or Freedom?

Indonesian President Sukarno's current campaign to get control of the destiny of West New Guinea seems to confirm the cockles of the heart of any true jingoist or dictator.

Basing his entire campaign on a very high pitch of emotionalism, as indicated when he asked a crowd for an expression of its "obsession" with the fact that West New Guinea is under Dutch control, he frankly admits his appeal to emotion rather than reason to solve the situation.

This, to say the very least, is a most unfitting admission of incompetency as a responsible leader. Emotion is the right hand tool of any dictator in order to obscure his own inadequacies or misuse for true purposes until he has consolidated his position.

We hold absolutely no hope for the eventual self-determination or freedom of the citizens of West New Guinea if the Dutch accede to the wishes of the Indonesian demogogue. The only hope we can see is for the United Nations to accept West New Guinea as a protectorate immediately if a crisis is to be averted.

The seriousness of the situation is now quite apparent with the communist Chinese offer of active support for Sukarno's proposed military invasion of this territory. This is a frank and open case of blackmail by force or threat of force.

If force were resorted to there would be a double coup. Sukarno would swallow up New West Guinea and the Chinese would swallow up Indonesia. It would be another case of the flies and the flypaper—Sukarno would be stuck.

Whilst this end may be a very just desert for Mr. Sukarno it would undoubtedly be a very high price for the Indonesians to pay as well as the rest of the world which holds faith in the individual's right to self determination and freedom.

"Faith isn't a sort of lucky-dip which you get something out of. It's hard, without using pietistic language, to explain, but it's simply admitting the existence of God or dependence on God or contact with God—the fact that everything in this world that is good depends on Him."
—English novelist Evelyn Waugh.

Animals and gardening are two of my great hobbies and I wish I could spend more time watching animals than I do. Perhaps this is a thing that's regard as too private an indulgence, but it is for me a tremendous refuge from the conflicts and neuroses which modern life in a community inevitably produce.—Novelist Angus Wilson.

One can blow one's top off and still be quite responsible too, as many of our leaders have shown.—Frank Cousins, General Secretary of Britain's Transport and General Workers Union.

Best Drama in Land

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Much of the tradition and precedents which make Parliament what it is—by far the best dramatic presentation in all the land—were on display today at the opening of this new, 29th session. It was a show, it is safe to say, that will not be soon forgotten.

A few moments before three o'clock, Mr. Speaker and his attendants paraded down the grand, marble staircase of the imposing Centre Block in ceremonial procession from the suite of offices to the waiting Commons.

At the head of the parade was the Chief Constable and two Sergeants of the Commons Protective Staff — the private police department of the House — followed by Mr. Speaker's doorman and chief messenger, then the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Green Chamber, and finally, the Speaker himself, trailed by the Clerk of the Commons and his assistant.

Pacing slowly in single file, in their robes and wigs, carrying their tricorns and cape, they looked for all the world like something that stepped out of an old woodcut from the pages of an old history book.

And, symbolically, that's just what they did, for this ceremony has been repeated hundreds of years, in the Parliaments of Britain and for almost a century in Canada's own Commons.

WHO GOES THERE?

Only Mr. Speaker and the Sergeant-at-Arms enter the Chamber proper. The others, through the big doors, the Members of Parliament rise as a mark of respect.

Mr. Speaker ascends to his Throne, and the Clerk reads a bill of the power of the Commons — is placed on the table of the House.

After prayers, and before the doors of the Chamber to the Commons are opened to waiting press and public, Mr. Speaker reads a letter from the Governor-General advising the House that at three o'clock he will be in the Senate to formally open the new Session.

The Commons doors have been closed . . . and while there are no bars, the entrance to the Green Chamber is supposedly barricaded . . . a reminder to Parliament of other times and other places when kings and protectors ruled the realm.

There is a moment of tension . . . and then . . . a loud, clear rapping, three times, at the door . . . the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod awaits without, and his voice is heard clearly through the hushed House . . .

This is a scene enacted a thousand times in the Parliaments of the Commonwealth, but it remains as colorful and dramatic as ever.

Carefully, solemnly, the Sergeant-at-Arms opens the Commons doors . . . just a crack of daylight . . . and he and peers out to ascertain the business of this messenger who pounds so hard. In olden times, might have had a squadron of cavalry and mounted archers at his command. Queen's will or the dictates of a Cromwell.

STILL MYSTIC SUSPICION

The Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod announces he bears a message from the Governor, a message from the Governor General.

Shall the royal messenger, the Governor's man, be admitted.

Yes. This is 1962. But still, be cautious. Nothing yet demands a ceremonial show of uneasy suspicion.

Then he departs.

And, as he makes his stately way back down the centre aisle of the House, he bows again three times to show his respect for the Commons as the source of taxes, and more always, the seat of the sovereign's real power.

Now a new procession forms: this one from the Commons to the Senate with Mr. Speaker and the party leaders of the day followed by the Prime Minister and his Cabinet at the head of the Members.

There, in the Senate, in what is supposed to be respectful silence, the Governor General, Vincent Massey, reads from the Speech from the Throne, outlining in broad and often vague generalities the legislative program coming before Parliament.

This done, Parliament is opened, and the Commons returns to the Green Chamber. The Prime Minister introduces a bill, entitled an Act Respecting Certain Debts in Office, which is given First, but never Second reading. This is the symbol, the introduction and reading of this bill, or the right of the Commons to speak for the people and pass legislation in the public interest.

It has all taken some two hours, but now Parliament is in business and the nation's first show is on the road.

Cold Vaccine Being Sought

Financial Post

If a vaccine for the common cold is found, and this now looks possible the race may be over as fatally for human guinea pigs in a hospital near Salisbury, England.

They are volunteers for injection of cold virus at the Common Cold Research Unit, set up by Britain's Ministry of Health. Humans must be used in these experiments, it seems, because the only other animals that can catch cold are chimpanzees and orang-utans—and are expensive.

The researchers have already made several important discoveries. For example, nobody ever gets a cold from exposure to rain and chilling winds; it's the dryness indoors that encourages the bug. Keep your head in the blef goes out the window with the finding that susceptibility to colds is greater if you have having or not having, tonsils or adenoids.

The scientists have isolated and grown cold virus; but they have found now that several cold-like viruses are involved. What they are looking for is a vaccine that will cope with all of them at once; and they are hopeful.

A vote of thanks is surely due to those volunteers; but they are not all altruists. There is a reward. They get free lodging, plus three hot meals a day, plus a night on the town or a newspaper of choice, 50 cents a day pocket-money and return fare up to $10. Not as much as chimpanzees would charge; but still, all this and nothing to do all day except catch cold, sounds almost like a holiday.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

YES — THEY RUN THE WORLD

Who was the greatest teacher you ever had?

That's easy — your mother. She may not have had much education, and most men have felt dyspleasure on your way in dictating your business, but she taught you the basic principles of the world. But she was the greatest teacher of all.

Who runs the world? Humanly speaking, it seems to be by the women. They are usually not heads of state, nor presidents of fabulous boards of directors, but they both teach and manage the presidents and members of the boards of directors.

And this is as it should be. The more we examine the ways of God, as set forth in the Bible and administered in the ordinary walks of life, the more doeg it appear that womanhood holds the most important place in the whole human scheme. Woman may appear to be in the background now but it is, but she runs the show. She does everything but cover the curtain — God does that on the last day of our lives.

As we reflect upon the meaning and significance of life, we realize how we with longing eyes at the active and assertive life which man lives and wish earnestly that they could have been born into that sex. The women who does this is foolish. She can run the show if she wants to, and if she isn't reaping it, it's her fault.

Crushed under the weight of several hundred pounds of sugar at the warehouse of Cross and Orwell in Tweed, Mr. William R. Forster of that town is in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from undetermined internal injuries.

The fighting Rellbys of Wellington, Ont., are at full strength in the Canadian Army. Seven sons of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rellby of the Prince Edward village went on active service a year ago, but one of them got as far as Halifax on the way overseas and was discharged because of a minor disability. His condition cleared up and he's back in the army again, this time with Major Corey Smythe's 30th (Secretmen's) Battery in a Toronto training camp. "You can't deny an Rellby," one recruiting officer told him. "There are seven children in the Rellby family, 21 boys and five girls."

A year ago, Mr. George Wenham, trainer at the Belle Theatre here, submitted an answer to a Paramount Organization contest asking for suggestions for new motion picture productions. His answer was ruled worth him a handsome prize, and naturally he is quite proud of the fact that his suggestions met with the approval of the motion picture producers.

Extra Calcium May Be Needed During Pregnancy

"Dear Dr. Molner: What if women don't take iron and calcium pills?

"Is it true that reading a lot about medicine approaches the unbalanced mind? I still go to the Y at two months, and assistant playing volley ball, swimming.

"Why can't I keep active as long as possible? I'm sure my doctor would discourage me, as he didn't want me to go swimming after four months the first time. What is a pregnant woman supposed to do for nine months, sit in a chair?

"If can't go swimming I shouldn't be capable of doing housework, either. Doesn't that sound logical to you? P. M."

Oh, take the chip off your shoulder and look at some logical remarks. I'll be agreeing with you, within reason, anyway.

First question: Many pregnant women need some extra iron because of anemia (a shortage of anemia) and extra calcium because the hormone baby is making is taken and will take it even at the mother's expense. That's what led to the old saying about "For every child, a tooth." Maybe that's not nutritionally true, but it is without basis in fact.

Your mother drinks enough milk, or gets enough calcium from other sources, that's fine. But it's a wise precaution extremely inexpensive precaution to take calcium routinely. It doesn't hurt.

If an expectant mother runs a bit short on iron and becomes anemic, she runs a risk of a drooping if not given supplementary iron. Assuredly some women don't need either extra iron or calcium — but others do.

Now for stretching and exercise. Most obstetrical texts have one single thing to do with "stretching the inhibited cord." By nature, the cord is long to begin with; then could be affected by the fetus' size at birth, or the inch that you could possibly stretch, physically. So just forget entirely about that.

As for exercise: Most doctors will be cautious concerning a first pregnancy. Another for example, might be an "abortion" forme the woman have to spend as much as six months in bed to avoid miscarriage. But most don't. When I was used to work in the fields up to within minutes of giving birth! Many still can and do.

I see nothing wrong with going swimming, keeping up your housework, and so to the next job; come home all pooped out, daddy! No, you're not supposed to "sit in chair for nine months." There's nothing wrong with exercise as long as a woman (and this is the usual situation) can do so without risking harm to the new little life.

Why did your doctor order caution last time? He didn't know you. But he did know that if there is to be danger of a miscarriage, it is most likely to be at the third or fourth month.

Now that he has seen you through one successful pregnancy, and he knows quite a bit about you, and you healthy way you react, why not ask him again about exercise or swimming? You may well be surprised at his attitude now.

"Dear Sir: Will taking cod liver oil (pills) flavored orally help keep the baby's teeth strong? R.M."

No. This old Nwer oil theory has no basis in fact, although it keeps popping up. The flavoring wouldn't make any difference, either.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have read about television repairmen and how they have to stand a radiation test. So I've been one for over 10 years and I am wondering if it's safe?"

Everyone who has a watch with a luminous face also has a slight radiation. It's such a small amount as to be hardly measurable, and I wouldn't worry about. Same with TV repairing.

THE PACKSACK

By Gregory Clark

There is something mighty queer about these narcotics situation. Here they are talking of a hundred and fifty million dollars worth of drugs. And who do they find involved in the major incidents? A few cheap second-rate gangsters, the sort of men you find hanging around laundry sighs, cake and occasionally eating big in hotel dining-rooms. Their end is shiny and they wear $200 suits and very slick shoes; and the odd one has a fine library of books.

But the big fish are never involved. Not even the more respectable old dopers should be ferreted out from amongst our noted financiers.

Nor is there any effort to find out how the drugs get into the country. Is it by the ship's crew? Is it by the passengers? Is it by the airlines? Is it by the customs officers? Is it by the dockers? Is it by the railway men? Is it by the truckers?

If millions of dollars are involved, then there is room for the presidency and general managership of the business is not where the big money obviously is. Either millions are not involved, or else some highly respectable old dopers should be ferreted out from amongst our noted financiers.

Turning Points

There is just a little hair's distance between success and failure.

Failure is the result of not having enough courage to leap that little hair's distance.

When you feel as though all was lost, that is the time when you should determine to do nothing.

None of us ever feels wholly sure in our success, no matter what it may seem like.

We are beset with turning points. It may be that just one more turn, or one more ounce of effort may mean your uphill achievement.

Never give up when you feel like giving up.

You are the only individual in the world who is able to make yourself win or fail. You can do what you believe you can do.

When you stand at a turning point, lift your chin just a little higher, set your jaw just a little firmer — and then decide to make the grade.

Be a lifter and not a leaner.

You feed upon the inspiration that your alone germinate. As you inspire others you in turn inspire yourself.

You are the only one set out to do. Never mind who is behind. You look ahead. Your last turning point may be the one to lead you to greatness.

For greatness is that realization which comes to all understanding minds that the job must be finished — somehow!

Council Votes by Narrow Margin to Join Quinte Civil Defence Organization

Hastings county council voted, by a narrow margin Wednesday to join the Quinte District Emergency Measures Organization planned to be set up in this area as part of a nation-wide defence program.

Seventeen of the council's 33 members voted for the county to join in as a participating municipality along with the city of Belleville and Trenton and Picton.

The counties of Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington are this week to join when the matter is before council bodies at their inaugural sessions. Trenton, Belleville and Picton have already joined.

Participation in the plan will cost the county of Hastings and estimated $1,000 per year as its share of a proposed $36,000 initial year budget. This would provide for a full time co-ordinator, a Deputy co-ordinator and secretary, along with two part time instructors. 50 per cent of the overall costs would be paid by the Federal and Provincial governments, it was stated.

Sidney Reeve Harleigh Hamilton outlined plans for the emergency measures organization, proposed locally last year by Mayor A. M. Haig of Belleville. Belleville had offered space at city hall as administration headquarters, Reeve Hamilton stated.

County councillors entered into a lengthy discussion on civil defence proposal with Marmora township John Wilton getting right down to the meat of the matter by asking what the county would get for its $1,000.

"What do they intend to do with the $36,000 except hire a few people at good salaries?" he asked.

A GOOD QUESTION

"That is a good question," returned Reeve Hamilton, who went on to explain the Bay of Quinte district was not expected to be a prime target area should a nuclear attack occur.

"The object of the setup would be more or less educational. The purpose being to tell the citizens what to do in case of an emergency," he said.

Reeve Tracey Adams of Dungannon deplored the lack of action in civil defence measures, noting the matter had now been discussed for four years or more with still little done completed.

He felt civil defence should be taken more seriously and likened the effect of fallout from a nuclear attack to the surprise attack from palace guards in World War I.

"We weren't prepared for it, gas," noted the World War I veteran, "but we should try to prepare ourselves against fallout following a nuclear attack. It could happen any minute," he warned.

Again referring to the lack of progress in planning for civil defence, Reeve Adams said, "We should turn the matter over to the Women's Institutes. They would get something done."

Frankford Reeve Frank Rabei said municipalities had two responsibilities. First was to provide all information possible regarding protection from nuclear blast, and the second was to give whatever physical assistance possible in the provision of shelters. He urged everyone to read the booklet, 'Survival' providing free by the federal government.

Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township felt the senior governments should assume all costs of civil defence and said the whole problem was being attacked from the wrong angle.

He doubted that the risk of a nuclear attack was as great as claimed and that more democracies were lost by the decay of democratic freedoms than were lost through bomb attacks.

"Unwillingness of world leaders to admit wrong decisions were to a great extent responsible for world tensions," he said.

Reeve William Shannon of Marmora said citizens were looking for leadership in civil defence preparation both on the national and local level.

Frankford Reeve Frank Rabei suggested that the local Anza Legion almost the entire morning council at Hastings county court session at Belleville Wednesday to consider the proposed Quinte District Emergency Measures Organization.

Discussion on the emergency measures question took up much of the afternoon session, which heard reports from W. H. Emery, county registrar, and from Sidney Deputy Reeve Gerald Irvine, chairman of the County Home for the Aged committee.

Mr. Murni told councillors that last year's profits from the county registry office totalled about $18,000, of which $9,400 would go to the county, $5,200 to Belleville and $2,000 to the town of Trenton.

He said that the county registry office as set up in the new county administration building, was one of the most modern in the province and was being suggested as the model for new offices of this type now being planned.

"Work at his office has doubled in the last few years without any increase in staff and could be again doubled without staff increase," he said.

The County Home report covered items that were to be raised in the home of which 58 were from the city of Belleville for the benefit of new councillors. Home superintendent Kenneth Yorke outlined procedures for admissions to the home.

No action was taken on a request for a grant to assist in the provision of a mental health program in the province with finance committee chairman Carl Bateman of Stirling moving its communication be filed. He said the county had to draw the line somewhere in the increasingly numerous requests for grants.

GOES STEP FURTHER

Reeve Vere McMurray of Tudor went a step further and floated whether provision for mental health programs should start at the top or at the bottom.

He admitted that mental health was important and suggested it was the responsibility of senior governments not that of the local municipalities. He said grants from the municipalities might delay the day when the problem would be taken over entirely by the provinces.

A special committee of Reeve Vere McMurray, Reeve Tracey Adams and John Wilton, along with Warden Very Rev. Joseph Sheridan, nominations for the position of clerk-treasurer of the county, which position is now being advertised.

The committee will screen applications and make a recommendation to the January meeting of council to be called early in February to name a successor to the late Mr. Hall, who died suddenly of a heart attack by the death of clerk-treasurer Eric S. Denyes.

Mr. Hall, a Queste of Kingston, former secretary in the county registry office, has been named acting-clerk until the new man is named

Members Enjoy Turkey Supper, Warden Host

There is possibly no thought of a precedent having been established, but members of Hastings county council have enjoyed a savoury meal costs at the present inaugural session.

Tuesday through the courtesy of Warden Elect Harold Very of Hungerford township, members were provided with a turkey supper with all the trimmings, while last evening following the close of the day's session, Joseph White, representative of the A. E. Wilson insurance company, provided luncheon for council members and the county council administration staff.

Councillors Approve Fishing Through Ice for Speckles

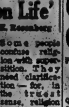
Hastings county councillors would like to see county lakes and streams opened for ice fishing for speckled trout.

Yesterday council concurred in a resolution from the Madoc Fish and Game Club and the request that ice fishing be allowed, will be forwarded to the Game and Fisheries branch of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

Madoc village reeve Thomas Burnside reported that C. T. Rolling, MPP for Hastings East, had promised to personally place the matter before the department ministers.

Reeve Vere McMurray, speaking in support of the resolution, noted the average life of speckled trout was only three to four years and that due to the fact that fish stocking was done mostly in inaccessible lakes, the fish often die of old age.

Bad roads during the annual spring break-up during the normal season for taking speckled trout, meant fisher-men were unable to get into the remote lakes where the fish otherwise best be, said.



"On the other hand ice fishing for speckled trout is good sport and provides I have done it myself," he added.

With the short normal life-span of speckles he suggested that local residents might just as well get the fish—and the sport—by ice fishing.

Reeve Burnside suggested that ice fishing might prove to be a tourist attraction for the Hastings county area.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Some people confuse religion with superstition. They need clarification — for, in the truest sense, religion is the enemy of superstition. Yet, one teacher got into trouble with parents men when he said: "Civilized people lose their religion when not rarely their superstitions." Often this is very true. In statements of crisis in our lives, some of us lose the power of reason, even of common sense and begin to latch on to modes which produce irrational behavior. Superstition creeps into our lives at crucial moments, moments like birth, marriage, sickness and death. Yet, ask the average man if he thinks of himself as being superstitious, and his answer very likely will be like that woman in the story. She was asked to tell of her favorite superstition, and she readily responded, scoffed: "Thank God, I haven't got any."

Superstition is irrational behavior, dressed up in a way as to make it seem rational. The power which man has — the divine gift to use his mind, to exercise his intellect, he frittery away by making himself powerless when he could be more powerful. An easy way to do this is blame his own lack of success that day is to suggest an alibi. Or, to throw out the empty bottles in the street on the way to work; that is why he did not have luck. His own fears find doubts about the success of his efforts are the essential problem — the bottles, a symbol of his own inadequacy and fear.

A word of clarification is in order about the difference between the rational, the irrational and the non-rational activities of man. Psychologists would agree with the theologian, that all of man's behaviour is susceptible to reasonable argument. If this were true, there would be no activities of men — but surely such activities do abound in life.

They belong to the sphere of the irrational attitudes and deeds. For, man is more than reason; he is also a feeling as well as a thinking creature. Without the elements of emotion and feeling in his behaviour, we could not survive by the use of reason alone. The prose of life, in other words, must be blended with the poetry, in this sense Pascal was profoundly right when he said: "The heart hath its reasons, which Reason doth not know."

But beware of the man who confuses the non-rational or poetical aspects of human life with irrational behaviour. Irrational behaviour is not only the enemy of reason, it is the enemy of emotion. Anyone who can love another to death is obviously acting irrationally. Those who can pervert the emotions in such a way as to destroy reality, and create disharmony, do not provide us with a good example of the way in which the feeling or the emotional side of life should be approached.

Thus it is that high religion is the enemy of irrationality while it is perfectly willing to accept the non-rational aspects of life as normal and healthy. The function of religion is to make man aware of his own powers and to point from this awareness to that behaviour which is good, beautiful and true.

We believe in God, therefore, cannot mean that we believe in the powerlessness of man.

To believe in God must mean that we have an awareness of the laws of Nature, as well as the laws of morality.

To believe in God is to desire the ultimate which is the prestige of the ancient idolatrous world, that the world is populated by spirits, demons and goblins who act capriciously on their own and control the universe in a way not susceptible to law and order.

To believe in God is to reach the height of faith in man—that which is capable of increasing the reasoning powers to understand more and more the laws by which the universe is controlled, even though he does not always reach its ultimate and final significance.

We may not be able to explain fully why we love those whom we do — always a mystery encircles love and its final and ultimate significance eludes us. But this does not suggest that because we do not understand completely, we must not love.

The existence of a mystery in the universe is what makes us men and not gods. But a divine gift is given to man to use his reason as far as it will go. It is this which can make us men and not animals.

County Council Hears Plea Of Tweed and Hungerford To Quit High School Area

Discussion relative to the request for withdrawal by Tweed and Hungerford from the Centre Hastings High School Area took up almost the entire morning session at Hastings county court session at Belleville Wednesday and will today, with talks expected to continue in the afternoon.

Two councillors-elect are asking council to approve their withdrawal from the high school area to allow them to set up their own high school district.

This morning spokesmen named by Tweed and Hungerford councils presented their case for withdrawal, while this afternoon members of the Centre Hastings High School Board will be heard.

Spokesmen in favor of withdrawal kept their morning delegation were Mrs. A. C. Allen and Ted Courneyea from Tweed and Thomas Kirby and Harry Coulter from Hungerford township.

The request for withdrawal from the Centre Hastings area came into the open following the announcement last fall that a new technical school addition had been approved for Madoc and, council at its December session was asked to approve of the withdrawal.

After hearing deputations representing both sides of the question, council decided to refer it to its January session. A vote was taken on the matter but was lost in the two municipalities with ratepayers voting 2 to 1 against in favor of withdrawal from the area.

SEES ATTENDANCE DROP

This morning, Mrs. Allen who was recently named to the County Home Board said that Tweed residents was not fighting the technical school at Madoc but were fighting to preserve their autonomy and for the right to run their own school board.

This was re-inforced by Thomas Kelly of Hungerford, who told the issue at stake was formation of their own school area, not the building of the technical school at Madoc.

Mr. Kirby emerged that this was discrimination by council against the request of Tweed and Hungerford.

He referred to the referendum held by the two municipalities which saw over 90 per cent of the ratepayers exercised their franchise in voting in favor of withdrawing from the area.

He said his township would still be willing to support a technical school in the area when they were allowed out of the area.

Burton Thompson referred to what he termed were "inaccuracies" in the figures which had been distributed to councillors.

He denied saying in a recent radio broadcast that Tweed and Hungerford wanted to get out of the area "at any cost" or saying that the results of recent referendums were not binding on "our" side.

What he actually had claimed, was that Tweed and Hungerford wanted to get out of the area to run their own area, and said that he had used the words "either" not "our" when referring to the vote in his radio talk.

FORMER WARDEN HEARD

Former Warden Harry Coulter said his municipality was worried about the possible closing of the Tweed high school if the proposed new one is built at Madoc.

He recalled a erection of one composite school to serve the entire area had been recommended by the Ontario Department of Education when the Centre Hastings area was formed.

The municipalities of Madoc and Tweed at that time had opposed the closing of their high schools.

"Dr. Rendall is still with the Department of Education, only with a higher position," reminded Mr. Coulter, "and we feel the thinking of the Department is still toward the one school."

"Closing of the Tweed high school would mean 16 families moving out of the village," he said.

QUESTIONS HEARD

County councillors fired questions at the various speakers with Reeve Carl Bateman of Stirling asking the delegation how Tweed and Hungerford expected to give their students technical education if they got out of the area.

Mr. Kelly claimed Mr. Bateman was getting away from the issue at hand, but in answer to the question said it would be up to the two municipalities to provide technical education for students wanting it.

"We may have to buy that education and it may cost us more than if we were in the area, and we hope to get approval from the department to do that," he said.

Mr. Ted Courneyea said the claim of the Centre Hastings High School board that the proposed technical school could not provide for an enrolment four mills cost to the taxpayer was not correct.

He said Dr. Rendall as saying the figure was "ridiculous" and that the additional operational costs would be more like 14 mills.

SPIRITED OBJECTION

Mrs. Allen said if the technical school at Madoc was built that Tweed and Hungerford there would be no reason for withdrawal.

She referred to the ancient story of the Trojan Horse and said there was a parallel in the proposed Madoc technical school addition.

"The fact of the requested withdrawal from the school area was not allowed a grave situation that would be apprehended under the pretext of progress.

This brought a spirited objection from Tudor Reeve Vere McMurray who said he resented the implication very much.

Earlier when stating the reason for withdrawal request Mrs. Allen had referred to their autonomy, Mrs. Allen referred to "What we want is our own board and our own school," she said.

REQUEST FOR GRANT

The morning council session also heard a request from the Salvation Army for a grant.

Spokesman for the request was Brigadier Arthur H. Hill public relations officer for the Salvation Army. He outlined work among unmarried mothers and said five such cases from Hastings had been handled in 1961. Average cost for each case had been $333.

Last year council voted a grant of $650 to the Salvation Army.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Miss Grace Emily Veley, elder daughter of Mrs. Milton (Emily) Veley of Belleville, and the late Mr. Veley, to Mr. Donald James Harold Bryans, of Chatsworth, R.R. No. 1, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bryans. Marriage to take place on Saturday, February 17th, at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Belleville, at 3.00 p.m.

The account of the diamond wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Russell appearing in last Saturday's issue, should here read, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Russell MacMillan.

East Central Art Assoc. to Exhibit Here

On February 2nd the 3rd annual art exhibition of the East Central Ontario Art Association will be opened at the Public Library, and will be shown for one week.

Several years ago all the amateur artists in the district decided they would like to show what was being done in other communities, and after much planning the east central Ontario travelling art display was arranged. Each town had a local exhibit and a judge of their own choosing selected pictures to represent that town in the travelling exhibit.

After about five of these exhibits had been held it was felt that a central judging of all the paintings in the district, as well as each of the local professional artists, would result in a better selection.

SUCCESSFUL SHOWING

The expediency of this change was evident when a successful show under the new system was opened in Oshawa two years ago, and again last year in Peterborough.

It is expected that equally good, or perhaps better pictures will be received for this year's exhibit. Paintings are usually received from such centers as Oshawa, Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Trenton, Peterborough, Bancroft and Belleville.

Mr. Ralph Allen of Queen's University, Kingston, will select the pictures to be shown, and will also act as guest speaker on opening night.

Women Work On Collection of Recipes

MONTREAL (CP) — 81 women who met while taking a course in nutrition are working together on a collection of recipes substituting vegetable oil for butter and other animal fats.

They hope to publish the collection next summer as an illustrated book entitled Cooking with Oil.

Many authorities believe fats influence the blood's cholesterol level and our husbands are getting into the age group where heart disease becomes a threat," said Mrs. William Taylor. "Cooking with oil can't do any harm and it may be beneficial."

She emphasized that the book will not try to be scientific and it will not contain advice on low-fat dieting.

Mrs. Robert Love said the purpose will be merely to provide cooks with their favorite recipes and vegetable oil.

"When you start using salad oil, the only recipe you have is a chiffon cake," Mrs. Taylor said. "We've discovered you can make everything from soup to nuts."

While a simple substitution of oil for animal fats was found impossible, one of the women has worked out an approximate substitution of between two-thirds and one cup of oil for one cup fat.

This now is being tested by the others and so far has been successful.

An experienced cook, Mrs. Love says she finds oil cooking faster and can start making a crust for a pie less than an hour before it is to be served.

WOMEN STUDENTS

MONTREAL (CP) — Women student registration at the University of Montreal has risen substantially in the last five years. Dr. Leon Fortier, director of the extension department, said women now form 28 per cent of the student body, compared to 18 per cent in 1957.

Women's Institutes

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

END - SIDNEY—The Bay of Quinte Women's Institute held its regular meeting on January 10th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jeffery with a good attendance.

During the business session it was decided that a food sale and card party at Harder's School on the evening of Friday, March 9th, sponsored by the W.I. Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. John Howe are in charge of the next card party to be held in February, at Harder's School. On February 7th the Institute will hold a special meeting at the School (Fancy Forms Night) when members will hear Mr. Musgrove speak on technical and vocational training. This is a most important meeting and all are invited to attend.

Thanks-you notes were received from Mrs. J. Sandercock and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones, who received baskets of fruit from the Institute, at Christmas. Mrs. Gay, convener of the Women's Institutes is to be celebrated on February 19th, at a luncheon at the Queen Elizabeth Building, in Toronto. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Havelock Smith of Nebraska, the International vice-president of the W.I. A number from Bay of Quinte members will attend.

CITIZENSHIP PROGRAM

The meeting was turned over to the convener of citizenship and education, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson and Mrs. J. Palmer gave her report on the W.I. training class held at Stirling called, "142 lbs. of Meat" put on by the extension branch of home economics' service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Palmer learned while there, that British Columbia and Alberta are the only provinces in Canada that have laws for the compulsory inspection of meat and that 30 per cent of meat in Ontario is not inspected. Any slaughter house wanting inspection can obtain Federal Government inspection services. (This is from the Leaflet issued by the extension branch of home economics services of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.)

Mrs. Ketcheson told of the ways different countries celebrate New Year's and she also read the ten commandments for parents with teenagers," in which she said, "Adolescence is a difficult time for the whole family but it is toughest on the teenager. Accept the fact that each child is different from you and each other - let the child know he can come to you for help when he needs it - spend more time encouraging the good than punishing the bad - never let your love be doubted - look at your own conduct and motives - to discuss problems never shut your mealtimes or bedtimes and weekends - respect their wish for privacy - be friendly to chums and make them welcome - be firm and consistent in enforcing discipline and take heart that most teenage problems will straighten out in a few years."

Mrs. Thom thanked Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Ketcheson for their fine program.

Holy Rosary Council Plans Bake Sale

Holy Rosary Council opened its regular January meeting in the school with the president presiding.

The opening and closing prayers were said by Father Ives Purcell; secretaries and treasurers' reports approved as read.

Education convener reports 37 members taking League Magazine. Mrs. Laffin's and Mrs. McEvoy's names will appear on the decoration list in the League Magazine. Membership has reached 99.

Social Committee reported on spiritual conversership. There were 83 visits made to the hospital in December. Next visit to collection is to be held at St. Vincent de Paul, Kingston on January 24th. Please bring used religious articles for the foreign missions.

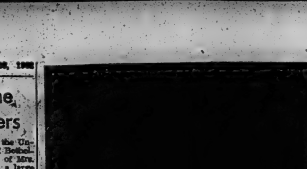
The civic action convener reported Holy Rosary's share of Nicholson purse has been paid.

BAKE SALE PLANNED

A bake sale is planned for early in February and a committee appointed to make plans.

Father Ives spoke to the ladies on the "Feast of the Holy Family."



A lively question and answer period took place with Father Ives answering the questions placed in the question box.

Refreshments were served by the committee and a social time followed.

a finer blend you'll be proud to serve!

MINISTER'S MANY HAT STYLES—Mrs. Ellen Falconbridge, who becomes immigration minister in 1957, has attended many functions that have given her a chance to wear hats rarely worn by other women. The unusual hats included a sombrero (left) and motarboard (right) when she presented scholarships. She also wore dozens of more common hats (centre) in her cross-country travels. (CP Photo).

Mrs. E. Fairclough Wears Great Variety of Hats

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough travels more miles, meets more people, sees more of Canada and wears a greater variety of hats than most Canadian women.

Since becoming a cabinet minister in 1957, Mrs. Fairclough has travelled more than 400,000 miles, mostly in Canada, and has gone through more than three dozen hats.

The functions she has attended in the last six years have afforded her an opportunity to don many types of hats ranging from the serious to the whimsical.

NO INDIAN FEATHERS

About the only type of headgear Mrs. Fairclough hasn't worn is an Indian headdress. But Walter Harris, immigration minister and superintendent of Indian affairs, she has received several invitations to become an honorary Indian chief or princess. But she has had to decline because it is not practice for the incumbent of the portfolio of Indian affairs to accept such an honor.

To most women the choice of a hat is a difficult decision. But the problem usually is solved for the average woman once she has selected one or two hats suitable for a particular occasion.

The chore of hat selection isn't that easy for Mrs. Fairclough. Her job makes it necessary for her to have a stock hats of the season's choice to enable her to be dressed properly at a wide range of functions including meetings, luncheons, dinners, receptions and outdoor events.

LIKES SMALL HATS

One hat for each type of function isn't enough, either. Mrs. Fairclough attends so many public functions that she has to have about a dozen hats on hand to enable her to have some variety in her wardrobe.

Small, flowered hats are Mrs. Fairclough's preference.

"You can go around the world with two suits and a flock of blouses," she said.

However, Mrs. Fairclough likes dresses and often wears them at functions where suits would be a little easier to handle. Her choice in dresses are simple silk prints in soft shades, with a matching hat.

Mr., Mrs. Allan B. McComb Mark 40 Years of Married Life

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Allan B. McComb, R.R. No 8, Belleville, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary when their daughter, Mrs. Douglas Osborne, entertained about 50 relatives and close friends to honor them on the happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. McComb who were married in Sidney by the late Rev. Jesse Hough, first lived in Rawdon Township until they moved to Sidney where they lived to their present home in Sidney.

They have three children, Mrs. Don (Edna) Thompson and Delmer of R. No. 8, and John of Kingston, also eight grandchildren.

During the evening a program consisting of a mock wedding (put on by their children and grandchildren) readings and solos were enjoyed by all present.

They were each presented with a wristwatch from their immediate family as well as other numerous gifts from those present, for which they expressed their thanks.

During the serving of refreshments, Mrs. Hugh Johnson, sister of Mr. McComb, presided at the tea table which had as a centrepiece, a suitably decorated three tier anniversary cake flanked with silver candlebras holding candles of ruby color.

Club Activities

C. A. MEETING

FRANKFORD — Frankford Trail Gospel Tabernacle C.A.'s held the regular meeting on January 12th, with the president, Keith Reid, in charge. Miss Doug Robinson led in prayer and Miss Joy Perry read the Scripture reading, St. Matthew's Ch. 5:3-18.

Mr. David Sirome of E.P.B.C. Peterborough conducted the song service followed by prayer led by the Rev. Ellis.

The regular Bible quiz team of Miss Carolyn Belcher, Miss Gloria Reilly and Miss Sandra Purvis competed with Miss Joy Perry, Miss Ruth Robinson and Miss Linda Adams — Ken Belcher and Richard Patrick.

Miss Linda Fisher and Miss Gloria Reilly received the evening offering.

The announcements were given and it was noted that the annual business meeting will be held on January 26th.

Miss Beverley Wannemaker rendered a solo also "Things Are Different Now", and Mrs. Sirome brought the closing message speaking on "Christians don't go by feelings, but they go by what the Bible says according to God's Word". The meeting closed with a time of prayer.

Contact Club Elects New 1962 Officers

The first 1962 meeting of the Contact Club of Christ Church took place on Monday evening in the parish hall.

Activities for the coming year were discussed; the first will be a rummage sale before the January 22 meeting. The club was also reminded of the annual vestry meeting to be held on January 30th and all were urged to attend.

Hostesses for the evening were Joan Forrest, Bertie Bertrim and Dorothy Green.

Multiplicity of Roles Marks Career of Actress

MONTREAL (CP)—A multiplicity of roles marks both careers of actress and company president Jenny Passmore, 34.

The energetic Montrealer, after years spent adjusting to footlights and first nights, took a three - month shorthand course and bought her own secretarial business.

"I'm bookkeeper, I wrap parcels, answer the telephone, I'm office manager, the fourth employee and president—that's at the bottom," she said.

In her off - hours she combines to act in theatrical productions. A graduate of London's Webber - Douglas School of Singing and Dramatic Art, she once was named best character actress in a part as an old woman "with a limp, a lisp and a twitch—my own father didn't recognize me."

She has also had parts in BBC productions and in repertory and tabarets in London's West End.

It was her interest in theatre that led, after her return to Montreal and like Joy Perry, to the STAGE TALK

A member of the Junior League, she was doing the high school play when she came down with both chickenpox and measles. Unable to complete the clerical work she had volunteered to do, she took it to a secretarial agency. There she learned how owner was selling, and she decided to buy.

Now, a scant eight months later, she has business interesting to monopolize her concentration, "and that can become a great bore."

In addition to doing mimeographing and mailing, she types everything from lengthy sales reports to four-line prayers for authors' and artists' publications.

Miss Passmore, who taught herself typing at the age of 13, studied shorthand at home with her sister Gwendolyn, director of a secretarial college in time for her present job.

She finds the shorthand practical because, when she gets bored during slack periods in her own office, she can go out and take a couple of hours' dictation in somebody else's.

RUNS BUSINESS

Actress Penny Passmore, 34, operates her own secretarial business in Montreal. A graduate of the Webber-Douglas School of Singing and Dramatic Art in London, England, she has played in BBC productions and in repertory and cabarets in London's west end. (CP Photo).

OUT POPS MOUSE

MONTREAL (CP) — Roger Grothe, superintendent of works at Bordeaux Jail who sometimes has to listen to prisoners' complaints, found himself in one. He was a victim of a rodent himself Tuesday. He was waiting in a law office in the new court house to testify in a trial when he felt something grab his sixpent leg. When he shook his leg, a mouse dropped to the floor.

Eggleton UCW Hold First Meeting

MADOC JUNCTION — Last Thursday afternoon the first meeting of the new organization, "The Eggleton U.C.W.," was held at the home of Mrs. William McMullen with 21 in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Warren Harlow, presided and opened the meeting by reading a poem, "The Gift of A New Year," and the hymn, "Take My Life and Let It Be." Mrs. Joyce Staples was pianist for all the hymns.

The Scripture lesson, Psalm 96, was read by Mrs. Keith Johnson and Mrs. Forde Stapley contributed a lovely vocal solo, "Something For Thee" with Mrs. Maurice Clancy playing her accompaniment.

The first chapter, "Jeanie," from the new study book "Beaten the Day," written by Jessie L. Beattie, was given by Mrs. M. Clancy.

All joined in singing "The Lord's My Love, My Shepherd Is."

DENOMINATIONAL AIMS

Mrs. Harlow spoke on the aims of the new organization and methods for carrying on the work for the coming year.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley reported on the number of visits made and also on plants and cards sent out during the past months.

Mrs. Clarence Pitchett read a letter of thanks from Mr. Kenneth Stewart for the box of Christmas gifts he had received from the Eggleton Auxiliary for the Indian children at his Carvy Lake Church.

Mrs. Forde Stapley read a letter received from the Presbyterial supply secretary, returning thanks for supply parcels sent in the past year, and also stating that used nylon stockings and good used clothing were needed for overseas parcels.

The offering was gathered and the 11 present paid their U.C.W. fees. The dedication prayer was read by Mrs. Carl Bridges.

BUSINESS PERIOD

Mrs. R. McMullen presided for the business period. Motion was made that Mr. Carl Bridges be asked to purchase the required repair parts for the church oil burner.

Arrangements were made for lunch to be served at the close of the annual board meeting, being held on the evening of January 17th, at Eggleton Church.

Discussion on number of subscriptions for "United Church Observer" to be ordered for year held.

Members were reminded of the service at Bridge Street United Church in Belleville next Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley offered her home for the February meeting and Mrs. William McMullen will prepare the program.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

Members and all ladies in the community are invited to attend the "World Day of Prayer" which is being held at Moira United Church on March 2.

Ten more packages of U.C.W. envelopes are to be ordered, so there can be a package in each home on the appointment here.

After the meeting closed, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. McMullen and a social half-hour followed.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: When wine is served at dinner, should it be poured before the meal is at dinner? Also, should glasses be filled to the top or only half filled? I'm giving a dinner party soon in honor of an old friend, and would appreciate an early reply.—Mrs. H.W., East Orange, N.J.

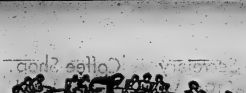
Answer: Wine is poured after goods are seated and in the process of being served. Glasses should be half or two-thirds full. They should never be filled to the brim.

Question: When two couples go to the theatre, in what order should they take their seats? Should it be a woman then a man, then the other woman and finally her escort? Or should the women sit in the middle and the two men on either side?—Mrs. R.S., Syracuse, N.Y.

Answer: The first method is the usual. But the alternate method is also correct, if the women prefer to sit next to each other. The seating arrangement to be avoided is that in which the two women enter first, followed by the two men. The reason is simple. Each woman should be seated next to her escort. He will then be with her wrap and generally get her settled.

Question: I'm not a great letter-writer, and prefer to dash off short notes on the back of a post card when I do have to write any correspondence. My mother thinks I'm very rude to do this. Would you agree with us?—Miss L.R., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Short thank-yous or reminders may be written on post cards, providing they're going to very close friends. But by and large, it's more tasteful to write all social correspondence on note paper or personal cards and enclose them, correctly, in envelopes.



Honor Couple On 46th Anniversary

WHITBY DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. Whitter Jones were the guests of honor at their home on Saturday evening on the occasion of their 46th wedding anniversary.

Those who joined with them to celebrate this memorable occasion were the children, Fred and Mrs. William Shannon (Jessie); Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Jones of Belleville; Mrs. Ernest (Mrs. George Bilsbarn (Muriel) and children Miss Sylvia, and Master Larry of Newtonville. Others who attended were Mrs. Jones' sister Mrs. George Fortune and son Billy; two nieces Mrs. Lee Mellroy and Mrs. Donald Anderson, Mr. Lorne Jeffers and wife Mrs. Wilbur Jones of Alton's Corners; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Noakes of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis of Trenton, and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Games were enjoyed and Mrs. Donald Anderson played her record player. There came the opening of the many lovely gifts by Sandra and Walter including a floor polisher a gift to the bride by the bridegroom of 46 years ago.

Delicious refreshments were served by Kay Jones, Muriel Bilsbarn and Marion Jeffers which included the lovely decorated wedding cake made by Muriel Bilsbarn.

Adrian, O. — She wooed me back. I'm there. Now she'd like me to leave again. Gail, O. — No so cheerful. Nothing safe then, we'll fight all day.

* * *

Adrian G. — What does Gail want, anyway? I'm an enlisted man, I'm here to assume their absence and longing would lead to the know-how for day-to-day compatibility. And Adrian was sure Gail would so delight in "rehabilitating" him, she'd never expect him to give any thought to catching up and understanding her. So two papas must suddenly become real spouses. It's a big jump after 13 months of writing unselfish promises, but doing completely selfish things.

The road to success for this pair has two signposts: Imagination, and then, patience. Imagination would say to Gail, "Look, it's in no hurry to do the town and the bright spots. Home looks mighty good. Movies! He's seen so many, he's probably allergic to them, and even to previews." And to Adrian, "Look. For 13 months she's primed all her hopes on 'The Return.' It's no rush, but don't say no. Say when."

And Adrian would have Gail acquiring the sharing techniques required of his 2 deux — radio and lights off earlier, less telephone hogging, more weeninteracting, no first indulgence. And Adrian would gradually choke back the man talk which she finds ugly, the possible boorishness which will become habit but which repels her.

Everybody happy? You bet your life they're not. But that G.I.'s can be, once they throw away those letters and take each other "as is."

* * *

The Council: Gail's disenchantment is reminiscent of the remembered mood with which so many World War II marriages ended. Separations then, were conducive to longer, shorter bigger causes in the air than those of the 40's can be built. The huge gap between V-mail letters and telephone real lifes is represented in divorce statistics for the year ofby — 1946. They were the largest

Inauguration Held by UC Women

JOHNSTOWN — The United Church Women of Johnstown held their inaugural service on Sunday morning at 9.45 in Johnstown United Church. The ladies were in charge of the service and made up the choir. The first choir gowns ever owned by this church, were bought recently by the W.A. of 1961. Mr. Thrasher remarked that it was a historical event in the life of the church, and it was most fitting that the United Church Women of Johnstown should be the first to wear these gowns at this first service.

Mrs. Earl Siddick was leader for the occasion and Mrs. Alva Meyers read the Scripture from Romans 8. The choir sang "Hear Us, O Lord". Mr. Thrasher gave the address, "Vision of the Future". "Never underestimate the power of a woman" said Mr. Thrasher. In the past the women of the United Church have been kept in the background. Now they can enter almost any position in the church. "The hand that rocks the cradle can rock the world", said Mr. Thrasher.

There are some 400,000 ladies of the United Church women. Something will have to give when they get started in their new ventures to better work for their Lord.

The executive was dedicated by Mr. Thrasher who said, "Yours Is a Service of Leadership", and may you have joy in it.

Congregational Meeting

EGGLETON UNITED

MADOC JUNCTION — The annual congregational meeting for Eggleton United Church was held Tuesday night at the church, with an average attendance.

Mr. Dynes presided and opened the meeting by reading Psalm 119 and prayer.

Mrs. Bert Reible was appointed secretary.

The various reports were received as follows: church financial report by Mrs. B. Reible; missionary, and maintenance report by Mr. Carl Bridges; W.A. report sent in by Mrs. Harlow was read by Mrs. Fitchett; W.M.S. report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Carl Bridges; Mission Band report by the leader Mrs. Maurice Clancy who also read the Sunday School report.

All reports were encouraging. Mr. Dynes spoke briefly and reported on the number of members received into church membership, during the year; baptisms, marriages and deaths during 1961.

A short discussion took place on the annual board meeting for Ice Thomasburg church, which is to be held this year at the Eggleton Church on Wednesday evening, January 24th at 8 o'clock.

A motion was made that 1961 officers of Eggleton Church be returned to the same offices for 1962 and was carried.

The meeting closed with the benediction by Mr. Dynes.

SPECIAL DATE

CROFTON, BC. (CP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lalligant celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, their son Magnus presented them with a special gift—the promise of a daughter-in-law. During the party Magnus announced his engagement to Georgina Montgomery of Victoria.

Ham Loaf With A Difference

By Mary Moore

As I turned out the Ham Loaf which I am about to describe I thought I had goofed —for it would be a perfect meat course for a Valentine meal. So this is three weeks early. If you are going to do something special for Valentine's Day, save this recipe for that occasion. It not try it this week.

This is a meat loaf with a difference. It calls for ground fresh ham or picnic shoulder or ground leftover baked ham and a little ground fresh pork. But the topping is the feature. You line the bottom of the loaf pan with some cherries from a cherry sauce which is made first.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY (Guests)

SUNDAY (Guests)

Cherry-Topped Ham Loaf (see Thursday); Broccoli Parsley Carrots; Individual Tomato, Avocado and Grapefruit Salad with Mayonnaise; New 24-Hour Fruit Medley with Creamy Dressing (see Monday); Coffee.

CHERRY TOPPED HAM LOAF Cherry Topping:

Make this first: 2 cups pitted canned red cherries, 1-4 cup sugar, 4 teaspoons cornstarch, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon red food coloring.

Drain cherries, reserving juice. Combine sugar, cornstarch, spices, and salt. Add enough water to cherry juice to make one cup. Stir slowly into sugar mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Blend in mustard, red food coloring and cherries. Set aside and make ham.

Ham Loaf: 1-3 cup milk, 2 eggs, beaten, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, shake of garlic salt, 2 teaspoon parsley flakes or chopped parsley, 1 1-2 cups soft whole wheat bread crumbs (about 2 slices), 1 pound ground ham or picnic shoulder or leftover cooked ham (2 1-2 to 3 cups well-packed when ground) 1-2 pound ground fresh pork.

Skim out most of the cherries from sauce and layer bottom of greased 9x5x3" loaf pan with them. Carefully cover with a little of the ham mixture, patting it down gently to fix the cherries firmly in place. Now you can add remaining ham mixture, pressing it down to fill in crevices but not too hard. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour, standing the loaf pan in a larger one containing 1-3" hot water. After removing from oven let it stand 5 minutes then invert on hot platter. Do not remove pan for a few minutes to allow all concerts to loosen and come out clean. If any cherries stick to pan pick them out and replace them. Reheat remaining sauce and pass in sauce boat at table.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary Holds Annual Meeting at BGH Education Hall

Brilliant sunshine flooded the spacious auditorium of Education Hall yesterday afternoon for the annual luncheon and business meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary of Bellefield General Hospital. It was a brilliant sheen on the golden dresses, and even on the practically upholstered tables with their softly flickering yellow candles, and floral centrepieces of white 'mums, golden daffodils, and blue iris. Soft piano music, provided by Mrs. Lloyd Parrott, added a delightful and pleasing note to the forthcoming delicious dinner.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Following the dinner, Mrs. M. L. L. Jones, president, gave a cordial welcome to the assembled members and guests, and introduced the head table guests, which included: Mrs. T. Simpson, secretary; Mrs. Ben Sale, social; Mrs. N. C. Mache, bulletin secretary; Mrs. W. H. Wylde, publicity; Mrs. Harold J. Fuke, auditor and member of the hospital trustee board; Mr. D. Rae, Bellefield convener; The Reverend A. S. Mc-Connell, minister of the ministerial association; Mrs. J. E. Buchan, director of volunteers; Miss Doris Smith, director of nursing; Mrs. William Tatham, convalescing secretary; Mr. Frank Domenico, vice-chairman of the Board of Governors; Mrs. F. Begley, 1st vice-president; his worship, Mayor A. J. McLean Reid; Mrs. M. F. Jones, president; Miss Jean Mastin, guest speaker; Mrs. Ben Burley, past president; Warden of Hastings County, Harold Varty; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Eli Deely; Mrs. Werner Deutsch, superintendent of Bellefield Convalescent Hospital; Mrs. Gordon Hume, treasurer; Dr. H. R. Ross, president of the Medical Association; Mrs. H. H. Murray, convener of the Coffee Shop; Mrs. B. A. McKeown, convener and secretary of Kingston region No. 9; Mrs. F. L. Nolan, convener of the puppet committee; Mrs. H. J. Pobo, borrer; Miss Nell Jones, director of the day nurse; Mrs. G. Lennox Smith, head of the nominating committee.

GREETINGS

Greetings were bought by Mayor McLean Reid from the city, representing the Council, who felt it was a great pleasure to be present at the annual meeting, and to convey his best wishes and those of the Council to the Women's Hospital Auxiliary for the splendid work it has been doing, down through the cost to the city in no small manner; and to its continued success in the years to come.

Warden Varty also spoke briefly bringing greetings from Hastings County and extending the best for 1962.

Other distinguished guests who brought greetings and commendations to the Auxiliary included Mr. Frank Domenico, chairman of the Board of Governors, who extended thanks for the work accomplished over in the past, and for the future as there is no end to hospital needs.

Mr. Daechsel, superintendent, commented on the 1961 work accomplished, stating that the reports would show much accomplished, both in the fine changes in the visiting hours; the institution of Volunteer Service; the ready adaptability as well as the pleasant relations maintained, which are deserving of sincere thanks.

Dr. Ross, president of the Medical Association, brought greetings from the medical staff, which included appreciative words as has been done to further and aid in the healing of the sick. All the speakers' brief talks were most interesting, and contained little humorous bits, adding to enjoyment as well as information.

GUEST SPEAKER

Following the brief addresses, Mrs. Ben E. Burley, past president, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Jean Mastin, past director of nursing at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. Miss Mastin, who retired last May after 22 years of service for by she is a native of Prince Edward County.

In beginning her address, Miss Mastin stated that her last wishes to the Auxiliary for its work in the year 1962, and mentioned the task a large hospital has to introduce a new register, and the hospital responsibilities are similar, but do differ in content.

In a children's hospital, as in the Hospital for Sick Children, the care is not for a child in a real frame of mind as their stresses are more numerous than where the patients are adults. The parents like to inquire of the nurse at any hour, ready to give information regarding their little ones, for the children are like visits from people who are not in uniform, and not bearing the dreaded needle. One of the outstanding helps in a childrens' hospital is the library, with suitable books for reading.

DIETITE FACTORS

Another factor in a children's hospital is the different approach; visiting hours are extended, and early ambulation which sometimes proves quite a problem as the improving children drove provoked among the corridors, and the problem is to keep them occupied, and also from under the nurses' feet. Out patients are assisted by a Junior League, whose members show movies; some come to read to the children. Unlike the B.G.H. the Auxiliary has not taken any responsibility on the recreational side; nor does it sponsor the work of volunteers. But there are those who assist in writing letters to the parents, so that when the parents come to visit they need these letters of the letters, as it relieves the nurses. Also, high school teachers assist the children in extra mural school work, so that when the child returns to school, he or she retains his or her year. There is also a social service maid in with the teaching.

NEW SERVICE

A new service which is found most helpful is that of a church service, taking the form of an undenominational Sunday School, with lessons for different age groups, and very helpful when a special hymn, or well line religious training. Student nurses learn through lectures, visual channels. Individual relationship is a great help in healing of the sick.

Miss Mastin was thanked by Mrs. F. L. Begley, also by the president Mrs. M. F. L. Jones.

Following the address by the guest speaker, the various reports, which are to be found elsewhere in this issue were heard, and duly accepted

Volunteer Dept. One of Progress

"1961 was a year of change and progress for our Volunteer program in the hospital. When the visiting hours were extended it became obvious that it would be impractical to attempt supervision this extended time with volunteers. For this reason, the Nursing Assistants were transferred their interest to other in-hospital-services where their experience and knowledge of their hospital is invaluable.

"At the present time we have a staff of 45 volunteers who in 1961 gave 1293 hours of service in six groups.

ESCORT SERVICE

"Our junior volunteers, who number 14, maintain an escort service, operating almost seven evenings a week. These girls who must be 15 years of age, have undergone a course in writing letters to the patients, so that when the parents come to visit they need these letters of the letters, as it relieves the nurses. Also, high school teachers assist the children in extra mural school work, so that when the child returns to school, he or she retains his or her year. There is also a social service maid in with the teaching.

There is also a social service maid in with the teaching.

NEW SERVICE

A new service which is found most helpful is that of a church service, taking the form of an undenominational Sunday School, with lessons for different age groups, and very helpful when a special hymn, or well line religious training. Student nurses learn through lectures, visual channels. Individual relationship is a great help in healing of the sick.

Miss Mastin was thanked by Mrs. F. L. Begley, also by the president Mrs. M. F. L. Jones.

Following the address by the guest speaker, the various reports, which are to be found elsewhere in this issue were heard, and duly accepted

PHILOSOPHY OF MEDICINE

Dr. Rigal, Dr. Rigal—Rev. J. P. Sullivan D.D. at the annual meeting in January of the "Philosophy of Medicine" was an inspiration to our members for the year. On the 8th February, Miss Doris Smith, Director of Nurses, presented a most interesting paper on new concepts and developments in nursing education. It is explained how they are being applied in the recently opened Ryerson School of Nursing in Toronto.

"The month of June the promising good fun and good business as Mrs. J. B. Carey presented Sheldon Chalet for the sale of clothing from the Opportunity Shop. The annual conference which Mrs. William Gault added greatly to the enjoyment of the afternoon. Mrs. Gault were privileged to hear Dr. D. M. Stott in the Second, speak on the subject "Progressive Patient Care." In May Dr. Alex Rots explained the "Research" work done by the Pathology Department of the hospital. He also spoke on the training given in the Medical Laboratory Technician course which he directs. June brought an excellent report by Miss Doris Smith of the International Congress of Nurses which she attended in Melbourne, Australia. In the forums, some fascinating glimpses of the many Oriental countries which she visited en route.

OUT PATIENT'S DEPARTMENT

"After the summer recess, we were privileged to hear about two more interesting departments of our hospital—the Out Patient Department from its supervisor, Miss Donna Plumpton, and the Out-Patient Social head, Mr. L. N. Fortin. Both these speakers added greatly to our knowledge of the service rendered by our own hospital. November was a busy month for us, with social functions as we heard of new ideas and prospects discussed. Also the annual provincial convention by our delegates, Mrs. M. F. L. Jones and Mrs. Fred Begley, and our hospital superintendent, Mr. Werner Deutsch. Christmas Dinner was an enjoyable Christmas dessert party followed by a business meeting when the new officers for 1962 were elected.

FASHION FIESTA

"Always the highlight of the Auxiliary year, the 1961 Fashion Fiesta proved to be a presentation of fashion, glamour and elegance, a credit to the convener, Mrs. Ben Sale, and all the members of her committee. A pleasing feature was the commentary supplied by Shakespearian adaptation, written and delivered by Mrs. Harold Forrester. The financial rewards of nearly $1,400 reflect the industry of Mrs. Sale and Mrs. Fred Besley and Mrs. James Neales, who were in charge, respectively, of the boutique and dress tickets. A reception for the models, exhibitors and helpers was held following the Fashion Fiesta, under the convenership of Mrs. William Fiske.

NEWS BULLETINS

"Each month our members and friends awaited with interest the news bulletin, ably prepared by Mrs. Douglas Burry, which were in no small way responsible for the increased attendance at our meetings. Mrs. Burry's bulletins were issued each month by Mrs. N. C. Mache, secretary for this project. The community was very well-informed of the work of our organization by the contributions of reports of Mrs. F. C. Adsett, who was also responsible for the publicity for our meetings, for radio news, and for the arranging of publicity photographs. Mrs. William Pinkle, Director of Public Relations, prepared a booth at the Belleville Fair which publicized both the activities of our organization and the services rendered by our hospital. She also prepared publicity material from our auxiliary for the professional convention in Ottawa. The new telephone committee, under Mrs. Thomas Simpson, provided most useful service, extending special invitations to our meetings throughout the year.

BURSARIES PROVIDED

"The most important of this Auxiliary in the student nurses was shown by the provision of five bursaries at $150. each to first and second year students. Mrs. Harry Fuke was in charge of this project, and her committee members were Mrs. Pinkle, Mrs. E. G. Conway and our President.

"The desire of our organization to maintain a friendly personal contact with the hospital patients is exemplified by the work of the Holiday Treats Convener, Miss Nell Morey, who arranged for the remembrance of more than eighty gaily wrapped gifts for patients at Christmas, Easter and Christmas seasons with the $100.00 at her disposal. Mrs. E. G. Conway presented the Auxiliary in distributing the Christmas gifts and Mrs. Pinkle in the Easter distributing experience. On Easter Sunday, Mrs. Conway conducted each patient, found on its tray a card bringing our greetings.

"The Volunteer committee, under Mrs. C. Dusebury, this year made their debut in the Coffee Shop and the attractive pillows which added to the charm of the Fiesta. The Samaritan Cupboard in the hospital nursery was replenished by the committee, and the remedial clothing, for needy infants was again maintained. A donation of $150.00 to the Alpha Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

SOCIAL CONVENERS

"Two of the busiest members of the Executive were the two social conveners, Mrs. Stan Kvarda and Mrs. Ben Sale. Between them they accomplished each monthly meeting, they conducted their business meeting, arranging many delightful social events for both the auxiliary and the hospital staff.

"These included two tea in connection with the Medical Technicians Course, a tea for visitors to Hospital Day, and the annual party for the graduating class in June, at which walked a group of nurses, who were guests of the Auxiliary. Mrs. Sale also arranged a tea in May on behalf of the Auxiliary, a group of young ladies from the Plaza Theatre, who are regularly working in the hospital laboratory.

Devoting for the reception following the Nurses' graduation exercises in June, which this year by Mrs. Irvine Dickey and our president. The annual Christmas party for the staff was ably sponsored by Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, assisted by Mrs. L. Pinkston and Mrs. R. McCallum.

WIDE RECOGNITION GIVEN

"Province-wide recognition in auxiliary work was given to one of our Bellefield auxiliary members, all past-presidents, Mrs. John Buchan, Mrs. Ben Burley and Mrs. James Neales, under took part in programs at the annual meeting conducted by Women's Hospital Auxiliaries held in Toronto in October. Mrs. Buchan and Mrs. Burley were serving on committees of the Provincial executives. We were also honored in having our Junior Hospital Volunteers represented at a conference at the convention by Miss Sharon Macdonald.

WHA Officers Appointed

The officers and committee chairmen of the Bellefield General Hospital Women's Auxiliary appointed for 1962 at the annual luncheon and business meeting at Education Hall are as follows:

Past president; Mrs. B. E. Burley; president, Mrs. M. F. L. Jones; 1st vice-president, Mrs. F. C. Adsett; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. J. B. Casey; recording secretary, Mrs. W. G. Musgrove; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. Simpson; treasurer, Mrs. G. Hume.

Membership, Mrs. F. A. Besby, Opportunity Shop, Mrs. H. H. Murray; Coffee Shop, Mrs. H. Forrester; bulletin secretary, Mrs. N. C. Mache; Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Musgrove; Coffee Shop, Mrs. H. H. Murray; Hospitality committees; Mrs. J. E. Buchan; bulletin trests, Miss Nellie F. Morey; nominating, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith; press, Mrs. D. A. J. Carberry; puppets, Mrs. F. L. Nolan; Samaritan cupboard, Mrs. C. Dusberry, social, Mrs. Stan Kvarda and Mrs. Ben Sale; telephone, Mrs. W. T. Simpson.

Coffee Shop Appreciated By Patrons

"During 1961 the Coffee Shop continued to provide one of the Auxiliary services to the hospital and it is a privilege for me to report to you some of the details which have made this a successful year.

"The Shop was open to visitors staff and some patients six days a week and Sunday afternoons throughout the year with the exception of Saturday and Wednesday afternoons in July and August and one week in July when it was closed for housecleaning and holidays. Its availability to its patrons is undoubtedly appreciated as evidenced by the friendly atmosphere that prevails and this thousands of cups of tea and coffee served and the "snacks" for which it is so well known. This service of which we are so proud is directly attributable to the splendid co-operation between the Coffee Shop, committee, staff and Hospital Auxiliary members.

INESTIMABLE ASSISTANCE

"The interest and unfailing support of the Auxiliary members to this project has been inestimable assistance to your convener. These members include Mrs. W. Dallas, treasurer; Mrs. Ben Burley, secretary; Miss Nell Morey, Mrs. Angus Duffy and Mrs. A. C. Reynolds, who have shared the job of staffing.

"During the year we accepted with a great deal of regret the resignation of Mrs. A. Madden who served for a total of 10 years and who assisted substantially in its growth and development. After a brief period under the management of Mrs. Hilda Mott, we secured the services of Mrs. Hilda Mott, who has been in charge since the advance of Mrs. T. DeCole, continue to provide the efficient service which is typical for which we are so well known.

WILLING ASSISTANCE

"It is a pleasure to report that during the year 25 Auxiliary members responded to the call for assistance and have operated the Shop on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, as well as on a regular basis. Such response helps us to fulfill our obligation of service and is very much appreciated by the committee. Also the Volunteer organization is also extended to the 90 or more members who have contributed cakes, pies and home food, again many on a regular basis. Without these tangible contributions will increase in the next year. They are truly a willing group and will be welcomed by the patrons of the Shop.

"In 1961 the Coffee Shop received air conditioning making it a most delightful place during the hot summer days. In 1961 we also replaced some of the furniture, the tables and chairs and dishes. In late 1961 the hospital visiting hours were extended and an increase in the volume of business has been evident. With the increased volume Volunteer assistance is a rewarding experience to the individual as they share in the enthusiasm of our present workers.

"It has been a privilege for me to have served as your Coffee Shop convener and to you who have been associated with such a fine group of women on the committee. It is to them much of the credit is due for the encouraging financial statement which follows."

Mrs. H. H. Murray

Mother's Helper

KEEPING her room in order is one of many responsibilities a child if she has helped with its furnishing and arrangement. Let her share with you for any item purchased for her domain, whether it's a new bed or a chair, and you'll have a happy time over the whole room. Boys like this, too.

Opportunity Shop Had Banner Year Says Report

Mrs. J. B. Casey reports on Opportunity Shop:

"It is with pleasure that I report for the Opportunity Shop for the year 1961.

"I am pleased to tell you that, due to the excellent job done by the Shop volunteers, which number about 25, and the efficient convener, Mrs. A. Muir, our Shop's treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Shand, bookkeeper, Miss Ivy Eggleton, and printers, Mrs. W. C. Thomas, and Mrs. R. VanDerdingen, the Shop has had a banner year. I thank all of you most sincerely.

"We appreciate the assistance of radio station CJBQ which gave us valuable publicity. The Shop was also kept before the public through frequent notices in our local paper.

CHRISTMAS DONATIONS

"Our capable secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Shand, wrote to a number of retail organizations telling them of our aims and purposes, and requesting donations of soiled or damaged merchandise. This proved to be a most successful procedure. While only three of the firms sent donations, they were indeed generous and the cash contributions resulted in a substantial profit improvement in April.

"During the month of August the Shop was completely renovated with the kind help of the hospital maintenance staff. The walls were painted and with matching counter top, and the world paneled.

"In October a business phone was installed which has proved very helpful in many ways.

THANKS TENDERED

"At this time, I would like to thank the people of Belleville and surrounding towns, for their articles to the Shop. To the Opportunity Shop staff, thank you for a job well done.

"Many volunteers have been added through the kindness of Mr. H. R. Ross, Medical Health Officer. The financial statement is as follows:"

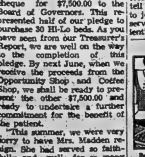
"Thanks are due to the summer students, and now are pleased to have Miss Mott take over the Supervisor.

"The Retail Tax once into effect on September 2nd involved both the Coffee Shop and Opportunity Shop. This necessitated some book-keeping problems, but is now being handled very successfully.



TWO-DAY TRAINING COURSE

"In the spring the Provincial Association held a two-day Training Course for Hospital Volunteers, at which Miss Mastin, our Director of Volunteers, and Mrs. F. A. Besby, our 1st vice-president, attended. It was felt that it was very worthwhile, and we have had the benefit of some of volunteer work in the Hospital.

"Many changes and alterations during the year were the price lifting by the Corporation which put the Puppet Committee's inclusion of dressing books for children with their contribution to the small pets in Pediatrics, and the new Coffee Shop counter in the hospital due to the change in visiting hours.

"Last year, when I took office I mentioned that we were hoping for a new purse for the good of that V.I.P., the patient. There is always room for that and to join us in that never-ending service to that V.I.P., the patient.

Corresponding Sec. Gives Her Report

Report of corresponding secretary 1961 was given by Mrs. W. C. Thomas.

"The effectiveness of the corresponding secretary's job is made possible largely through the alertness and cooperation of our auxiliary members. Goodwill, like a good name, is won by many acts and wells striving to earn and maintain this goodwill, your individual assistance is most necessary and most valuable.

"Since our last annual luncheon, 770 letters have been written on your behalf. Approximately one third of the total were notes to members or workers who were ill, or letters of sympathy. These expressions of kindness at a time when they are needed, are only possible when some thoughtful member of our auxiliary reports the information to our president.

"This mail is greatly accelerated at the time of the Provincial convention and also at the annual meeting after our annual Fashion Show. Many of these letters are answered by our president, but the majority are answered by the secretary.

"Other correspondence includes Mr. W. Shand, wrote to a number of retail organizations telling them of our aims and purposes, and requesting donations of soiled or damaged merchandise. This proved to be a most successful procedure. While only three of the firms sent donations, they were indeed generous and the cash contributions resulted in a substantial profit improvement in April.

President WHA Gives Fine Report

Mrs. M. F. L. Jones presents fine report of W.H.A. achievements during the year of 1961 "Madam president, ladies and gentlemen, it is a most interesting and instructive year, I have had the privilege of meeting all our projects, and realize, as never before, how many wonderful things are done for our hospital.

"Your officers and convenors have all worked hard as a team, doing their utmost to carry out the wishes of the committee's success.

"I know that they would join with me in thanking unsung heroes who have so quietly given their services, and forward both the Coffee Shop and Opportunity Shop. Their success some book-keeping problems, but is now being handled very successfully.

Year's Accomplishments One Of Pride for Puppet Group

Madam president, honored guests and members of the Auxiliary, I hope that I will be excused when I say, that as I write this report, it is with a keen sense of pride that I look back at the accomplishments of the Puppet Group during the past year. This has been made possible through the enthusiastic, unstinting co-operation and work of each one of our seventeen members.

"Apart from attending our regular monthly meeting, each member actually spends 12 hours or more each month making puppets so that the group can come up with its monthly quota.

NEW INNOVATION

Six years ago 20 puppets were supplied to the hospital each month and this has grown to a requirement of 70 per month. This quantity is beyond the ability of the group to supply and a new innovation has been resorted to. Since April 1st we have built up our requirements by substituting crayons and coloring books, which appear to be very popular with the young patients. Approximately 50 puppets and twenty sets of books and crayons are now supplied each month and this represents a total of eight hundred puppets and two hundred sets of crayons and books supplied the hospital to date.

CHILDREN LIKE PUPPETS

The children spending time in our hospital look forward to receiving their puppets, which they hear of from other children and we see that they are not disappointed. This is our objective, and while we do not plan to raise money, it will be solicited from our financial statement, that our expense to the auxiliary has been kept to a minimum by the members of this group using their own materials, donations of materials and the proceeds of the sale of puppets at the Fashion Fiesta.

Monthly meetings are held in the different members' homes, and the readiness of the members to use their homes for this purpose is very commendable, and develops a friendly attitude in the members getting to know each other better. The group has grown this year to 17 which includes three new members.

"I would like to mention each one of the members of my group by name, but time will not permit, so I say to them all collectively, thank you for the unfailing support, and your willing compliance with all the requests I have made of you. I am sure that the Auxiliary is just as proud of you as I am.

BOOKS AUDITED

"The treasurer's books have been duly audited through the kindness of Mr. H. J. Fuke who reports them to be in good order. The financial statement is as follows:

RECEIPTS

Balance on hand, Dec. 31st, 1960	$ 78.16
Sale of puppets	115.75
Received from Auxiliary	151.89
and bank interest	345.60
EXPENDITURES
Purchase of faces and materials, including custom's duty	153.98
	$345.60

"I wish to report that Mrs. Myrtle Dickey has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Puppet Group for 1962, and I also wish to express appreciation to our retiring secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Edith Hall, for a job so efficiently handled. I am glad to say that Mrs. Hall will continue as a member of the group."

Foreign Subsidiaries of U.S. Firms Trading With China Must Conform to U.S. Laws

WASHINGTON (CP)—United States officials said Wednesday that when it comes to trading with Communist China, foreign subsidiaries of U.S. companies abroad must conform with American law. It would not matter whether they operate in British, Canada or any other country.

They said the U.S. will not budge from a decision to block the use of American-controlled radar in the air Viscounts British is building for Red China. U.S. trade is prohibited with China under the Trading With the Enemy Act. In special cases, exceptions are made when military goods are not involved.

The current Anglo-American friction on the question of the planes also appears to have some of the overtones of Canada - U.S. differences in 1956 when rumors circulated that the U.S. was preventing the Ford Motor Company of Canada from negotiating to sell 1,000 trucks to China.

The order never materialized, but Secretary of State Dulles-baker met with former president Eisenhower that year and Eisenhower said there should be prior Canada-U.S. consultation before any decision was taken preventing U.S. subsidiary in Canada from consummating a deal with the Chinese.

Officials said they decided some time ago that the Viscount planes could be exported to China under the Trading With the Enemy Act, provided in such cases, exceptions are made when military goods are not involved.

Cartage Firm Admits Carrying Meat to Outlet

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto cartage firm has told RCMP investigators that it has delivered upwards to 80,000 pounds of uninspected meat from a west end gold storage plant to a retail outlet over a four-month period.

Henry Shaw of Instant Cartage Company said the firm is an innocent party in the transactions and that he only recently discovered the meat was uninspected.

An RCMP spokesman said the shipments were not the ones they know about which brought charges against a Metropolitan Toronto man and five others in the Ottawa district.

Mr. Shaw said on each trip his trucks carried between 750 and 1,000 pounds of meat to the outlet where it went on sale at prices considerably lower than the British norm.

Ald. Harold Menzies said Wednesday he thinks the several arrests backsters still are selling large amounts of tainted meat by underground channels.

He told board of health "hundreds if not thousands" of tons of poultry have been shipped to Toronto from all over the continent without inspection.

In Brantford, Brant County council asked the Ontario government to take immediate action "to provide legislation authorizing the use of adequate meat inspection by government officials."

In a move to prevent the sale of uninspected meat was recommended to London, by council by the board of health.

Natives of P.E. County To Celebrate Anniversary

PICTON — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Kearney of Picton will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this Saturday, January 20th. A tea and reception will be held at their home at the Royal Hotel from 4-to 6 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Kearney were both born in North Marysburgh township, Prince Edward County. They were married in the Church of St. Gregory the Great, Picton, by Rev. Fr. Carson. For the first seven years of their marriage they farmed at Bethel, six miles east of Picton. In 1919, they moved to Ontario, where Mr. Kearney was employed for 17 years by General Motors. Returning to Prince Edward, Mr. and Mrs. Kearney operated a farm at Waupoos for 10 years and after moving to Picton in 1946 Mr. Kearney was Eastern Ontario sales representative of a national farm magazine. He retired in 1957 due to poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. Kearney are members of St. Gregory's Church. Mr. Kearney is a member of Picton Council, Knights of Columbus and a member of the Holy Name Society. His wife is Secretary of Picton Council, Catholic Women's League; a member of Picton Film Council and Library Board.

They have six children: Mrs. I. Osborne of Colgan, Ont.; Mrs. Harold Guilfoyle and Charles Lynch and Mrs. Robert Greville, all of Metropolitan Toronto; Rev. Edward, Mr. and Arthur of Kingston. There are 24 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Judge Denies Separate Trials For Four Men

CHICAGO (AP)—Selection of a jury was started Wednesday for the trial of four men accused of stealing in bonds totalling in the multi-million-dollar robbery of a Brockville, May 3, 1959.

Judge Joseph Sam Perry of U.S. district court denied the trial to proceed after denying a defence motion for a long continuance because of extensive publicity given to the case in Chicago.

"The people are entitled to a public trial," Perry ruled and are obligated to put into the stories the facts which are admissible as fact," Donald Manion, assistant U.S. district - attorney, said in the government acceptted by Judge Perry.

Defendants are William Allan Rathie, a former Chicago financier; Sam Mannarino, 64, Mount Vernon, N.Y.; George E. Reader, 54, a Washington lawyer living in Sumner, Md.; and Norman Rotham, 46, Miami Beach, Fla., who has been serving a 10 months sentence for "conspiring to smuggle arms to Cuba.

The trial is an outgrowth of the robbery of the Brockville Trust and Savings Company in which bearer and registered bonds totalling about $2,500,000 were stolen along with a small quantity of cash and jewelry. Most of the bonds were later recovered.

The four defendants are charged with transporting, and conspiring to transport, in interstate commerce some of the stolen bonds. They were indicted, and are being tried, in connection because some of the bonds were used as collateral for a loan obtained in a Chicago bank.

Judge Perry also denied separate trials for the four men.

Boy Denies He Set Fire To School

CHICAGO (AP)—A police juvenile officer said Wednesday a 13-year-old boy under investigation for setting fire to his parochial school that took 95 lives in 1958.

Ronald Richards, an officer for the police department of suburban Cicero, made the statement while waiting for the boy to be brought to family court for a hearing.

Richards said the boy told him he set three apartment building fires in Cicero but denied starting the fire in Our Lady of the Angels Roman Catholic parochial school where 92 children and three nuns were killed.

Inspector Stung By Scorpion At Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Scorpion antivenin was flown here early Wednesday night for an agriculture department inspector who was stung by a bug believed to be a scorpion.

He was in satisfactory condition in hospital.

The antivenin came from the southern United States after a search extending as far as Algeria.

"We had gone through about five boxes (of tomatoes) when suddenly Robert was bitten by some sort of bug . . ." a fellow worker, Frederick Haines, said.

"The thing then flopped out of the crate and escaped before we could kill it."

Mr. Wilson complained immediately of pain in his arm and was taken to hospital. The hospital called Toronto's poison control centre and the request for antivenin was relayed to New York.

Scorpions resemble small lobsters and have long, jointed nails. They are common in Europe, Africa, Mexico but are rarely found in Canada.

The tail bears a venomous sting. Reaction to the sting varies with the type of scorpion. At least one type, found in Mexico, is known to produce rescue similar to strychnine.

Ten Canadians Are Cited For Heroism

PITTSBURGH (CP) — Ten Canadians have been cited for heroism by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

A silver medal was awarded posthumously to Private J. G. Brennan, 43, His widow, Kathleen, 40, received a bronze medal. With her husband's award, Mrs. Brennan, of the Toronto suburb of West Hill, receives $20 a month for a maximum of five years or until she remarries. A $500 award goes with hers, own bronze medal.

The Brennans, neither of whom were good swimmers, were cited for their rescue of Norma Cain, 9, and the attempted rescue of her grandfather, Kenneth Cain, 74, at Little Britain, Ont., July 6.

The citation said the girl had gone over her depth in a stream and grandfather, in his concern, had gone to her rescue. Brennan tried to bring both to safety but Cain was pulled under by Cain and both were drowned. The girl was brought to safety by Mrs. Brennan.

The eight other Canadians named by the commission all were awarded bronze medals, two of them posthumously.

Kingston Man Honored

Two Kingston men, William J. Neil, 25, and Harold Reginald Neil, 19, were awarded medals for their rescue Aug. 12 of 14-year-old Brian Hall from the bottom of a 32-foot cistern at Odessa, Ont.

The commission said the boy had been overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while trying to remove a gasoline pump from the cistern. Neil and Wilson descended, and, in succession, got the boy and managed to pull him out although both were affected by the fumes.

A posthumous bronze medal went to Ernest Smith, 47, of Cache Keeper from Fernbrook, Ont. Catherine La Pierre, a nonswimmer, died while attempting to save Colleen Hagarty, 8, from drowning in the Indian River July 16. Colleen was saved but her father also died in the rescue attempt.

Miss La Pierre's medal and $500 will be sent to her father.

A $500 bronze medal award went to switch-tender Meriand L. Bennett, 25, of Belleville, Ont., who ran from a station platform Feb. 10 to warn a three-year-old boy when a train was only 20 feet away at Ottawa.

Wire Found In Apartment Same as in Car

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A chemist testified Wednesday at the attempted murder trial of Kitchener Mayor Frank Hachborn that insulation found in Woodhouse's car was the same as the insulation around two sections of wire found in the home of John Cowan, Ont., where the house is accused of trying to kill.

Woodhouse, 26, of Weston, Ont., was charged after Brown, 29, of Kitchener, was injured in his home Nov. 7.

Testimony of the chemist, Douglas Lucas of the provincial crime laboratory, was followed by that of a police officer, Constable Broadbent, who said Woodhouse's steering section, a copper wire, which was attached to a kitchen faucet, rolled it up and threw it into the back seat.

The detective, who said he returned to the car after Mrs. Woodhouse was bleeding from a cut on his right hand when police arrived at Brown's apartment.

FOUND BLEEDING

In addition to the wire that was found in the faucet, another wire was found imbedded in the headboard of Brown's bed.

Brown has testified that before he was attacked he was roused from sleep by the telephone ringing. He said he received a telephone message, picked up the phone.

Brown has testified that he and Woodhouse were close friends who had met eight years ago. Both came to Canada from Newcastle, England.

OPEN NEW COURT

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A new citizenship court was opened here Wednesday by the department of citizenship and immigration. Named the Windsor Court of Canadian Citizenship, it will handle all work previously done by municipal and county court officials.

Dairy Farmers to Grapple With Problem of Booming Milk Production, Surpluses

By RUSSELL PEDEN

MONTREAL (CP) — The annual meeting of the Dairy Farmers of Canada is to vote today on short - term policy measures aimed at holding down Canada's booming milk production and disposing of huge butter stockpiles.

Officials of the 250,000-member group have estimated the current butter surplus at more than 200,000,000 pounds. Latest official figures show a record surplus of 158,000,000 pounds of butter and butter oil as of May 1, 1961.

It is expected that delegates will back the recommendation of a special dairy committee urging the federal government to slash the retail price of butter immediately by 14 cents a pound, while maintaining the present wholesale price to the farmer at around 58 cents.

Delegates and speakers at the week-long annual meeting have argued that a consumer subsidy of at least 14 cents is essential if butter is to compete with lower-priced vegetable oil substitutes.

Resolutions are also expected to urge milk boards and associations to control fluid milk production and to penalize fluid milk stockpiles of dairy products periods.

The special dairy committee plumped for a 25-cent federal subsidy, through the board, but without a supported price since the 14-cent subsidy in New Brunswick and Ontario for as little as four cents a pound.

Two Liberal backbenchers Wednesday outlined the problems facing two of the country's big troublesome commodities, fluid milk and cheese.

Mr. Coon, a director of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, charged that cheese industry is "one that is in a fairly sound position."

He estimated 1961 cheese production at 115,000,000 pounds — an increase of 6,000,000 pounds over 1960.

Cheese exports totalled 30,000,000 pounds—an increase of 1,500,000 pounds—and domestic consumption was realized by a corresponding decline in domestic stocks.

Mr. Coon said there is room to produce more unpasteurized cheddar cheese, and more foreign-type cheeses. Canada's annual milk output for cheese is averaged nearly 13,000,000 pounds.

He also urged dairy farmers to press for free access to the United States market, on a price slightly over $5 a pound, an infeasible thing, he conceded.

Signing of the agreement may not take place for several years.

Officials of the two countries are moving closer to agreement, he said, but a cheese price has not yet been settled and it's understood that the lower price — perhaps in the neighborhood of $5.50 a pound — is geared to deliveries starting in 1963.

Canadian uranium producers are expected to be able to keep production at present levels or a stretch-out of present contracts.

Mob of Enraged Moslems Runs Through Streets

BONE, Algeria (Reuters) — A mob of thousands of enraged Moslems ran wild through the streets of Bone Wednesday in one of the bloodiest vendettas since the terrorist war of civil once erupted in Algeria almost three weeks ago.

Four of the Moslem rioters were killed in clashes. They were among 13 persons killed in attacks throughout the country by Moslem insurgents and right - wing extremists, French military authorities said.

The rioters were seeking revenge for the bombing of a Moslem apartment house in which 10 persons were killed.

They battered a European to death with a pickaxe and hacked and set fire to European-owned stores and automobiles. One policeman was wounded in the fighting before order was restored.

Accused Wins Reduction of Bail for Fraud

TORONTO (CP)—Sol Rauch, 45, former New York City lawyer recently acquitted on a charge of theft of a $600,000 cheque from Bridoul Mines, Limited, Wednesday won a reduction in bail on a charge of fraud.

The chief justice said he could not accept the motion, but reduced bail to $5,000 from $50,000.

Rauch argued the theft and fraud charges were alternative charges and that acquittal on the theft charge amounted to acquittal on the fraud charge.

SITUATION UNPLEASE

Rauch has been in jail for two years under high bail, which the chief justice said was "grossly unfair."

J. A. MacDonald, solicitor for the Ontario Securities Commission who said the Crown intends to proceed on the second count, was told by Mr. Justice McRuer: "You don't want the man in jail and await the convenience of the Crown."

Rauch was convicted of the theft charge in November, 1960, by Mr. Justice Donald Morden of the Ontario Supreme Court of Ontario, along with Toronto hotelman Ben Simlin, 47, and Chess Stuart, 35, of North Bay and Stanley I. Schoobrun, 38, a New York lawyer.

The conviction was upheld by the Ontario Court of Appeal but all four subsequently were acquitted by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Uranium Price May Be Slightly Over $5 Pound

OTTAWA (CP) — Lengthy negotiations on the sale of 12,000 tons of uranium to British and United States market, on a price slightly over $5 a pound, an infeasible thing, he conceded.

Signing of the agreement may not take place for several years.

Officials of the two countries are moving closer to agreement, he said, but a cheese price has not yet been settled and it's understood that the lower price — perhaps in the neighborhood of $5.50 a pound — is geared to deliveries starting in 1963.

Milk Safest Way to Obtain Needed Calcium

MONTREAL (CP) — An Ontario dairy official's recommended Wednesday that Canadians drink more milk to avoid the hazards of radioactive strontium 90.

E. C. Rouse, secretary - manager of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers' League, said advocates publicity being branded them as a carrier of radioactive strontium 90.

"People who depend upon calcium for their calcium actually get more strontium 90 in their bones," he told the annual meeting of the Dairy Farmers of Canada.

Mr. Rouse said strontium 90 is similar to calcium, and if sufficient calcium is present in the diet "the body will accept the calcium and discriminate against the strontium 90."

Euromart Hopes To Reach Pact With Canada

LONDON (AP) — The six-nation European Economic Community is hopeful that it can reach a tariff-cutting agreement with Canada within weeks.

The hope was expressed Wednesday in the wake of the agreement between the Commonwealth and the United States to cut duties on a broad range of goods.

Negotiators for the Community, obviously elated over the new accord, said the time now has come to clear up the questions remaining under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade in Geneva.

"We are hopeful and optimistic that we can reach agreement with Canada on the outstanding issues within weeks," said one of the Community's top negotiators in a telephone interview from Brussels.

The agreement with the U.S. broke a log-jam in the Geneva GATT talks that has prevailed for more than 18 months. Common Market representatives have been concerned over the American issues because they presented the most formidable problems.

The feeling is that now that these have been settled there should be fairly easy to reach agreement with other GATT countries, including Canada, Britain, Sweden, New Zealand and Australia.

The agricultural issues are described as being the most important. Britain is worried about her markets for farm products in the Commonwealth. She is seeking access to Community markets for her wheat, tobacco, eggs and a number of other foods.

Other subjects on which the Canadians are seeking common market duty cuts are aluminum, whisky and some minerals.

Sea Power Seen Key to Checking Red Expansion

OTTAWA (CP) — The West should bring its superior sea power to bear in the cold war says a senior Canadian naval officer. In his context, sea power includes all the West's 7,500 merchantmen.

Commodore J. L. Hennessy, DSC, deputy chief of naval personnel, says Russia can carry out its economic penetration and support Communist revolution abroad only as long as the West allows it to use the world's sea routes.

He does not suggest, in his article in the Air Force College publication that the West deny free use of the high seas in present circumstances.

But he does suggest that Western governments regulation and control that fraction of Western merchant shipping required from time to time to carry out aid programs for underdeveloped countries.

"The growth of Russian sea power indicates clearly that Moscow regards it as an indispensable adjunct to pursuing world domination," Commodore Hennessy says. "Only if we put the full range of our sea power to work can we thwart this aim."

Guelph Royals Coach

Files Referee Protest

GUELPH (CP)—Ronnie Francis, coach of Guelph Royals of the OHA Junior A, said yesterday the Royals will file an official complaint over the refereeing of Bill Brotherton (Tuesday night's) game in Niagara Falls, Niagara Falls Tigers won 8-4.

Francis went onto the ice after the game to berate the official but denied reports he rushed or shoved Brotherton.

"I didn't lay a hand on him," said Francis. "It may have felt like it but I couldn't afford it."

Francis' major complaint was over a third-period penalty to goalkeeper Joe Stamford, for holding the puck, that gave the Tigers a goal for the Flyers. Guelph was leading 3-2 at the time. He was also upset over what he believed to be the failure to call a high sticking penalty when Royals' Dave McComb was knocked down from behind as a breakaway was in progress. Paul Faida was assessed a hooking penalty.

Brotherton: Faida got a hook. Emms was fined $20 for a run-in with the same official following a game in Guelph Dec. 19, won by the Royal 5-3.

Gross One-Man Gang

Dogs Bulldoze Rams

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor Bulldogs of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior league have a one-man gang working for them in the person of Irwin Gross.

Gross did everything but carry the water bucket Wednesday night as Windsor bulldozed their way to a 13-6 victory over Sarnia Rams, scoring four goals and assisting on four others.

In other league action last night Waterloo Tigers managed a 4-4 tie over Chatham Maroons, and Stratford Indians posted a 8-4 win over Woodstock Athletics.

The loop is quiet tonight, with three games going Friday — Waterloo at Woodstock, Sarnia at Chatham and Windsor at Owen Sound.

Last night's action did not change the league standings. Galt still heads the eight-team circuit with 26 points, three more than Windsor. Third with 20 is Woodstock, followed by Waterloo, Strathroy, Chatham, Stratford and Sarnia.

TAKES SCORING LEAD

The eight - point spree by Gross raised his season output to 51 to give him the lead in the scoring race. Before he went into the game he was one point behind George Aitken of Chatham.

Other Windsor goals were scored by Bob Brown with three, Tom Walker and Gord Haidy, each with two, Walt Pawlyshyn and Jack Costello.

Score Was 20-3

Saints Strop Blades

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—St. Paul Saints broke a series of International Hockey League records Wednesday night, swamping Toledo Blades 20-3 in a contest long delayed as the visitors combed the stands for three goalies after Toledo's Norm Jacques was hurt at 2:15 of the first period.

Elliott Chorley racked up six goals and five assists, with Paul Mismick adding three more counters and seven assists.

The rugged seven abruptly when manager Angelo Martini defended himself against kicks and punches by swinging a chair at his assailants. Two fans were taken to hospital.

Early today police had laid no charges.

The fans' ire was aroused when Martini grabbed the ropes as popular Leaping Larry Rose was bouncing off them and crashing Le Beattie. Chasing all to the floor, and remained there for several minutes. He was declared the winner on a foul.

Fans Mob Wrestler, Manager

CHATHAM (CP) — Fans incensed at the treatment given their hero returned over a Detroit wrestler and his manager Wednesday night after the main bout ended in the Tycanos ballroom.

The ruckus ended abruptly when manager Angelo Martini defended himself against kicks and punches by swinging a chair at his assailants. Two fans were taken to hospital.

Indians Win North Electric League Title

The Northern Electric Hockey League announced its final standings, ending a series and playoff schedule today.

The Indians won the four-team league title with eight wins and one loss, good for 16 points, eight more than the Comets and Hornets.

Dave Jones, of the Indians, captained the scoring crown with 26 goals and 22 assists for 48 points. The Comets' Bob Taylor was second with 37 points. The Indians' Chuck Kingston topped the goalies, allowing 32 goals in his team's nine games for a 3.5 average.

The league playoffs, commencing this Sunday, will pit the Comets against the Hornets and the Indians against the Flyers in best-of-three series.

PLAYER IN CANADA

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Curt Merz, an end, has signed with Dallas Texans of the American Football League. Merz played the 1960 season with Ottawa Rough Riders, then quit football to return to school at Iowa State University. The Texans, who say they have Merz under contract, still must deal with New York Titans, who picked him in the draft.

Habs Whip Hawks, Leafs Clip Blues

No Party For Hall

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

This isn't a particularly good season for rookies in the National Hockey League but Montreal Canadiens have one who is developing into a terror for opposing netminders.

The latest goalie to feel the sting was Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks. Rousseau scored his 10th and 11th goals of the season and helped set up another Wednesday night. The Canadiens bombarded the Hawks 7-2 and tagged Hall's 500th consecutive league and playoff game into a nightmare.

The win enabled the Canadiens to hang onto their two-point lead as the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs beat New York Rangers 4-2.

HALL GETS CAR

Hall, who hasn't missed an NHL game since becoming a regular with Detroit Red Wings at the start of the 1955-56 season, was presented with a 1962 car by Chicago owners Bill and Norris in pre-game ceremonies and probably would have been willing to take a ride in the car before the game ended.

The defeat dropped the first-place Habs to 27-16-6 for 60 points, one more than the second-place Leafs. Rangers remained fifth at 19-27-4 for 42 points, eight behind fourth-place Boston Bruins.

Rousseau got his first goal in the second and added another in the third. He also was given an assist on Don Marshall's tally with one second left in the middle period.

LEAFS FIRST BACK

At Toronto, the Rangers vaulted into a 2-0 lead in the first period and held it until the third.

Then the Leafs went to work. George Armstrong got his 13th goal at 1:33 and Mahovlich tied the score at 18:04. Ron Stewart scored what proved to be the game winner at 12:41 and Mahovlich banged in an insurance marker at 13:35.

Andy Bathgate, the league's leading point-getter, had a hand in both New York tallies. He scored the first and assisted on the other; by Hermate Dean Prentice.

The two points gave Bathgate a commanding 15 - point lead over Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings in the individual scoring race.

The Rangers remained 10 points behind third-place Chicago and one ahead of the Boston Bruins, fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, who have played one game more.

BOTH MAKE CHANGES

The Wings and Bruins have both made changes in goal. The Wings suspended hard - hitting defenceman Howie Young indefinitely Wednesday for breaking training rules and recalled left-winger Parker MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., from their Hershey Bears club of the American Hockey League to replace injured Howie Glover.

The Bruins will have three new faces—goalie Bruce Gamble and forwards Larry Leach and Tommy Williams.

Gamble, the Bruins netminder most of the season, was called up from Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League in exchange for Don Head, Leach was swapped from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League for Bob Beckett and Williams came on claim waivers from Montreal Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional League for Terry Gray.

Cocky Clay Feels Age Creeping Up

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Time is running out on me," Cassius Clay, undefeated heavyweight contender, said Wednesday as he celebrated his 20th birthday.

"I have said that I want to break Patterson's record and win the heavyweight title before I'm 21. Well, today I'm 20 and I'm ready to meet Floyd. Sonny Liston or anyone else who happens to hold the heavyweight championship."

The hard-hitting youngster from Louisville, Ky., said he feels he could beat the champion and that he would be a better man than Patterson for boxing.

"If I were champ, I wouldn't be fighting nobodies, sissies, or dead men. I'd fight the contenders in order, number one down. That would be the best thing for boxing. Let's say I'm good for boxing."

Patterson Top 'Pitcher', Has Glass Arm

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson broke a window in an office building Wednesday. It cost him $1,000.

But it was all for charity, and Patterson walked off with the top prize, batting six baseball personalities at pitching baseballs at office windows in a promotion staged by a restaurant chain which is demolishing an old building and putting up a new one.

Each "pitcher" contributed $100 to charity for participating in the stunt, plus $100 for each window broken on the lower level. The 26th - floor windows, protected by a protective fence, were labelled with a $1,000 price tag.

Branca struck out, as did Monte Irvin, Larry Doby and Gil Hodges, who also had went for broke—the top floors. Patterson unerringly fired and his ball shot completely over the roof. The champ took a later turn and connected.

Champs Disband

HAMILTON (CP) — Quigley Tigerettes, Canadian women's senior basketball champions, have disbanded.

Coach Larry Kainan said Wednesday that lack of competition and the loss of key players were the deciding factors. The Tigerettes won the Canadian Senior B title in 1958, were Ontario Senior A's in 1959, reached the Canadian senior finals in 1960 and won the title last year.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers has a good grip on first place in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Bathgate picked up a goal and an assist Wednesday night to bring his total to 39 points, 15 more than Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings, who has played one game more.

Frank Mahovlich of Toronto Maple Leafs took over third place from Claude Provost of Montreal Canadiens, who was held scoreless. Mahovlich has 32 of goals to give him 46 points, one more than Provost.

Pepsi's Dump Port Hope

The Belleville Pepsi's, with their eyes on scoring records, strated to an easy 17-0 victory over the Port Hope Ontarios here last night.

They did not need all the power they forced at the lakeshore town crew. It was the strongest team Coach Lambs ands has iced this year.

They threw seven pop-dirt pucks behind the Port Hope goalie in the first period, added four in the second and forced in six for the double-figure score in the final workout.

They got in a lot of shooting practice, firing some 80 shots at the hop-slip-and-jumping enemy goalie while Turk Barclay handled 17 hurdless shots at the other end.

"Wiener" Brown and Ron Hull shared the goal-potting glory, each scoring up with four counters and two assists. "Wiener" has scored 19 goals in his last two times out.

Davy Jones had a hat-trick night, Wayne Wells Cary Geyer scored twice and helped on five other goals. Keith MacDonald scored once and had five assists.

Ken Geogan, Tom O'Meara and Floyd Crawford hit for singles, the former getting two assists. Ray Boly, Marineau and Baker were credited with assists.

The Port Hope crew never gave up. They battled hard up the final time, but were outclassed in all departments.

Their goalie, George Gratton, was busier than the proverbial one-armed carpenter with the shives. He weathered a storm of pucks dived clean out of his net several times, and at others skated well out from behind Mackinnon, Leo Donahue and Maurice Smith.

Claim World Bowling Record

CAMP PETAWAWA, Ont. (CP)—Five artillerymen flexed their sore arm muscles Wednesday after completing 110 hours of non-stop five-pin bowling to set what they claim as a world record for marathon bowling.

When they threw in the towel at 10 p.m. Tuesday the bowling team from this Ottawa Valley army camp had lasted a full day longer than the Penticton, B.C., squad which set an 86-hour, 13-minute mark 10 days ago.

Des Cormier, bowling an average of 203 for 370 games, led the team. Also on the team are Mackinnon, Leo Donahue and Maurice Smith.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Minor Hockey Week in Canada starts Saturday, January 20.

And before long the Golden Voice of the Moppets of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Minor Division, belonging to Jack Christie, will be echoing the news from the housetops from the rocky rim of Newfoundland to the sunny vales of Victoria.

Some 125,000 puck-chasing youngsters will get in on the game. Some 10,000 declinedd men will go to their task with renewed vigor.

Those men along with the CAHA and provincial organizations feel that money and effort spent on minor hockey is a sound investment. And I do not know of a better investment in the youth of the nation than minor sport in general and hockey in particular.

In Ontario, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, the greatest organization of its kind in the world, in conjunction with the Ontario Hockey Association is sponsoring the movement.

Its purpose is to focus public attention on the physical and mental benefits of the sport per young Canadians. By drawing public attention to the fact, minor hockey officials hope to develop more support for the valuable work being done by hundreds of coaches, managers, referees and other officials across the country.

Minor hockey develops an understanding and spirit of good sportsmanship. It teaches the value of clean living and thinking, team-work and co-operation. Boys learn that respect for the rules and authority are necessary and desirable to succeed in life. Minor hockey teaches good citizenship.

Hockey is Canada's national winter sport. It extends beyond the perimeter of athletics because it has become an institution. It is a force that contributes to Canadian youngsters by proud forebears who have written glorious pages in the golden book of the game.

And dedicated men will see to it that the heritage is maintained. By hard work and other effort, sometimes with their own finances, they are seeking to it that Young Canada will get the proper fundamentals and groundwork that not only prepares them for the stern game of life ahead, but perhaps in some cases reaches a career.

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says that the chances of a boy reaching the NHL is roughly one in a 1,000.

Be that as it may, I believe Young Canada is not so much interested in reaching professional status as he is in playing the game purely for the love and sport, of it.

A lot will go on to the higher brackets, such as junior "A" ranks. Senior hockey may be "smouldring in the grave" by the time the present crop of youngsters reaches the age. Others will reach the coveted NHL circle.

Handling a group of blade-shod and stick-armed spirited youngsters is no sinecure. It takes time, patience and sustained effort. And as long as Canada has men blessed with these traits, minor hockey will never die. It will go on as long as Young Canada wants to play the game.

It is to these men that Young Canada Hockey Week is partly dedicated. They come from all walks of life, from city, town, village and hamlet. They have one thing in common, a love of boys and hockey.

This part of Eastern Ontario is blessed with many such men. Under the guidance and supervision of such Ontario Minor Hockey Association executives as Douglas Patterson of Stirling and Albert Wallis of Peterborough, minor hockey has mushroomed into a growth not dreamed of twenty years ago. And their work goes on.

In this city under the aegis of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association some 1,400 youngsters are enjoying organized hockey. In the district from Picton downward on the west to Kingston and Gananoque on the east, north to Bancroft and south to Picton, over 4,000 puck-minded boys are being taught rules, regulations and sportsmanship.

The men behind the scenes believe that if you keep a boy on ice you'll keep him out of hot water.

As President John Kennedy of the United States said: "All of us must consider our own responsibilities for the physical vigor of our children. We do not want our children to become a generation of spectators. Rather we want them to be a participant in the vigorous life."

Andy Bathgate, the league's leading point-getter, had a hand in both New York tallies. He scored the first and assisted on the other; by Hermate Dean Prentice.

The two points gave Bathgate a commanding 15 - point lead over Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings in the individual scoring race.

The Rangers remained 10 points behind third-place Chicago and one ahead of the Boston Bruins, fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, who have played one game more.

BOTH MAKE CHANGES

The Wings and Bruins have both made changes in goal. The Wings suspended hard - hitting defenceman Howie Young indefinitely Wednesday for breaking training rules and recalled left-winger Parker MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., from their Hershey Bears club of the American Hockey League to replace injured Howie Glover.

The Bruins will have three new faces—goalie Bruce Gamble and forwards Larry Leach and Tommy Williams.

Gamble, the Bruins netminder most of the season, was called up from Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League in exchange for Don Head, Leach was swapped from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League for Bob Beckett and Williams came on claim waivers from Montreal Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional League for Terry Gray.

In 10 Years, Experts Say
Football For Baseball?

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional football in 10 or 20 years will replace baseball as the national pastime of the United States, say 109 of the 215 sports-writers and broadcasters participating in an Associated Press poll.

Twenty-five voters said football already has become the top sport. Fifteen others predicted it will take over in fewer than 10 years.

The question was prompted by a record 1961 attendance of 4,248,338 with an average of 40,474 in the National Football League plus the large crowds pulled in by the rival American Football League in its second year of operation.

Major league baseball attendance dropped 2.6 per cent despite new player teams, Minnesota Twins and Los Angeles Angels. The NFL added one new club, Minnesota Vikings.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner, among other points, noted that pro foot, ball games are played only once a week compared with baseball's daily scheduling.

"Football is growing, the youngsters through the little leagues and the high schools and colleges will always be more of a participant sport than football," commented one voter.

Frontenacs Clip Beavers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kingston Frontenacs have the three top scorers in the Eastern Professional Hockey League—and it shows.

Tom McCarthy, Orval Tessier and Bobby Attersley accounted for all but one of the goals Wednesday night as Frontenacs defeated Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers 7-5 in their latest bury of scoring leaders.

McCarthy, No. 1 man in the scoring race, had a three-goal performer as Kitchener Tuesday, scored four times in the wide-open game that lifted the Frontenacs' first-place margin to three points over the Beavers.

As this stage in the schedule, the K-W squad is the only one within threatening distance of Kingston. The Ottawa Canadiens, in third place, are 11 points off the pace.

Tessier, last year's scoring champion, had a goal and three assists in the Attersley, the league's top playmaker, added four assists and one goal. Pete Panagakos scored the other.

Paul Andrea with two, playing coach Red Sullivan, Leo Roscoe and Dyran Heshel were the K-W scorers.

Marlene Paces Golf Pack

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (CP)—Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto was primed to defend her Helen Lee Doherty Women's Golf Championship in Saturday's opening rounds of the 1962 tournament.

Mrs. Streit won the match-play event the last three years and was to meet Miss Judy Eller of Miami in today's first round.

The former Fonthill, Ont., golfer led the 32 qualifiers Wednesday with a par 72 over the record Video Country Club course. She carded four birdies and went over par on four holes.

URGE MOUTHPIECES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association recommended Wednesday that all college players wear mouthpieces. It also asked that information be compiled from all available football - injury surveys so careful study can be given before equipment changes are made.

Austrian Girl Wins Silver Jug

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Semi Admiral scored a smashing triumph in the $34,300 Royal Poinciana Handicap at Hialeah Park's opener Wednesday and set a track record of 1:08.8 for the six furlongs.

Glens Rouge was a fast closing second and Merry Ruler finished third in the field of 14.

Beau Admiral, coupled with four others, for betting purposes, paid $13.20, $5.90, $3.60. Glens Rouge returned $10.50 and $6.80 and Merry Ruler paid $6.10.

The previous track record of 1:08 was set by Jet Action Jan. 29, 1956.

A 30 - piece brass band whooped it up as the park opened its 39th season in bright weather. A parade of 1961 plays who won one or more stakes races worth $100,000 was held between the fourth and fifth races.

Wilsons Defeat Crawfords 74-59 In Hoop Tilt

Trenton Wilsons, led by Bob Burleigh and Wilf Borden, thumped the Belleville Crawfords 74-59 in a Bay of Quinte basketball league game played in Trenton last night.

Trenton held a half-time lead 36-28. Early in the second half the Crawfords pulled up to within one point but once again the Wilsons pulled away to register a comfortable margin.

Teddy Batchelor came up with a big night in a losing cause, hooking 23 points, but with Bert Faulkner, Phil Bennett, and Jim Abiatele missing from the lineup, the Crawfords could not keep pace with the Wilsons. Gil Green and Ken Skinner each collected ten points.

CRAWFORD MEDALS (60): Batchelor 32, G. Parkhurst 6, H. Green 10, R. Jeffery, Geoghehan, D. Skinner 10, Pearson 1.

TRENTON WILSONS (74): Saunders 8, T. Jeffery 2, Thernquist 2, M. Jeffery 5, Borden 20, B. Burleigh 24, Crews 4, Burke, Whalley 6.

SET HOCKEY MARK

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Citadels set a Canadian Junior A hockey record Wednesday night when they disposed of Trois-Rivieres Reds 4-3. It was the 19th consecutive victory by the Citadels, league-leaders of the Provincial Junior League. The record for unbeaten games was 18, held jointly by Galt Black Hawks and Guelph Royals of the Ontario Hockey Association.

All-Stars Pick Irks Imlach

Says Bower Better Than M. Plante

TORONTO (CP)—Not content with getting three men on the NHL's all-star team for the first half of the season, coach George (Punch) Imlach thinks Toronto Maple Leafs should have won a fourth berth.

He and assistant coach King Clancy said Wednesday the nod for goalie should have gone to Johnny Bower instead of Montreal Canadiens' Jacques Plante.

"There is no question in my mind that Bower played better during the first 35 games," Imlach said. "True, Plante has been a standout in the last few games, but Bower should have been picked for twelve over Montreal's Henri Richard.

Of Montreal's Jean-Guy Talbot, chosen defenceman for the second team, Clancy said: "I'll bet you if I'd phone Frank Selke (Canadiens' general manager) and offer him Tim Horton for Talbot, he'd give me two additional players just to make sure I wasn't kidding."

Minor Hockey

The Browns and Quints rough to a 3-3 deadlock in the bantam section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association last night.

T. Herrington, D. Dickey and S. LaMorre scored for Quints while assists went to G. Muir, D. Dickey, LaMorre, D. Bamford and C. McFarlane. J. Smith scored two for the Browns' goals with M. Fahey getting the other one. R. Huntley and R. Langcaster got assists.

In juvenile action the Black Hawks topped the Blue Beetles 6-3. Jim Rutherford, with three, K. Johnson, with two and P. Emerson, were the marksmen for the winners. Jerry St. Denis earned three assists, Emerson and W. Brenton one apiece. Norm Richards bagged the goals in a losing effort with Carl Boomhower getting the other. G. MacMillan drew two assists, Boomhower, D. Woodcock and R. Turner one each.

Peewee hockey standings up to and including games of Saturday, January 11th.

Bob Hope Has Entertained More People Than Any Man

NEW YORK (AP) — What performer has entertained more people than any other man in history?

The nod might well go to Bob Hope, who didn't invent vaudeville, the stage, movies, radio or television—but who's a top star in all these fields.

Versatile Robert is celebrating his 39th year in films, in the last quarter-century Hope figures he made 53 movies—his latest, release is MGM's Bachelor in Paradise — and they brought in some $250,000,000.

"All but one or two got into the profit picture," he remarked.

Then feat in itself is enough to win Bob a golden name for, ever in Hollywood annals—if not an Academy award.

At 58, Hope's hair is thinning a bit, but he still has the fast-set quip in show business. He said during a stopover here that he's trying to slow down as his doctors suggested some years ago.

DOESN'T KNOW HOW

"The trouble is he doesn't know how so.

"I keep a schedule on my weekend, a schedule on my desk and a schedule in my car.

"I have to lead a scheduled life. There isn't any other way."

In addition to his chores as an entertainer, Bob has multi-million-dollar business interests ranging from oil wells to dairy farms, packing plants and professional baseball and football clubs.

He:

"Keep moving. Never let yourself get wooed. Try doing different things so you never feel stale."

The problem of boredom that afflicts some stars who find fame chasing and worrying never has caused Hope. After more than 40 years in show business, he is still in love with an audience, any audience.

Bob and Dolores were riding in paused beside another car that held their baby and his grandmother. Bob made a funny face and the baby giggled.

"That baby is so cute he makes his grandmother look like a kidnapper," joked Bob.

BRING BACK MEMORIES

As we drove on, Hope glanced down a side street.

"I can remember being broke in every street here," he recalled.

"The warmest feeling I have gotten out of success is being able to sit down and write a cheque to help someone else. If it's a great kid to anyone who ever had to fight for his bread.

ASKS ASYLUM

OTTAWA (CP)—The co - pilot of a Cuban airliner bound for Czechoslovakia left the plane during a refueling stop at Gander, Nfld., Wednesday and asked immigration authorities for permission to go to the United States. An immigration department announcement here identified the man as Jose Bernardo Nunez, 28, as unmarried Cuban national.

AT THE PARK — Mankind invades the world of inner space. A scene from the thriller "The Underwater City", in color starring William Lundigan and Juliet Adams and now showing at the Park Theatre. On the same program the first fabulous film about the Twist, the country's hottest, hippest, hip-shaking sensation "Twist Around the Clock", starring Chubby Checker, Dion, Vicki Spencer, The Marcels and Clay Cole. Both attractions are first Belleville and district showings.

324 Seek Golf Glory, Gold

Crosby Clam-Bake Opens

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) Bing Crosby's $50,000 pro-amateur golf tournament was set to open today with 324 players hunting for money or glory — or both.

Defending champion Bob Rosburg and the big field is in quest of the $5,500 top prize for the leading professional. Another $5,000 goes to the professional on the winning pro-amateur team. Crosby's format calls for each pro to have an amateur partner, with celebrities of entertainment, business and sports adding spice to the competition.

Al Johnston of Montreal and three Americans—Jim Bourne, Chick Martin and Bo Silverstone—qualified in a sudden-death playoff Wednesday for the last four spots in the field.

The field was split into three groups for today's opening round. One was to play Monterey Peninsula Country Club, another Cypress Point and the third at Pebble Beach. By Saturday night each will have played all three courses, with the low scorers continuing in Sunday's final at pebble beach.

All three courses are par 72. Most consider Monterey Peninsula to be the difficult since tall trees break the wind. Yet the foliage will cost strokes on erratic shots.

DATES SET

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—The Ontario speed skating championships will be held here Feb. 3, Joe Hulbers, coach of the St. Catharines Speed Skating Club, announced Wednesday.

AT THE BELLE — Handsome Tommy Sands stars as the young hero, Tom Piper, with Annette, teenage actress and recording artists in "Babes in Toyland", Walt Disney's first full-length live action Technicolor show for everyone, with the unforgettable music of the great composer Victor Herbert. "Babes in Toyland", is playing today, Friday and Saturday at the Belle Theatre, with an after-school 4.30 matinee on Friday and continuous showings on Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

TV—Radio Column

John Carson Disenchanted With the ABC Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Carson, nimble-witted master of ceremonies of the daytime show, Who Do You Trust? opened his program the other day by announcing sarcastically: "This is ABC, the network with a heart."

Carson is disenchanted with the network. He has been offered the job of Jack Paar's replacement when the king of the easy-going chat leaves his NBC show at the end of March. But Carson's contract for the ABC audience participation show runs to the end of September, and, in this setup, ABC is refusing to release him.

"I know it would be difficult for anybody to follow Paar," he said. "But I think that show is just about the last outpost of television where a free exchange of views and conversation and spontaneous comedy are possible."

Carson will take a vacation from his show next week, and his fill-in will be a Los Angeles TV personality, Bob Crane. Carson devoutly hopes Crane will do so well that ABC will change its corporate mind about releasing him.

Meanwhile, NBC is reported to be considering holding the permanent job open for Carson until October by using him frequently as host, hiring other personalities to hold the fort for a week or two at a time and also rerunning some "best of Paar" tapes.

LUCY MAY RETURN

There's a good chance Lucille Ball may be back on CBS next season starring in a new comedy series. That would be nice for the viewers, good for CBS and, perhaps, best of all for Desilu, the production company I Love Lucy built (and of which Lucille remains a vice - president despite her divorce from Desi Arnaz.) Desilu has been running into hard luck selling new series recently although its vast studio facilities are in great demand by other producers.

Recommended tonight:

The World of Jimmy Doolittle, NBC, 8:30-9:30 EST — As either is a series of biographical specials: CBS Reports, 10-11— The Fat American, about the national weight problem.

RIDERS SIGN LINEMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference have announced the signing of Bob Gusse, an offensive and defensive lineman from Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Indiana. Gusse is 26, six-foot-three and 250 pounds.

Martha Hyer Thinks Art Thief Collected Reward

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Did the art thief who stole a Renoir and a Utrillo from Martha Hyer's home finally collect a reward for returning them?

The pretty actress believes so and adds:

"And there seems to be little that can be done about it."

"Foolishly, I only insured them for what they cost. I know they're worth double that now."

She's buying the paintings back from the insurance company who had paid off before they were returned two years after the theft.

"I don't think any of my paintings (she says her collection of originals is valued at $500,000) will be stolen again.

She takes no pride in an elaborate burglar alarm system installed in her hilltop mansion plus the trouble that the thief had in trying to peddle the paintings.

KEPT INFORMED

"The amazing thing," says Martha, "is that the insurance company kept me posted all the time on where the paintings were. They installed all over Latin America but serious art collecting always a minor one! paintings are really for sale —

"Once we were afraid that one eccentric millionaire was going to keep paintings locked up just to look at them occasionally would buy them.

"Then a mysterious intermediary started making feelers around town. The paintings were offered to me at a fabulous cost. The insurance company advised me to turn down the offer.

"Finally, the intermediary turned them over to Hollywood police. There was nothing to do but pay him the standard 10 per cent reward—or $4,000. .

"The intermediary operated entirely within the law but we have no doubt that he was acting in behalf of the thief on a 50-50 basis."

Miss Hyer said the thief also took $40,000 worth of jewelf and mink in the robbery — but this loot has not been returned.

"We think he used what he got from them to finance his ill-fated travels to peddle the Utrillo and Renoir. Art crime does not pay."

GREAT ACTRESS

The American actress Cornelia Otis Skinner has written several books, including "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," "Family Circle" and "Nuts in May."

Astrological Forecast

For January 19
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Sparks could fly on the domestic front unless you take time to be considerate, reasonable, diplomatic. Tonight best for quiet relaxation rather than wild celebration. Go easy.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Aspects which represent obstacles to Aries today, apparently work in your favor. Tendency exists to view contracts, agreements through rose - colored glasses. Try to be practical.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Your Mercurial surlority could cause fascinating chain of events, in which you make vital discovery. On lesser level, odds favor your "finding" something. Visit friends tonight.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Mars opposing your Sun and transiting Moon could coincide with startling discoveries. Avoid those who celebrate excessively tonight. And don't believe everything you hear. Be calm.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Fortunately, you have imagination and showmanship and can meet creative challenges. There could be quite a few tonight and through the weekend. Tonight, be the leader . . . help make friends happy.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): Retrograde Pluto, in your sign, represents long-range cycle. But today you could feel desire to "start over." Use fine qualities of perception . . . then, if you decide, be willing to take vital step.

Libra (Sept 23 to Oct. 22): Moon at top part of your Solar chart urges you to bring out best in yourself. No halfway. Go all the way or nothing at all. If interest lags, change course. Don't try for easy way.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Vision is keyword. Peer into future prospects. No use being bogged down with scrapbook memories, with the past in general. Look to future. Act accordingly. Be original, independent.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Much attention to money matters indicated. Avoid quarrels within the home. Saving a dollar is not worth making an enemy. Let Sagittarian sense of fair play ride high.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Mars in position occupied by natal Sun warns against going at too high a speed. Take time to look around, to enjoy surroundings. Avoid superficial judgement. Haste today makes waste.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): If you take care of the small matters today . . . the big things will take care of themselves. Well-meaning friends could try to convince you all is in order. But you are advised to double-check.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Your ruling planet, Neptune, in Ninth sector, along with Moon in Solar Fifth, promises a glamorous evening. Much will be in your own mind; your imagination takes over. Relax and enjoy it!

* * *

If born today . . . much music in your soul. If you cannot personally perform, you are able to appreciate the artistry of others. And appreciation in itself can become a fine art, as witness some of the world's finest critics. October promises break from "rut" or routine.

* * *

General Tendencies: Day which sees opposing forces calling spade a spade. No time for beating around the bush. All signs urged to take care while travelling during weekend. Fine for dining out. But means more suited for gourmets than for steak-and-potatoes type!

5TH BELLEVILLE
LADIES' AUXILIARY

The January meeting of the 5th Belleville Ladies' Auxiliary was held at Queen Mary School with Mrs. Valleau presiding. Mrs. P. Gelsthorpe gave a report on her trip to Toronto where she attended a conference held by the Provincial Advisory Board for Auxiliaries, which proved most interesting.
All talent money must be in by the February meeting.
All members are urged to attend the February meeting as a discussion will be held regarding a father and son banquet.

Scouting activities

With ANNE M. McDONALD

The Boy Scout District Council had its January meeting at Christ Church with Mr. V. P. Pickering presiding. Roll call showed the following members present. Mr. Pickering, Mr. Walters, Mr. Hooper, Mrs. Gelsthorpe, Mrs. D. McDonald, Mr. Kennecy, Mr. Lancaster, Mr. A. Lewis, Mr. McIntosh, Mr. Owen, Mr. B. Thompson and Mr. M. Maw. Group representated were from 1st, 4th, 9th, 11th, 15th, 16th, and 7th Avondale.

District Commissioner Murray Maw reported three appointments for leaders, Peter Murray 1st SM, Gilbert Campbell 1st SM and Faye Kline 17th "B" pack ACM.

A Troop Scouters Training Course is to take place at Christ Church on February 15-16. It was also decided to combine the training and advisory committees, to be headed by Mr. F. Lancaster. An explained course for Committeemen will be held in March and directed by F. Lancaster.

Scout Week will be held from February 18th to 25th and Scout Sunday on February 25.

Mrs. P. Gelsthorpe reported on the various Ladies' Auxiliaries activities, and Mr. G. McIntosh, chairman of the badge committee, also gave a report.

Mr. Murray Maw read correspondence from Mr. L. Wilcox notifying the Belleville District Council that a group of Scouts from the United States are interested in exchange camping over a two-year period; one year in Canada and the next in the United States.

It was announced that the new Provincial Commissioner is Lew Griffith.

Mr. F. Lancaster gave a lengthy finance report and a proposed budget for the coming year.

The Scouter Club will meet at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle Street on January 30th at 8:30 p.m.

LADIES' AUXILIARY
17th BELLEVILLE

The Ladies' Auxiliary of 17th Belleville 8th and Scout organization held its January meeting at Eastminster United Church with the president, Mrs. J. Barton, in the chair.

Plans were completed for the coffee party and bake sale to be held in the church on January 17, from 9.30 a.m. to 11.30 a.m.

Demorestville

Mr. W. Kingsley, spent the Sunday dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rutley.

Mrs. Florence Anderson, is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solder, Sherbot Lake.

Mrs. Myrtle Howard and Donna were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rutley.

Sorry to report Mrs. W. Kingsley is confined to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital.

Also Roy Covert is a patient in Picton Edward County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rutley and family of Picton were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Holmes.

Pleased to report that Jack Anderson who is a patient in Picton General Hospital, is improving at time of writing.

New Dominican Junta Seen as General's Tool

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Dominican Republic's new junta clamped tight restrictions on the country today with a series of sweeping decrees designed to stifle opposition to military rule, armed overthrow of Senhe Domingo.

Roberto Bogaert, a civilian official of the Trujillo era, was named to head the junta of four civilians and three military men that deposed the 16-day all-civilian council of state Tuesday night.

But authoritative reports filtering through the strict Dominican censorship said the real strongman is the armed forces chief of staff, Brig.-Gen. Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria.

BUSY SAMOAN HARBOR — A ship stands off shore from Apia, capital of Western Samoa, to load copra, one of the chief exports along with cocoa and bananas from the South Pacific island state. Most of the exports go to New Zealand which administered the territory as a mandate and then a United Nations trusteeship after the war. Western Samoa was a former German colony. It won its independence this year. (CP Photo).

SAMOA COURT SESSION — This is the land and titles court of Western Samoa in session. Private and public law in the Pacific island territory is based on the British system with modifications reflecting local conditions. Land courts follow the tradition of ownership and inheritance. Formerly a New Zealand trusteeship, Western Samoa was granted independence January 1. (CP Photo).

Successful Living

Did She Marry a Coward?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I think I have either married a coward or he just doesn't care about me any more.

There has been more than one time he has had a chance to speak up for me, but instead he sides with the other people, always against me.

We have two little boys and I was close to death with them both, but it certainly didn't seem to worry him. There have been other times he should have stood up for me, especially the time I broke my arm. I really believe he blamed me for it.

I love him very much and don't want to leave him, but how much can you stand? You like to think you have a bit of protection anyway, especially from your husband. — BAD NERVES.

DEAR BAD NERVES:—Do you champion him? Perhaps both of you are at fault in failing to express love for each other. Affection and friendly words can help love grow.

It's time you had a talk, not about your husband, but with him. Ask for his interest and protection as a return the favor so that there is no mistaking it.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO WISH I KNEW:—If a boy takes you out, it is a fair bet that he likes you. Invite him to the party—and start liking him "as a friend." This is the best kind of liking anyway.

(Have you asked Doris about what's troubling you? Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

TWEED

Municipal Bldg. Addition Approved

TWEED — Approval was received from the Ontario Municipal Board last week for the $40,000 addition to the Tweed Municipal Building, to be leased to the Department of Lands and Forests.

Approval has also been received from the Federal Government for the work to be classified under the Winter Works Program by which 75 percent of the labor costs will be borne by the government, until April 30th at least.

The 40'x28' addition will be built on land purchased from Mrs. Teresa Quinn, located between the present Municipal Building and Victoria Theatre. It will be a two-storey structure, wholly occupied by Forestry department staff, except some space in the basement to be used for the storage of municipal files. A complete new heating plant will be necessary to serve the annex.

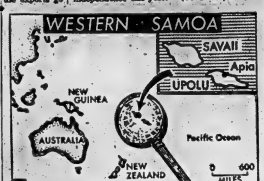
The exterior will be finished to blend with the stucco of the present structure.

The Department of Lands and Forests will install its own lighting fixtures, partitions and counters. It is expected that Pat Whalen of Stoco, to whom the contract has been awarded, will have his man commence work almost immediately, with the demolition of garages and storage space on the site.

According to village Clerk C. D. C. Morton, there will be no noticeable increase in the tax rate to cover the cost of the new building. "It could be about two mills considering the additional rental which will be forthcoming," he stated.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Several from Wallbridge appointment attended the inaugural service of the new organization known as the United Church Women which was held at the Stone Church appointment last Sunday.



The following officers for Wallbridge were installed: president, Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson; vice-president, Mrs. Percy Phillips and vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Carleton; secretary, Mrs. Allan Spencer and treasurer, Mrs. Don Shorey.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Shorey of Belleville spent Thursday of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Striker and Mr. and Mrs. George Moore were callers Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs Lyons, who recently moved onto the farm of Mr. Miller Hicks, have moved back to Belleville.

Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langabeer, Miss Marilyn Langabeer and friend, of Belleville.

GRANTED INDEPENDENCE — Western Samoa, a trusteeship territory in the South Pacific for many years administered by New Zealand, became independent January 1. Winds of Change Penetrate Isles of the South Pacific; Samoa Given Independence

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The winds of change have penetrated even the idyllic isles of the South Pacific.

A landmark in the political development of this wide region was reached Jan. 1 when the first island group became an independent sovereign nation.

This was the tropical island territory of Western Samoa, hitherto a trusteeship under the administration of New Zealand. It now controls its own affairs.

Samoa is the first fully independent Polynesian country of recent times. The only existing one enjoying a substantial degree of independence is nearby Tonga, ruled by Queen Salote Tonga, although a self-governing kingdom in most respects, is under British protection and certain external responsibilities are reserved by Britain. Western Samoa enjoys a greater degree of independence.

Western Samoa lies to the northeast of New Zealand in 13 to 15 degrees south latitude. It consists of four islands totalling 1,000 square miles. The population of 113,500—mainly brown-skinned Polynesians—is increasing rapidly and is expected to reach 155,000 by 1975.

U.S. OVERSEER

The eastern section of the island group was not involved in the grant of independence. Known as American Samoa, it is administered as a dependency of the United States.

There was much anxiety, covering 76 square miles with a population of 20,154.

The islands of Western Samoa were a German colony until occupied by New Zealand forces at the outbreak of the First World War. New Zealand administered the territory as a mandate and then as a United Nations trusteeship.

Since 1947, Western Samoa has been painstakingly prepared for independence under a program of progressively greater responsibility for the local inhabitants. Self-government was granted in 1959 and the final New Zealand powers were transferred Jan. 1.

Western Samoa is likely to remain within the Commonwealth and to sign a treaty of friendship with New Zealand. However, it does not plan to apply for admission to the UN for the time being.

The post of head of state will be shared for the present between the heads of two leading families — Tupua Tamasese Mea'ole and Malietoa Tanumafili II. The prime minister is Fiame Mata'afa F. M.H.

ELECTIVE SYSTEM

The main voting rights for the present will be held by matais, or chiefs of family groups. The arrangement has been criticized as undemocratic, but matais are themselves chosen by families, so that an elective system in fact prevails.

The arrangement was judged the only way to create a parliamentary system of government without violating traditional Samoan customs and forms of society. It was overwhelmingly approved at a plebiscite of the whole adult population.

The Samoans still face many problems, including a shortage of trained administrators and an economy dependent on a narrow range of tropical agriculture. But the new nation is assured of strong support from New Zealand. Independence has been attained with a high degree of harmony and good will on both sides.

Liberals Win Three Of Five Byelections

Take One Seat From PCs, Make Gains In Others

New Democratic Party Third in All Ridings

By FRED CHASE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Liberals took one seat from the Progressive Conservatives in five Ontario byelections Thursday, strengthened their hold on two others and put up a powerful battle in two ridings held by the Conservative government.

The opposition won Renfrew South, Conservative since 1945, by a razor-thin margin in contention when the returning officer Sirq declared the PC candidate elected.

The switch came shortly after 1 a.m. today when returning officer John P. Findlay said an error had been discovered in the tabulation. He announced Liberal Leonard Quilty, previously declared beaten by Conservative Colin McIlveen by 20 votes, actually was the winner with a 135-vote margin.

Brant, a Liberal stronghold, remained in the fold by a landslide and in Kenora the party's slim majority in the 1959 general election was increased substantially.

WILL ASK RECOUNTS

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer, Malton at the time of declared recounts will be requested in the two ridings of Beaches and Eglinton which the Conservatives retained in close races.

The New Democratic Party, contesting its first Ontario elections since the CCF was ousted last summer by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress, ran third in all ridings and produced a serious contender only in Beaches, where 6,000 votes separated the winning Conservative from the NDP candidate.

New Democrats ran a close second in Renfrew South, Liberal in Brant, Eglinton and in Kenora the party's slim majority in the 1959 general election when the returning officer Sirq declared the PC candidate elected

With indications pointing to a council decision on their request for permission to withdraw from the Centre Hastings High School Area, the village of Tweed and the township of Hungerford now appear willing to compromise.

Following a four-hour discussion Thursday, council was prepared to vote today on whether the two municipalities would be allowed out of the area.

But as the county fathers opened their session this morning Tweed Reeve Douglas Spencer asked that the vote be deferred until the special February session to allow time for a compromise to be effected.

Council voted unanimously to lay the matter over until February when councillors are being asked whether or not they want to attend a two-day session.

There was no indication given at this morning's session to give an idea what sort of a compromise Tweed might come up with, but yesterday speakers representing the Centre Hastings High School Area cited some figures offered by Department of Education officials.

These were either "council's denial" that Tweed and Hungerford request, or that the two municipalities make a written guarantee to support the technical school addition proposed to be built at the Madoc High School.

The proposed erection of the Madoc technical school project is the request late last year for withdrawal from the area.

WANTED AUTONOMY

Also they wanted local autonomy enabling them to have their own board and operate their own school.

The withdrawal request was before the county fathers at their December session at which the prop and cons of the issue were given by speakers representing both sides.

Council declined to make a decision at that December session and referred the issue to the January inaugural meeting.

In the meantime a referendum vote in Tweed and Hungerford showed ratepayers were over 90 per cent in favor of withdrawal.

Last week board officials and municipal representatives were called to Toronto to discuss the withdrawal issue with the department of Education officials.

At that time Department officials warned that the proposed withdrawal of Tweed and Hungerford from the area would kill the possibility of a technical school at Madoc unless the two municipalities could give some guarantee to support the school by the attendance of pupils from their area.

Y's Men Lease Day Camp Site For 20 Years

The youth of Belleville were assured of its facilities of the YMCA Oak Lake Day Camp for another 20 years with the signing of a new lease yesterday evening at the Y's Men's Club weekly meeting.

The lease not only provides for the further use of the current camp grounds but also covers an additional 25-acre site which can be used in the winter for skiing.

Prior to signing the lease Mr. Harold Deller, the property owner, gave a brief address outlining the history of the property from the time, in 1920, that a large tent was erected to accommodate revivalist meetings. Later a cottage known as the "Tabernacle," was erected on the property and in 1941 the United Church commenced operation of a boys camp at Summer school. Following the close of this operation the Y Men's Club of Belleville leased the property to provide the local "Y" with a Day Camp facilities.

Numerous projects are now planned by the Y's Men to improve and modernize the property and facilities. Chairman Bill Preston of the Y Men's camp committee chairman Bill Preston of the Y Men's camp committee required extensive work in clearing out dead wood and muck and initiating some form of weed control in order to control the growth of undesirable vegetations to some of the buildings, including wiring and checking the foundations, are also planned.

The old church building is to be torn down and parking facilities are to be provided in its place. A new section of a large sign in order to direct people to the Day Camp is also on the agenda for this year.

Camp director Dennis Jolliffe reminded the members and people using the Day Camp, during both the summer and winter, to the Y's Men for providing the site and making improvements to the property.

'Microwave Circuits' Topic At IRE Meet

The January meeting of the Institute of Radio Engineers (IRE) section on Wednesday night when Mr. John H. Craven of the National Research Council gave a talk on "Printed Microwave Circuits."

Mr. Craven described the application of printed circuit technique to microwave applications. The simplicity of design of these printed circuit elements and their ease of construction by comparison to waveguide circuitry will undoubtedly result in wide use in the future.

Several printed circuit filters were demonstrated and the manufacturing technique was carefully described by Mr. Craven.

The next meeting of the I.R.E. will be ladies' night on February 21st, at Albert College. At this meeting Mr. Smith from the Department of Transport will discuss the investigation of Flying Saucers.

Roads By-Law Up $5,000 Over Last Year

A roads by-law calling for an expenditure of $375,000 on county roads and bridges during 1962, will be approved by members of Hastings county council before being adjourned their inaugural session today.

This is $75,000 more than the regular roads by-law which has been recommended by the roads and bridges committee. Of this amount $275,000 would be for maintenance and $100,000 for construction.

Of the above amount subsidized roads would take $251,000, it was stated.

Roads and Bridges committee chairman Reeve Elmer Wilson of Huntingdon read the committee report recommending the proposed expenditures for the year, noting that the amount was up $3,000 over 1961. The minimum requirement for roads maintenance was fixed by county engineer Larry Langlois to be $195,200.

Overhead and fixed charges were estimated at $23,000 with wage rebates, $13,000, $18,000 for machinery rentals and $6,800 for the purchase of new machinery.

WILL BUY RIGHTS

A supplementary roads by-law providing funds for additional construction and the purchase of two sections of right-of-way for the Madoc-Foxboro deviation of highway 62 is expected to be passed later in the year.

Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings East, addressed council asking that the request for the third phase of the Madoc road building program, be purchased this year. He said this would greatly facilitate the construction program.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., for Hastings West, told council that he also felt the third phase of the Madoc road as it was the direct route to the northern end of the county.

The Madoc road is being rebuilt under the Department of Highways road development program under which the Department pays all construction costs and completion turns it back to the county for maintenance. During 1962 the county pays the costs of purchasing the required additional right-of-way and also the cost of fencing.

J. N. Yanover Chairs Meeting At Hospital

The need for increased hospital facilities at the Belleville General Hospital was discussed last night by a special committee composed of representatives from both sides of the bay in Belleville, the county of Hastings, and members of the hospital board of governors.

The meeting took the form of a dinner meeting which was chaired by hospital board chairman J. N Yanover.

Mr. Yanover outlined the need for an additional 200 to 250 hospital beds at Belleville.

BIGGER PENSIONS

now appointed for life to the $10,000-a-year posts.

Two other parliamentary reform steps were spelled out more clearly.

An independent commission will be set up to take over the job of recommending redistribution of Commons constituencies, done every 10 years by a politically-loaded House committee heretofore. The throne speech said the commission "will assume the job as done "in an equitable manner upon an objective basis."

STUDY CLOSURE

A special Commons committee will be instructed to draft proposals to eliminate the closure rule in Commons debate—a controversial rule last used by the former Liberal government to force through unwelcome 1956 pipeline battle in the Commons.

The usual pomp and pageantry marked the session opening at Gen. Vanier-Chamber by brute instead of horse - drawn carriage because of blustery cold weather. Prior to Parliament to read the throne speech in the Senate chamber.

Soon after reading the opposition parties served notice they'll provide plenty of fireworks in the session.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson and NDP-ND Leader Hazen Argue, who will open the eight-day throne speech debate today, filed unused statements describing the government's program is disappointing.

In the Commons, the CCF NDP leader will open on the appointment of Paul Martineau PC-Pontiac - Temiscamingue as deputy Speaker-Chairman. Parliament carried 179 to 9. Mr. Argue said his group's opposition was nothing personal but was meant as a protest against the government using the deputy Speaker's post as a stepping stone to the cabinet.

Election of Deputy Speakers in the current Parliament elected in 1958 have made that stepping stone. Two have been Speaker Sevigny and Mines Ministry Flynn.

WILL MOVE, SECOND

Today the Commons is occupied mainly with a formality — the Throne Speech debate — the reply to the speech from the throne. This will be done in speeches by Rodrigue Bourdages PC — Montreal Laval and Stanley Knowles of Vancouver Kingsway.

Overlooked during the debate will be set aside while the Commons tackles the first two items of business — introduction — the Prairie acreage payments and this year's guaranteed income payments for municipal winter works projects.

The throne speech said this winter works program will be larger than in 1961.

In the field of national development, the government announced yesterday discussions with the provinces on steps which Ottawa will be taken to set up an interprovincial power grid.

The throne speech indicated no change in the government's policy of building a highway subject expected to be one of the hottest of the session.

The bill will be the provision of more funds to continue the construction of government financing for capital goods exports.

The program of government guarantees for loans to small businesses, begun only a year ago, will be increased in scope, and increased incentives are promised for scientific research by industry.

The throne speech promised "a... package of measures that will constitute further steps in working out the purposes of co-ordination and identity more clearly the Canadian partnership in all aspects of public and business affairs."

The government, except to say that one of the measures will implement — "with modification" — the proposals of the royal commission on publications. Two of these proposals would make it more expensive for Canadian firms to advertise in foreign publications sold in Canada and would bar entry to foreign magazines containing Canadian advertisements aimed at the Canadian market.

On the issue of constitutional amendment "progress" was reported in efforts to get provincial agreement on methods of carrying out amendments in Canada without having to go to the British Parliament. But there was no indication of a solution during this year.

The dwindling unemployment insurance fund will be replenished by the treasury pending receipt of a report from a special fourman committee of inquiry studying the fund's operations.

Several items of international legislation are proposed, including one which would extend war veterans' allowances to merchant seamen, firefighters, foresters and other civilians with overseas war service.

Another would increase education allowances paid to the children of war dead. Others will add time extensions to three veterans statutes expiring next April. 30—the War Services Grants Act, Veterans Land Act and Veterans Insurance Act.

WILFRED CARTER, VETERAN TAXI DRIVER, KILLED

Carter died when his taxi-cab was struck by the Canadian Pacific Railway freight train at the Herchimer Avenue cross-ing shortly after three o'clock. He had been delivering a fare in the area and was returning when the tragedy occurred.

The car was completely demolished by the force of impact. The wreckage and Carter's body, thrown clear, were found 37 feet west of the crossing. The car's engine was discovered fifty feet from the scene of the accident.

Police Inspector Clare Hayes, who headed a squad of investigating city police, said the weather was clear and cold. Visibility was good. The train was going at an open one.

The crash held up the 47-car freight for over an hour. Three other CPR trains were delayed by the accident.

NURST. — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Agnes E. Nurst, who passed away January 19th, 1960.
A wonderful mother, woman and friend.
Why she left us.
A loving mother, so loyal and true,
One in a Million — mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved your fellowmen, as we know you did.
—Sadly missed mother — mother was you.
—Ever remembered by son Ted, daughter-in-law Marilyn, grandaughter Karen.

NURST. — In ever loving memory of a dear sister and daughter, Agnes, who passed away January 19th, 1960.

LODA Presents Brief Protesting Service Centres

The Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Highways, received yesterday a delegation from the LODA (Ontario Motorists Association) who presented a brief protesting the establishing of service centres on Highway 401 east of Toronto.

The delegation welcomed this opportunity of explaining the Department's policy in this matter. They expressed their conviction to provide services on this highway by commercial enterprise very strong conviction of the motoring public that services should be left to free enterprise.

The Minister pointed out that the Department's policy regarding the establishment of these service centres has been based on the principle to afford access as little as possible the existing establishments, and at the same time, to provide a minimum of services necessary for the safety and comfort of the motoring public.

Mr. Goodfellow promised to give sympathetic and sympathetic consideration to the erection of private service stations to provide the motoring public, particularly tourists, of the existing standard necessities providing food, fuel and accommodation on those sections of Highway No. 2 by-passed by Highway 401.

The Minister also felt that there was much merit in the proposal to develop publicity through Ontario Highway No. 2 as the Lake Ontario Scenic Route. This proposal will receive the combined consideration of all interested Government departments.

It is felt that the Minister's meeting with this delegation was done much to provide a clearer understanding of the Government's policy, and to assure the people represented by this Association, that the Government is interested in their future and is willing to assist them in every way possible.

Survival Course Group Visited By Brigadier

Brigadier A. J. B. Bailey, DSO, OBE, ED, CD., Eastern Ontario area commanding officer, made his initial informal inspection of the second special staff training project recently being conducted at the Belleville Armouries by Edward Regimental Armouries. He was replacing from Camp Borden Brigadier Bailey, inspector of a special course being held there for the Army Cadet Leadership the first special militia training course held in November and December of last year.

Brigadier Bailey said that an increasingly number of inquiries were showing an interest in the course and that close to 100 per cent of the almost 2,100 persons enlisted in the second course were men in their 'teens 20's or early 30's.

He also commented on the extraordinary esprit de corps, pride and citing several instances where candidates were travelling long distances in order to take the course.

To date training has progressed farther than it had during the first course at this period, the present week of the course, Brigadier Bailey attributed this to the lessons of the recruits and the experience gained by the instructors, on the first course.

The inspecting officer discounted the theory that the program was becoming a rifle measure for the unemployed.

Choral Soc. Invites More Tenors

The Belleville Choral Society is busy this season preparing Part II of Mendelssohn's Elijah for presentation on April 9th.

On April 16th, 1847, the great Dr. Mendelssohn himself conducted the second performance of the newly, composed Oratorio. It was performed by the Sacred Harmonic Society in Exeter Hall in London. Following the performance, he wrote to his brother: "The two thousand people in the Exeter hall, the choir and the large orchestra were all so intent on the one object in question, that not the slightest sound was to be heard among the whole audience."

This season the Choral Society is to be joined by a children's choir of approximately 50 voices in the beautifully written eight-part anthem, "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord God." The children will also join the ladies of the senior choir in the greatly famous chorus for them, "Lift Thine Eyes."

Any musically inclined would enjoy working with this fine group for the next two months as there is still room in each section.

Secretary, Miss L. McDougall, WO 2-0340. Rehearsals are held each Monday at 8:00 p.m. If visiting tenor, the choir needs you.

Require Outside Customers To Support Annexation as Condition of Water Supply

Persons living outside Trenton's boundaries will be supplied with water under the following conditions, that they pay approved rural rates for the service; that they live in an area subject as part of a registered sub-division; that the sub-division meets the property of the PUC one year after installation.

Those now covering these points was passed as yesterday's meeting of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission.

Other stipulations, laid down by the commission, indicate the property owners that water will be supplied only when line extensions of water within the corporation; i.e., Trenton users themselves, that the commission reserves the right to cut off the water supply on 30-day written notice (a seven-day notice, in the case of emergency) and that the user must agree, in writing, not to take any legal action against the commission should the supply be cut off.

Each new owner of the serviced property will be required to agree to the terms of the by-law.

Delegations called on to install the new officers and also moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the officers and members to Mrs. Jeffs for her leadership and guidance during the past successful year, after which she presented Mrs. Jeffs with a lovely mirror.

George Kempf New President Of Chamber

TRENTON — George Kempf 1961 vice-president of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, was appointed to fill out the 1961-62 term of office of president Harold Pearse at Wednesday night's emergency meeting of the executive following his resignation. Kempf will serve as vice-president until March '31 of this year. A general election will be held shortly after that date.

Mr. Kempf, who is the vice-president and general manager of Erie Resistor of Canada, Ltd., has taken a keen interest in the community affairs since moving to Trenton from Erie, Pa., a few years ago. In characteristic fashion he immediately became active on the local group of the Red Cross.

Douglas Whitley has been appointed to enroll associate members in the chamber membership does are due as of January 1st of the current year and will run through until Dec. 31. Members joining in July will be asked to pay six months dues only.

V. P. Carswell Tells Kiwanis About Britain

TRENTON — Speaker at Thursday night's meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club was V. P. Carswell, supervising principal of Trenton's public schools.

Mr. Carswell was introduced by Ted Parker, who said that the speaker had come to Trenton in 1908 and that he had become one of the principal College Street School in 1924 and remained in this position until 1950, when he took over as supervising principal, a position he held until July 1961. Mr. Carswell also served as the secretary-treasurer of the Trenton Board of Education. In July, he resigned from the post of secretary - treasurer - and will continue with his supervising duties.

Mr. Carswell told the Kiwanians of a recent trip to England and Scotland, illustrating his address by colored slides.

He said that the land which had impressed him in England was the pride in the countryside, handed down over many generations.

Mr. Carswell said that there was a certain air of complacency and a lack of hurry and worry, about an Englishman. In England, one finds no screaming children, no blowing of horns, no war or fallout shelters.

"What's he will be," says the Englishman, going about his affairs in a calm, unruffled manner.

The speaker was thanked by Paul Hogg.

George Coling, Brighton, Meets Road Minister

An official of the Lake Ontario Development Association has been authorized by the organization to make to the Minister of Highways regarding service roads on the Highway now under construction in the vicinity of Zone Two of the Association.

The delegation, headed by Mr. George Coling of Brighton on behalf of the Development Association of Zone Two, requested Mr. Goodfellow to consider the possibility of more signs on 401 Highway to direct the travelling public to tourist areas near 401 and north of 401 Highway.

Discussion took place with regard to a tourist information centre and the Development Association offered to staff the information booths which are expected to be placed in the near future, and centres, this is under consideration by Mr. Goodfellow's Department.

plete the plans which my administration has under way for assuring greater progress and prosperity for the people of this province."

Reaction to the New Democratic victory was mixed.

Premier Hon. Donald MacDonald, regretting the close defeat in Hamilton, said that his colleagues hoped to build from the foundations it had established.

Hazen Argue, CCF leader of the CCF - NDP group in the Commons, termed the results a "keen disappointment" except for Beaches. He added:

"It would seem that even in Canada's largest industrial province, labor has shown little inclination to support a labor party."

The new members elected:

Progressive Conservative — Leonard Reilly, 49-year-old businessman; 183-vote victor over Liberal Jean Newman in Eglinton where Remcon Martin of Liberal fame was defeated; Ross Baird; and John Harris, 43, a sales manager, who held Bracondale by 264 votes; Liberal Donald MacGregor and 404 over the NDP's Fleming candidate, Stanley Bullock.

Liberal — Robert Nixon, 33, son of Liberal Leader Hon. Harry Nixon who in 1943 became Premier with a majority in defeating Conservative Garnet Brown and Robert Good of the NDP in Brant; Robert Gibson, 30-year-old lawyer, who defeated Conservative Pete Robinson and NDP candidate Emile Blouin in Kenora; and Mr. Gulley, whose group in chamber activities, Emergency office has been set up in the Bank of Nova Scotia building. Nostrand Sprague will carry on the work of the local group at this location.

Douglas Whitley has been appointed to enroll associate members in the chamber membership does are due as of January 1st of the current year and will run through until Dec. 31. Members joining in July will be asked to pay six months dues only.

New Democrats hit hard at health insurance, claiming the defeat of the Argue spirits showed any signs of bringing it to Ontario.

Traffic Survey Report Arrives; Studies Planned

TRENTON — Town engineer Eric Alderney said yesterday that a report of the traffic survey, recently conducted in Trenton by H. D. Margison and Associates, traffic consultants, had arrived in the town office.

The recommendations made by the consultants will be studied by the engineering department, the traffic committee, and the public works committee of council before being presented to council as a whole for approval.

Mayor MacDonald has indicated that the consultants have been requested to come to Trenton. While the provincial and federal governments might be expected, to ben. a fairly large part of the cost of the bridge, the town itself would have to find the money to pay the remaining costs. This would, in effect, mean that a number of items included in a five-year capital spending plan, approved by the 1961 council might have to be postponed.

As of Dec. 31, 1961, Trenton's debenture debt stood at a shade under two million dollars, with sinking fund assets still owing for the sewage treatment plant and an additional $150,000 owing in connection with Champlain Heights development. The town's total indebtedness stands at over two and a half million dollars.

In addition to the 1962 budget requirements of council's various committees, estimates submitted by other civic bodies and annual grants must be considered.

With such weighty matters in mind, the members of Trenton council voted this week to hold only two sessions each month for the next three months.

Pole on Truck Hits Windshield

TRENTON — Alfred English, 21, of 1 Heber St. in Trenton Wednesday morning at quarter-day afternoon when the windshield of the panel truck he was driving was struck by a loose ridge pole from a passing tractor-trailer truck, driven by Thomas Earl Chard, 41, of 86 Leopold St. Damage to the panel truck was estimated at $350.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Dundas Street with Dundas St. West, around 2.00 p.m.

But No Radical

M. J. Coldwell, former leader of the CCF, was honored at a testimonial luncheon in Ottawa Saturday.

A report by James Nelson of The Canadian Press describes Mr. Coldwell as a man from a family with a staunchly conservative background who came from Devon to Canada and became "a radical — a man with a mission."

A man with a mission Mr. Coldwell was and is—but it is doubtful whether he was ever truly a radical. Some of the policies he advocated might be termed radical, but his temperament did not match them. Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal and a staunch Conservative, called him one of the dozen really distinguished parliamentarians he had observed in 51 years as an Ottawa journalist. It was typical of the man that one of the few times he lost his temper was when, during the pipeline debate, he considered the rules of the House were being flaunted. Then he stalked down the aisle to shake his fist at Mr. Speaker. The plight of the hungry and down-trodden touched his heart, but did not stir him to such anger as did what he considered an outrage to parliamentary principles. This was his strength—it enabled him to win the respect and confidence of political foes and on this basis influence their policies. But it was also his weakness. Mr. Coldwell was never a rabble-rouser. During the thirties there was a ready-made "rabble," many of its members, courageous, intelligent and vigorous, waiting to be roused, to be led. Mr. Coldwell's intellect was equal to the task—but his blood was not. He had courage, but it was the type which enables a man to wait patiently, rather than driving him to ire and desperation. Canada may be the stronger for that fact—but not his party.

Mr. Coldwell would have made an excellent leader of a reform party; the role of the radical, in which he cast himself, was contrary to his temperament, and, in the end, he has emerged true to himself, respected, instead of hated, by his political adversaries.

Whether this be judged success or failure depends, once again, on temperament, the temperament of the judge.

A Strange Morality

In view of the world population problem—the number of people in Latin America, for instance, is expected to triple in the next thirty years—it is natural that there should be much advocacy of the widespread distribution of information on methods of birth control, while some countries, notably Japan, have legalized abortions.

Adherents of several religions, however, disapprove not only of abortions but also of the use of contraceptive devices.

Most of us, we suspect, presume that this opposition to birth control is based on a belief that the unconceived babe, as well as the unborn child, has a right to enjoy the God-given gift of life.

That this is not the sole argument against birth control, or that this argument is woefully distorted and inadequate, is revealed by a letter which appeared in the Toronto Star.

"The controversy over birth control boils down to a question of morality," he writes.

With that statement there can be no quarrel. But is the writer concerned primarily with the right of the unconceived to life, or the right of the living to sufficiency of space and food? He is not. These are not the moral issues which trouble him.

"I contend," he writes, "that any relationship between husband and wife has only one justification, to bear offspring. If we think it is to be anything but that, surely we cannot call ourselves humans, but must consider ourselves animals." I also contend that for any husband and wife to come to their spouse with any ideas outside the main fulfilment of man and wife, which is to reproduce, is lewd, salacious, and an insult to the honor and integrity of that individual, also an insult to our Creator."

This view may not make animals of men and women—but it comes shockingly close to turning them into nothing more than baby-making machines. Aside from the fact that this is a denial of purity on right of knight but the frigid, by what dispensation has a couple the right, a pledge to love and honor one another still warm on their lips, to shed any ideas except that of procreation as soon as they approach the marriage bed for the first time? Praise be, most of us were conceived in the hot blood of humanity, rather than the cold and hard, "morality" of this writer.

We Are What We Read

Edmonton Journal

He recalls the HOO of Seth Schliemann, who, when a boy in Germany, read how to find the greatest stories ever written—the Iliad and the Iliad of Homer. (You can buy them today in pocket editions for less than a dollar apiece.)

Schliemann later learned Greek and could recite every verse of those Greek classics by heart. He never forgot them.

He made a fortune in business and then, at the age of 41, he retired from business and dedicated the rest of his life to discovering the site of ancient Troy.

* * *

At that time, in the 19th century, some persons and authorities doubted whether Troy had ever existed. Heinrich Schliemann never doubted — and he was right.

He found Troy, and other cities of the past, buried beneath the dust of ages, and thus he became one of the founders of archaeology — the art and science of digging up the remains of the earth thousands of years of human civilization.

* * *

Alious Huxley tells another story, equally to the point, of a deprived of the books he loved. It ended in tragedy.

The boy Guido, aged six, was the son of Italian peasants.

He became fascinated with the Huxley's little boy when they were living in Italy.

Guido had not yet been taught to read, but one day Mr. Huxley watched in utter astonishment as Guido demonstrated and proved with diagrams drawn in the dirt, to the complete boredom and annoyance of little Aldous Huxley, who wanted to play a more interesting game, the celebrated theorem of Pythagoras about the relation between the sides of a right-angled triangle.

Mr. Huxley thereupon began teaching Guido to read, and teaching him mathematics. Naturally, Mr. Huxley recalls, he only needed to hint at the mathematics; Guido's natural genius for the subject did the rest.

* * *

A boy of six, barely able to read, displaying the first dawning of the subject that is the terror of many school children: there was genius there, and truly extraordinary talent for mathematics is clear that, as many other cases show.

After the Huxley's went to live in Switzerland, Guido fell into the hands of a greedy and ignorant woman who thought to exploit his talent for money.

He was not allowed to read books, and, overwhelmed by despair, he sent a letter to Mr. Huxley; but it was poorly addressed and was lost or delayed in transit.

Guido, who might have become one of the mathematical geniuses of the age, fell into a mode of utter despair and ended himself.

The penalizement of the mind like the nourishment of the body, is essential to life.

Commission Is Ignored

Sennarville Tribune

Many Canadians must wonder what is the use of appointing royal commissions and paying the considerable cost they entail when the government pays no attention to the recommendations they make.

The MacPherson royal commission on transportation recommended the discontinuance of free passes on railways except for company employees and their immediate families.

Not only has the government neglected to make the necessary amendments to the Railways Act, Transport Minister Balcer has announced free rail transportation now is restored to writers, firemen and dependents of members of parliament.

Irritating Pinprick

A senior official of the Quebec government says that on a recent visit to the Canadian embassy in Paris he was received "like a long-lost friend. I could not speak or understand one word of French. He is not bilingual either, but he is very polished.

Pinpricks like this, each trivial in itself, must irritate our Quebec compatriots. Added together, they could be a big argument for a political movement. Having invested a lot in Paris, embassy inside to speak French is carelessness that ought to be avoided.

Samoa Now Independent

Manchester Guardian

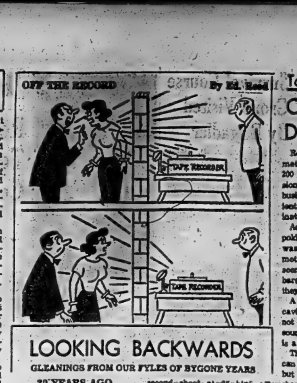
The number of former British dominions and colonies which enjoy independence is now considerable. Not until last week, however, has another eighty been transferred from Manchester administration century to a smaller nation. New Zealand had administered Western Samoa for more than 40 years under mandate from the League of Nations. It had been a benevolent, if paternal, Wellington could have forseen earlier than it did that one day would one day ask for freedom. In the last few years there has been a rise in the pressure for Independence Day, and not enough time has been given the training of men who will now be taking over the administration.

It is as well that New Zealand has undertaken to give special help over the transition, for something more than a friendly wish may be required here. Samoa's economy is precariously dependent upon the production of copra, cocoa and bananas; much of its cultivable land is overworked; more unsafe government officials of a country with a distinguished record in agriculture will be invaluable in the years ahead.

Samoa's population is now small, but it is increasing faster than any other and unlikely to be sustained much longer by the productivity of its land. Prime Minister Fiame Mata'afa and his colleagues would be well advised to reconsider their attitude to the tourist trade, which they have so far done little to discourage. However reasonable their reluctance to see Apia turned into a second Papeete, the cold fact is that neglected tourist trade will soon jump at the chance to include it in their Pacific itinerary and would make a considerable contribution to the national income. Samoans, moreover, tend to apply themselves to these domestic matters before they ask for self-government or seek any other trappings of their new status. Everyone will be better off if they can continue with the processes of the British Independent Polynesian nation with the proud concern which has hitherto been the prerogative of London.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS



HAVE WE LOST OUR SENSES?

One of the most incomprehensible facts of history is the cruelty which men have inflicted on one another. By various forms of even the most horrible pagan deity could exceed the cruelty with which men have sometimes treated their fellows.

Most disconcerting of all is the realization that we have come to the most enlightened and sophisticated age of history and stand poised to blow our opponents, and probably ourselves, off the planet. Now listen: we announced those both in the first and second world wars who bombed defenseless cities. Yet at the close of the war we bombed two such cities and made no bones about the matter. Japanese bombing really started. Life would come to have practically no value at all.

There are some who say that the way to avoid this is to do away with all wars and armies. There are others who believe — and the present writer is one of that list — that we cannot afford to be ineffective to the slightest degree in the power which still requires armament. The problems we face today are the most serious humanity has faced in its history. We want to do, have to do, with the Russians want that as well as the free nations. Yet we teeter on the edge of a precipice over which we may plunge into indescribable horror.

Wisdom, enlightenment, benevolence — this on one side. And on the other bombing, mass destruction, and the casting aside of every standard by which we have in the past tried to be guided.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 19th, 1943.

Personnel of the Belleville Fire Department will have added conveniences at the fire hall following the fulfillment of a recommendation passed in committee meeting of the city council. The need for these additional facilities at the fire hall has been apparent to members of the department for some time, especially since the amalgamation of the two fire halls into one building. It was recommended in council that the chairman of fire have authority to ask for tenders for installation of shower baths and additional wash basins at the fire station.

Ben Bleeker of Holloway was elected president of the Belleville Agricultural Society at the annual meeting in the City Hall yesterday afternoon. He succeeds past-president Wesley Gray whom he defeated in the balloting for the presidency. Elmer Sandercock was the Society's choice for the position of first vice-president, while W. D. Reid of R. R. No. 4 Belleville completed the executive presidency. Andrew Kennedy, who has long been connected with the board of directors was named honorary president of the board.

Mrs. Frank Windsor of Charlotte Street was fortunate in having her name chosen on a Tea Hour contest broadcast Tuesday night's radio broadcast and will receive the sum of $20. Ward's grocery on Bridge Street will receive $5 for selling Mrs. Windsor her parcel of tea.

Face of Earth Changed by 2 Revolutions

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The really important revolutions of this century, I believe, to do with politics — and they passed almost unnoticed for 30 years — are in the two leisure-arts and university halls.

These two revolutions were Einstein's theory of relativity, and Planck's quantum theory, the one dealing with the physical foundations of science that had existed for 300 years, since Newton's day.

The atomic bomb was a direct product of Einstein's theory about mass and energy; and without Planck's theory of quantum theory, most of modern science (and its dreadful stepbrother, scientific weapons) would be nonexistent.

These two revolutions have changed the face of the earth for all time. Not long ago, I met a Nobel Prize winner in Russian scientists on a "CBS Reports" program. All five agreed that war is no longer conceivable as an instrument of national policy. All five said that a thermonuclear war means collective suicide for the human race.

Yet there has been no revolution in our thinking to match these scientific revolutions. We are still operating with outmoded concepts — not dead as Newtonian in the field of international relations, for example.

And this is true not merely of laymen, but of their representatives in power as well. Most of us still think about war as it existed in the past — but the old concepts no longer hold true.

We see the basic idea of "victor" and "vanquished" has lost its traditional meaning today.

War has always been a means to an end, and that end is "security." It was possible for one nation to conquer another. But in Europe — and Asia, believe it: all this has changed; that kind of war is over. There is no longer survive by threats of force; that the whole world is now one, naked, vulnerable, united in life or united in death.

Despite all this, political thinking is more retarded, than a profound illustration of our lack of thinking. But this is the revolution that is now called for — a revolution of the mind and the heart to keep pace with the revolutions of Einstein and Planck.

The basic conflict is not between the Communists and what we call the "free world." It is between those who understand the need for new approaches to our universal problem, and those who cling to the old and obsolete methods. This iron curtain of the mind must be pierced before we can hope to leave a world for our children to flourish in.

To Your Good Health

Chest Percussion Was Discovered 200 Years Ago

Rowing through our reading matter, I note that it is just 200 years since chest percussion was discovered — that business of "thumping" a patient's chest as method of examination which still has its uses.

An Austrian, Dr. Joseph Leopold Auenbrugger, whose father was an innkeeper, devised this method, inspired by having seen his parent rap on wine barrels to estimate the amount they contained.

A dull barrel — or a chest cavity containing fluid — does not give the same resonant sound that is heard when there is a substantial empty space.

The physician thus not only can detect some lung ailments, but can roughly ascertain the shape of the heart and its size, and what, of course, more precise methods, such as the chemical examination, percussion remains very useful in finding cases which may warrant killer diagnostic tests.

For readers who wonder why the doctor "listens to the chest," there's the answer. Incidentally, Dr. Auenbrugger ran into a great deal of criticism and abuse for announcing his discovery. Apparently human nature, some probably were plain bull-headed. That has happened a good many times in the past.

Happily, the doctor lived to see his discovery widely used and praised, but before that happened, he was so violently criticized that he had to resign from his hospital staff position.

Granted that some ideas often get a most rigorous going-over today — and that's healthy — I wonder if perhaps we haven't made some genuine advances that we are too prone to willingness to accept the new and novel, once proved.

Oh, yes, I'm familiar that at recently as about three decades ago, when early auscultation was first proposed and practiced, there was a tendency to "denounce" of fair testing of the principle.

There's an insistence on testing ideas now, a demand that we be sure before we accept — but when we have had a real legend, is vanishing. Yes, I think we are progress.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I should appreciate it if you would write about symptoms and cure of peptic ulcer. — Mrs. H.C."

They contained, I am booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep them Healed." (It is available to any reader in return for 30 cents to cover printing and handling costs, plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Please send requests to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper).

"Dear Dr. Molner: It is my understanding that Vitamin A is the only one that can be stored. Will I have to watch for symptoms of Vitamin A poison, or will I have trouble taking 5,000 units a day for a skin condition. — Mrs. S.C."

Vitamins A, D and E all are stored (B less than the others). As you, Mrs. C., have shown, first by a yellowness of the skin, especially the palms and soles, and then other disorders later. The amount you are taking might be considered "megavitamin," so there is no apparent reason to be disturbed about it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 28 and have four children, ages 5, 3, 2 years and 5 months. I would like to be fixed so I would never have any more babies. My husband says I'm too young. The doctor gave me some pills to use but when one month later I was pregnant. Could you tell me the name of a doctor who would sterilize me? — Mrs. E.M."

No. However, I do strongly suspect that you'd better go back to the doctor and ask for further instructions.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Another movie star of long past years has died in obscurity and poverty. Her name will be as a deathless figure of beauty and romance. She lived and died before the days of publicity. How much of that publicity made it possible to have lost all the money she is reputed to have made?

I realize money is the most lovable of all things, next to youth and beauty. But surely in Hollywood they have something whose business it is to stash away a few tens of thousands of the millions, for rainy-day-gang stars. Surely the big insurance companies could employ a handsome and persuasive star or two of their own, whose job would be, while carousing around the sets, to persuade the stars of the need to buy annuities; incorruptible annuities.

Alas, it is not movie stars alone who seem to have no notion of capitalizing themselves at their top form. Many a man and woman has come to the ordinary every day business, and in our midst, on striking it rich or hitting it lucky for a month or a year, assumes that this is for keeps, and invests money into a style of living far beyond any rate of permanency.

However, those I have talked to, when the collapse comes, say:

"It was worth it."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IF YOU KNOW

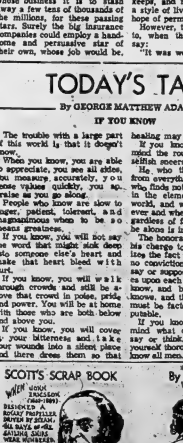
Could you know what people advise to appreciate, you see all sides. You measure accurately, you weigh values quickly, you appraise as you go along.

People who know are slow to anger, patient, tolerant, and magnanimous when to be so means great sacrifice.

If you know, you will not say the word that might sink deep into someone's heart and never make that heart bleed with pain.

If you know, you will walk through crowds and still be aware that crowds are full of envy, hate and power. You will be at home with those who are both below and above you.



If you know, you will cover up your blunders with a smile and your wounds into a silent peace and there dress them so that healing may set in quickly.

If you know, you will not mind the rough words and the selfish sneers of the ignorant.

The wise thinker, who learns from everything and everybody, finds these qualities his own because he is the elemental heart of the world, and who serves when, and wherever he can serve, regardless of favor or reward — means great knowledge.

The honorable judge in giving his charge to the jury emphasizes the fact that there must be no conviction upon mere heresay or supposition. He impresses upon each juror that he must know, and be sure that he knows, and that what he knows must be facts that are indisputable.

If you know yourself, never mind what other people may say or think. Keep on knowing yourself thoroughly you learn to know all men.

Lengthy Discussion Held On Question of Withdrawal From High School Area

Hastings County Council this morning voted that the question of the request of Tweed and Hungerford to withdraw from the Centre Hastings High School Area be laid over until a special February session in order that a compromise might be affected between the two parties.

Following a four-hour debate on the pros and cons of the request of Tweed Village and Hungerford township to withdraw from the Centre Hastings High School Area, members of Hastings county council late Thursday afternoon decided to sleep on the matter and defer decision on the request until another day.

Accordingly council tomorrow (Friday) will vote to decide whether or not they will allow the two Centre Hastings municipalities to withdraw from the area and allow them to set up their own high school district.

Yesterday morning council heard submissions from speakers favouring the withdrawal, while during the afternoon members of the high school board, headed by Kel Kincaid of Madoc, presented their views on why they felt Centre Hastings should remain as it is.

Withdrawal of Tweed and Hungerford from the area would mean that a proposed million dollar technical school to be paid for by the two senior governments, would be lost to the area, the withdrawal would mean the remaining area would not have the necessary student enrolment to qualify for the school.

The controversy broke into the open late last year, following the announcement that the technical school had been approved as an addition to the Madoc school.

Proponents of the withdrawal request said they feared operational costs of the technical school would materially increase their taxes and also claimed that the location on the Madoc school would mean the closing of the Tweed high school.

Yesterday at council, however, speakers for Tweed and Hungerford said taxation was not the reason for the withdrawal request, but rather that they wanted local autonomy.

REPRESENTED UNFAIRLY

A week ago in a referendum vote ratepayers in the two municipalities voted overwhelmingly in favor of withdrawing from the school area.

Yesterday afternoon, Kel Kincaid as leading speaker for the group opposing the withdrawal, said that many of the claims put forward by the opposing factions had been based on rumors and had no foundation in fact.

He said there was no foundation for the claim that the Tweed school would be closed. Rather it was policy of the Department of Education to build schools and enlarge them not to close them down.

Neither was there any foundation for the claim that the technical school addition operation would raise taxes by 10 to 14 mills as had been suggested. "The Board has estimated the additional cost to be in the neighborhood of four mills" he said.

Mr. Kincaid said he had every respect for the wish of Tweed and Hungerford for local autonomy, but pointed out the board had the welfare of students in the other eight municipalities to consider.

During the morning speakers referred to the withdrawal of Tweed and Hawdon from the Centre Hastings Area a few years ago and asked that they be given the same consideration.

Mr. Kincaid, however, said there was no comparison between the two requests. The withdrawal of Rawdon and Stirling had meant little to the remaining municipalities, while if the present withdrawal was granted it would mean Centre Hastings would lose out on the opportunity to secure a technical school paid for by the senior governments.

TECHNICAL TRAINING NEEDED

Mr. Kincaid stressed the importance of technical training for students who were unable to absorb the academic training in high schools with the result that they became "drifters" before completing Grade 13.

He said it was to give these students the opportunity to learn useful skills that the senior governments were providing technical schools across the province.

He quoted Dr. Rendall, superintendent of secondary school education, as telling a Centre Hastings delegation last week that those opposing the technical school at Madoc did not know what they were talking about.

Dr. Rendall had said if the vocational school offer was turned down, it would set the pattern for at least 15 years and Hastings county would be left behind the rest of the province.

The Department expert had maintained while Centre Hastings now may be doing a good job with 40 per cent of the high school students in the area, a proportion of unskilled jobs rapidly disappearing, there was little for the remaining 60 per cent.

Other speakers heard during the afternoon included Rev. L. Hawkes, Anglican minister at Tweed, board members Chas. Rawson of Elzivir, and Lincoln Edmunds, and A. Fraser of Marmora.

Mr. Hawkes referred to the school board as a "step in the dark" and claimed the proponents of the withdrawal request had staged a clever campaign based on "fear-hysteria" that the Tweed school would be closed.

Mr. Rawson, a former teacher in Toronto, said there had never been any thought of closing the Tweed school, while Mr. Elliott declared there had always been perfect harmony among members of the Centre Hastings school board. If Tweed high school had not received what was required, it was because members from Tweed had not asked.

Mr. Fraser said those seeking withdrawal from the school area were taking the short term view. People were not mostly thinking of settling in the Centre Hastings area would require ever if they realized proper educational facilities were not available, he said.

OFFERED COMPROMISE

At Toronto last week Department of Education officials held secret conferences in suggesting that county council could allow Tweed and Hungerford out of the area if these municipalities would give a written guarantee 25 per cent of their high school student numbers would return to Madoc vocational school.

It was suggested the only alternative would be for the county to refuse to allow the withdrawal.

Yesterday Reeve Thomas Burnside wanted to know if Tweed and Hungerford were prepared to give the guarantee of student attendance at the technical school, but Tweed reeve Douglas Spencer said he could not go along.

He said that before he could accept a compromise he would have to confer with his council. "They want out of the area," he said.

MUST CONSIDER AREA

Reeve William Davis could not see how council could vote to allow Tweed and Hungerford out of the area and ruin the loss of the technical school.

"We have the whole area to consider," he said.

Reeve Davis suggested there was a lot of spade work to be done with something concrete presented before council could be expected to vote on the matter.

He suggested the matter be laid over until the special February session and Madoc township reeve Earl Seger claimed further delay was dangerous, in that Bill 54 would be ready for March 1963 to meet for consideration of the technical school.

MISREPRESENTED CLAIM

He felt that at the time of the referendum in Tweed and Hungerford, proponents of the withdrawal request had "purposely misrepresented" the issue to their municipal ratepayers.

Reeve Kenneth Mumby of Rawdon said the reasons for Rawdon and Stirling getting out of the area a few years ago were nothing similar to those being put forth now by Tweed and Hungerford.

In their own case, Reeve Mumby said, a high assessment in relation to the remainder of the area had been the reason. This was not the case in the present request, he pointed out.

Sidney Reeve Harleigh Hamilton, as last year's warden, took the chair for the schools debate, allowing Warden Harold Varty to take his regular place in the council so he could enter the discussion. The Hungerford reeve had been the only member of his council to oppose his municipality's withdrawal from the school area.

WOULD NEED BOARD

Warden Varty questioned how the needs of the area would be divided if county council allowed Tweed and Hungerford out and was told by Acting Clerk Mrs. Ruth Quaife that an arbitration board consisting of a representative appointed by county council, the county judge and a secondary high school inspector appointed by the Department, would determine the assets.

Warden Varty said he would sleep much better 15 years from now if Tweed and Hungerford remained in the area and the technical school might become a reality.

"And I would be the woman who killed the Madoc school, but I will have saved the Tweed school, hope," interjected Mrs. Allen.

Reeve John Wilkes of Marmora and Lake township felt residents of Tweed and Hungerford were awfully selfish to even think of depriving students in the remainder of the area of the advantages of a technical education.

CLOSED DEBATE

Reeve Carl Bateman of Stirling closed off the debate by recommending the matter be laid over for another day to allow council to think it over.

"County council has been placed in a precarious position," he said. We have been asked to approve of the withdrawal of Tweed and Hungerford which would rule out the possibility of a technical school in the remainder of the area."

He said that in making their decision council had to take into consideration the remainder of the students in the area.

Tweed put us into this position and we can get us out," said the Stirling reeve suggesting the matter be laid over until Friday to allow representatives of the two municipalities to go home, discuss the matter, and come back to council with an answer to the problem.

His motion to lay the matter over until Friday was carried decisively by council.

Mrs. N. Broad Heads PCs in East Hastings

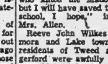
The East Hastings Conservative Association held their annual meeting at the Order of Good Templars Hall in Madoc on Thursday night and for the first time in its history a woman was elected to the presidency. The 150 who were present at the meeting unanimously accepted the recommendation of Mrs. William A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture in the Provincial cabinet.

Mrs. Newell Broad of Madoc, who has been the efficient officer of the Association for many years, was unanimously elected by acclamation, replacing Fred M. Mitchell, a former Warden of the County. The vice-presidents elected were Verne McMurray of Gilmour, Charles Tebbs of Bellefonte and Mrs. Douglas Atkins, also of Bellefonte. William Marsh was selected as secretary, while Mrs. Ken Vivian of Shannonville will be his assistant. The treasurer is Bruce White of Madoc.

Mr. Stewart made no outstanding announcement at the meeting on behalf of the government but did outline briefly the work of the government with respect to agriculture. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed before departure for home.

Tribute Paid Representatives Of Agriculture

Tribute to the work of agricultural representatives for their work among junior farmers and 4-H Club members in the county, was paid this morning at Hastings County Council.



The tribute to Agricultural Representative Sidney McDonald, and his assistant, Gibson Patterson, was paid by councillors following a report of last year's junior activities, coupled with a request for a yearly grant for this year's work.

Sidney Reeve Harleigh Hamilton said that in view of the ever increasing amount of junior work the wonder was how agricultural representatives got around to attend to everything.

And Deputy Reeve Sidney Fitzgerald of Tyendinaga township said the agricultural representatives were the unsung heroes of the agricultural end of the district.

"Only those in close co-operation with them realize the scope of activities among the junior farmers", he said.

He said that junior work in the county was so important that in many instances local fairs could not be held without the attraction of 4-H Club and Junior Farmers activities.

All troop Scouters will attend a gathering at the Recreation Centre on Saturday, January 20th, at 8 p.m., to consider activities for the new year.

Lack of Education Greatest Problem in Placing Jobless Persons Says C. Hiuser

The vital importance of better education as a means of defeating the current unemployment problem was emphasized today to members of Hastings county council.

Mr. Cecil Hiuser, manager of the national employment office at Belleville, told the council that lack of education was one of the problems in the Provincial cabinet.

Mrs. Newell Broad of Madoc, who is the efficient officer of the Association for many years, was unanimously elected by acclamation, replacing Fred M. Mitchell, a former Warden of the County. The vice-presidents elected were Verne McMurray of Gilmour, Charles Tebbs of Bellefonte and Mrs. Douglas Atkins, also of Bellefonte. William Marsh was selected as secretary, while Mrs. Ken Vivian of Shannonville will be his assistant. The treasurer is Bruce White of Madoc.

Appealing to county council members to do all possible to encourage winter works in their areas, Mr. Hiuser noted that there are a total of 2,380 persons unemployed in Belleville and the Hastings County area.

Out of this total 741 were in Belleville and the remainder in the rural areas.

He said that his department is now conducting a campaign to encourage teen-agers to remain in school and thus put themselves in position to take later training for skilled jobs.

At the present time he said there were 210 male teen-agers and 60 female teen-agers registered for work at the Belleville office.

Of this total not one had grade 12 high school and the vast majority had not achieved more than grade 10. Young girls generally had a high education standard than teen-agers this resulting in their being more than grade 10.

Referring to the municipal winter works program office to help take up the winter unemployment slack, Mr. Hiuser stressed that every effort should be made by municipal councils to get work in their areas approved.

"Which is better," he asked "pay 20 per cent of welfare costs and get nothing or pay 25 per cent of the costs of municipal winter works and get some work done?"

Four Negro Civilians Killed In Brawl at Congo Mission

CP from AP-Reuters

LEOPOLDVILLE — Fresh bloodshed in the eastern Congo again involving Congolese troops, was disclosed by the United Nations today.

A spokesman said four civilians were killed and seven Europeans churchmen threatened by hostile Wednesday in a brawl at a Roman Catholic mission school in Bagira, Kivu Province.

Local police and the troops were reported to have clashed. All the dead were believed to be Negroes at the school, St. Paul's Catholic Mission, and three were wounded. UN reports indicated the white men were not injured.

A UN Malayan platoon visited the area Thursday and reported the situation now is calm. The mission is about 240 miles northeast of Kongolo, a North Katanga town where rampaging Congolese troops massacred 19 Roman Catholic missionaries and an undetermined number of Negro civilians New Year's Day. The troops were in a command once loyal to pro-Communist Antoine Gizenga, the recently deposed deputy premier.

UNDER GUARD

UN reports from Stanleyville indicate that Gizenga is still in his Riverside mansion there under guard of Congolese government troops.

Reliable sources said the United Nations has recommended that Gizenga be brought here to Leopoldville from the Stanleyville area in Oriental Province in an effort to avert further trouble with Gizenga's soldiers.

UN headquarters received a report that Col. Alphonse Pakassa, commander of the armed forces in the eastern Congo, has been returned to Stanleyville from Katanga.

Pakassa is the commander of troops who disarmed 13 Italian UN airmen at Kindu last November and apparently also participated in the massacres.

But troop movements reported in Kivu Province, lying between North Katanga and Stanleyville, have stirred fears that the troops might be moving back to defend their costime leader.

Accused Denies He Tried to Kill Best Friend

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Matthew Woodhouse, 26, of Weston, Ont., admitted Thursday he once had an intimate relationship with the wife of the man he is accused of trying to murder.

The story of the affair was told during the trial of Mrs. Margaret Brown of Windsor. Woodhouse was arrested Nov. 7 after Mrs. Brown's husband, 37, was beaten and slashed with a broken soda pop bottle.

Mrs. Brown testified that Woodhouse had lived with her and her husband from November, 1960 until March, 1961, while the Browns rallied in Galt. All three had been friends for about eight years. They met while Woodhouse and Brown were living in Newcastle, England.

The Browns moved to Windsor last March. Mrs. Brown said Woodhouse visited them "every other weekend." She said their acquaintance ended when she and her husband moved. She said Woodhouse had asked her to marry him after he had returned.

Woodhouse denied Thursday he had tried to kill Brown. He said he drove from Weston to Windsor the night of the attack to help out at the Brown household. Mrs. Brown was the friend was in hospital where she had given birth to a son.

FOUND INJURED

Woodhouse said he arrived at Brown's apartment to find Brown lying on the floor moaning and bleeding. He was about to phone for help when police arrived.

Earlier Thursday, an Ontario Hydro area manager testified that a household electrical system can be used lethally. Herbert Brown of Windsor told the Supreme court jury how two wire involved in the case could have been used to give a person a fatal shock.

Two sections of wire were in Mrs. Brown's home. One piece was found on the dining room floor. The second wound around a kitchen faucet. The other section was found coiled in the kitchen sink. Police said.

Mr. Blomme said that if the section of wire with the male plug was inserted into a live connection, and its bare end wrapped around a telephone receiver, anyone handling the telephone would probably get a shock. But the second section of wire which was attached to the kitchen tap could be touched to a person's bare feet or head to produce a shock that could be fatal.

Earlier in the trial, Brown testified that on the night he was attacked he was roused from sleep by the telephone ringing. He said that he received electric shocks when he picked up the phone.

G. Burns.

President Cec. Brown conducted the meeting assisted by past-president Ken Edgecombe, secretary J. H. Wells and treasurer A. W. Gray.

Indonesian Army General Says Irian Accord Possible

JAKARTA (Reuters) — The chief of Indonesia's "liberation army" command in West New Guinea said today he believed a peaceful solution was possible in the territorial dispute with the Dutch.

Maj.-Gen. Achmad Jani said: "We are still doing our utmost to find a peaceful solution for the return of West Irian (West Guinea) issue."

Asked if the Indonesian government still was thinking in terms of a time limit for diplomatic activity on the dispute, Jan said:

"We have heard that (acting United Nations secretary-general) U Thant and President Kennedy are going to meet today on the West Irian issue so we had better see."

He added "our policy remains unchanged, talks will be possible only on the transfer of West Irian from the Dutch to us."

Meanwhile, the Indonesian Navy announced it will conduct summer exercises up to 50 miles off Sabang in North Sumatra until Feb. 9. It said vessels not showing normal peace, or ignoring signals, would be fired on.

Foreign Affairs Minister Subandrio said in terms of a time limit for diplomatic activity on the dispute, Jan said:

Springbrook Holds UCW Inaugural

A The inaugural meeting of the United Church women of Springbrook was held at the regular church service last Sunday evening and was a good attendance.

The service was prepared by the Rev. Norsh L. Hughes, M.A., B.D. Ph., D., especially for the inaugural meeting.

The church organist, Mrs. J. McKeown was the accompanyist during the service.

The opening hymn was "Praise the Lord; Ye Heavens Adore Him" number 565-1 read in unison followed by the Lord's Prayer. Scripture was the Scripture Romans 8: 28, 35, 37, 35, 37 and 39. "How Firm a Foundation" was sung, followed by the prayers given by Mrs. Pillen, Mrs. George Williams, and Mrs. Joe Thompson.

The choir sang, "Hear Us, O Lord". The offering was taken by Mrs. Murney Mason and Mrs. Ralph Thompson. Mrs. Pillen gave the announcements.

Mr. Pillen read St. Mark 14:1-9 his address was "The work for Jesus and His church", which was followed by a prayer for dedication.

At this time, Mr. Pillen read the list of the chosen executive, Mrs. Gordon Webb; Mrs. Bailey Howard and Mrs. Murney Mason; Mrs. Ralph Thompson; Mrs. Gerald Sherrin, secretary, asked them to come forward for the dedication.

The closing hymn of this inaugural service was "Lead on O King Eternal" after which Mr. Pillen pronounced the benediction.

Immediately following the church service, the United Church women met and appointed the delegates to the annual meeting of the Presbyterial of United Church. Following are the ladies appointed to represent Springbrook. Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Mrs. Gerald Thompson, Mrs. Delbert Fleming, Mrs. Joe Thompson and Mrs. Chris Bateman.

Young Couple Presented With Various Gifts

FRANKFORD — On the evening of January 16th a miscellaneous shower was held at the Full Gospel Tabernacle in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ewen Jones (nee Ronda Payne).

The evening activities began with the singing of choruses led by Mrs. C. Elliott. Games were played and the most defeated the women in a "pass word" game. The young ladies defeated the men in an orange contest. Mrs. Mary Patrick gave a reading, "Crisp White Curtains". Miss Joanne Sheppard and Miss Gloria Reid-ly rendered a vocal duet, "I'll Walk With God This Tomorrow".

Mrs. A. Fisher spoke briefly to the newlyweds and wished them every happiness.

Colored balloons were burst and a shower of confetti fell on the bride and bridegroom. Pink and white streamers and a large wedding bell decorated the living room.

The young ladies presented Ronda and Ewan with many beautiful gifts for which they duly expressed sincere appreciation.

The Rev. F. Spring led in Grace and delicious refreshments were served after which a time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

Perfume Is A Women's Best Friend

The Elite Bell.

Circe, who detained Ulysses on her island, used fragrance charms used perfumes to dull his sense of duty to wife and country.

Hungarian legend grants it even more powerful enchantment. Supposedly, the original recipe for the preparation of eau de Hongrie was given to Queen Elizabeth of Hungary by a hermit. Its principle ingredients are standing by in this thing at the age of 72 her hand was asked in marriage.

The plight of one French provider will strike a sympathetic note with modern day husbands. During the reign of Louis XV, Madame Pompadour, fashion leader at the court of Versailles, was credited with running up bills in the neighborhood of $100,000 for one year's purchase of perfume and beauty aids.

Doubtless, it was this sort of reputation that encouraged an English King to take direct action in protecting the stress men of Elizabethan England, and legislation making all privileged commodities under the influence of perfume completely null and void.

• • •

Canadians really become aware of this potent substance when soldiers brought back bottles of perfume from Paris after the First World War. The introduction of synthetics a few years later opened up a whole new world for the perfume industry.

Today every woman has at her command a wider range of perfume and other fragrant preparations than ever before. There was once the privilege of only the noble and aristocratic has become the right of the people.

(For men who smirk at perfume as being effeminate, remember privolity: during the reign of King Charles II (1660-1685) Newsday was also attracted by perfume for men and to this day its bouquet is with us in the few that can be used in men's toilet preparations without any strong masculine odour.)

Like a fine vintage, perfume can be used to be appreciated. And if it's used correctly, it can open up a whole new world of pleasure for you and those around you. A blend of essential oils with just enough alcohol to dilute them, perfume is largely an effective accessory. Use it every day during the day — it can be overwhelming in the office. Toilet water and cologne are perfect variations on this theme, are more appropriate for anytime wear, unless the occasion is a special one. (Remember, in a crowded elevator, perfume the effect can be asphyxiating).

It's easy to make a mistake in your perfume selection because it's the shortcomings of your skin reacting with the perfume that gives it the distinctive note. The only way to find the right scent — and it's important — is trial and error. Don't waste the losers. They will be fine for lingerie and handkerchiefs or swapped with friends.

• • •

Hoarding perfume is really poor economy. It tends to lose its scent and the essence is evaporated. The fragile substance is kept too long and used on the dressing table. It also loses its potency through direct light and heat. Excessive light and heat adversely affect the perfume, so keep it in a cool, dry place. Conservation of perfume includes, too, the proper stopper or cap tightly closed to avoid excessive evaporation.

To get the most out of quality blend, there is no need to be timid about it. Dab it behind the ear is wasteful; apply it delicately on the pulse-spots — behind, inside elbows, wrists and at the nape of the neck. Perfume is a matching bath accessory. A matching fragrance prevents any discordant notes.

Never underestimate the power of perfume. George the III didn't either. He says to bypass a historically proven ally.

Resident Marks 99th Birthday

STIRLING — Mrs. Rebecca Sine, of 78 Mill Street, Stirling, on January 22nd, will observe her 99th birthday anniversary.

FROST — RINTAMAKI

Against a lovely background of evergreens, chrysanthemums and lighted tapers in Copper Cliff Finnish Lutheran Church, Hellen Marie Rintamaki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Onni Rintamaki, of Creek, became the bride of George Preston Frost, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Frost, of Belleville.

The Rev. Toivo Hakkinen officiated at the candlelit, afternoon ceremony.

The traditional wedding music was arranged and played by Shirley Ruskanen, with the Salo sisters singing a duet.

Griffin Ketchepaw was best man. Edward Frost, a brother of the bridegroom and Bill McGauchie, were groomsmen. Alvin Johnson and Howard Frost ushered guests in the pews.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, a lovely picture in her wedding attire, attended by Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, matron of honor. Mrs. Jean Metchuchy, of Toronto, a sister of the bridegroom, and her sister, Ann Rintamaki, as bridesmaids. Cindy Johnston was a charming flower girl.

Exquisitely dressed in an original model floor-length gown of deeply-embossed white satin brocade in Empire style design, the bride carried a circle bouquet of red and gold-toned flowers centred with yellow roses in original arrangement. The finely sculptured lace of her gown was styled with a flattering scoop neckline and sleeves in the new short length.

The bridal attendants were dressed in identical - styled gowns of ming - colored silk chiffon with matching accessories and carried bouquets of rust and yellow mums. The flower girl was pretty in a similar gown of white silk chiffon and carried a basket of pink mums in complementary shades.

A reception was held in the evening at Sacspo Ball when some 300 guests were received by members of the bridal party, assisted by the parents of the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Rintamaki chose an attractive gown in gold - toned brocade for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were in brown-brown and she had an original model hat to match an imported meribou. A hybrid orchid corsage completed her finery.

Mrs. Frost, the bridegroom's mother, assisted, wearing a frock in aquamarine silk brocade with lace accessories. She had a white orchid shoulder spray.

Members of the Sampo Women's Auxiliary catered with a tempting buffet wedding supper. The bride's table was arranged with a profusion of flowers and centred with a four-tier wedding cake topped with bride and groom, flanked with a frosting of tulle scatter-ed with rosebuds. The base of the bride cake made by her uncle, Bill Johnson. Eino Tikkanen was master of ceremonies. Art Gimpoll and his orchestra played for the wedding dance. Mrs. Louise Lauder also played she many wedding gifts.

The couple left by car for a honeymoon trip to the Maritimes and Eastern United States. They will make their home at Mount St. Bruno, Que. Mrs. Frost chose for present from Toronto, St. John's Nfld., Montreal and Belleville.

The bride was feted at many showers and presentation parties prior to her wedding, and was entertained at a large community shower in the Valery Hall.

Plans Lahda Group For Gold Ball

On January 8th, the regular meeting of Alpha Lambda chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, took place at the home of Mrs. G. Miller.

Mrs. L. K. Drurie was in charge of the cultural program for the evening, entitled, "Personality and Relationship." A brief summary of Dale Carnegie's book, "How to Make Friends and Influence People," was read, followed by the answering of a number of questions which enabled the members to determine by their own score, by how polite and tactful they possess. This self-analysis proved to be most interesting and was greatly enjoyed by all members.

The meeting continued with a business session during which arrangements were planned to learn of a letter received from one of Alpha Lambda's adopted children, expressing thanks for the Christmas present sent by the group.

Mrs. N. Desmond took charge of the remainder of the evening and arrangements for the "Black and Gold Ball" to be held later this month, were discussed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. G. Mutter, assisted by co-hostess Mrs. J. Thompson.

Among those attending the ladies' reception at the 37th annual convention of the Ontario Hotel Association in Toronto this week from left: Mrs. J. N. Yanover, Belleville; Mrs. S. T. Buckley, Kingston, and Mrs. Basil Keane, Kingston. A gala banquet for more than 500 delegates and their wives concluded the business sessions and social activities for the hotel fraternity.

"A little bit of heaven fell from out the sky one day . . . and they called it 'Ireland'."

Last evening under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, Willis Butler, former lecturer and broadcaster at the Northern University's famous school of Speech, delighted a capacity-packed auditorium at the Collegiate with his fine pictures of the "Emerald Isle", accompanied by a most interesting commentary.

Following the introduction by Dr. George Hume, vice-president of the Club, Mr. Butler gave a brief synopsis of the island, mentioning that approximately 20,000 immigrants arrive in Canada each year from Ireland. He asked for a show of hands of those who were born with a considerable number responding.

Ireland is definitely an agricultural land, with the elder son inheriting; the others choosing occupations of their own. Basically the people are honest, if sharp mentally and have a balanced philosophy of life.

ST. PATRICK

The Christian history begins with St. Patrick, who led the country out of paganism into the Christian life.

At the Shannon Airport pictures were shown of a shopper's paradise, as well as resting places where the most tempting meals were served at reasonable prices. One of the interesting places was that of the fashion show, where Irish-designed models, modelled some beautiful coats, evening dresses, and two-piece ensembles. At Conan's Cathedral the beautiful stained glass windows were unsurpassed and the tones of the carillon carried one in fancy many miles away to the days when alcohol whose silver tones are the English a lovely city.

Other scenes visited were, a farmhouse showing the mistress busily engaged in the making of their daily bread; the early morning arrival at the milk wagon at the factory; shipping at Cork; the Blarney Castle with its 126 steps, the precarious position one must assume to kiss the Blarney Stone over a drop of 85 feet; Kate Kearney Cottage where Sir Walter Scott and Thackeray were entertained; the lovely beach at Ross Bay, showing surfers riding breaking on the sands; the 700 feet high cliffs of Moher seemingly covered with a film of innumerable birds which blackened out the breaking of the waves on the cliff bottom; the blessing of the boats, a colorful ritual; and fishing at Colonark in the fresh water streams.

IRISH DERBY

Ireland is the home of the Irish Derby at Curragh, with some of the most beautiful horses ever seen, with exception of the Arab horses. Across them race, their flanks gleaming in the sunshine, the grass and grace in its simple jumping; add the Royal Dublin Horse Show, provided a deep thrill for the horse lover.

Other interesting scenes were of the lace weaving, beautiful colored bowls; making of glass, and the delicate Baleek pottery, the hand - made process of clay into the various molds, each part of the teapot being molded separately, and after later assembled, in short, "Butler's Ireland" brings you a comprehensive, first-hand-picture-coverage of all of Ireland; its geography, history; tourist attractions, industry; government, and especially the rich human interest of the people with Willis Butler believes gives the Emerald Isle its magic.

Formosan Missionary Tells of Work

The January meeting of the Alpha group of St. Columba Presbyterian Women was held recently in the church building and opened with quiet music by Mrs. G. Mackay.

The group chairman, Mrs. N. R. Hutchinson, led in the devotional period, arranged by Mrs. K. D. Taylor and Mrs. N. Burke. Mrs. Hutchinson read the Scripture lesson and led in prayer. She also read a poem entitled "New Year's Prayer."

The guest speaker, Miss Hazel MacDonald, missionary to Formosa, and now home on furlough was introduced by Mrs. K. D. Taylor. Miss MacDonald gave an informative talk on her work as a teacher at Tung-Hai Christian University at Taiwan, Formosa. Her duties with the W.M.S. is to give leadership to women of the Formosan Presbyterian Church in organization and leadership. She wore a dress, the type of which is worn by Formosan women.

Miss MacDonald also showed several articles that she had brought back to Canada with her, all of which proved to be of great interest to the women present.

During the business period, several appointments were made in the executive. Plans were discussed concerning a tea to which the members are catering the latter part of January. It was decided to continue with the Christmas Stocking Denial Offering for another year. It was also announced the next meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Group will be held January 29 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. W. Partridge thanked the speaker, after which coffee was served with Mrs. R. Carnichanson and Mrs. N.-Burke as hostesses.

Women's Activities

LADIES' AID

DESERONTO — The January meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Church of the Redeemer was held January 11th at the home of Mrs. S. Geddes, Mill Street, with 11 ladies present and the president, Mrs. William Houle, presiding.

Mrs. J. Westerhoff was in charge of the devotional period. Scripture was read from John 15. Mrs. Westerhoff based her message on verses from the Scripture reading, closing this period with prayer.

The part of the secretary-treasurer was given by Mrs. Stevenson and a favorable balance was shown to begin 1962.

During the business period, plans were discussed for holding a pancake supper on February 20th. Further arrangements will be made at the February meeting.

Mrs. Geddes kindly offered her home for the February 8th meeting when Mrs. Moore in charge of the devotional period.

The meeting closed and refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

Holloway United CW Dedicated

The inaugural service of the Holloway Street United Church Women was conducted last Sunday morning, at the 11.00 a.m. service. Following the prepared program the Rev. T. W. Coleman led the service and was assisted by Mrs. G. Coulter and Mrs. T. Poste.

Mr. Coleman's sermon "Vision of the Future," was an inspiration to all. He emphasized the great work of women in the church, home and community and pointed out that the joining of the former organizations with all women of the congregation into this new organization, will gain much, both spiritually and physically. He also expressed the hope that in future women would be more active on the Session and Stewards of the church.

The choir, under the direction of Mr. C. Holmes, rendered two—beautiful anthems "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven" and, the suggested hymn, "Hear Us, O Lord," with Mrs. C. C. Atkinson taking the solo part.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. G. Coulter read the slate of officers and installed the ladies to the front. The dedication of the new executive was conducted by Mr. Coleman as follows:

Female Form Will Make Big Comeback

By PEGGY MASSEY

PARIS (Reuters)—After years of concealment, the female form is expected to make a big comeback in 1962 as French dressmakers display their 1962 fashions.

If predictions come true, the new spring collections being shown in Paris will soon be beginning Monday will step up the trend toward a soft and feminine silhouette.

The 1962 look is being likened here to that of the 1930's and that the late Christian Dior launched his first New Look in 1947 although the new Parisian clothes forced upon women by the exigencies of the Second World War.

After years of styles based on the sack, the chemise, and stiff, architecturally - constructed fashions Paris applauded the return of a waistline.

Hanae Mori, Bohan of Christian Dior launched the most frankly feminine silhouette in years. Soft and rounded moulded midriff, a belted waistline, and gracefully flared skirts are the keynote. It is that many other designers will follow the Dior leadership.

REVOLUTION OVER

Designers who have tried to turn the tide single-handed in recent years have usually ended up with a shattering financial loss. Others cannot afford fashion revolutions.

Behan recently elaborated on this idea: "Ten years ago the women want to look completely different every season," he declared. "Designers can say a lot without becoming involved in big changes."

Talks on Farm Management Highlight WI Meeting

STIRLING — On the evening of January 12th, River Valley Women's Institute held "Farm Night" at the school with a large attendance of men, women and children.

The event was sponsored by the agriculture and citizenship industries group in charge of Mrs. Allen McDonald, and Mrs. Ray Bush was chairlady, with Mrs. Philip Conley assisted in the serving. Mrs. Bush extended a gracious welcome to everyone present on behalf of this group and gave a brief message on agriculture. Jack Bush, in a thoroughly delightful speech which included "Auld Lang Syne" and "I'll Macdonald Had a Farm", Mrs. Allen McDonald read a most appropriate New Year's selection, "Mrs. Linda Morrow sang, "There is Power in Song in my Heart" and "Bless This House" with her mother, Mrs. Harry Morrow at accompanist.

Mrs. Kenneth Myers president of the W.I. welcomed the guests and announced a card party for Friday evening and also that the next meeting would be held in February. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Conley provided musical selections on the violin and piano. Miss Marion Henderson read a selection entitled "Down on the Farm". Ruth Bush and Linda Morrow sang, "Paper Roses" and "Let Sunday Prayer," with Marilyn Conley at the piano. Messrs. Harry Brown, Ralph Bush and Ken Grant Richardson gave interesting talks entitled "Fruits", Mr. Beeler and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," with Mrs. Hanson as accompanist. The latter also contributed two accordion selections, "A Scottish Medley" and rendered a Scandinavian polka. Mrs. Jack Bush read a humorous article entitled, "A Five-Day Cow".

Mrs. Clifford Richardson, president of Hastings County Farm Forum account club gave an address on this theme, illustrated the meaning of farm management and explained how it is necessary to keep plans need to be made. The speaker should be aware of ways to make the most money with the least work is most important. The account books must be kept. Many farmers have no account books. Others have them but they are not kept up to date on the page by page outline of the account book. These books are most worthwhile for any farmer and the summary of the year's business and budgeting for the next.

In this second year of organization there are seventeen clubs in Hastings County with a total membership of 250. Quinte Farm account books were displayed and the speaker gave a synopsis of each page by page outline of the account book. These books are most worthwhile for any farmer and the summary of the year's business and budgeting for the next.

Sunday School Lesson

Individual Is Supreme

By ROY L. SMITH

There is a particularly suggestive sentence in this week's Sunday school lesson that deserves more than ordinary attention, by every lover of democracy.

In describing Jesus' encounter at the well, it is said that "There came a woman of Samaria." Under any ordinary circumstances this need not have been an unusual circumstance, but the particular conditions in the story lend it deep meaning.

SAMARITAN WOMAN

This poor creature had two strikes against her before she ever reached the well. In the first place she was a woman, and in the second place she was a woman of Samaria.

At the time the Assyrians devastated the land of Israel and carried off the best of the population in 722 B.C., they replaced the displaced with newcomers from a dozen lands already overrun in other sections of the world. Thereafter the immigrant population was held in contempt by all the East.

The Samaritans were a race without any national pride, without any honorable history, and without any political status. On one or two occasions they had tried to join in with the Jews in some worthy enterprise, and had been repulsed. The result was that they had no friends, and they respected no allies.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for January 20 is "God Is Spirit." Exodus 20: 4-6; John 4: 5-26.

The woman herself seems to have been a sophisticated person of the other women of Samaria. She came to the village well at noonday, when she might expect to find it deserted. She had doubtless endured all the jibes and leers she could take. And there at the well she encountered—not a people — but a Jew!

Bawdy and despised as she was, for once in her life she found herself in a position to show contempt. And no one is ever more contemptuous than that one is to whom the expression of contempt is a luxury.

THIS MAN DIFFERENT

Here was a woman who probably thought she knew men. She had had five husbands (something of a record for the East) and now was living with a man to whom she was not married. She was probably well-known around the caravanseries, and was also probably well able to take care of herself in any brawl. Having lost everything, she had nothing to lose, and the prospect of an encounter with a Jew, of all people, did not alarm her.

But from this his first sentence, the woman realized that she was dealing with a man entirely different from any other man she had ever met.

WAS STILL A WOMAN

Jesus treated her as though she were a human being in whom there existed potentialities of the world. Thereafter the conversation is concerned almost entirely with God, and the fact that He held with her the greatest concern. In a moment that was something extremely unusual.

Here was a woman who was neither a Samaritan, a prostitute, a Jew, nor a slave. Instead, she was a human being capable of being redeemed and of becoming a force of great personal.

Modern life is extremely complex. Vast forces, all manner of pressures are laid upon us to force us back into the collective mass in which individuality will be lost, our personalities destroyed, and our initiative suspended.

It is of enormous significance that, at one occasion Jesus found Himself in the midst of a multitude, it said of Him that "He saw a man." Nothing could obscure for Him the glory of each people — each Jew!

Bawdy and despised as she was, for once in her life she found herself in a position to show contempt. And no one is completely, and he knows that in his lifetime he will not be able to see any of the newly established church maturity.

FAMILY HERITAGE

But Harold has a son and he is thinking not in terms of years, but decades, generations. He knows that by removing the undesirable trees he gives the good species a chance for development and he knows exactly where to start with thinning and clearing to save the good timber, oaks, ashes, which age to give his son or grandson good logs. In the little bare places throughout his woodlot he intends to plant white pine which, however some shade from the adjoining large trees and on borders of woods he intends to establish a spruce plantation which, perhaps in his lifetime will yield him a good pulpwood harvest He will then cut every second spruce and leave the rest to develop into logs.

Perhaps in years to come we will see more such woodlot farmers. We certainly need them.

Marlborough House Soon Will Be Ready As First Commonwealth Home

By ROD CURRIE

LONDON (CP)—The palace of Marlborough House, its atmosphere of 18th century ducal splendor nearly restored, soon will be ready as the first family home of the Commonwealth.

The old mansion, vacant since the death in 1953 of its last tenant, Queen Mary, will be handed over by Queen Elizabeth, to the Commonwealth relations ministry March 28.

Marlborough House, on The Mall near Buckingham Palace, was the last major work of architect Sir Christopher Wren and was built for John Churchill, first Duke of Marlborough and forebear of Sir Winston Churchill.

The historic aura of its passages and great rooms reflects the names of treaties past signed as King Leopold I of Belgium, a resident until his accession, Queen Adelaide, widow of King William IV who gave her name to the capital city of South Australia, and King Edward VII, then the Prince of Wales.

Later came Queen Alexandra, followed by Queen Mary in 1936.

RESTORATION COSTLY

Queen Mary removed many Victorian trappings in an effort to bring back some of the original early 18th century appearance. But she didn't like the disturbance of builders and decorators about and no full-scale attempt was made to renovate the place.

Now the job, at a cost of something over £300,000 is being completed, a few souvenirs of Queen Mary's tenancy remain—a sentry box in the garden and a thatched summer house she had built. Also there is a shed with dark glass windows from which she liked to look out into The Mall without being observed.

The Queen offered the 250-year-old mansion as a gift after the Montreal Commonwealth conference in 1958 at which the government promised to find a suitable place as a Commonwealth centre in London. She presumably will participate in the inaugural ceremony when the Commonwealth prime ministers next meet here, possibly in May.

SUITES FOR PMS

Each prime minister will have the use of a small suite of offices and the former bedroom of Queen Mary—now centrally heated at long last—will be assigned on a rotation basis.

The great drawing room, with ornate gilded ceiling, columns and chandeliers, will be the main conference room. The Queen has presented a series of tapestries from Buckingham Palace for the Assembly Hall and a new lighting system has been devised to show them off to best advantage.

Other alterations provide facilities for the press, a telephone exchange system through which officials will be able to reach swiftly any part of the Commonwealth, libraries and a modern kitchen.

The palace will be open to the public only when not in official use. Besides the prime ministers' conference, it will be the scene of other Commonwealth meetings and the home of the Commonwealth Economic Committee and the Commonwealth Scholarship and Fellowship Scheme.

Cornerstones for the palace, built on part of the pleasantry of St. James's Palace, was laid in 1709, the year of Malplaquet, Marlborough's last great battle. After his death the site was leased to the duchess and she lived in such lavish style that Marlborough House somewhat overshadowed the court of King George II.

Traditionally the place has been the home of Queen Mothers or heirs to the throne But when George VI died and his widow became Queen Mother Elizabeth, Queen Mary was still occupying the palace. Elizabeth moved into Clarence House and the 17-year-old Princess Margaret became Mary's death.

Had the Queen not given Marlborough House, it presumably would have eventually become the home of Prince Charles.

Prime Minister Macmillan, in announcing the Queen's gift to the House of Commons, commented:

"I feel confident that if, when the time comes, no other suitable residence is at the disposition of the Crown, a future Parliament will think it right to make appropriate provision for the Prince of Wales to have a home of his own."

Up to Congolese To End Terror UN Contends

By PETER GROSE

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—The United Nations says it's up to the Congo central government to bring under control rampaging Congolese troops who massacred 13 or 19 white Roman Catholic missionaries in the north Katanga town of Kongolo.

A spokesman said the UN has no troops anywhere near the area being patrolled by troops who were sent there by pro-Communist Antoine Gizenga in his recent bid for power.

The UN, said the spokesman, is relying on Premier Cyrille Adoula's government to "investigate the reports [of the massacre] and restore its authority." In New York, the UN said acting Secretary - General U Thant "feels certain that responsible Congolese authorities will exert every effort to ensure that those who are guilty of such an outrage will be quickly found and severely punished."

However, the Congo government appeared incapable of establishing control in Kongolo or the rest of north Katanga. The central government also has no troops in the area. Kongolo was garrisoned by troops of Katanga President Moise Tshombe, but these withdrew when the Gizenga troops invaded from neighboring Kivu.

OTHERS IN DANGER

Fears rose for the safety of 1,000 of the missionaries still at their posts around Kongolo, which is the seat of the Roman Catholic vicar apostolic in north Katanga.

With Gizenga under virtual house arrest in Stanleyville, the troops appeared completely out of control and taking orders from no one.

Adolphustown Farmer Has Fine Forest

By E. EDSON

Department of Lands & Forests

TWEED—In South Frederickburg there are a few good looking small forests left, and they all belong to farmers or to sons of farmers who resisted the temptation of making a fast buck in past years. One such farmer, A. C. Davis, lives near Dorland and his farm has been owned by his family since the 18th Century when the first Loyalists landed near Adolphustown. Some majestic old pines and sturdy straight oaks have been preserved through generations, and the owner is in no hurry to cut them down as they provide and have provided good seed for new trees for a hundred years.

Mr. Davis, however, does not say any time if he discovers that a tree has become sick, or if he sees that it keeps back too many young, eager ones by its heavy branches. Such trees are cut down, and new generations of oaks, maples, pines, spruces, are encouraged to develop into good timber. No cattle are allowed into the woods, and so we see that the forest floor is teeming with tiny seedlings which are the future of this remarkable little forest close to the shore of Lake Ontario.

TOO FEW FORESTS

There are some other small forests of this kind in the area but they are far too few. Most of the once beautiful hardwood and pine trees were cut over the years. Very often the forests were slashed down carelessly and not even little trees were preserved for the helm. In a few and cases fire was set to the bush, and the remainder of the stands burned to the ground.

In many such cases the slashed and burned areas never recovered and today they grow weed trees and resemble a jungle rather than a forest.

A few farmers, however, who inherited or acquired such land try hard to improve it by thinning out inferior species such as ironwood, buckthorn, poplar, soft ash, alders. In a few open spaces they try to plant good trees such as spruce, pine, and maple. It is hard work and only those with strong will and a healthy optimism tackle it.

A farmer who is faced with such a problem near Conway not far from Lake Ontario is Harold Garrison. Twenty years ago the woods he owns today were slashed and burned com-

Mayor Granted Absence Leave For Two Months

DESERONTO — With just enough members in attendance for a quorum, the regular meeting of the town council was held on the night Mayor Sweetnam was off on another of his annual winter trips and Councillors Houle and McCaule were reported ill. After the clerk called the meeting to order it was moved and passed that Mayor Sweetnam be granted two months leave of absence and Reeve Lott be appointed acting mayor until his return.

In the reading of the minutes of the previous meetings the report on the Court of Revision revealed that the judge had reduced the assessment of Mrs. Pelby on Main Street. She was not satisfied with the decision of the local Court of Revision and had re-appealed.

Also reported was the meeting between the council and the Public Utilities Commission in which it was decided to advertise for a supervisor for the town, the waterworks and the streets. This will be jointly paid for by the two groups. A further meeting to discuss salary will be held on January 30th between the two groups.

Council made short work of a number of communications asking for donations and association fees. As quickly as they were read they were ordered filed. Council granted the Firemen's Association permission to use the rink for a jamboree on June 29 and 30th and also granted the Marching Mothers permission to hold the March of Dimes on January 29th.

They concurred in the resolution of the Picton council that the Department of Transport be requested to change the name of the Long Reach to Hayward Reach.

A letter was received from the Hon. Mr. Goodfellow, Minister of Highways over his personal signature complimenting the council for their broadcast letter concerning the establishment of stations on Highway 401.

A request from F. Sutcliffe, garbage collector, for an increase in pay was referred to the finance committee for a report.

Wm. B. Crabbe, local assessor, also requested an increase of $400 per year in wages. This request was laid over to the next meeting and council will meet as a committee and discuss the matter.

The question of water supply for West Diadem St. was again requested in a letter from Mrs. Clare. After some discussion this was laid over to the next meeting. Council were of the opinion that the matter had been dealt with last year but Councillor Brooks claimed there was some difference in the cost as he was aware and stated as quoted by the Public Utilities. The snow plowing of the streets also was discussed and council decided that no private roadways were to be plowed. Action will also be taken against those residents who plow their snow into the streets after the streets have been cleared.

A request of Constable Closer for an increase in pay, was read. The Fire and Police Committees recommended the increase so it was granted by council retroactive to January 1st.

The by-laws governing Public Games and Sports and Motion Pictures, Concerts and lectures on Sundays after 1.30 p.m. were passed. A zoning by-law was given second reading and will be submitted to the Municipal Board for approval before third reading.

Councillor Alford was given authority to sign checks for the town until the return of the Mayor on March 31st.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax office.

By C. A. MILLER
Former Supervising Assessor Income Tax Department

We have covered lump sum payments and outlined the types of such payments which were taxable in full and those which come under a special provision of the income tax act. This special provision (Section 30) gives some measure of tax relief by applying a special rate of tax, if it is to the taxpayer's benefit.

Before the special rate of tax is applied, the lump sum is not included with the other income. Only this special tax will show on the return, on the line indicated as "Add, Tax Adjustment." The special tax is determined from your immediate or preceding three years' income and tax paid. Total your last three years' net income and your last three years' Gross Tax. Multiply the three years' tax by the lump sum refund, then divide this by your three years' Net Income. This will give you the exact amount of tax payable on your lump sum refund.

If you do not have copies of your last three returns you can write to your tax office where you filed your returns and ask for the income and tax paid for each year. You must supply them with full information, such as your name and addresses as appeared on your three preceding years' returns and the amount of the lump sum you received. When you have the three years you should attach it to the return you are filing. If your income for any of the years was filed in different income tax offices, it will be necessary to write somewhat as you will have to contact the different offices to get the information desired. If you do not have copies of the years you list.

QUESTIONS

Question: I stopped working to get married. I had no income in the year following my marriage except a refund of my pension contributions. The cheque was for $800. Do I have to pay tax on this at a special rate or can I treat it as ordinary income? Or I treat it as income I am not taxable.

Answer: Your question is a difficult one. It will be up to you and your husband to decide, as to which way the greater benefit arises. If you treat it as taxable you are taxed at the If you do it this way your husband's income tax payable will be reduced. If you pay a special tax on the refund, your husband may claim the $1,000 exemption for you.

Question: I retired at 65 and received a gratuity of $1,000. Is this taxable in full or at a special rate?

Answer: It is a payment on retirement and taxable at the special rate based on the percentage of tax paid over the last three years.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Duty to Children or Husband?

DEAR DORIS:—What I am about to tell you is fantastic, but it is true. I have lived common law with a man for twelve years. We have four children. Last year we separated and in March I was married to another man. I had the oldest child and the youngest with me; the other two were with their father.

Well, the children didn't like their stepfather and in October of last year they went back with him.

I have been so lonely for them and being upset made things very hard between my husband and me. Last Friday I came back to be with them and their father. I am torn in two, I love my children dearly and I know they need me, but what about my husband? I love him too, but I can't have my husband and my children too. What should I do?

I shouldn't have married, I guess, because now I have made my husband very unhappy and I can't find any happiness for myself knowing that I am hurting him.

Who needs me most? My children or my husband? To whom is my first duty?—TORN IN TWO.

* * *

DEAR TORN IN TWO:—You are going to have to choose. There must be some reason why the two children who were with you did not stay.

The best way would be for all four children to come with you to the new home. If your earlier union had been legal and you had been separated by divorce, you would probably have been awarded the children, at least while they were young. If they prefer their natural father to you, he must be doing a fine job for them.

It seems to me you will have to stop thinking about yourself and decide what is best for your children. You need a skilled counsellor to help you sort this out and she will be found at your Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I have been dating a fellow of 25 steadily for three and one-half years. I am 21. I love him dearly and he says he feels the same.

But every time I mention any permanent arrangement, such as engagement or marriage, he changes the subject, saying he isn't ready to settle down. I am beginning to have some doubts about his sincerity. He says we may get married in two or three years.

Do you think he is stalling? Should I stick with him or end our relationship now and begin to get over him?—IMPATIENT.

* * *

DEAR IMPATIENT—It sounds strangely like stalling. Such situations have often been brought to a boil by the girl in the case making a firm issue.

Tell him you are starting to go out with other young men and you feel it is time you were planning on marriage; that you want to be friends but cannot give him all your time. If he lets this happen, he does not love you enough for marriage anyway.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am 15 years of age and I truly love a boy 28 years old. I am told he is a playboy, but I didn't believe it until last weekend. He had invited me up to his parents' cottage and told me his parents would be there.

When we got there he told me to go change and he would tell me when his parents arrived. They did not arrive so I told him I was going to leave. He kissed me passionately over and over again for about five minutes I left and I have not heard from him since. What should I do? I love him.—TRUE LOVE.

* * *

DEAR TRUE LOVE:—Right now it looks like love and it feels like love, but believe me, it won't weather any of the tests!

All that has really happened is that you have found out what it feels like to be kissed—passionately. He lies to you; he pretends love to all the girls; he proves his shallowness by failure to call you again.

Good for you for leaving after five minutes. Stay as far away as you can get from this cradle-snatcher, before you are in real trouble.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I'm 14 years of age and am in grade nine. I have my eye on this girl who is in grade ten and goes to my school. I would like very much to meet her.

I see her in the morning before classes and more so after classes. How can I get acquainted? INTERESTED.

* * *

DEAR INTERESTED — Tag-days tell me there is a big gap between grade nine and grade ten. Whether or not you can bridge it depends on whether she is older than you and on your own aggressiveness.

If you want to try, the casual, direct approach is recommended. Say hello to her as she goes in the hall. Say it again the next time. If the school has informal dance sessions, go to them and ask her for a dance.

Then if she indicates you are too young for her, give up for a while and be sociable with everybody.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I thought your answer to Mrs. L. B. was very appropriate. I am 16 and my mother allows me to wear sleeveless dresses, without any questions asked, except to ask where I am going.

If I had to wear a dress with sleeves to a formal dance, I would feel embarrassed. I have never asked for a strapless dress, although I have worn dresses with thin straps, but that is because I have never wanted one as I don't think I have the figure for a strapless.

At 16 a mother should be helping her daughter grow up and not trying to prevent it. Time cannot be stopped or turned back. We must grow up sometime whether our parents wish it or not.—M. G.

* * *

DEAR M. G.:—Right! And our parents do want us to grow up. Thanks for your note.

* * *

Beaver Harvest In Tweed Area Below Last Year

By WILLIAM J. BITTLES
(Dept. of Lands and Forests)

TWEED — Although the beaver harvest is above normal it has fallen short of last year's record. Trapping due to weather conditions and does not indicate a decrease in the beaver population.

A year ago, travel conditions on our lakes were perfect and trappers were able to exert maximum pressure during most of the winter months. To date, lake travel has been hampered by rather poor ice conditions.

Summary of beaver harvest during the first two months of the season and comparison with the past two years, 1961, 2,332; 1960, 4,045; 1959, 1,832.

An increasing number of district trappers are taking advantage of The Ontario Trappers Association Fur Sales Service in North Bay. Those who shipped fur for the December sale have expressed their satisfaction with prices. A greater volume of pelts are expected for the February 27th sale. Trappers have been notified 10 days in North Bay and in addition to the great experience gained in seeing how the fur is handled, there will be also a salary for services rendered.

Bitter, No-Holds-Barred Fight Between Unions for Representation Is in Offing

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — Winter normally is a time of idleness for Canada's Great Lakes fleet and its sailors; with ships tied up the industry appears to be hibernating.

This winter, however, a bitter, no-holds-barred fight between two unions for the right to represent these sailors is in the offing.

The Canadian Maritime Union (CLC), one of Canada's newest labor organizations, has challenged the Seafarers' International Union (ind.).

The SIU is rich, ambitious and experienced in the ways of inter-labor fighting. Already in the ranks of the Canadian Labor Congress and the Canada Labor Relations Board, it is unlikely to take kindly to an attack on another flank.

The CMU is tough and most militant unions in Canada, the SIU moved to this country during the 1949 fight to break the old Communist - dominated Canadian Seamen's Union. It won and from then. in the words of one union spokesman, success has followed success.

OUSTED FROM CLC

Recently, however, it has had its reverses. The union was booted out of the CLC in April, 1960, for raiding the membership of another CLC union, the National Association of Marine Engineers.

Last summer the SIU was accused by the Labor Relations Board of using fraud to mislead the board in a vote taken to determine which union should represent 200 marine engineers. The SIU bid was rejected.

Leading the SIU is iron-fisted Hal Banks, brought to Canada from the United States to direct the fight against the old Seafarers' Union of Canada.

He has branded the new union a collection of scabs, misfits and communists.

The Canadian Maritime Union didn't even exist officially until Oct. 10, 1961, when its founding convention was held in Montreal.

QUIT S.I.U.

An 11-year veteran of the SIU as a trouble shooter, he says he quit the SIU a year ago because he couldn't stomach what he calls the union's high - handed way of dealing with its members. The SIU says he was voted out of his membership card because the sailors were ready to throw him out.

Sheehan already has driven home one body blow in the fight. His testimony before the CLRB about election rigging was one of the decisive factors in leading the board to bring down its finding of fraud against the SIU.

The struggle gained tempo after the CLRB recently named the CMU bargaining agent for unlicensed employees of two Great Lakes shipping lines. These are Trans-Lake Shipping Limited, operators of the Hilda Marjenne, and two Great Lakes steamships vessels, the Keewatin and the Assiniboia.

However, the board at the same time rejected a CMU application to bargain for 85 unlicensed employees aboard three vessels of the Owen Sound Transportation Company Limited, the Normac, Norgoma and Noralie.

ADMITTED TO CLC

The board ruled the application was not supported by a majority of the employees affected.

Of this exchange, Sheehan said: "We're going to keep praying away. The battle has just started in earnest."

The CMU gained the official backing of the 1,500,000-member CLC three months after it was formed when it was granted affiliation with the national labor body.

In announcing the granting of the affiliation, CLC President Claude Jodoin said the CLC believes the CMU "offers scope for the expectation of democratic trade union representation."

The CMU now is operating out of a one-room office — the SIU has a large building — in west-central Montreal. The offices are manned by a staff of a few hard-backed chairs.

CMU STILL SMALL

"We've got members, not fancy trapp-ings," Sheehan says in promising a concerted organizing drive on the Great Lakes this winter.

The membership, according to the federal labor department, is 18,800. Sheehan says this is nothing. "Our membership already has given its answer—no Canadian sailor will touch that dirty outfit," says the spokesman.

Replies Sheehan: "We want a clean, democratic union on the waterfront, that's all. And that's something we haven't had for years."

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — The inaugural service for the new congregation, United Church Women, was held in Rylstone United Church on Sunday afternoon with Mr. H. D. Pillen in charge. Executive members of the Rylstone organization took part in the service and the choir rendered a lovely duet "Walk With The King."

Members of Rylstone U.C.W. executive are: president—Mrs. Wilfred Spencer; vice-president, Mrs. Will Hopkins; secretary, Mrs. Ray Stewart and treasurer, Mrs. Ivan Bateman.

Mr. Will Morton and son Bob attended a birthday celebration for the latter's brother-in-law, Mrs. Ed Stephens, in Campbellford, on Tuesday evening in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Stephens and her twin sister, Mrs. Alan Fraser of Ridge Road, Stirling.

Mrs. Clarence Thomson and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson attended the Golden Wedding anniversary held at the home of their mother, Mrs. Will Morrow (nee Susan McKeown), in Peterborough, on Wednesday.

Marilyn Stewart was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnston and their granddaughter, Pauline Johnston, in Stirling, on Thursday.

Mrs. Clara Lisle, Stanwood, spent the weekend with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Spencer, Lynne Sussanne, Randy and Rodney.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell King and family, Kathleen, spent evening dinner guests with his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Trumble, Tommy, Michael and Chris, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reid, Harleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watson, Petherick's Corners, called on their mother, Mrs. Essie Reid, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Haig and sons, Campbellford, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Saare and boys, Hoard's Station, were Sunday dinner guests of the latter's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Finch, Garland, Dennis, Jimmie and Susie.

Will Morton and Bob were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones, Friday night.

Mrs. Ralph Heath spent Monday with her mother, Mrs. Estella Gibson, in Campbellford.

Govt. in Position to Call General Election This Spring Or Fall But Not Immediately

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's government is in a position with its new legislative program to call a general election this spring or fall, but is unlikely to seek an immediate test at the polls, qualified observers say.

The prime minister's promise of increased old age pensions will need time for the cumbersome machinery of Parliament to carry out.

Having made the promise official, the Conservatives will not want to dissolve Parliament for a general election without having it put into effect—unless the opposition gives Mr. Diefenbaker the opportunity of blaming it for any delay.

Other highlights of the throne speech read at the opening of Parliament Thursday by Governor-General Vanier promised fulfilment of a number of 1958 election campaign promises.

There of these are in the field of parliamentary affairs, where Mr. Diefenbaker personally is acknowledged as a master practitioner, even by his political opponents.

INCLUDE SENATE REFORM

They include Senate reform, referred to in the official document circular as "a measure relating to the Senate." Senatorial sources believe it will be a measure of compulsory retirement at age 75, and hope it will apply only to new appointees.

Another is Mr. Diefenbaker's promise that a redrawing of constituency boundaries on the basis of the 1961 census, pegged Commons committee. Mr. Diefenbaker has the personal experience of having his old-Saskatchewan riding of Lake Centre merged with Mosse Jaw after the 1956 census. Then he had to find a new riding, Prince Albert.

The third area of parliamentary reform is the promise, after the 1956 pipeline debate, to abolish the rule of closure which enables the government to curtail debate in the Commons. The throne speech also calls for this subject to be referred to a special Commons committee on procedure.

Another promise made in 1958 was that foreign-controlled companies should be required to make public the extent of their business interests in Canada. This was first extended to include foreign-controlled unions, and now has been expanded to cover disclosure of "the ownership and nature of their operations" by both foreign and domestic corporations and unions.

NEED COLLABORATION

A feature of the new legislative program not seen in the extent to which individual proposals depend on provincial government collaboration.

This is expected to be readily forthcoming from the Conservative governments in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Ontario and Manitoba. The other six provinces have governments drawn from parties opposed to the Conservatives.

Heading the list of policies requiring provincial support is the new Conservative promise of a contributory old age pensions supplement administered by the federal government. A constitutional amendment is needed. Both the Liberal and New Democratic parties previously announced plans for contributory pensions schemes, which they promised to put into effect if elected.

The throne speech said Dominion — provincial consultations are being held on measures to encourage "the wise management and multiple use of Canada's natural resources", arising out of the Resources for Tomorrow conference in Montreal last autumn. Mr. Diefenbaker told that conference the government planned to set up a natural resources council, and an advisory board on land and water use.

NEEDS FORMULA

Underlying all the Dominion-provincial proposals is the desire for a formula, acceptable to all provinces, to bring the British North America Act, a United Kingdom statute, under complete Canadian legislative control of Canada. Mr. Diefenbaker has said this will be achieved, his first amendment will be to write a national bill of Rights.

Extension of contributory plan of pensions supplements, in which employees would be able to transfer their rights to benefits if they changed jobs, also requires provincial and territorial governments for an amendment to the BNA Act.

All in all, members of the Commons and Senate looked upon the throne speech as a heavy legislative program, extending into Parliament busy until next summer if its work is not curtailed by an election this fall.

It will need a new budget to carry out. There has been talk in some quarters of the government calling an election on the 1958

Dramatic Swing to Liberals Claimed by Wintermeyer; Robarts Says He Is Pleased

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provincial political leaders viewed Thursday's five Ontario byelection results with mixed feelings.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer, expressing delight in his party's victories in three of the byelections saw the results as "a dramatic swing to the Liberal party."

Premier John Robarts said he was pleased and added: "Now that these campaigns are behind us we can get on with our job."

The New Democratic Party Leader, Donald MacDonald, said he was "disappointed but not downhearted."

Mr. Wintermeyer in Toronto, said Liberal gains were particularly impressive in view of "the tendency in provincial byelections to vote for the government."

At London, the premier said: "I feel that the party's candidates were most able men and those elected will contribute greatly to our program of development in their areas and the rest of the province.

CONGRATULATES VICTORS

"I want to congratulate those who were elected and compliment the candidates in all the ridings on the high standard of their campaigns.

"In due course, all the people of Ontario will be given an opportunity to pass judgment on this government's record of achievement. At that time I am confident that the policies of this new administration will also receive the people's endorsement."

Earlier, in an interview, Mr. Robarts said it was a tight race, "but that was the way we thought it would go."

Mr. Robarts refused to comment on the future of the New Democratic Party on the basis of the election returns.

"There is really very little to draw any conclusions from in these things," he said.

SEES VOTE INCREASE

Mr. MacDonald said, that generally, the NDP had increased its vote over the old Co-operative Commonwealth Federation totals in the 1960 general election.

He said incomplete totals from Kenora riding showed the NDP had 20 per cent of the vote, compared to the CCF's 11 per cent in 1959.

In Renfrew South, where the CCP had no candidate in 1959, the NDP candidate made a good showing, Mr. MacDonald said.

He said his party hopes to build from the foundations it has established and extended his congratulations to all winners.

IMPRESSES PEARSON

Liberal Leader Pearson said he was impressed by the "striking" increase in popular support for Liberal candidates.

There was no comment from Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who follows the tradition that federal prime ministers do not comment on provincial elections. Leading Conservative spokesmen followed his lead.

Hazen Argue, Commons leader of CCD-NDP, was disappointed and observed that "even in Canada's largest industrial province, Ishoy has shown little inclination to support a labor party."

Robert J. Harris, winning Progressive Conservative candidate in Toronto Beaches, said he believes Premier Robarts' visit to the riding Monday "undoubtedly swayed a good many doubtful voters over to my side."

Commenting on observations by Liberals and New Democrats that the anti-government votes were almost double the government votes, Mr. Harris said that in a byelection "the natural tendency for a doubtful voter is to vote against the government, particularly when that

Human Allies Say Groundhog Good Prophet

QUARRYVILLE, Pa. (AP) Defenders of the groundhog protested today against charges that, instead of being a weather forecaster, he's a lazy hibernator who sleeps through Groundhog Day.

The human allies say the groundhog is a top-notch weather prophet. They are basking at the assertion he is interested only in food and romance when he finally awakes.

Groundhog clubs in this eastern Pennsylvania community and in Punxsutawney in the western part of the state charge foul play by the National Geographic Society.

The groundhog was indicted by the National Geographic Society which said he sleeps right through Groundhog Day, Feb. 2, rather than emerging from his cozy quarters and looking for his shadow.

LOOKS FOR SHADOW

The old belief is that if the groundhog sees his shadow Feb. 2 there will be six more weeks of winter weather and poor crops; if he doesn't cast his shadow it means an early spring and good harvest.

But the Geographic Society said the groundhog hibernates from mid - autumn until March, living off food he eats in the summer.

"When he emerges, said the society, he isn't thinking of weather but only of romance and food.

"Oh, foul deed!" exclaimed Robert Herr, chairman of the board of hibernating governors of the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs in Quarryville, after hearing the society's report.

"Never have we been taken to task like this even by those Punxsutawney fellows who have heaped ridicule on us in the past," said Herr.

"They don't know anything about the habits of the groundhog," said Sam Light, president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

RATE IS HIGHER

OTTAWA (CP)—Average interest rate on this week's issue of 91-day government treasury bills increased to 3.06 per cent from 3.004 last week, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday. The move lifted the treasury bill rate to its highest level since June 1 when it stood at 3.14. The rate is generally considered an indicator of conditions in the short-term money market.

Travel Agent Cancels Plans To Visit Greece

TORONTO (CP) — Travel agent Constantine Gus Minakakis, accused in sworn statements of being involved in bypassing immigration regulations for a fee, said Thursday he has cancelled his plans to take a trip to his native Greece.

Earlier he had said he planned to go there for two weeks to visit his sick mother. He was to leave Saturday.

Meanwhile, columnist Pierre Berton of the Toronto Star produced four more sworn statements from Greeks who said they paid money to Mr. Minakakis on the understanding he could bypass immigration regulations in getting their friends into Canada. Mr. Berton has produced 10 such affidavits in the last few days.

Two sisters who signed such statements earlier this week later signed two more ones saying the originals were signed by them without knowing what they were doing or what the statements contained.

The RCMP is investigating the case.

Lawyer Nicholas Paul, representing Mr. Minakakis, said Thursday that "several types of legal action" are being considered in connection with the allegations against his client.

"Our main objective," he said, "is to clear Mr. Minakakis of these false allegations."

WALK-OFF JOBS

NORTH BAY (CP)—No sign of settlement is seen in the strike of electrical workers at the $40M defence project at Tyont Lake despite some 50 workers for the Canada Electric Company walked off their jobs Thursday in a dispute believed to involve termination dates in a proposed agreement with the company.

Elderly Woman Ran Exclusive Bawdy House

TORONTO (CP) — Elizabeth Anderson, 66, who police said operated an exclusive bawdy house for five years, received a suspended sentence Thursday and was placed on probation for two years.

Mrs. Anderson pleaded guilty to procuring and keeping a bawdy house, in which it was alleged she charged as much as $100 for visits.

Magistrate M. J. Cleary told the woman he would not fine her or send her to jail considering her age and the fact it was her first offence.

Mrs. Anderson, described by her counsel David Humphrey as coming from a "well-known social family," was alleged to have played Chopin on the piano while girls entertained customers.

The procuring charge related to Catarina Stevens, 26. She was convicted of being an inmate of the premises and put on probation for a year.

Mr. Humphrey said it was difficult for him "convince" Mrs. Anderson her activities were illegal.

He said she told him: "I live a quiet life, the girls are nice and the men seem to enjoy my piano playing."

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

At the highly enjoyable culinary-defying banquet of the Fish and Gamers at Club Canara the other night, I noticed a stench of old-timers going through what appeared to be arm-stretching semaphore calisthenics.

My "dicky-iddy-mumpty-iddy" training has grown rusty, I couldn't decipher the signals. A spot of sweat-dropping, however, revealed the boys were re-living muskie catches of the past, recent and hoary.

The guy with the longest arms had the biggest catch. Another's full stretch was doubled to bring out the lengthwise dimensions of his prize haul. Most of it was in fun.

And speaking of muskies, those local "Kings of the Longer", Fred and Frank Aikins had better look to their laurels. It says here that a New York man and wife have carried off the title of "King and Queen" of their part of the state, if not the nation.

In fact the word has got around from the musky mob that Mr. and Mrs. Art Lawton, of Delmar, New York, are public pictorial enemies Number One as far as their operations are concerned.

MRS. LAWTON ... and Friend

In fact the "big boys" are scared. They're hiring nother pike bodyguards and deepwater seals as goolies.

For Lawton, the report states, who has been hooking muskies for these many years, has attained championship status and taught Mrs. Lawton well. She is now the runner-up in the musky stakes.

In 1957 Lawton landed a 69 pound 15 ounce lunge that he claims is a world record. The sports bible, Frank Mosher's Encyclopedia, states the world record was set by a 102-pound monster caught in Minocqua, Lake Wisconsin. The Ontario record is 61 pounds also a muscy caught in Eagle Lake in the Kenora district.

Lawton's enthusiasm for muskie fishing caught hold,nd wife Ruth. The two have formed a dedicated team since. Lawton formed a closed family competition for the biggest muskie—and he's getting it.

Last October he boated a beauty weighing 53 pounds six ounces using a 6-inch spinning minnow lure. It won second prize in a New York State contest.

But he hadn't reckoned with his muskie-loving missus. Two weeks later she went out and came home with a nine weighing 68 pounds five ounces, a pound less than her hubby's big catch. She copped a grand prize.

Muskie angling is a fetish with the Lawtons. They've studied the habits, habitat and other data connected with the frighters of the waterways. Together, it is stated, they've caught as many as seven in a single day.

And what makes this total impressive is the fact they only beat 30-pounders or larger. Anything less gets a new lease of life. And believe it or not, neither of the couple has eaten muskie in years. Their friends have well-stocked freezers.

Where do they get them? That is a well-kept secret but they will say that they get the big ones in secluded spots in the St. Lawrence River in the vicinity of Clayton, New York. The actual spots are top brush-bush.

They have divulged that they troll in deeper water than do most muskie fishermen.

The Lawtons live and breathe muskie fishing during the season. They spend every moment they can spare on the trail of the big boys. Lawton estimates that in 1961 he and Mrs. Lawton spent a total of 496 hours on the trail of the underwater toughies.

Three Tied for Lead

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former national collegiate champions Phil Rodgers and Joe Campbell tied with 53-year-old Chuck Congdon for the first-round lead in Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf tournament Thursday as all fired scores of five-under-par 67.

In the pro-amateur division, the lead was held by southern California pro Bob McCallister and Los Angles Angels outfielder Albie Pearson. They had a best-ball total of 59 as-Pearson. with a 10-stroke handicap, the round.

Howe Runs 20-Goal Seasons To 13

Bruins Bump Wings 5-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A scientific study has shown he covers an average of almost five miles a game, a full mile more than anyone else around the league. He ran his record of 20-goal seasons to 13 in a row Thursday night but it went all for naught as far as Detroit Red Wings were concerned. They bowed 5-3 to the revamped Bruins in Boston before a crowd of 6,60.

In mulling a chance to pass New York's idle fourth - place Rangers, the Red Wings blew a 2-1 lead to a club that had previously won only three games all year.

Howe's 20th goal came in the second period on a power-play and gave him a lifetime total of 461 in scheduled play.

In addition to his goal, Gordie also set up Vic Stasiuk for two tallies.

But the Bruins unleashed a three-goal outburst in the second period to take control. They got a two-goal effort from slim Don McKenney and hard - working Johnny Bucyk picked up a goal and a pair of assists.

The Bruins—jobbooting De, trott 39-32 — also gave goalie Terry Sawchuk the ball and Wings a physical drubbing.

The Bruins had Bruce Gamble in goal in place of Don Head and two new faces on the forward line. Larry Hillman and Tommy Williams.

Gamble, Boston's regular netminder for most of last season, was recalled from Portland Buckaroos in exchange for Head.

Hillman came from Providence Reds of the American Hockey League in a switch with Bob Perry. Williams was up from Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional League in place of Terry Gray.

Defeats Ireland's Caldwell

Jofre Wins World Title

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Jubilant Eder Jofre is the undisputed bantamweight boxing champion of the world.

The hammer-fisted little stylist, unbeaten for seven professional fights, solved the squabble over the 118-pound crown with a 10-round knockout of Hoosier Ireland's Johnny Caldwell Thursday night and became Brazil's first undisputed world king.

Caldwell, unbeaten in 20 previous fights and the European version of the title going into the bout before a crowd of about 20,000 in Ibirapuera Stadium, Jofre was recognized as champion by the United States National Boxing Association.

The fighters are tentatively scheduled for a return bout in London, but the date is uncertain.

Jofre, a five-foot-three slugger who has stopped his last 14 opponents and owns 31 knockouts in his 41-0-3 record, was in control throughout the bout and had Caldwell on the floor.

Caldwell pulled himself to his feet and Jofre swarmed to the attack. Caldwell staggered back to the ropes.

Jofre smashed home a right to the face and an uppercut to the chin. Caldwell's arms sagged to his sides. His manager, Sam Doherty, yelled through the ropes and the fight was stopped at 2:45.

OPEN CUT

Jofre, ahead of the cards of all judges, dropped Caldwell for a three count in the fifth round and opened a cut on his,nose in the third round.

"I'm filled with a terrific emotion over this victory," said Jofre, 25, who comes from a fighting family. Ten of his relatives, including his father and an assortment of uncles, brothers and cousins, were fighters.

'Minor Hockey Week'

TORONTO (CP)—Some 137,000 Canadian youngsters will take their regular turn in the lineups of their minor hockey teams next week.

But since it is Minor Hockey Week in Canada, they should have more supporters in the stands. Theme of the week is "take, don't send, your boy to the arena."

The celebration, which has the blessing of officialdom from top to bottom, governmental down to the tiniest community, will include dinners, special church services and trophy presentations.

Throughout the country there will also be recognition for some of the volunteer workers who coach the minor teams. A dozen dozen of them will receive plaques from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Even with its army of unpaid supervisors, minor hockey has become an expensive operation. A survey by the Ontario Minor Hockey Association — largest body of its kind in the world—shows its teams spend more than $670,000 on last season's operations.

The figures indicate each of the 46,720 players registered in the 1,200 teams cost an average $12.30.

In most minor leagues the players pay to play, the most popular figure being 50 cents a game. And in most cases the team sponsors foot the bills for ice time, travel and playing equipment.

Terriers Shed Announced

Key Games Televised

ST. THOMAS (CP) — St. Thomas Elgins are the second Quebec Athletic Association baseball team to disband in less than a week.

A lack of finances and failure to form an executive for the 1962 season were given as the main reasons for the disbanding by the St. Thomas Baseball Association Incorporated. Declining of home attendance and the difficulty of acquiring import players were also given as factors.

Erle R. Burgess, 1961 president, said: "Interest in baseball in St. Thomas has been droppin; for the last four years and 1961 was the worst season since we re-entered the league in 1946."

The Elgins finished last in 1960 and 1961 and home attendance averaged 250 fans a game. Following last season the association showed a bank balance of $17.34.

The association said any new team wishing to form an executive would have until Feb. 1 to enter St. Thomas in the league.

Remaining in the league are Brantford, Kitchener-Waterloo, Guelph, London, Galt and Listowel.

'Seven Days' Reward for Army Champs

CAMP PETAWAWA, Ont.— Five artillerymen who claim a world marathon bowling record have been handed seven days' extra duty on an army charge of disobeying an order.

Major R. E. R. Borland, second in command of the Fourth Royal Canadian Horse Artillery unit here, found the five guilty on Tuesday of the charge and imposed the sentence Thursday.

Capt. R. McGuire, army public relations officer here, said the fivers were given leave to enter the marathon bowling tournament at nearby Petawawa village "because they did so as individuals, not as representatives of their unit."

He said the five bowlers—Don Cormier, Allen Fonk, Fred McKinnon, Leo Donohue and Maurice Smith — were "persuaded" to wear a T-shirt bearing the unit crest in the final hours of the tournament.

The event completed 110 hours of non-stop five-pin bowling Tuesday. A Penitanguishene, Ont., team set the 48-hour, 15-minute mark 11 days ago.

Cobourg Opposes Macs Tonight

The Belleville McFarlands will be fighting to regain a half share of first place in the OHA Eastern Junior hockey league here tonight when they meet Cobourg in a nine o'clock fixture.

The Gananoque Islanders moved back into the loop's top spot last night by defeating Peterborough while Napanee was beating Picton.

This will be Cobourg's only visit here this year and it is an important game for both clubs. While the Macs are battling for the league crown, Cobourg is fighting hard to oust Trenton for the "C" division's fourth and final playoff spot. There are five "C" clubs in the league and only four of them will reach the playoffs. Gananoque, Picton and Napanee appear to have secure grips on the first three positions but Cobourg holds a slim two-point lead over Trenton for the final spot.

The Cobourg club is coached by a former Belleville junior goalie, Jim Irvine, while some of the team's families names in the lineup are Hall, Hook, Dave Doyle, Bob Finkle, Paul Verbeeten and goalie Terry McNamara, the latter from Peterborough.

No word has been received here concerning last Friday's big brawl between the Macs and Kingston in which the locals received nine miscondoct penalties. Ten were assessed at first but it was discovered later that Ted Rowland had left the game back in the second period and was not involved.

Belleville will likely have a full lineup tonight, barring unforseen circumstances.

20 Million Sports Centre For Toronto?

TORONTO (CP)—A group of Toronto architects Thursday suggested construction of a huge sports centre, costing about $20,000,000, and a civic campaign aimed at bringing the 1971 Olympic Games to Toronto.

The plan, presented to the city parks committee, calls for a 100,000-seat stadium, swimming pools, shooting ranges and a regatta course.

City architect C. Ross Anderson said Toronto eventually will have to build such facilities and urged that if he done now the city could attract the Olympics.

The parks committee said it will consider the proposals.

Junior A Lead

Habs, Wings Tied Again

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's beginning to look like the top spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings will have two occupants for a while.

Hamilton Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens moved into a first - place tie last Tuesday. Both teams won again Thursday night and remain tied with 30 points. Hamilton has a game in hand.

Three first-period goals gave Montreal a 3-1 win over third-place St. Catharines Teepees, while Hamilton walloped fourth-place Guelph Royals 6-3.

Captain Jacques Laperriere, Jean Gravel and Andre Boudrias shared the Montreal goals, the first Laperriere has scored in the loss. St. Catharines tally at 17:34 of the second period.

BASEBALL DEADLOCK

The Wings broke a 2-2 draw with a three-goal burst late in the second period and went for another in the third.

Lorne Worsnell, Bob Jamieson, Claude Larose and Keith Wright, Tom Carty and Jim Pal. terson scored for Peterborough.

The Quinte Curling Club sent a representative rink to the 81st Annual International Invitation Men's Bonspiel now under way at Utica, New York.

The bonspiel attracted ten rinks from Ontario, four from Quebec and 12 from the United States.

Galt Terriers To Play In Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP) — Galt Terriers, Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships next month, will play four exhibition games in the Maritimes, it was announced Thursday.

The Terriers will meet Halifax Wolverines here Feb. 1, Amherst Ramblers at Amherst, N.S., Feb. 3 and Moncton Beavers at Moncton, N.B., Feb. 5. The three Maritime teams are members of the Nova Scotia Senior League.

Gross Tops Senior Points Race

LONDON, Ont (CP) — Irwin Gross of Windsor Bulldogs, with a nod of thanks to Garnie Rama, has skated back into the scoring leadership of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association.

The veteran centre scored four goals and four assists as Windsor Ten over the Rama of 13-0 earlier in the week. He went into the game one point behind George Aitken of Chatham Maroons, but emerged with a seven-point lead.

Gross now has 51 points —20 goals and 31 assists. Aitken, held to one goal in the last week, has 64 points, although his 28 goals head the league.

It was a good week for the big three of the Bulldogs. Leo Bendo collected six points to go from seventh into third place with 43 points. Bob Brown has seven goals and six assists which lifted him from 10th to a tie for fourth with teammate Tommy Webber.

Stan Harley of Galt registered the top rung in the goaltending. He nosed ahead of John Campbell-Chatham's position early when he held the opposition to five goals in two games. He has a goals-against average of 2.95, compared with Campbell's 3.10.

Ray Moffitt of Strathroy Rockets holds penalties with 81 minutes.

Lawyer Guilty Of Bribery

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Tucker, a Yonkers, N.Y., lawyer, pleaded guilty in general sessions court Thursday to conspiracy as a misdemeanor in connection with an indictment accusing him of bribing and attempting to bribe college basketball players. He will be sentenced Feb. 21.

Tucker, a former player at Kalamazoo (Mich.) College, was accused of offering $1,000 to Peter Kelly, captain of the University of Connecticut, to shave points in a game with Holy Cross in February, 1961. The indictment also alleged that he gave $1,000 to Ray Fagnozzi of the New York University basketball team between March 1 and March 4, 1961, to shave the score in a game against the University of Connecticut.

Also, it was alleged that Tucker in September, 1960, offered $1,000 to Fred Portnoy of Columbia University to shave points.

Crothers Wins Over Bruce Kidd

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, Canada's athlete of the year in 1961, finished second to Tom Crothers Thursday in the 1,000-yard event at the University of Toronto intermural indoor track meet.

Kidd is still convalescing from a foot infection suffered before the Knights of Columbus track meet in Boston last week in which he placed third in competition with some of North America's best runners in the two-mile event, Crothers won the 1,000-yard run at Boston.

Hull Inters Trappers, Soo Loses

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds moved into a first-place tie Thursday night to ease out of their long-held cellar position in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Thunderbirds were at home to Sudbury Wolves, now holding the fourth and final playoff position, while North Bay Trappers—only two points ahead of Thunderbirds — were meeting the powerful Hull-Ottawa Canadiens in Hull.

But while Trappers were being snowed under, 7-0? by the Habitants, Thunderbirds were rallying, 6-3, to the Wolves.

Hero of the game for the winners was Gerry Kisio, who broke a 2-2 tie with two goals early in the third period. Nick Piano, Lyal Porter, Ed Stankiewicz and Gord Haworth were the other Sudbury scorers.

MOVE AHEAD

The win moved Wolves seven points ahead of Thunderbirds, the Hull victory leaving Canadiens six points ahead of Sudbury.

Canadiens gave little evidence in the first period of what they had in store for the Trappers. It wasn't until 10:50 of the period that Chuck Hamilton scored his first two goals.

Bill Mackinnon and rookie Wayne Boddy each scored twice and Freddie Stiles once for the winners, who led 4-0 after two periods.

A crowd of 2,788 was on hand to watch Hull goalie Cesare Maniago claim his first shutout of the season.

Spahn Happy Over Contract

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn is the greatest lefthander in baseball and already the game's highest paid pitcher, signed his 1962 contract with Milwaukee Braves Thursday and said he was "very happy" with the terms. His 1961 salary was about $75,000.

Spahn, who will be 41 in April when he seeks his 320th major league victory, pitched a no-hitter while compiling a 21-15 record last season, which was his 12th with 20 or more victories. He led the National League with an earned run average of 3.01 and tied for most victories as well as most shutouts, four, extending his own league record to 56 for lefthanders.

Made High Bid

Larks Out Of Running For Stephens

MONTREAL (CP) — Mr. H. Ted Workman said Thursday night his Montreal Alouettes have withdrawn from the bidding for Sandy Stephens, Minnesota's Rose Bowl quarterback.

The president of the Eastern Football Conference club said the club earlier offered Stephens a three-year no-cut contract for more than $150,000, but he said fast bursts of "excessive" bidding by Cleveland Browns of the National Football League the All Stephens against further bidding for the "welfare of our team."

Perry Moss, Montreal, head coach and general manager, went to Minneapolis earlier this week to speak to Stephens. Workman said Moss carried authority to offer Stephens more than $30,000 a season plus a $20,000 bonus for signing.

Picks Czechs, U.S. to Win

Gaudette Is Gloomy Gus

GALT (CP) — Galt Terriers' manager Len Gaudette, expecting no better than a third-place finish for his club, has picked Czechoslovakia and the United States as the clubs to beat in the world amateur hockey championships.

Gaudette expects Canada and Russia to battle it out for third and Sweden to "breathe down everyone's necks."

"The Czechs are overdue for a title and the U.S. will ice its most veteran club," he said Thursday.

Czechoslovakia was second last year at Geneva, Switzerland, when Trail, B.C., won on goal average after the clubs tied for first.

"I'm not belittling our own club but the days of Canada walking away with top honors are gone, Gaudette said. "The Europeans are on a par with our amateurs now."

Gamble Latest Casualty!

"Battle of the Balge"

BOSTON (CP) — Phil Watson, who has been around the National Hockey League for quite a while as a player and coach, has revived a 12-year-old instrument of torture —the battle of the bulge—to help the newest arrival in the NHL—a long suffering goaltending fraternity.

Current victim of the device is Bruce Gamble, the pudgy netminder who stepped off a plane from Portland, Ore., and helped Boston Bruins whip Detroit Red Wings 5-3 Thursday night.

Watson, who started the lat-relace Bruins, showed his gratitude by giving the 215-pound goalie no peace until the 15 pounds.

"Gamble played a fine game out there but he's going to play even better," Watson said, explaining his ultimatum. The coach said he doesn't care how Gamble goes about getting rid of the poundage.

The last man to go through a similar ordeal was Walter (Turk) Broda, for years a portly goaltender of the 1940s, who was benched by Maple Leaf general manager Conn Smythe in December, 1943, with orders to lose seven pounds or else.

The Turk sat out one game while trimming down from 197 pounds to a svelte 180. When he returned, he blanked New York Rangers 3-0, stopping 22 shots, and stuck around to help Toronto win eight Stanley Cups following season.

Gamble moved up to the Bruins from Portland Buckaroos of the Western League in exchange for rookie Don Head.

Oshawa Police Reid's Rangers Play Tonight

The challenge was hurled by the visitors, who claim the Eastern Canada title.

"Punch" Reid has other ideas. He claims his proteges have always been good for a pinch and tonight won't be different.

The game starts at 6.30 and will last the usual three periods, depending on how many are on their feet.

Canadians 'Way Back' In Slalom

BAD GASTEIN, Austria (AP)—Traudl Hecher, Austria's teenage wonder, scored a strong comeback victory in the International Women's Ski giant slalom race Thursday.

Miss Hecher, 18, sped down the frightful — and Grasshogel Mountain course in one minute, 48.9 seconds in outclassing a field of 83 skiers from 20 countries. The world's top woman skier had finished a disappointing 13th in Wednesday's downhill event.

The Canadian team found the 1,750-yard course, with its sharp 457-yard drop and 44 gates, not to their liking. Nancy Green of Vancouver was the best of the Canadian group, finishing 34th in one minute, 52.3 seconds. Linda Crutchfield of Chicago, Que., was 43rd, Nancy Holland of Montreal 48th, Vicki Rutledge of Ottawa 58th and Ann Parsons of Ottawa 68th. Miss Hecher finished 2.6 seconds faster than runner-up Marianne Jahn of Austria.

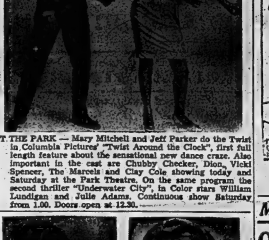
At the Park

First Showing
("THE TWIST")

"The Twist," the biggest dance craze in America today, is a major entertainment element in Columbia Pictures' "Twist Around the Clock," now at the Park Theatre with such recording artists as Chubby Checker, Dion, Vicki Spencer, The Marcels and Clay Cole. Mary Mitchell and Jeff Parker do the dancing, as a brother-sister team who help to popularize the routine.



Chubby Checker, who probably did more to launch "The Twist" than anyone else around, explains its popularity thusly: "Anyone can do the 'Twist.' You can learn it in a few minutes, and there are no complicated steps to try and remember. You just sort of do what comes naturally."

According to choreographer Earl Barton, who handled the spectacular "Twist" dance numbers in the movie, "You and your partner face each other in a boxing-like stance. Then you start twisting in the direction of you going one way, the top half the other. If you can keep your twisting in time and move without breaking, you're 'Twisting'. The trick to success in the dance is that you do not touch your partner at any time during the dance. You have to have the basic twisting down pat, then you can improvise using your own arms and other parts of the body."

And director Oscar Rudolph has what amounts to the simplest explanation of all: "You put a cigarette drop it on the floor, step on it with your foot and start twisting it out with your entire body."

James B. Gordon wrote, and Sam Katzman produced, "Twist Around the Clock."

"On the same program, the second thriller in color, "Underwater City" stars William Lundigan and Julie Adams. The shows are continuous on Saturday starting at 1 p.m. Doors open at 12.30 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Mary Mitchell and Jeff Parker do the Twist in Columbia Pictures' "Twist Around the Clock", first full length feature about the sensational new dance craze. Also important in the cast are Chubby Checker, Dion, Vicki Spencer, The Marcels and Clay Cole showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program the second thriller "Underwater City", in Color stars William Lundigan and Julie Adams. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00. Doors open at 12.30.

LAST 2 DAYS AT THE BELLE — Handsome Tommy Sands, stars as the young hero, Tom Piper, with Annette, teenage actress and recording artist in "Babes in Toyland", Walt Disney's first great, great live action Technicolor show for everyone, playing today and Saturday at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Program May Cause Number Of Dietetic Backsliders

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Although one out of three Americans is overweight, only one out of 10 seems to be able to diet successfully and anyway, some psychiatrists aren't certain that all overweight people should try to slim down. (When they fail, they lose self-confidence.)

Here is a sample of the information purveyed to the calorie and cholesterol conscious public Thursday by the TV networks, which assembled the TV program, may have caused a number of dietetic backsliders today.

It was a thorough, although discouraging, summary of a national β r o β — excess pounds—with an excursion into the associated diet problems of cholesterol, the substance which seems to be clogging America's arteries.

Viewers who missed ABC's Yves Montand on Broadway special—early in the season will treat ment of the test shows, have an unusual chance to catch the show May 11—on NBC.

Recommended Viewing:
Tonight — Telephone Hour, NBC, 9:30-10:30 EST—Classical guitarist, Andres Segovia and pianist Vronsky and Babin.

Sunday — Bing Crosby golf tournament, ABC, 5-6:30 p.m.—annual pro - amateur affair from Pebble Beach, Calif.;

Focus, NBC, 5-6—Dramatization of Arthur Miller novel with James Whitmore and Colleen Dewhurst of Montreal;

Twentieth Century, CBS, 6-6:30 The Airport Jam, about our crowded landing fields; Circus, NBC, 10-11 — a documentary

Sports Snapshots

By BOB TRIDSEE

EDMONTON (CP)—Has success spoiled Edmonton sports fans?

Coaches of Edmonton's professional football and hockey clubs are asking themselves this question when they ponder failing attendance of the last few seasons.

On the road their powerpacked teams rated among the best drawing cards, but at home almost haven't been large enough to keep the club finances in the black.

They can't shudder, too, when they look back 20 years and see what happened to Edmonton's fabulous basketball Grads.

Percy Page, now Alberta's lieutenant - governor, was then an Edmonton school principal and Grads coach. Brew in the sponge because of dwindling fan support for his women champions.

In 1931 both football and basketball experienced similar concern about failing attendances. However, neither sport appears ripe for the ashcan yet.

EXPECT WINNER

"Maybe we've been winning too long," says Joe Ryan, Esquimalt general manager. "fans seem to have become accustomed to winning and anything less if criticized.

The Eskimos dominated Canadian football from 1954 to 1958 with three consecutive Grey Cup championships. In 1960 they finished second to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Western Football Conference, but were upset in the semi-final by Calgary Stampeders.

It marked the first time in 13 years Edmonton failed to reach the league final.

"What we really need is a well - balanced league," said Ryan. "A league so close that every game counts and no team can take another for granted would be enough. I'm sure, to draw back the fans."

Bud Polle, coach and general manager of Edmonton Flyers, the city's Western Canada attendance at Edmonton games started to slip in 1958. Others had what Polle considered the best ever minor professional hockey in Edmonton.

LOSING MONEY

"On that team were such current NHL stars as Bronco Horvath Glenn Hall (Chicago), Norm Ullman and Vic Stasiuk (Detroit), Bronco Horvath (Chicago) and Johnny Bucyk-(Boston).

"We ended the season with a lower attendance than the previous year when we finished fourth. We walked away with everything but attendance went down. It hasn't come back since."

This season the Flyers, who won 14 of their first 17 home games, averaged about 3,500 fans, about 500 below the breakeven point, he said.

The 1961 Eskimos averaged 13,000-14,000 fans with the high 20,000 for an interlocking game against Toronto Argonauts and the low 9,000 for the season's charge children 50 cents by final game against Winnipeg. $1.75 seats if accompanied by The break - even point was 15,- parents.

Onetime Miss U.S.A. Thrice Wed, Seeks Stage Career

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Leona Gage, with so many husbands and almost as much publicity as some stars, is embarked on what she calls her first serious attempt to make it as an actress.

Only 32 and striking brunette, the onetime Miss U.S.A. for-a-day is studying drama nights and working before the camera days with Vincent Price, Basil Rathbone and Peter Lorre in Poe's Tales of Terror, a trilogy of Edgar Allan Poe's works.

In 1957, at 18, Leona was Miss Maryland in the Miss Universe contest, at nearby Long Beach.

"I hid the fact that I was married because I was leaving my husband," she recalls, "I was just hoping to get a job to support my sons. I soon figured I had any chance of winning."

WON EASILY

But her beauty and figure were so outstanding that she easily beat out the other American entries.

Then her mother-in-law blew the whistle on her—and she was stripped of her title. She had been married not once but twice.

As the most famous beauty contest loser in the country, she was swamped with show biz, beau offers.

"It was so green that I couldn't take advantage of the publicity. I remember throwing away one offer from Mike Todd because I had never even heard of him then," she recalls.

She did become a showgirl at Las Vegas' Tropicana and later at the Moulin Rouge here where she met her third husband. She since has divorced him.

"All I've got to show for my marriages are two children and a broken heart," she says. "I've got to make good for them."

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Earthquakes, the possible magic of souped - up light, and aerial "spacewriting."

BUSHED-OUT EARTH

Although plenty of major political news was centered on the surface during 1961, the earth last year was comparatively quiet from the standpoint of producing internal rumblings—earthquakes, that is.

U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey seismologists say the year was a "weak" one for earthquakes—with only a few really big trembles shown on 60 widely separated places on the earth's surface.

Their explanation:

Mother Earth was, in effect, pretty "bushed" herself, having in tough fashion the year before—when she loosed such major quakes as the Chilean one that spawned a great tidal wave in the Pacific Ocean.

There's plenty of precedent, the seismologists say, for such "quiet" years. For example, 1907, the year following the year of San Francisco's giant quake, was a pretty calm one.

SOUPED-UP LIGHT

Keep the word "LASER" under your hat. Some day, experts say, it may be as commonly understood as the word "radio." Today, however, it is a mystery word to most people.

Now we have "skytyping" by airplanes as well as the more familiar "skywriting."

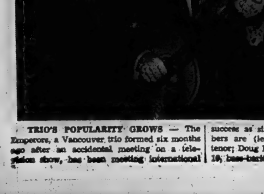
Five airplanes fly parallel courses in tight formation and they emit staccato smoke bursts electronically. The idea is to get a sky - written advertisement a day before poor weather sets in.

"LASER" is a system for amplifying and sharpening weak waves of light to produce a narrow, powerful beam—and the ultimate hope is to employ optical "lasers" much the same way radiowaves now are used.

AERIAL TYPISTS

Now we have "skytyping" by airplanes as well as the more familiar "skywriting."

Five airplanes fly parallel courses in tight formation and they emit staccato smoke bursts electronically. The idea is to get a sky - written advertisement a day before poor weather sets in.



Bristol Zoo Keeper First To Milk Rhino

BRISTOL, England (AP)— Stan Evans said modestly Thursday that he is far as he knows he is the first person ever to milk one of the world's shortest - tempered beasts — a rhinoceros.

The milk is being analyzed with a view to converting a synthetic substitute for baby rhinos whose mothers are killed by poachers in Africa. If the experiment succeeds, it may save the increasingly rare black rhino from extinction.

Saturday, January 20

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — What could start out as pleasant social evening could end up in lover' quarrel. Stress on sections of chart having to do with friends, romance, prestige. Overcome temptation to nag, complain.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20)—Yes, this could be weekend in which your formulate plans that help your standing professionally and in community. Today good for "tinkering" with car, home improvements. Social affair good.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Pieces fall together . . . those who were ignied now are for you. Situation changes today completely in your favor. Give your all in writing, creative efforts.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)—Vitality, could be lowered unless you obtain proper food, rest. Plenty of excitement indicated today and tonight. Remember to keep both feet on ground. Make no definite promises. Wait.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Cycle up, but others seem full of arguments about why things can't be done. Do not become discouraged. Hold your ground. Next day moves in reverse. There is a swing in your direction. Good!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Better for finishing than starting new projects. Good night for meeting old friends, for theatre o. party. Hold off on rash experiments. Stick with the old, the trusted.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Romance in air for you . . . be charmed, captivating. Allow full bloom of character to shine through. Avoid being closed in or restricted. Express self fully.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Trust "hunches" or Intuitive intellect today. You have a tendency to instantaneously arrive at the truth — then to begin a period of self-doubting. None of that today!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Anything you can do today to involve yourself in community activity is to be encouraged. If an individual with experience or community offers advice . . . listen. Very good!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Moon in Eighth sector causes second thoughts concerning investments, partners, promises. Cast doubts from mind over weekend . . . conditions are better than you might believe.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): If others present problems to you, try to make them see the brighter side. This might not be so easy. But by teaching, aiding others . . . you, too, will gain. Be conservative.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Day flavored for a dinner party at home. Avoid outside adventures that involve taking chances. Let Piscean qualities of sympathy, understanding shine through. Be fair.

If born today . . . you find yourself with greater freedom of action this year, and with the month of May highlighted for year. You are a person of contrasts. Not always easy for you to understand yourself. But you are on rigt track when generous, open-minded, versatile.

* * *

General Tendencies: All signs could find this a day when best friends are ultrasensitive. Advice given Pisces could be taken to heart by all signs. Do something to show friends you care enough to go to a little trouble. Try to understand their questions, problems.

10 Defendants In TV Scandal Plead Guilty

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Company said Thursday that none of the tens of thousands of dollars they have received ever had been returned.

He said return of the money never has been offered or even asked, and that much of it probably has been spent before the scandal became public. Much of it also went to income tax deficiencies.

Charles Van Doren, 36, and nine other contestants entered guilty pleas Wednesday and were given suspended sentences. They could have been sentenced to three-year prison terms and fined $500 each for lying to a grand jury in denying they had received advance help to answer quiz show questions.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, Jan. 18, 1962

Governor - General Vanier read the speech from the throne, an outline of the government plans, to open the fifth session of the 24th Parliament.

The speech forecast higher old age pensions and other welfare payments, increased university grants and acreage payments for farm products.

It indicated or announced action on textile tariffs, a contributory old age pension scheme and an interprovincial power grid study.

The speech said Parliament will be asked to implement recommendations of the royal commission on publications with modifications.

Paul Martineau, Conservative MP for Pontiac-Timiskaming, was elected the Commons' deputy speaker on vote of 139 to 9, the CCF dissenting.

FRIDAY, Jan. 19

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. for speeches of the mover and seconder of the address in reply to the throne speech. The debate is adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Labor Bd. Rejects Request Of Mine-Mill Ind. Union For Inco Conciliation

SUDBURY (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board on Thursday rejected a request by Local 598 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Ind. for conciliation in their contract negotiations with the International Nickel Company of Canada.

The board, instead, ordered the local, which is currently embroiled with the United Steelworkers of America CLC for representation of the 18,000 workers here, to resume its own talks with the company.

The board set a Feb. 2 deadline by which time the two parties must have resumed bargaining.

To date, the Mine-Mill, Inco talks total one meeting. It was held last week in mid-December but Inco said it could see no useful purpose in continuing because of Sudbury's unsettled labor situation.

The board ruled Inco's objections to resuming talks were invalid.

Local 598's contract with Inco expired Jan.2, but members have been working since then under the terms of the old three-year agreement.

The rival Steel union, which has been fighting a three-month campaign for Sudbury district to sign up Mine-Mill members, asked the board for certification as bargaining agent for the Inco workers.

WANT A HEARING

The national office of Mine-Mill, led by President Ken Smith, asked to be allowed to be held without a hearing to justify it.

The board Thursday ruled national office objections to the vote "not well taken" and concurred with a ruling handed down Sept. 5 by Chief Justice J. C. Mcllraith of the Ontario Supreme Court that restrained Smith on his arrest from acting or conspiring to act in any way in the affairs of Local 598.

A first step toward the vote will be taken Monday when a board-appointed examiner will be in Sudbury to plan for it. A date for the vote will be set pending a report from the examiner.

Smith said Thursday he and other national officers of Mine-Mill had never opposed a vote being held "providing it was proven conclusively that Steel was legally entitled to such a vote."

He said that in view of the collusion between Steel and the forces of Local 598 President Dan Gillis, the workers' rights should be protected.

HASN'T OPPOSED

Gillis, in Europe attending a NATO meeting as a Canadian labor representative, has not put any opposition to Steel's incursions in Sudbury.

The national office of Mine-Mill also announced that a meeting of Local 598 members Wednesday night voted to set up a bid committee to hear charges against Gillis' executive.

The charges are that they slandered national and international officers of the union; refused to obey and to accede the local; conspired with officers of Steel; defied the international by their rights by cancelling membership meetings, and spent the membership to the membership in violation of the constitution and bylaws of the local.

The attendance of about 2,000 was the largest held for 298 executive from spending any money without approval of the membership, and to ask banks not to accept cheques signed by local officers.

Opposition Claims Throne Speech Big Disappointment

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson said Thursday night the government's legislative program as outlined in the speech from the throne is a "deep disappointment" because of "total failure" to deal with four major problems facing Canada.

Hazen Argue, House leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group, echoed Mr. Pearson's words in saying the contents of the throne speech "are very disappointing."

Mr. Pearson said in a statement the government has not shown any sign that it intends to come to grips with these problems:

1. "No program of action for the stimulation of economic growth.

2. "No program of action to effectively combat chronic unemployment.

3. "No definition of a coherent policy indicating that the government recognizes the dramatic new trading patterns that are taking shape in Europe, and the opportunities and challenges they represent for this country.

4. "After two years of indecision and procrastination, there is still no clear statement of an effective Canada-United States policy—whether Canada is or is not to have nuclear arms."

Mr. Argue said our "glaring example" of omissions in the speech "is the failure to make any announcement as to a government policy to put unemployed people to work."

"This speech from the throne is one of stagnation," he said in an interview.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Social Credit Leader R. N. Thompson says the speech from the throne is "an election program giving empty promises to all."

He said it indicates an early federal election.

Mr. Thompson, commenting in a statement on the speech, said:

"I am appalled at the total failure of the Diefenbaker administration to grapple firmly with the desperate economic situation that its policies have created in Canada today."

FINDS WIFE SLAIN

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A housewife was found bludgeoned to death in her apartment Wednesday night, police said, in the third such killing in 16 days. Mrs. Jessie Mae, 56, was lying face down on the floor when her husband, Samuel, a market owner, arrived home from work.

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — U.S. Col. L. F. Rengle Jr. of the U.S. Lakes Survey had good news for ship operators on three of the Great Lakes, but bad news for those on the other two.

In a report to the 36th annual joint conference of the Great Lakes Century Association and the Dominion Marine Association Wednesday, Col. Rengle said his surveys forecast Lakes Superior, Huron and Michigan will be higher this year than last but Lakes Erie and Ontario lower.

Great Lakes shipping companies measure inches in millions of dollars over the ice-free shipping season. Although assured by the government of only 27-foot channels, every inch above this so-called low water datum permits the loading of additional tons.

COULD BE WORSE

Col. Rengle estimated that Lake Erie will be 2.1 feet above low water datum on the average in June compared with 2.8 feet in June of 1961.

He estimated Lake Ontario would be 2.5 feet above in June, compared with 2.8 feet in the same month a year ago. The Ontario forecast might have been worse, he added, but:

"A revised Lake Ontario regulation plan which went into effect on June 6, 1960 helps alleviate the situation somewhat.

"This plan permits us to more effectively utilize available water during dry years by releasing less than normal flows during the late winter and early spring months for release during the fall months. This makes it possible to maintain higher levels during the latter part of the navigation season than did our previous regulation plan."

By KEN SMITH

GREAT WHALE RIVER, Que. (CP)—Trying to teach an Eskimo Boy Scout woodcraft is like teaching Einstein's basic multiplication tables. "Believe me," says Ron Murray, a leading aircraftman at the RCAF radar station here, "you can't show them a thing. In fact, all you can do is sit back and watch them."

LAC Murray is the organizer and scout master of the Great Whale troop. Situated 700 miles north of Montreal, the newly formed troop is only the second in Canada's eastern Arctic.

A native of Fredricton, LAC Murray was a first - class scout with St. Dunstan's troop in his home town and carried his interest in the movement here when he was transferred by the RCAF 19 months ago.

Organizing a scout troop in the far north has a lot of unusual problems, says LAC Murray.

NO BIKES

"For example, one of the badges a scout is supposed to get is for bicycling, but where in the Arctic are you going to with bicycles for these boys?"

And even if you do, where are they going to ride?

"The Scout Manual will have to be changed for the Eskimos. The one thing we're going to try to do is have a special badge for Eskimo boys for training and caring for a husky team.

"That's something that's important for these boys."

Another difficulty was getting uniforms for the boys. The RCAF solved the scout's "buddy" system, in which a southern troop collects equipment for their northern partners.

Hats and shirts were collected by a troop in Mount Royal, a Montreal suburb, and flown here.

The boys got their uniforms only a few hours before their troop was given a charter by the Boy Scout Association. The presentation was made by Air Commodore J. B. Harvey, chief staff officer of the Air Defence Command at St. Hubert, Que., and chairman of the Northern and Eastern Arctic Scout Committee.

There now are 18 Eskimo and Indian boys in the Great Whale troop, but LAC Murray and Gary Moore, employee of the local Hudson's Bay Company store and assistant scout master, expected more than 30 within two or three months.

"Getting the charter and the uniforms will be a big help," says LAC Murray. "Lots of other boys wanted to join but they were too shy. Now they'll have 'Even more' reason for joining so they can get into it too."

Seafarers' Union Says New Group Has Active Red Cell Working Within It

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — Charges and counter - charges have marked the opening stages of a bid by the newly created Canadian Maritime Union (CIO) to take over as bargaining agent for Canada's inland sailors from the Seafarers' International Union (Intl.).

The SIU says the new union is made up of scabs and has a strong communist influence. The CMU attacks what it calls dictatorial methods of the SIU hierarchy, exorbitant dues and special assessments, lack of democracy and lack of real responsibility of the executive to the members.

The SIU says the new union has an active communist cell working within it. This cell, the SIU says, aims at planting trained communist operatives aboard any vessel signed on a CMU crew.

To try to lend weight to its charge of communist infiltration, the SIU sent a telegram to President Kennedy calling for an investigation of the new union.

DENIES CHARGE

Mike Sheehan, one-time SIU trouble shooter and now president of the CMU, denied that the SIU charge about a communist cell in the union was true.

Of the telegram to Kennedy, he exclaimed: "Investigate!! I've invited reporters to investigations of my own. Since 1946 some $7,000,000 of seafarers' money has gone into the SIU account. I'd like to see an accounting."

Hal Banks, SIU president, was not available for comment on Sheehan's charges, but an SIU spokesman said in reply that the charges are decided every two weeks by an elected rank and-file committee and are open to inspection by members at any time.

Most so, says Sheehan. He charges that the elections of the committees are either rigged or the SIU membership intimidated and not trailed to deal with the infraction of accounting methods — simply approve any statement put in front of them without knowing what they are doing.

SAYS DUES HIGH

Sheehan's bitterest comments on the SIU are levelled in connection with union dues. After a three month initiation SIU members pay $4 a month, plus special assessments levied by the union.

Sheehan says an SIU member in Owen Sound, Ont., received $153 for two weeks work. Normal income was $60 and employment insurance were deducted and then the SIU took the balance. He left the hall smaller with $21, he says.

He says a steward was saying his union fees had $5 left from $107.

The CMU says its fees will be $5 membership, $5 a month and no special assessments.

Sheehan says he has been threatened anonymously since he set up the new union and for a long time the office was plagued by someone phoning every few minutes. When the phone was answered, the caller would hang up, only to call back again. Sheehan says he finally was stopped after it was reported to the telephone company.

Sheehan admits he expects a quiet time in that the union is to organize the inland sailors.

'LIVING IN FEAR'

"They don't know which way to turn. Some of those men I've known for years, but they're afraid even to be seen talking to me.

"The SIU membership actually is living in fear. If they do anything to get the SIU brass mad at them—and talking to me will do that—they'll lose their SIU membership.

"And right at the moment that's enough to lose them their jobs since there are only a few weeks sailing that aren't SIU.

"That's the SIU idea of democracy. The troops can't even try to find out what the other side is offering."

Sheehan also says the SIU executive is not elected democratically; charging that only about three per cent of the membership get to vote in elections, since they are so scattered.

"That's a lie," says the SIU. "Our officials are elected by all the members, not like the CMU where a few delegates to a convention elect the top officers. So where's the real democracy?"

6th Sidney

6TH SIDNEY — A communion service was held in Scott's United Church hall on January 12 in honor of Mr. Cameron Bird who was 80 when 70 guests were present.

Three Byelection Contests May Have Recounts

Eglinton Riding Goes To PC by Only 38 Votes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Recounts in three tight fights are indicated as a sequel to Ontario's four byelection contests of Thursday.

The Liberals announced re-counts will be sought in the Toronto ridings of Eglinton and Beaches, won by the government Progressive Conservatives on the basis of an official count in one riding and an unofficial count in the other.

Premier Robarts said the Progressive Conservatives will make a decision after the Jan. 26 official recount in Carleton West, where a sec ... new vote mixup over the Liberal sheets. Liberal leader Winkworth said that, should the official count put him ... behind, he will demand a recount.

Brockville and Kenora stayed in the Liberal ranks, with handy wins in both constituencies.

RESULTS

The Socialist New Democratic Party trailed everywhere, all the way from Stan Bullock in the Beaches polling less than 1,000 votes to ...

Like Renfrew South, the contests in Eglinton and Beaches were spectacular. Both ridings slicing nightlily into the Conservative majorities pluralities of the Conservatives.

With 19 of 141 polls still to be heard from in northwestern Kenora—the province's largest riding in area—the Liberals had overall about 47 per cent of the popular vote, against 38 for the Conservatives and 17 for the NDP.

In the last general election, the Conservatives polled 51 per cent in the same riding and the Liberals 28. The CCF, predecessor of the NDP, got 12 per cent in contesting four of these seats.

With a general election expected in 1963, party standings in the legislature at present are: Progressive Conservatives 70, Liberals 29, NDP 5.

PREMIER COMMENTS

Mr. Winternever called the results a "fantastic swing" to his party which "is a great general election victory for the Liberal party and the Conservatives put it out of office in 1943.

"If this had been a general election," Mr. Winternever added, "I am sure the Liberals would have been even more overwhelmingly in our favor."

From the Liberal viewpoint, a chest-thumping aspect of the three party wins was that they were the first in 18 years in provincial byelections.

Feb. 2 Date Set for Trial Of Meat Case

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Evidence will be heard Feb. 2 in the case of Nick Peconi, 47, charged under the Food and Drug Act with trafficking stemming from a dead animal for human consumption.

Peconi, free on $1,000 bail, today pleaded not guilty.

Accused is the operator of a dead animal removal business. He was one of nine Ontario men arrested by RCMP Jan. 4 following undercover investigations into alleged trafficking in tainted meat.

After pleading the date of the hearing, Magistrate N. Dosiper commented: "I don't want to get it over too long. Some of the meat might spoil."

QUESTIONS HAD FAMILIAR RING IN PARLIAMENT

Government Replies Non-Committal

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons was preoccupied Friday with more of what Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called the "pedestrian beginning" of the election campaign.

Otherwise, its first real working day of the new term appeared in many respects to be a straight carryover from its previous session that ended 10 weeks ago. Even the questions had a familiar ring:

When would the government decide whether to accept or refuse nuclear weapons? when would western farmers get their final wheat payment from the 1960-61 pool? and what of the Columbia River project and the British uranium contract, the butter surplus?

Most government replies were non-committal.

Then Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, and Mr. Diefenbaker put into words what the assembled MPs and those in the galleries were thinking about.

ASKS RE BYELECTIONS

Mr. Martin referred obliquely to Thursday's five Ontario provincial byelections, three won by the Liberals. Had these "exceptional events" caused the prime minister to consider when the next federal general election will take place?

Mr. Diefenbaker offered this answer:

"I remember...when the Hon. gentleman was sitting over here on this side of the chamber, and when the then (Liberal) government lost nine, 10 or 11 federal byelections. Where we asked a similar question, first said, 'Wait until the general election.'

"We waited and the government went back."

Notice was given of three government bills and five government resolutions laying the basis for new taxation. No measures were forecast in the speech from the throne.

Justice Minister Fulton gave notice of a bill "to provide for the reporting of financial and other statistics relating to the affairs of corporations and labor unions carrying on activities in Canada."

It has been reported the bill

MIDDLE EAST COUNTRIES GAIN BY REGULATIONS

Immigration Laws Slightly Relaxed

OTTAWA (CP)—Asians, Africans and the nationals of Middle East countries will gain the most from new immigration regulations announced in the Commons today by Immigration Minister Fulrotough.

She said these people now will be considered for admission to Canada if they have the education, training and skills to fit into Canada's social and economic life, and if they are sufficiently close to Canada as well.

No longer would they require a special cabinet order-in-council for entry. Under the new rules, they would be able to sponsor the entry of a wider range of relatives than previously.

Mrs. Fairclough told a press conference later that she does not think the new regulations will change the Canadian immigration pattern. The country would remain predominantly white.

Will the new regulations mean a big increase in immigration? She replied that the future rate will depend on Canada's economy, and conditions in the countries from where the immigrants come.

ARRIVALS IN FEWER

A total of 56,166 immigrants—mostly Italian and British—arrived in Canada in the first nine months of 1961, well down from the 104,111 who immigrated in the period in 1960. Figures for all of 1961 are not available yet.

Mrs. Fairclough said Mr. Fulclough said the new regulations mean that any person qualified to enter can be considered for immigration to Canada entirely on his own merits and without re-

Woman Stabbed Walking Home From Work

ST. THOMAS (CP) — The movements of Mrs. May Willon, 64, on the night she was stabbed to death, were traced Friday for a Supreme Court jury.

Mrs. Vivian Roberts, who lives across the street from the Willon home, told of the slaying in the front room with her family when she heard screams on the night of Oct. 19, 1961.

Mrs. Maud Mrs. Wilson stag-gering on a lawn near her home, a bloody knife in her back, been plunged into her back pro-truded through her chest.

Mrs. Willon died on a slab as she walked the four blocks from her home to St. Thomas YWCA.

Powerful New Type of Insulin Aids Stubborn Cases of Diabetes

TORONTO (CP) — The 40th anniversary of the first use of insulin in treatment of diabetics was marked here today with a report on a powerful new type of insulin.

The development has already helped diabetics whose bodies resist ordinary insulin and are still in the clinical trial stage, but it could prove a boon mainly for all diabetics in the future.

The serum, a chemically-processed beef pancreas called sodium or sulphonated insulin, was developed by Dr. R. Mooney of Connaught's Connaught research laboratories.

The insulin was tested successfully on patients in Halifax during the last six months by Dr. W. J. Boyd, Halifax physician and researcher at Dalhousie University, Halifax Children's Hospital and Victoria General Hospital.

The men who discovered and developed the use of insulin to treat diabetics, Sir Frederick Banting and Dr. Charles Best, gave the first insulin injections to human patients in Toronto in January, 1922.

Papers on the development and clinical trials of the sulphonated insulin were stated for presentation today by Dr. Mooney and Dr. Cochrane at the annual meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

Dr. Cochrane said in an interview new insulin holds hope for diabetics whose systems resist ordinary insulins and could simplify treatment for all diabetics better.

Dr. Mooney and his Connaught team developed the new type through experiments that changed the chemical structure of ordinary insulin, derived from beef, pigs, monkeys and other animals.

Dr. Cochrane obtained some of the new insulin last May and tried it on 20 long patients because of their insulin-resistant diabetes.

He found the new insulin was so potent his patients required much smaller doses. In one case the daily requirement dropped from 70 units of the new serum from 180 units of ordinary insulins.

In addition, he found that the new insulin started to work immediately after injection and had a prolonged effect over period of about 24 hours. The patients' health improved.

Toll of Algerian Terrorism Continues to Mount Rapidly

CP from Reuter-AP

ALGIERS—The city's public transport was paralyzed for the third day today as authorities refused to provide armed escort on buses.

Moslem and European transport employees warned they will continue their walkout until their demands for protections against terrorists are granted.

There was no official explanation for refusal by the authorities. The strike is seriously hampered economic life in Algiers and a number of professional associations threatened to join in the protest move.

Violence has killed three persons and wounded two others in Algiers this morning. Friday's toll in Algeria's major cities was 18 killed and 15 wounded.

In Oran, in western Algeria, authorities warned parents of high school students that they may be deported for permitting their children to participate in street demonstrations. Students failed to attend classes Friday, fearing military protection of schools.

Gunmen assassinated four persons in Oran, five in Algiers and two in Bone.

Among the 13 persons killed Friday in Algiers were four who were assassinated by gunmen in Oran. Three persons also were shot dead in Algiers and two in Bone, bringing authorities' total of three, the dead were identified as Moslems.

Three French soldiers were killed when their car ran over a mine at Duerra, a town midway between Algiers and Oran.

A curfew was clamped on Oran after European used fire-arms, grenades and Molotov cocktails against police and troops in a repeated street clashes. Two riot police and a civilian were injured.

Infantrymen were moved in after youths ... were carrying firearms searched on the city square and stood security forces to cheers of European watching from balconies and windows.

The security forces retaliated with tear gas bombs but the youths flashed down side streets and tossed grenades when security forces tried to clear the square. A car was set on fire by an exploding grenade and a parked car pocketed was hurled at police.

The security forces charged again someone lobbed a grenade from a balcony, forcing them to flee. Later the demonstration broke up and a curfew was imposed when the industry arrived early in the evening.

THEY'RE HELD

Another hold that met when he and other members of the so-called anti-party group were demoted to newspaper in Wakkanai, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, has not left for his post one month after appointment as the first that the Soviet Union is marking time on concluding a new cultural agreement with the United States.

The problem of Communist unity is definitely on the Kremlin's agenda. The Italian language broadcast Friday night, Moscow radio said, unity of the Communist movement is "indispensable" and "is needed as never before."

Kremlin Quiet May Be Mask For a Major Development

MOSCOW (AP)—Western diplomats picked up signs today of quiet in the Kremlin today as a possible sign of major developments in the wind.

But one of the most respected Western ambassadors in Moscow said he believed it is more likely to involve Communist China than Berlin.

This diplomat said there have been a period of quiet like this without it being followed into some major move.

The cautious to clear contact with high members of the Soviet government, and it was obvious that no new disagreement is going on. What was not clear, he said, was whether it was inquisible among top members of the Soviet Communist party or more widespread among members of the Soviet bloc.

Western diplomats also suggested that Premier Khrushchev is engaged in an ideological battle with Yu Miloloy, the Yugoslav premier, foreign minister. They said Khrushchev may have suffered a setback.

Western ambassadors are almost united in belief that Moscow's return to Vienna has been delayed only because the old Austrian capital is snowed in. It is shunted off again to such a minor job as a deputy representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency, the storm-forbearance headquarters is located in Vienna.

The major belief that exist when he said other members of the so-called anti-party group were demoted to newspaper in Wakkanai, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, has not left for his post one month after appointment as the first that the Soviet Union is marking time on concluding a new cultural agreement with the United States.

National Lottery, Higher Pay For MP's Among Proposals

OTTAWA (CP) — A national lottery, higher pay for members of Parliament and the perennial proposals for a national Canadian flag are among 66 proposals already put forward by private MPs at the new session of Parliament.

The list of the draw smiled on a bill for a national hospital sweepstakes introduced by Ferguson Browne (PC—Vancouver Kingsway).

The Commons' own lottery, held at the start of each session to decide the order of priority, put his bill at the head of a list of 20 private members' bills and that is where he first debated.

Each all of the bills and 28 private members' resolutions are to be debated in the next half hour daily provided for them. And Commons adoption of a private member's proposal is necessarily. In the past, however, some have resulted in general public enough support, but in the Confmcpang and outside, that the government itself brought in legislation on the subject.

Mr. Starr's plan for Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur), who has sponsored a resolution asking the government to give immediate consideration to the matter for boosting income of MPs.

Members now receive $10,000 a year tax-free plus a $6,000 free expense allowance. Mr. Fisher's plan would double this to a minimum increase. The last increase—to $10,000 from $6,000 —occurred in 1956.

Three private members' proposals involving a new national flag are already in the hopper.

Creation of a 15-member Commons committee to survey all aspects of commercial advertising and recommend what steps —if any—should be taken to prevent fraudulent and misleading ads is proposed by New Brun-

Two Killed In Car Crash

HAMILTON (CP) — Two men were killed Friday night when their car collided at a Hamilton intersection. Four other persons were injured.

Dead are Fernand Robert, 27, and Frank Koguttico, 43, both of Welland. They were in one car.

The injured, Dwight Wadel, 21, of Selkirk, Ont., David Tufford, 19 and his brother James 21 of Cayuga, Ont., and William Waring 21, of York, Ont., were reported in satisfactory condition with undetermined injuries.

FOUR ARRESTED IN $3,500,000 NARCOTICS RAID

Bail of $100,000 Each Demanded

NEW YORK (AP)—Four persons arrested in a $3,500,000 narcotics raid, one of them a weeping and pregnant young woman who begged to go home, were jailed Friday under $100,000 bail each. A hearing was scheduled for Jan. 30.

They were Joseph Fuca, 60; Fuca's son, Pasquale, 39; Pasquale's wife, Barbara, 30; and Francois Scaglia, alias Barbier, 34, of Paris said to be a restaurant-owner there.

They were charged with possession of narcotics with intent to sell, conspiracy, and illegal possession of weapons.

None spoke at the arraignment except Mrs. Fuca, who was said to be six months pregnant. She wept and cried out, "I want to go home, I want to go home." She was sent to the women's house of detention.

OTHERS SEIZED

Three other persons were also seized during the raids in Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx. They were Peter Tovatto, 31, Nicholas Trovato, 23, of Brooklyn and Antonio Vitale, 34, of Marseilles, France, described as a French television actor.

Trovato was held in lieu of $100,000 bail on a charge of possessing 2½ ounces of heroin.

Angrivin was held on $100,000 bail as a material witness. Assistant District Attorney Frank of Lalla said Angrivin's car was used to transport dope around city.

Federal and city officers said they found 24 pounds of pure heroin, plus 10 pounds of adulteration, hidden behind a fresh coat of plaster in a Brooklyn basement apartment occupied by the elder Fuca.

Eight Nations Quarantine Britain, U.S. Despatches Smallpox Vaccine

LONDON (AP) — An emergency supply of 600,000 doses of smallpox vaccine arrived today from the United States as eight European nations put Britain under a virtual quarantine.

The doses were flown into the country by Pakistani immigrants in late December and early January, about 30 persons.

Persons leaving Britain were advised by the health ministry that they must have proof of vaccination to enter Italy, Greece, Cyprus, Spain, Italy, Germany, Austria, Finland and Sweden.

British contestants in the annual Monte Carlo automobile rally also were told before leaving Glasgow that they must be vaccinated to enter France.

The vaccine, in dried form, arrived in five cardboard cartons aboard an Air India jetliner. Another 100,000 doses are due Sunday.

Catholic Mission Feared Over-Run By Congolese

Troops Open Fire on United Nations Jets

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Congolese soldiers today opened fire on United Nations jets flying over the Kongolo area in Katanga province, scene of a recent massacre of whites, the UN announced here.

A U.N. spokesman said the column of soldiers opened fire after two fighter — bombers sighted a burning village south of a mission station at Sola which the Congolese were feared to have seized.

The spokesman said the UN planes did not return the Congolese fire. Neither of the two British-built Canberra jets was damaged.

The jets also reported seeing burnt-out houses north of Sola at Tongwanda and Kiniki Kongolo. Catholic missionaries were massacred New Year's Day.

SEE 20 POUNDS RISE

The two UN Ethiopian jet pilots reported Friday that several hundred soldiers of the Roman Catholic mission at Sola in the border region between Katanga and Kivu provinces.

The only sign of life at the mission was smoke rising from a fire, the pilots said. Nearby, for cover in the mission church when the jets appeared overhead.

At Kabonga, in north Katanga, radio operator Mrs. Elisabethville said rebel troops have killed four missionaries and 11 civilians.

Another attack also was reported. It have been made on seven clergymen at St. Paul's College in Bagira, Kivu province.

The attack occurred during a battle between rival tribal factions in the area. Police killed 10 of the attacks and turned back the attack.

NUNS AT MISSION

Little was known of the attack on Sola. About 20 priests and some Franciscan nuns were believed to be based at the Sola mission, which contains a college and a hospital.

The Ethiopian pilots were sent to the isolated mission after UN headquarters in Leopoldville received a report from Red Cross officials that Sola reb. ... were mounting an attack.

The rampaging troops were believed to have been formerly under the command of Col. Alphonse Pasaka, who was reassigned to emirate in Stanleyville.

The same troops also were held responsible for the Stanleyville massacre and the deaths of 13 Italian airmen at Kindu in Kivu province last fall.

Pasaka is a supporter of left-leader Antoine Gizenga, who has been ousted from his post as deputy premier by the Adoula government. Pasaka and another officer were arrested by Adoula forces loyal to the central government.

South Ontario Alone Escapes Arctic Blasts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Virtually every part of Canada, with the exception of southern Ontario, today is under the influence of brisk arctic air.

Even on the west coast, where rain is the usual norm of mid-January precipitation, temperatures are well below freezing except at a few points on the coastal islands.

Snow was falling today in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, and also in the north shores of lakes Erie and Ontario but in most cases the fall has been light. An exception has been the Toronto area, where more than two inches had fallen.

Coldest weather station overnight was Saskatoon, where the temperature hit 30 below. Moosonee, Sask., in the Yukon, was a close second at 28 below, while Regina and Winnipeg had lows of -25 and -26, respectively.

CHICAGO (AP)—Severe cold weather maintained a grip on most of the northern half of the United States today as the job of digging out from under another heavy snowfall began.

One winter storm moved northeast, bringing blizzard conditions to parts of Oregon and Idaho into the northern Rockies. Klamath Falls, Ore., was staggered by 18 inches of snow.

Another storm moved across the country in the Appalachians where it appeared to be losing its punch. It dumped 14 inches on Pittsburgh and lesser amounts in the east, snarling traffic and closing schools.

The snow belt also extended into the middle Atlantic states, where it was mixed with warm conditions in Delaware, Maryland, the Virginia and western Pennsylvania. A mixture of sleet, rain and drizzle fell in the western Carolinas.

Cancer Society To Seek Funds In Near Future

TRENTON—In the near future, the 1962 appeal for funds, sponsored by the Trenton branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, will get underway.

This was the complaint chairman, Elmer Bonter, told members of the executive unit Thursday night that he would be attending a campaign conference and training session in Toronto in February. This year's objective by the local group is $6000. The local budget has been set at $1100.

This week, Miss Anne Sayer of Toronto, field secretary for the Ontario division of the Canadian Cancer Society has been visiting units in the Quinte district with Mrs. Vera Greer, chairman of women's services for the district. Miss Sayer told the members that the need for dressings had decreased but that the local group would be asked to make a supply for adults and children to use during their stay in hospitals while being treated for cancer.

Education chairman Mrs. Wilfred Report read that a film, "To Smoke Or Not To Smoke", would be shown in Trenton's High School three days next week and that she would make arrangements to show films to other groups (possibly senior public patients, women's groups etc.) this year.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Greer, 1st. vice-president, in the absence of James Duncan, president. Reports were read by Mr. Sherry, secretary, and Harry Foster, treasurer.

Combined Spiel Of Three Clubs Opens Wed.

The combined bonspiel for the Trenton Golf and Country Club, the RCAF Curling Club and the Quinte Curling Club will be officially opened on the evening of Wednesday, January 24th, by Mayor Sherry and Reeve Harold Hamilton with the first game of the initial round of the bonspiel being played at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening. There will be four rounds of play with the final game being played Saturday afternoon.

There will be 16 rinks from the Golf and Country Club, 12 rinks from the RCAF Curling Club and 8 rinks from the Quinte Curling Club. Each rink will be guaranteed at least three games but there will be a consolation round for those who are defeated in the first round. The final game will be played Saturday afternoon with the presentation of the prizes to the winning rinks. Trophies have been laid down until a special February sitting.

Anyone interested in bowling on the ice is invited to attend the annual borrowing by-law meeting on the above date.

Rinks and others were given final instructions at a meeting held Monday night in the Golf and Country Club.

Also approved were grants to a number of county charitable organizations, county libraries, and grants for junior agricultural societies.

INCREASE SALARIES

Council approved small salary increases for the governors of the county jail and for the county assessor and increased the warden's honorarium.

Also council voted to reduce the 600 week of county jail employees from the present 48 hours to 44 hours per week but at the same time will cut paid holidays from three to two members.

County finance chairman Reeve Carl Bateman of Stirling said the increases would result in the hiring of one additional jail guard and that some part time help during the holiday season.

He said there had been some question whether council had the authority to provide a paid holiday period of jail employees but following a check with the Department of Public Institutes, the ruling had been given that council could add the shot the matter could be dealt yes.

County Council Completes Organizing for Year's Work

With the four months January inaugural meeting in the Belleville Township Council was concluded late Friday afternoon as members wound up the Township Council business for the coming year.

Reeve Harold Ostrander was unanimously re-elected as president for the ensuing year.

Several grants were awarded to various clubs and societies within the township. Harleigh Hamilton was named as county representative to the Quinte District Agricultural Emergency Measures Organization.

A committee of Warden Varty with councillors J. N. Brown, Harleigh Hamilton, C. Canniff Mallory and Hiram Shannon was named to sit in with a special committee from city council and members of Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors, to further explore future hospital needs at Belleville.

Marmora village reeve W. Shannon reported on Thursday night's dinner meeting with the hospital board, held to acquaint county members with future hospital needs in the area.

Reeve Shannon reported that hospital board chairman J. N. Vanzwer had told them that there was a need for 200 to 250 additional hospital beds at Belleville.

The Marmora reeve said he was just trying to make up council's mind, but said the county had an obligation to the Belleville Hospital and he believed the county was ready to face up to the cost.

A presentation of hospital needs will be made to county council at its special February session, it was stated.

World Invited To Watch U.S. Man in Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The world has been invited to watch the first U.S. attempt to rocket a man around the world next week.

More than 365 reporters and photographers, 200 of them from 13 foreign countries, have been accredited to the historic event by the U.S. national aeronautics and space administration.

The attempt will be to launch astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., on a globe-girdling $1,000-mile trip through space.

The U.S. Air Force is in contrast to that of the Soviet Union, which conducted its space activities in deep secrecy.

So far as is known no reporter, Russian or otherwise, has ever witnessed a Russian space shot. The Russians rarely announce any space activity until after it has been completed.

Some 365 nations represented by reporters here are the United Kingdom, Canada, France, Australia, Germany, The Netherlands, India, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Nigeria, Switzerland and the Bahamas.

No incidentals countries are represented but the space administration said that if any had applied they undoubtedly would have been accredited.

The resolutions included provision for extending the Farm and Fisheries Improvement Loan Act to cover "new entrants" into agriculture and amendments to the Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act, and the Children of War dead education assistance act.

These last amendments will raise the rate of benefit, clarify the definition of "student," and extend the present time limit to certain classes of children. They will also raise the age limit at which benefits will be cut off and permit students to receive assistance again if their schooling has been interrupted by serious illness or other "good cause."

The Civilian War Pensions and Allowances Act is to be extended to cover "new dependants of deceased members of a number of civilian groups of Canadians who made outstanding voluntary contributions to the war effort during World War I and World War II under difficult and dangerous conditions."

Radiation Band Greatest Hazard To Space Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. space scientists said Friday that the earth appears to be surrounded by a vast region of deadly radiation — with holes at the North and South poles.

Beyond this band, there appears to be a second belt, discovered by an area of magnetic turbulence more than 12,000 miles broad, beyond 50,000 miles, interplanetary space begins.

Swift said, however, the scientists said the radiation band still is rated as great a hazard to space flight. It has been estimated under the theories of Dr. James Van Allen, the first person to decipher the radiation area.

PROCLAMATION
Y.M.C.A. WEEK
January 21 to January 28

This is National Y.M.C.A. Week. Throughout Canada Canadians affiliated with the Y.M.C.A. movement are celebrating a worthwhile job truly done for boys and men. Founded with the three sides symbolizing spirit of mind and body, the triangle has meant friendship and understanding to millions of men and boys in Canada for over 110 years.

In Belleville, the "Y" is serving many activities for men and boys every week of the year. Its doors are open to all regardless of means of the membership fee as an extra help for another used its facilities and is benefited by it.

This year, "Y.M.C.A. Week" has a special meaning for Belleville, with the opening of the new local Y.M.C.A. after much thought and planning by its Board of Directors, in building a new Family Centre, with a separate site on Victoria Avenue. It is hoped that the new facilities planned and up-to-date facilities to carry on our increasing youth.

During this observance of National Y.M.C.A. Week, we pay tribute to the Belleville Y.M.C.A. for its many contributions to our community.

By virtue of the authority invested in me I call upon all citizens to assist in the observation of "Y.M.C.A. Week" in Belleville.

Board Will Request Survey Housing Needs

Members of the Belleville Real Estate Board will request provincial government guidelines to make a preliminary survey of the need for housing accommodation for senior citizens in the city of Belleville.

This was decided by the board members at their meet Friday at the Hotel Quinte to discuss further plans for the construction of such housing accommodation in the city. The plan was announced by Alderman Don Whales at city council several weeks ago. Mr. Whalen is president of the local real estate board.

Present at Friday's meeting was city welfare commissioner George Wilmot who explained the steps necessary to get the plan for senior citizens housing constructed underway.

Time flies full of trusty deeds,
His helping hand, to all in need,
His cheerful smile, a heart of gold,
Such memories we have to hold.
But we treasure beautiful memories of you.

In the other Toronto riding where a recount demand was announced by the Liberals, an official tabulation Friday re-duced Conservative Leonard Reilly's margin to 36 from the 81 votes an unofficial count had given him. His sheer-folloser Liberal opponent was Jean Newman, a former city controller and the only woman of the 15 candidates in the little general election. Some 36,000 votes were cast in Eglinton.

KENORA, Ont (CP) — A bus rammed into a transport truck's parked trailer on the icy Trans-Canada highway Friday night. Twenty persons were hurt, none severely.

Police said they were questioning the truck driver, who they said apparently had unhooked the trailer from his cab and driven off, leaving the trailer on the side of the road.

Is Vast Increase in Demand For Laboratory Technicians Grads Are Told at Hospital

Rapid widening of the scope of hospital laboratory work has resulted in a vastly increased demand for trained technicians across Canada, graduating members of the Belleville General Hospital laboratory technicians' class were told yesterday.

The occasion was the second graduation exercises for school of medical laboratory technology at Belleville Hospital. Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. D. Magner, professor of pathology at the University of Ottawa.

Dr. Magner told the three graduating class members that the serious shortage of laboratory technicians was caused mainly by the widening scope of laboratory work.

"In the past pathologists were able to do most of the laboratory work themselves but now they require assistants.

This was opening up a new career field which could be entered both by young men and young women.

SALARIES BETTER

A second reason for the shortage of technicians had been the recruitment and lack of awareness on the career possibilities in the laboratory technicians' field. Better salaries were doing much to attract students into this field, the doctor said.

And mindful of the feminine desire for natty uniforms, the speaker said glamorous headgear and neat uniforms for Belleville General Hospital Tory are Alan Dever, and Robert Godby, both of this city.

well attract more women into the field.

Dr. Magner congratulated the Belleville General Hospital board of governors in the opening of its laboratory technicians' training school. Such schools were a relatively new innovation and would do much to eliminate the shortage of technicians, he said.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. A. N. Rota, director of the department of pathology at Belleville Hospital and was thanked by Miss Diane Poulson, member of the graduating class.

Guests and visitors at the graduating exercise held in Xdelaide Hall were welcomed by Mr. J. N. Yacovec, chairman of the hospital board of governors while congratulations to the graduating class were extended by Dr. F. R. Rose, president of the Medical Staff Association; Mr. Werner Deutsch, hospital superintendent, and Dr. Rota.

PRESENT DIPLOMAS

Chairman of the graduating exercises was C. W. Stone, chief technologist in the pathology department of Belleville Hospital. Mr. Stone administered the technologists' pledge and with Dr. Rota, presented graduating diplomas.

Members of the Hospital auxiliary served lunch at the reception following the exercises.

Two of the three graduating members of this year's class are getting right back to work at Belleville General Hospital. They are Alan Dever, and Robert Godby, both of this city.

Separatist Leader Writes Epitaph for Que. Province

"Here lies a people which died on the way.

Dr. Chaput writes the epitaph in his book, I am a Separatist, being published today in the English translation by Ryerson Press.

"The French - Canadians," he says, "are a people in search of itself, a nation unaware of itself, and the element that is most lacking is not will, capability or maturity. What is lacking is orientation."

Dr. Chaput predicts, however, that the people of Quebec will be ready in a short time "to show its will for independence beyond the shadow of a doubt by means of an election or a referendum."

A federal government employee for 17 years, Dr. Chaput resigned last December from his job as Defence Research Board biochemist after being suspended for disobeying a board ruling refusing him time off. He had wanted the leave to address a separatist meeting in Quebec City.

He now is president of the Assembly for National Independence, Quebec's most vocal separatist group.

Dr. Chaput says he "absolutely detests" the word separatist; he refers constantly in his book to "independence."

The book, first published in French last September, outlines six dimensions of separatism—historical, political, economical, cultural, social and psychological—and offers five solutions, encouraging independence and rejecting assimilation, bilingualism, autonomy and confederation.

Dr. Chaput discusses the legitimacy, viability, desirability and possibility of independence and dismisses three objections to it—impossibility for abandoned minorities outside Quebec, the possibility of isolating Quebec and the theory of the immaturity of the Quebec people.

OFFERS CHOICES

He offers only two choices—remaining a minority in a large country or becoming a majority in a smaller country—and gives one main reason for the movement for independence—dignity.

The French - Canadian nation, he says, "cannot live long under daily contempt."

Dr. Chaput sees the present situation in Quebec as one of "economic bondage, inferiority complex, a bastard language, political patronage, abuse of authority, corruption, petty demands for bilingual cheques, confidinal protests invariably ignored, and on top of it all, a group of well-off people who consider the situation entirely normal."

His organization has no ambitions for political power, Dr. Chaput says.

Common Market Agreement Presages Critical Period

By DAVE DANCIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The sign of relief with which Europe's biggest trading greeted the Common Market's agreement on a farm policy presages a critical period for Canada and other major world food exporters.

For the six-nation European Economic Community, the accord reached after 40 days of tough bargaining meant the end of the severest crisis in its four-year history.

With the agreement the six countries — Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — pressed what most regard as a point of no return on their road to economic union.

For Britain, now bargaining to join the six, the agreement cleared away one of the biggest uncertainties confronting the negotiators.

Ministers discussing the British application have scheduled Feb. 22 as the date for launching the exploration of the farm problem.

But for major grain exporters such as Canada, the United States and Australia, the agricultural agreement is the signal for the intensification of pressures to try to ensure that the final farm policy is in fact liberal.

The six have decided to mould a managed market in food production for the whole of their community during the next 7½ years.

Canada is vitally interested in how they will deal with grains. Eventually the community is to have a single price for grain in the entire area. Exceptions are that it will be somewhere between the high price farmers now get and the lower French rates.

Both prices, however, are well above the world levels. Imports into the community are to be subjected to a variable levy to bring them up to the target price levels. The bargaining to determine these levels will not be finished for years.

This confronts the low-cost exporters with an uncertainty. If the target price level is set too high, there is the danger the community will encourage European farmers would increase their output where the community would be able to meet its own requirements.

Theodor Heiz, spokesman of the community view the new policy as liberal and as a means of promoting freer trade.

By way of example she said a doctor from Greece likely would not qualify if he did not speak either English or French. He would not be able to meet provincial regulations governing medical practice.

Immigration officers in various countries were aware of needs in Canada for various types of skills and would be in charge of the selection of skilled persons for migration to Canada.

MAY ALSO BE SPONSORED

Mrs. Fairclough said immigrants for skills other also be sponsored by a parent, parent-in-law or son already in Canada provided the sponsor is a Canadian citizen. The Canadian must be able to maintain the immigrant until he can look after himself.

J. W. Pickersgill, former Liberal immigration minister, said the new regulations applying to non-whites substitute "one set of criteria for discrimination for another." He said there is no difference between "selection," a word used by Mrs. Fairclough, and discrimination.

Mrs. Fairclough said that for the time being there would be no change in the quotas on immigrants from India, Pakistan, and Ceylon. Current agreements on these quotas now were being discussed with the countries concerned.

As present a total of 300 immigrants may enter Canada each year from India, 100 from Pakistan and 50 from Ceylon. Canada also has an agreement with The West Indies for the admission to this country of 300 immigrants annually.

ANY WHO QUALIFY

However, any qualified immigrant from these countries now will be able to apply for admission regardless of the quotas, if he can meet the new tests of skill, health and character.

The new rule on relatives applies to all countries and allows those already permanently established in Canada to sponsor the entry of a mother, father, husband, wife, grandparent, fiance or an unmarried minor child. The main effect is to improve the position of some persons in non-white nations.

Britain's Top Weeklies Add Fuel to Fire

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's top political weeklies added fuel Friday to the controversy over the East of Snowdon's new job.

The New Statesman, Spectator, The Economist and Topic News magazine all appealed with references to the new job Princess Margaret's husband has as artistic adviser to The Sunday Times, owned by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson.

But since school earlier criticism that Snowdon, who takes over his new job at the end of the month after returning with the princess from a Caribbean holiday, is being used as a circulation gimmick.

The mass - circulation Daily Mirror also entered the controversy, coming down on the side of the man it criticized for taking the title of Earl of Snowdon after he married Margaret.

MENTION TOWNSEND

The New Statesman, a Socialist weekly, says: "There has not been such a stunned silence in the top establishment since the Townsend affairs"—a reference to Capt. Peter Townsend, whose name once was linked romantically with Princess Margaret.

But the New Statesman adds: "If you believe that the Royal Family is human, you applaud the care of the Tory party, and that Mr. Snowdon will keep the world safe for Roy Thomson's press, you afford to sit back and laugh when you read about the whole thing becomes a bit too far-fetched for decency."

The New Statesman carries a cartoon of a woman asking her husband: "Which paper has the Tory?"

Topic makes no comment, reporting merely that Snowdon's job will be to supply ideas on page design and selection of pictures. The Sunday Times' new color supplement.

TORY BUSINESS

The Economist says Snowdon's appointment was a matter for his own judgment.

"If he is going to do a real job of work for it, and if he has the abilities will be worth the money he earns. If not, if he has been given the job merely to feel that Mr. Thomson intended to tap him as one more item in his gimmick, he could surely be trusted to know what to do about it."

The Daily Mirror says civil, clear as Britain's top Tory hour and stuffy nonsense." Some royal traditions need breaking, when the air in which she was conceived costs Tony his job "The Mirror will be happy to offer Tony a job with a future."

HUNT TWO BOYS

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Lewis Evans, state secretary of Indians, arrived at an abandoned deep clay mine Friday to take charge of a search for two missing boys believed trapped in the mine since Sunday. It is believed the youths, Hunter, 10, of West Degetur, and Wesley Lowe, 13, of Morgan Run, were trapped by a cave-in.

Woman Injured In Collision

Mrs. Jeana McQuaid of 33 Willow Drive, Ballsville, was admitted to the Belleville General Hospital early this morning suffering from facial lacerations and head injuries, when the car in which she was a passenger collided with another.

John Goodman Wins Bursary

John F. Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Goodman, 111 Bridge Street West, now attending the University of New Brunswick, has been awarded a special scholarship and an Ontario government bursary.

The 23-year-old student was the recipient of a Richard Bedford Viscount Bennett scholarship of $125 and the government bursary of $300.

Born in Wellington, John moved to this city with his family and attended Queen Mary Public School, later graduating from Quinte Secondary School.

He entered U.N.B. two years ago and was awarded the scholarship and bursary after being named the outstanding third-year student in forestry. He may specialize in entymology.

Old Soldiers Never Die

It is interesting to observe the results of historical research and to try and find a place where the events of the past might apply or fit in to current events.

Recently a local citizen, Mr. Thomas G. Wrightmeyer, was involved in a bit of local historical research involving the compilation of a list of veterans of the war of 1812 to 1815 who applied for the government allowance granted them in 1875 (yes, that is 60 years later). There were 122 in all, most of whom belonged to the various local regiments or units, such as the Prince Edward Rifles, the Hastings Regiment, the Frenchies and units which bore the name of their commanding officer. Such officers were Major Corbett, Col. Peters, Col. Stone, Col. Crawford, Col. Ferguson, Col. McDonald, Col. Ritchie and Col. Robertson.

Besides the romanticism attached to the apparent multiplicity of units in the area and the fervor of patriotism existent during the early 19th century, there are a few hard facts which stand out.

One fact is that of the 122 applicants for the government grant not one was an officer. We may assume from this that either enlisted men enjoyed longer life or that officers enjoyed greater prosperity, although probably a combination of these two assumptions would be more correct.

The other fact is that, despite the austerity of the times and a comparatively (in relation to 1962) simple mode of life, people seemed to live to ripe old ages. The majority of the applicants were in their eighties with a goodly sprinkling of veterans in their nineties, and even one well over the century mark.

Nothing Strange About This!

A U.S. psychiatrist, Dr. Jack R. Ewalt of Harvard medical school, says that personal and family problems are responsible for most mental upsets. Concern about community, national or world problems, even the danger of nuclear war, plays a minor role in mental health, he told the Canadian Institute on Mental Health Services.

Were any of his listeners really surprised at this? Even the courageous and energetic few who are seeking to do something about the danger of a nuclear war are probably more irritated by a cold cup of coffee at breakfast than by the announcement of the latest nuclear test.

But it would be a mistake to conclude, for this reason, that community, national and world problems are not important to our mental health. The trouble is that they are translated into personal and family problems. Because of the cold war, Canadian forces are in Europe. A family is plucked from familiar surroundings and set down in a foreign land. This can create personal problems. Other Canadians are in the Congo, separated from their families. As a result a wife is lonely and "steps out." Perhaps Canada's greatest national problem is finding markets abroad for the goods she produces. This, translated into an unemployed father, can mean a family problem which may be a mental or mental health. But it is only when community, national or world problems come home to roost that we worry.

Senate Could Be Counterbalance

Reform of the Senate, expected to be undertaken at the present session of parliament, is likely to involve an age limit for senators.

Because the majority of the older senators were appointed during the long reign of the Liberal administrations of Mackenzie King and Louis St. Laurent, such a reform could affect control of the Senate. If the age limit is placed at 75, the Progressive Conservatives would gain immediate control; if the limit is placed at 80, control would be delayed, but would pass to them in the near future if they won the next Federal election.

In such an event, we might find that in future years the Senate would almost invariably be controlled by a party other than that in power in the Commons. The trend in Canada today, in the provincial legislatures as well as the Senate, is for parties in power to retain office for lengthy periods. This would mean that many senators of the political stripe of the government would be appointed and that it would take many years for death and advancing age to create enough vacancies so that a new government could alter the balance. Thus, by accident, the Senate would form a counter-balance to the Commons, from the standpoint of political ideals. Whether this would be advantageous or the reverse is a matter for individual judgment.

MP's Want Pay Increase

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—If he takes the MPs only a couple of days to become pretty well reconciled to the hard fact of politics this year that they will have to win another election to win a pay increase.

Most of them returned to Parliament Hill after a not really expecting any more money, but still with the thought in the back of their minds that they could still hope.

Almost since the last election, MPs, generally - Conservative, Liberal and CCF alike - have been campaigning for a raise in Parliament pay.

Many of the younger members, mostly first-term rookies, quickly learn that precious little of their annual $10,000 actually turned out to be take-home pay.

There are just too many demands on their purse - contributions for a multiplicity of good causes, the paying of election expenses, and simply the high cost of living generally, one in Ottawa, the other back home - to enable them to remain financially afloat.

After the campaigns of 1957 and '58, there are still a few left in the House of this sort of high-power politics, "it can cost anywhere between $5,000 and $75,000 for a public-spirited citizen to persuade his fellow townsmen to send him to Ottawa.

Some of the younger MPs, those with growing families who have been in public life particularly painful, have been trying to impress on the Prime Minister with no-veiled hints that they have had enough.

PRICE TOO HIGH

In voice loud and public enough to be heard in the East Block, they have been complaining that they just can't afford the luxury of public life.

At the last election, there were some 20 who had let it be widely known that they wouldn't be running again in this approaching election.

If the Prime Minister heard them—and he scarcely could have avoided it—he paid little attention.

He has opposed any increase in Parliamentary pay on the grounds that $10,000 a year is most Canadians' idea of fairly fair salary and that the taxpayers would hardly tolerate an increase.

(Statistician at the National Revenue Taxation department told him in the contention that $10,000 is far from starvation pay—for all taxable income—Canadians who pay income tax, only 127,457 made five-figure salaries.)

So there will be no pay raise this session, but not only because there won't be time for such measure and the Senate is called, but for the more compelling reason, too, that it could create unfavorable sentiment.

Looking at the issue dispassionately, the Parliamentarians do require and even deserve more money. It is the MPs who hopes to get it will have to win the confidence with which Parliament can debate the issue and spell out the need to the electorate. It is called, but for the more compelling reason, too, that it could create unfavorable sentiment.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OUR REFUGE

All through the Bible God is spoken of as being eternal. The dictionary tells us that the word "eternal" means "of infinite duration; everlasting; without beginning or end."

But the definitions this one only touches the surface slightly. Eternity is a city with which the modern world with all its wisdom knows very little about the nature of time. According to Einstein's theory, time is one thing, in one part of the universe and something else in another. Certainly, it is not the timeless world with which we pray extends from th further reaches of "there." Yet when we have said God is eternal we have said a mighty more than the fact that He has always existed and will always exist.

From the standpoint of religion we can say that it is not simply by saying that the word "eternal" simply signifies that God is all-sufficient. We can rest in His hands with confidence because He has the power to do anything we need to have done. We can regard the future with equanimity knowing that the future as well as the past is in His hands. There is an everlastingness about God. He is eternal. "The eternal God is my refuge and underneath are the Everlasting Arms."

Cheese production in 1940 was 13,778 pounds, according to Agricultural Representative Fred Avenue at Trenton for the year is the largest of any district in the province, and for the first time in a number of years, Hastings county district produced more cheese.

Damage of approximately $200 was caused to a partition and ceiling of the office and dispensary of Dr. R. M. Anderson, 273 Front Avenue on Sunday night when overheated furnace pipes set the woodwork afire. Water damage was caused in the dispensary when labels were washed off bottles of medicine.

Interest of telephonees went out of order and the fire alarm of the Canadian Department system was put out of service on Sunday afternoon when a fire circuit was underground cables of the Bell Telephone Company occurred.

Every motor car stolen in Belleville during the year 1941 was recovered and returned to its owner, the Belleville Police Commission was informed in the annual report submitted by the Chief Constable. In all, seventeen motor vehicles were reported stolen in Belleville during 1941; with an additional four automobiles were recovered for other police departments.

30 YEARS AGO

At the annual meeting of the Men's Club of St. Andrew's Church, the chair was occupied by the president, Mr. C. A. Cameron. The election of officers resulted as follows: honorary patrons — Rev. Dr. Seymour, W. J. Cleland, Alfred Gillen, James Roy, Robert Tannahill and Lt.-Col. W. N. Ponton; honorary vice-pres. — R. Gibson; 1st vice-president — R. Robinson; 2nd vice-president — W. A. Parker; 2nd vice-president — J. A. Shurter; treasurer — W. Eastmure; executive committee — W. B. McCrory, Lt.-Col. Ashley Wiley, V. Weir, George Wallbridge, and Walter George; chairman of membership committee — A. R. Cameron; chairman of auditing committee — W. A. Ostrander; chairman of music committee — Rev. Dr. Seymour; chairman of house committee — C. Delisle.

Two-thirds of the month of January is gone and King Winter, as yet, has failed to put in a permanent appearance. The result is that the consumption of coal has dropped off 50 per cent. However there has been a decided rise in the price of lighter fuels; sales of coke are reported up, and there is a demand for wood for fuel purposes. So far this winter there has been little or no zero cold weaving and sub carrying.

The G.T.R. Apprentices of Belleville will go to Montreal on Saturday to meet the team of the Montreal Car Department in the Grand Trunk series. The following will compose the team: Jas. Laurence (Capt.) A. Taylor, W. Miles, H. Bone, F. Miles, J. Morris, E. Weish and J. Taylor. Mr. Tedford, reserve goal tender, and H. Robinson, coach.

The boys in the city meetfested considerable interest in the election for directors of the junior City Council. Charles (Byng) Hayes was elected Mayor by acclamation an honor he justly deserved. The first nine of the following names which appeared on the ballot will form the council: Jack A. Boyle, Bert Wells, Floyd Case, Harry Reidem, Sam Curry, Jack Vosder, F. Follwell, James F. Day, Raymond Bunkard, Alex Weir, Norman Bowen, Percy Fleming, Walter Harden, Clarence Rigby, Bert Ives, Vincent Hudgins, William Follwell, Frank Symmons, Charles Naylor, Bill Baker, Bruce Smith, Austin Walters and Jack Gilmour. At the close of the election the elected members of the council were entertained by Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., who is taking an active part with the boys in the formation of the Junior Council.

The Penny Savings Bank system has been introduced in Belleville schools.

Mr. A. E. Bailey went to Toronto today on business.

Mr. T. D. Thompson, Reeve of Madoc Village, was in town today.

Mr. George Kerr of Benjamin Street, went to Toronto today and may decide to locate there.

Mr. B. Mallory, county clerk, went to Toronto today on business for the Belleville School Board of which he is a member.

Mr. John Bowen has returned home from Saginaw, Mich., where he visited friends.

Mr. Benedict Bowen left this morning for Belle Island, B.C.

Bulb Horns Expensive

An advertisement offering for sale "a bulb horn, brass" caught our eye the other day and started many memories of slower and politer motoring. A generation raised on the staccato yap of the modern motor horn — which all too often produces a reaction of savage irritation — could scarcely appreciate the stately, graded courtesies a bulb horn made possible.

One could play a tune, as it were, on a bulb horn. This allowed a motorist to express himself in a variety of moods. If an elderly lady were absentmindedly to cross his path, the motorist could discreetly remind her, pianissimo, of the right she was taking. On the other hand, on approaching a corner — and it was customary for a motorist to announce his coming at a corner — a warning "peep" could be given.

This instrument, which has now become a collector's item, was a highly polished, and delicate one, has a wide range. It made the motorist an articulate being, rather than a mere robot. But in some it induced a state bordering on the pathological desire not to allow pathological desire not to "blow off", which is, perhaps, the close companion of courtesy.

Cars were slower then. The motorist had more time to get out of their way, an advantage that many pedestrians, alas, had not made their appearance and stopping in short order was a neglected art. A car approaching on a dusty, potholed road, shaking as the joints perhaps but otherwise in good heart, usually gave ample warning without the aid of its bulb horn.

These days almost everyone was happily ignorant of Freud, Jung and Adler and the terrible blame they would happen to people who bottled up their emotions. Many motorists have refused to abandon the bulb horn and some nervous wives in dangerous areas carried a horn of their own on which, with total ignorance of psychological implications, they expressed their reactions to highway situations.

The bulb horn did not die a sudden death. It lingered on, doing battle in the public way with the honking klaxon. Then it faded into the old fashioned and laughable where it remained for many years to reappear in those times with dignity, respected, sought-after and worthy of an advertisement all to itself.

To Your Good Health

Heart Defect in Children May Be Helped by Operation

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a 4-month-old baby with an enlarged heart, liver and spleen. The baby also has a small hole in it.

"The doctor says an operation may help, but if they operate on the heart in the shape it's in, how will that help the heart, liver and spleen? — M.W."

So many mothers in the last few years are getting news like this from their doctors. It isn't that heart defects are increasing. It's that, in recent years, at last we can do something to save those babies.

The "hole in the heart" means a hole between two of the chambers of the heart — usually a small, maybe comparatively large.

When such a leak is present, various things may occur. The heart may have to work overtime to pump the required amounts of blood — because the doctor lets some leak backward with each beat.

Or, slightly different, the heart, in it's pump the normal amount of blood — but many of the blood may not have been circulated through the lungs to pick up fresh oxygen. In this case, more blood is forced required to carry the required amount of oxygen.

When this happens, the heart works harder than it should and becomes enlarged. Also, the pressure is increased as the body tries to pump more blood to bring the tissues more oxygen up to requirements, and this naturally puts more pressure on the heart, which may have the possibility of blood flowing through there.

The spleen and liver are such organs.

There are, because of the intricate construction of the body, different problems. Many of these which develop because of defect, not flaws in the heart (or, of course, other parts of the human system.)

The variations are so numerous and sometimes so complex, this I couldn't begin to explain them in this limited space. The important general rule is that if a leak in the heart can be closed by surgery (as it often now can be done) it relieves undue pressure not only on the heart but on other organs as well — especially liver and spleen.

True, if the heart is impaired, careful thought is required before deciding on surgery. Should the operation be done as soon as possible? Or, should it be deferred, waiting for the child to grow larger and stronger?

This becomes a highly technical decision — one that does have answers but are not explainable in brief terms. Sometimes it is necessary to operate early; sometimes it is safer to wait.

I dislike seeming to be vague, but the truth is that no simple answer is possible. The point is, be it is also the truth that the end result is often hoped. Decided by technical studies determine the right time for the operation — and your little heart's are restored to normal, and many lives children (they formerly died young) now live to their decreed normal span.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Fifteen years ago my big was broken in an automobile accident. A pin in it has given me no trouble and I consider myself fortunate. However, I understand that in a few years, it is supposed to do this? I am 78. — P.C.C."

No. And after 15 years, I don't think it's the pin. More likely it is a form of arthritis. An X-ray would help determine what is causing the trouble.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about warts, their cause and cure. — Victor Vetsera, I think. If the ward is where it belongs, they're verrucae vulgares, and a soft pad may help. But I have never heard of a wart cure, unless you count X-ray. I also never heard of one killing a person.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A taxi driver gave me an angle on car insurance that had not occurred to me before. He'd just been in a taxi that was swiped by a dilapidated car driven by a youth of frowsy appearance.

"What compensation," demanded indignantly, "could we expect, if that kid had damaged the taxi or injured us?"

"Well, sir," said the taxi driver, in that over-the-shoulder philosophical tone of the cabbie, "there are two classes of people who don't give a hoot about traffic. One class are those, like that kid, who have nothing, and therefore have nothing to lose. The other class, far greater in number and every bit as dangerous, are those who are immune. They are so intrenched that it doesn't matter what happens, the insurance will look after it. If there were some way we could organize things so that all claims had to come out of the pocket of the guilty party, we would see far fewer accidents, and far more care and consideration on the streets."

Perhaps I suggested, "nobody should be issued a license unless he has a million dollars in the bank!"

"That", agreed the taxi driver, "would fix it."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SERENITY

"Quiet minds," said Stevenson, "can not be perplexed or frightened, but go on in calmness and unjustly accused — and then I had seen him walk off to meet danger. When he said to me: "You see, I am on top!" This, of course, is rare strength.

To remain strong and serene under all provocation is not an evidence of weakness. It is the evidence of unusual control.

I believe in fighting as times, but a man shouldn't fight when he is angry or when he is strong.

I have seen boxers in a ring seeking to out-think each other and I have seen one taunt the other and try to get him so mad that he might lose control.

When you are in trouble you want the serene mind near you. And when you are not, you want it near, too!

A Lift for Living

Life's Immovable Obstacles

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

There is no trait which evokes more admiration in our time than that of masterfulness. To be a master of situations, to know what is to be done next when those around are hopelessly confused, to keep our heads when others are losing theirs and blaming it on us — these are the abilities we applaud.

But in our admiration of mastery are we catching the dull secret of Christ's masterliness? We have become expert in handling the material elements of our environment. Truly it would seem that we are fulfilling the Biblical promise of the Creator that man should have dominion over the earth. And we have pretty well added the sea and the air to his domain.

But with all our mastery of the movable factors around us, are we improving our self-mastery when we comfort the immovable obstacles of life? Has our efficient age of invention so accustomed us to getting things done by quick mechanical means that we are at a loss when all we can do is stand and take it?

Let us consider one of life's immovables. Take the factor of pain. Before we call pain one of life's immovables, we should recall how much pain has been removed through the healing art and scientific prevention. "The ills that flesh is heir to" were far more numerous in the days of Shakespeare than in our time. Man has learned how to quiet anguished nerves with sedatives, how to make us oblivious to the surgeon's knife through anaesthetics, how to stop the ravages of many dread diseases.

MANY NEW FRONTIERS

And there are, no doubt, many new frontiers of advance in the prevention of pain. No longer should we blindly drift into disease and disaster and then piously call them the will of God. When we neglect the principles of health and fall sick or when we neglect the efforts for peace and get into war, it is blasphemy to blame the suffering on God, Christ, the Great Physician, looks us responsible for using all our resources to ward off accident, disease, disaster and death.

Nevertheless, in spite of our best efforts there is bound to be an irreducible minimum of pain.

Sooner or later we all get some share of pain. Love, the most beautiful thing in life, carries in itself the possibility of intense pain — sometimes aching with lonliness, sometimes bruised by abuse, sometimes devastated by death. Every expansion of love and friendship enlarges our exposure to the possibility of pain.

What help can we get from Christ in mastering irremovable pain?

Well, we can acquire a better sportsmanship in our attitude. Most of us must admit that we do not show very good sportsmanship in mastering our minor pains.

Christ should be of help to us at this point. We call Him a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." And He was. But He never went around seeking sympathy or talking about His own suffering. He shed tears in sympathy for the bereaved Mary and Martha and He wept over Jerusalem because it was so shortsighted, but there is no record of His weeping over His own hurts. In Gethsemane He went alone into the deepest anguish of His decision, but when He talked to His companions about His death on the morrow, He said, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Reverently can we say of Christ that He played His life through with all its pain as a gallant sportsman.

Another secret in the mastery of pain is the use of the imagination Robert Louis Stevenson in 1880 wrote that for fourteen years he had not had one day of real health. Though racked with pain he sent out his thoughts on those adventures which boys still read. He scrawled some of his sayest poems in "A Child's Garden of Verses" after a severe hemorrhage forced him to put his right arm in a sling. Even when he became so ill that his doctors forbade him to talk or write, he tried to dictate in sign language the conclusion of the book he was writing. The explanation is that Stevenson deliberately turned the stream of his consciousness away from self and out into the world of men.

Furthermore, the Great Physician reinforces our faith and imagination with faith and hope and love. He helps us to see that some of our suffering may be partly God's discipline of those He loves.

MILLER — SCOTT

In a candlelight service in the chapel at Albert College, the Rev. Harry M. Davis officiated at the marriage of Miss Mary Lou Scott, of Lynchburg, Virginia, and Peter Courtland Miller, of Belleville.

Given in marriage by Mr. Cyril Mott, of Oregon, Ontario, the bride wore a sheath dress of ice blue taffeta and lace, with a small flowered matching hat and veil and carried pink and white carnations.

Mr. Robert Miller was best man for his brother.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at a bridal shower and presentation in the form of a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Philip Bennett in Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyers, also of Belleville, entertained at dinner.

Following the reception at the home of the bridegroom's parents, the young couple left on a wedding trip. Later they will make their residence in the United States.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Rachael Jane Marie Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Freeman, Belleville, to Ronald Alfred Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Keller, of Actinolite, Ontario. Marriage to take place at Actinolite United Church, on Saturday, February 17, at 2.30 p.m.

Citizenship as applied to us, who are Canadian born, has a somewhat different meaning. We are inclined to accept our responsibilities quite casually and to take our many privileges for granted. One of our members of parliament, recently returned from Europe, had this to say. "It occurs to me that Canadians look with indifference upon the many blessings we share and there is increasing danger of complacency".

"Let us remind ourselves we owe our present comfortable life to the sacrifices made by the pioneers who landed on this country many, many years ago and who laid the foundation for our present way of life. They gained a true sense of appreciation for the better things in life which we found them hard to get. Let us benefit with the recent newcomers to our shores and, with their contribution, strive to-gether to build a better citizens of this wonderful Canada of ours."

THANKS TENDERED

Mrs. McCaw was introduced by Mrs. Simone McFadden. Mrs. Marjorie Addison, Toronto, attended, on behalf of the club, and thanked Gaeta for a very interesting address.

Several members expressed the wish to attend an invitation from the Picton club to attend their Ladies International Night, being celebrated on February 17th, when Mrs. Marjorie Addison, Toronto, Provincial President Elect, will be present on her visit to Area 1st. summer with the Canada Mission sponsored by the UNA Committee of Belleville.

Alderman Robert Temple is to be the guest speaker in February, when Mrs. Ivy Hall will address the club on his trip to Russia.

Meaning of 'Citizenship' Topic At B.P.W. Dinner Meeting

Despite inclement weather, a good attendance was on hand for the first dinner meeting in 1962 of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club, held in the banquet room of the Belmont. Restaurant with Mrs. Irene Hall, convenor, in charge. Guest speaker was fellow member, Mrs. Marjorie McFee, who spoke on "Citizenship."

A native of Minden, graduate of Bracebridge High School, Mrs. McCaw taught school prior to her marriage. She came to Belleville in 1940, graduated from Ontario Business College and worked for a time with the Belleville General Hospital. She joined the Attorney General's Department of the Province of Ontario at Hastings County Court House in 1950. In 1956 she was appointed Deputy Local Registrar, Supreme Court of Ontario; Deputy County Clerk, and Deputy Surrogate Court Registrar, all for County of Hastings. She has been in charge of Citizenship since 1955.

OVER THREE MILLION

Members were interested to hear that since 1947 over three million immigrants have entered Canada, coming from Holland, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Italy, Poland, Estonia, Greece China, a few from Russia and the United States. Since 1955 some 11,000 applications have been received from the County of Hastings.

Applicants must reside in Canada for a period of at least five years and must have by this time overcome the language barrier, found security in their new land, and established employment comparable to former country.

Mrs. McCaw described the impressiveness of the Citizenship Courts, held twice yearly, presided by his Honor Judge Anderson. Civic officials, representatives of the Ministerial Association, guests and sponsors are in attendance. Each new Canadian receives a copy of the Bible. Here he is complimented the tremendous work being done by the two ICDE chapters in the city in making the newcomers feel at home. A reception under their sponsorship follows in the armouries.

Spon-sor: ETAOIN ETAOI NN

Mrs. McCaw continued by saying: "There has been considerable discussion regarding the wisdom of this influx of persons coming to Canada from other countries.

MEANING OF Citizenship is I am satisfied any of you who were fortunate enough to attend the Trade Fairs during these past two years, sponsored by the Julius Chapter of I.O.D.E. and saw the splendid display of handicraft shown by the newcomers from foreign lands, can be assured they have much to offer us of Canada-born in this country. We might also remember they have benefited all the way with their former countries and will look to us for examples of good citizenship."

SET AN EXAMPLE

"We should govern our daily actions With this in mind.

Bertha, Y. — So soon after your marriage, I feel out of love.

Austin, Y. — It couldn't have been love, then, if it fades so fast.

Bertha, Y. — *

Austin, Y. — Austin and were married six months ago. After a most romantic and wonderful engagement of more than a year and a half. After a glorious honeymoon in Europe and up housekeeping in a darling little home filled with apartment. Since we both have office jobs, we divide the work.

That may be where the trouble lies. Austin approved of my working, since many married and my conversation. But he just didn't stand the way I do things in "my" home. Yes, he calls it "his," never ours, and keeps telling me how much better his mother, his sister and his sister-in-law keep house. He's such a fusspot I'm afraid to move out and leave the "man-ner" to him. I'm alarmed at how cold I feel towards him.

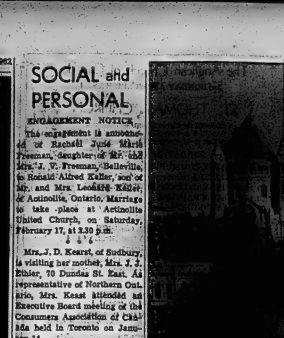
* * *

Austin Y. — She just gets the idea the minute I show her a dish towel still dirty or that sweater that's squeezed into a drawer instead of being neatly folded. I don't know who picked up after Bert all her life. Nobody ever let me get away with such hit-or-miss, sloppy work.

And I don't see why telling me her the truth should make her love for me disappear. What's the connection? If I were nothing but a yes-man she'd know I was a coward and then she'd surely wouldn't love me. A husband should be able to call a spade a spade and a real wife should be able to take it without running out!

Maybe this proves Bert can't be a real wife. She's too touchy. She should love me no matter what.

* * *



The Council: And another marriage bites the dust, might be the conclusion of the wise scribe. But they'd be wrong. Because Bertha's amount enough to put up a fight for "that old feeling" which she knows is still there, but is afraid to let Austin see it. Rather than settle for a pretend-marriage, she's going back to work and revive The Real Thing.

She'll probably succeed because the ivy wall around her heart is small enough to crumble. She's not letting it harden into the sour bricks which bar the way to so many. It's not for what concerns her goes under the heading of frigidity, which is cause is believed to be mainly psychological.

Austin, say the experts, is angry. Bertha resents Austin's superiority complex. She'll learn to yell, cry, scream, shout. But she doesn't dare. She represses her irritation. And so it follows, as the day the night, that her self-esteem sinks. She is in-capable of animal physiology.

The answer, then — and marriage counselors advise this constantly — is for each partner to offer a supreme gesture of love; permission to show, a-gainst the world, "I'm in it for the book: "Partners in Love." Dr. Joyce Brothers has a simple formula that most likely pack has never, from infancy to, followed. It entails him-self or herself of hidden anger. Now, under the compulsion of solicitude of a loving spouse, the bottles of poisons may be found empty. And all follow-up attentions which will do the trick. Suppose a beautiful oneness between Bertha and Austin are almost maternal. Bertha's awareness of tension, and efforts — physical and emotional — to relieve it.

In addition to letting Bertha blow off steam, Austin must remember, that like a recalcitrant child, she needs loving treat when she is most unlovable! This is the time for caressing hands, yes "mother-ly" hands. The idea is to get the anger expressed and over with, to clear away the dirty dish, the messy room, in a constructive, helpful way.

From Mount Zion, Jerusalem one views many strands of history—the remnants of the 1948 Israel-Arab War; the tombs of David and 13 other kings, the site of the Last Supper.

Going Places

All the People of the World Represented in Jerusalem

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

"And it shall come to pass in that day, that the great trumpet shall be blown, and they shall come which were ready to perish ... and shall worship the Lord in the Holy Mount at Jerusalem." — Isaiah, XXVII:13.

Jerusalem, Israel — The Jews of Israel are Persians with reserved accents and dark eyes like King Saud; Indian women with plaited hair and bangles; olive-skinned Moroccans and pale, bearded holy men from the ghettos of Poland. They look, and are, all the people of the world, for their ancestors lived in at least 70 nations of the world for centuries.

When they arrived here they had little in common but their religion. Born of a persecution of which had remained uncanny, like phoenix, they came back to life. Their individualities developed that mirrored the trials of their particular countries. There it is carried on to this day, although forced to back home once more on the "holy mount."

NEVER REALLY CHANGED

There are some 460 languages here which reflect these national backgrounds. In the Old City's warren of tiny streets where the barriers of the 1948 Israel-Arab War. On the road you may walk into the room in which David and 13 other kings are buried. And the flight of old stone stairs above the tomb is the upper room in which the Last Supper probably was held.

Still higher, in the roof court of a mosque, we looked out to the Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives, beyond were the Dead Sea and the impending mountains of Moab, from beyond which Ruth came.

The hill on which Bethel is buried, the sun-baked stone village of Ein Karem where John the Baptist was born, the ancient road where the Tenth Roman Legion encamped — all are here, timeless and as real as the epochal days in which their stones were first erected.

"A PASSPORT TO FAIRELAND".

Anne of Green Gables . . . The very title releases joy-filled memories, for many a once youthful reader, and now for the present. This morning, upon a discovery of another book, entitled "The Green Gables Letters . . . from L. M. Montgomery to Ephrian Weber, 1905-08, Now lodged in the National Archives in Ottawa."

These letters made available and edited by Wilfrid Eggleston, a former member of Parliament, College staff member, whose possession of such a heritage is a story in itself, will be welcomed with heart-felt thanks and gratitude by each and every L.M.M. devotee.

As the pages turn, L.M.M. by some kind of magic is sitting close by, chatting about her life at Cavendish, P.E.I., where she was "... brought up by my grandparents in the old Macneill homestead . . . eleven miles from a railway and twenty-four from a town, but only half a mile from one of the finest sea-beaches in the world, the 'old north shore'."

Novels being soon, she dreamed herself in poetry, the "music of the immortals" in discovery at the age of nine, she could "write poetry, myself." Fond of animals, she says, "the first real sorrow that ever came into my life was connected with the death of a pet (a kitten)." She was the Alpha of life's sufferings. "From that time, I began to have a sense."

On personality, she declares, "there's a hundred of me, more or better than being just two or three, I think, much more exciting more interesting."

"There are some people who are so dull, they must find life as insufferable as lots of other people find them."—

About writing as vocation, "When I come across an idea, it comes as it down in my head . . . Yes, hard, but the bare-hours' library work's a day.

"I write fast," and gives numerous accounts of material accepted, which her housework fits in with (don't I like housework? Well, rather—except the rougher parts, and I'm not above them, either).

Then she comes to her big surprise, how she wrote a book last fall and winter, "but didn't squeak a word to anyone about it because I was afraid I wouldn't find a publisher." Her joy of its acceptance, but "don't stick up your nose at imagining that the great-Canadian novel has been written at last."

merely a favorable story, agreeably 'so, rich'," said comments my family. Many times I wished to have let the public 'take.' Nor does the 'devil spoof,' but merely hints at the unbridled, as it cannot begin to tell you all the poetry-flings cobwebbed and spiteful, which possessed brought, but declares she has learned a long and hard experience-ship from those hard months. Now, she says, "I am ready, every-where, left their separate worlds of reality. It is a lovely memory, to recall sharing Anne's adventures as we sat reading by a sunny bank, window of books" by boxelder trees, which faced Mt. Zion, old north shore, the higher peaks of the Wasatch range of the Rockies, and be magically transported to a three-cornered world weathed by the sea!

A land called Canada, our father's homeland, and yet we might visit one day — and did, to make our dreams true.

That's especially why it was a thrill, when we visited Cavendish, P.E.I., to discover that L.M.'s "old north house" and

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

A DOSSIER OF MASCULINE FAULTS

Ask any woman who peeves her most about masculine manners — or lack of same — and she's liable to talk up a storm.

At a recent gathering I did just that and had to duck a rain of complaints.

Generally, the woman I queried looked with slightly jaundiced eye on the man who:

Forgets to light her cigarette.

Fails to help her off with her coat in a restaurant or theater.

Takes his lady fair to a party then talks with everyone else but her for the rest of the evening.

Constantly talks about his job or, worse yet, other girls he has dated. Or, generally, just talks. And talks. And talks.

Husbands came in for an additional share of pot shots, and the wives present voted a nod on the spouse who:

Brings friends home to dinner on short notice or with no warning at all.

Decides at the last minute he doesn't want to go to a dinner party then has his better half call up and make excuses.

Helps himself generously at a buffet and never, thinks to ask his helpmate if he can help her, too.

Insists on wearing a sports shirt to a party at which he knows darn well all the other men will be wearing ties.

Forgets her birthday and their anniversary.

And forgets. And forgets. And forgets.

Mark's Fish House Official Opening Today-Jan. 20

Sea Food House Offers Patrons Great Variety

Local residents who have a yen for sea food of either mundane or exotic nature will no doubt become happy patrons of what is probably the most modern and attractive sea food emporium in the Quinte district — Mark's Fish House.

Located on Front Street, just north of Boyce's garage, in the former premises of Murray's Sea Foods, this establishment opens its doors and its larders to the public today.

Fresh oysters and clams, live lobsters, crabs, lake trout, haddock, halibut, smoked eel, periwinkles, cockles, mussels, octopus, squid, cuttlefish and shrimp will be available, either for preparation and consumption on the premises or to take home, according to Mark Kathis, proprietor, who also promises that these products will be of the highest quality obtainable. Mr. Kathis was formerly with the Hotel Quinte.

A take-out service of "fish and chips" and Kentucky fried chicken will also be on the bill of fare at Mark's, Fish House.

The new restaurant features very pleasant quarters with a marine decor highlighted by a nautical mural on one wall. Accessories and trim of a suitable nature further emphasize this theme. The interior has been tastefully designed by the architectural firm of Grierson and Walker of Belleville and Toronto. Over 40 patrons can be accommodated at one sitting.

Ask Henry

This writer of this weekly, advice column is a 13-year-old boy. The advice he gives is telling him. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry—I am a firm believer in children helping out with jobs around the house. I was brought up that way but I am not successful with my son who is 11 now. Although he doesn't mind helping he always ends up doing something else. For example

I've been taking him out to shovel snow off the driveway, but he turns out making a snowman or just plain fooling. How can I put his mind to work?

—HAD ENOUGH.

Dear Had Enough:
He hates busy work.
Which he may usually
shirk;
Make it seem like a game,
My dad does the same.

Let him use the driveway's snow,
to build a tall fort;
Then watch him burrow,
He'll think it great sport. HENRY.

Dear Henry:—I have two brothers whom I love very much. I am the oldest child and quite often I am put in charge of them. I often get mad when they are bad and I think that they are starting to dislike me. I am 11 and my brothers are 9 and 8. What should I do? I have reading your answers in the paper. They are very good.—DISAPPOINTED.

Dear Disappointed—When your mother gets mad at you, you don't like her (and you show it). But after you've cooled off, you still love your mom. It's the same with your brothers.—HENRY.

Dear Henry:—As a mother of a son 13, and a daughter 11, I was interested in the letter from "Can't sit down." Your suggestion that he be confined to his room is no punishment, perhaps with a transistor radio or a comic book to keep him company? I've found with my two when they are naughty, nothing brings results like a firm application of my hairbrush on the bare bottom. Seldom if ever does a paddling at our house have to be repeated and my two are not resentful about a deserved penalty.—ANOTHER SPANKING MOM.

Dear Another Spanking Mom—Your children are now 13 and 11. You had your say way out. I think that from now on you will have to use your head rather than your hand. Besides, an older kid is spanked, so much pride is hurt that it burns up inside and he could knock the whole house down.—HENRY.

Dear Henry: My mother and father knew I wanted a colt for Christmas. They only cost $75. Other people have permits to keep their horses in the city. I wanted it very much but I didn't get it.—STILL WANTING.

Dear Still Wanting—The pony "only" cost $75, the permit may be $30, the feed $180 for the first colt, the stable $100 and then the playgrounds for the pony." Think also a few months after you didn't get your pony. What do you think next year? A Boeing 707?—HENRY.

Unemployment Picture

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment together with addressed envelopes from the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Ottawa.

Following are John's questions with answers which may help readers:

Q.—I worked from May 27 to November 23 and my daily earnings were as follows: $9.41 stamped; $ 9.43 stamped; $ 9.46 stamped; $ 9.44 stamped; $ 9.47 stamped; $ 9.30 stamped and $ 9.10 stamped.

Kindly tell me what amount I may draw now as I am married and I support my wife and four children. If the amount is small, may I draw unemployment assistance?

A.—A person's weekly benefit rate is based on the average value of the 30 contributions, when immediately prior to making his claim for benefit, and depending on whether he is claiming for single or dependency rate. This information is given by your local insurance Act to which you would be referred.

Q. I should like to know whether a man with five children who draws $18 a week unemployment insurance benefit may obtain social welfare or unemployment assistance without having his UI benefit cancelled. You know yourself that $18 a month is very little to support a family.

A. Benefits received from a social welfare agency or from Unemployment Assistance does not affect any benefit under the Unemployment Insurance Act to which you are entitled.

Q. I should like to know whether I will be entitled to unemployment insurance stamps. I worked at the construction of a house with a builder; I was his helper. The owner refused to give me stamps.

A. The owner of the house was not permitted, by the Unemployment Insurance Act, to make unemployment insurance contributions for you in respect of the construction of his house, since this work was of a casual nature and was not for the purpose of a trade or business carried on by him. This has been so established by a judicial interpretation given by the umpire, a judge of the Exchequer Court of Canada, who is the final authority for deciding questions of insurability under the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Q. During the summer I worked for a salary. In the evenings, I cut fuel wood for myself and I paid a man to help me. I have about 30 cords of wood but I have not been living ayster inthe house. It costs me about $700 to $750 a year to heat my house. May I sell the fuel wood to pay for the oil already? I am unemployed and drawing unemployment insurance benefit?

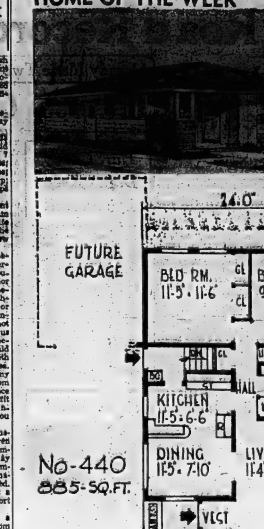
A. Earnings from the sale of the fuel wood are to be declared for the period of weeks during which any transaction takes place. Some allowance may be made for operating expenses, but to be sure you are following the proper procedure, you should consult your local office.

Q.—I have a 16-year-old son in grade ten. Last spring, I had to keep him at home and have been receiving since I could not afford to keep him at school. He was nevertheless promoted to grade ten. He worked 18 weeks, enough to be entitled to supplementary benefit. But he is now back at school and since I am unable to pay $21 a month for his board, I should like to know whether he may collect benefit.

A.—Even if your son has sufficient contributions to enable him to establish a benefit claim, he would not be entitled to benefit for the length of time he withdraws from the labor field to continue his studies at school. To be entitled to benefit a person must be able, willing and ready to accept immediate work.

Q.—Last year, I had 23 contributions and I drew seasonal benefit. This year, I have 13 contributions. Am I entitled to benefit?

A.—To qualify for seasonal benefit you must have acquired at least 15 contribution weeks after March 25, 1961. In order to qualify for regular benefit this year, at least 24 of the 30 contributions which you need to qualify must be within 52 weeks of your new claim or since the commencement of your last seasonal benefit claim, whichever is the longer. The information you have given is too limited to say if you would meet this requirement. You should discuss this more fully with your local office.



Q.—Is it wrong for me to claim as my dependent a person who is regarded as my wife, but to whom I am not married?

A.—A man must prove that the person claimed for is his wife by reason of a legal marriage. It is wrong to give false information concerning a dependent and penalties are provided for doing so.

Q.—Will I be in trouble with the Unemployment Insurance Commission if I claim as my dependent an illegitimate child whom I fully support?

A. Certainly not. Information which you are required to give to the Commission is held in the strictest confidence. However, severe penalties, including prosecution or deductions from future benefits, are provided for making false statements or misrepresentations.

Use Foliage for Extra Beauty

By FLORA M. SAVELLE

The abundant use of foliage in flower arrangements is the great change in the last few years. Flowers are coming to realize their beauty and how use them in new combinations. Many have only a few flowers to add accent and bring out the fluted color of the leaves, or to give contrast in line to complete the form of the arrangement.

The recent introduction of Begonia rex and other species and varieties of the ornamental begonias are examples. Angel wing with its silver dots is also striking in color, and form.

Unfortunately these leaves are not for sale by florist at present. But, you may have some such plant on hand from which you would be willing to spare a few leaves. Old leaves stand up much better than new ones. They should be hardened in cold water placing them up to the leaf base for one hour before arranging THEM TAPE, WIRE

To make them curve you can buy a tape from the florist for this purpose. Use fine florists wire under this to keep the leaves. The leaf must be cold, dry, or the tape will not stick. Wire can be used to hold flowers or leaves upright if they are inclined to droop.

Dutch florists use the sword-like leaves of Sansevieria (snake plant), American florists use too. Perhaps you would be willing to cut a few from your plants if they are big and healthy, for the sake of experimenting. You will find that they last a very long time in water.

Maranatha have especially attractive leaves, geraniums, some cacti, poinsettia that never seem to bloom all these are a source of foliage for you. Look over your houseplants some of them may be getting leggy and could do with a shortening here or there. The leaves will provide you with material for a coffee table, a mantel, or a table arrangement.

Rhododendrons are well worth growing for their handsome foliage. The underside is a soft downy sand color. Use the underside with its side for contrast.

With any of these you can use the available winter fruits such as lemons, kumquats, tangerines and pepper. Dried straw flowers, their stems, leaves or colors and can be used with foliages and dried grasses. You may still find these at the florist, or the markets. Bittersweet, rose hips, berberry or any other berries from your garden shrubs are also good materials.

In the garden you may still find a few beet leaves, deep rich royal purple in color, excellent with its light green curved and picoleed leaves, or a few bright red strawberry leaves.

If you have none of these things on hand you can buy quite inexpensively from your florist. He has on hand Salal leaves, Holly, Huckleberry leaves, Camellia leaves, rhododendron and box wood.

He will sell you a few flowers and these can be replaced in a week with new ones. The foliage will last significantly longer and can be used over and over with new flowers.

Appliance Store In Toronto Sells Austin 850

TORONTO — One of the largest appliance dealers in Canada will begin selling Britain's wonder car the Austin 850, through its Toronto retail stores. In a joint statement today officials of the Austin Motor Company (Canada) Limited and New Era Home Appliances Limited, said the complete range of Austin 850 vehicles will go on sale at once for as little as $1,500 down.

With the move, Austin took the lead in a new method of automobile merchandising in Ontario. It came as a natural extension of a very successful merchandising program began last March in Montreal when Austin 850's went on sale at the L. M. Meister Department Store. On the first night of the program in Montreal, 70 of the vehicles were sold, to date, the department store has sold over 1,500 of the vehicles. New Era Appliances Limited will display the cars in their stores on Danforth Avenue, in Toronto, interspersed with their brand name television sets, washing machines, furniture and other appliances.

A spokesman for the appliance company said: "New Era was in keeping with "New Era" tradition of selling only top name merchandise and we are proud to add the Austin D. Wannamaker of Deseronto, name to the others sold through our stores."

Customers may purchase and arrange financing of the Austin 850's through New Era. All of Mr. Meister's 850's have factory warranty and service will be done by the Austin Motor Company (Canada) Ltd.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has designated the week or January 20-27th as "Minor Hockey Week in Canada." Right across the nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific hockey men will pay tribute to the work being done for minor hockey.

They will take time to pay tribute to the men who make hockey possible for boys—the men who are the volunteer workers, the managers, the coaches, secretaries, and volunteer referees. Without these men there would be no minor hockey. And if no minor hockey, no hockey. In Ontario, the observance is under the direction of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association.

The Honorable John P. Roberts, Prime Minister of Ontario, commends and endorses Minor Hockey Week. He says:

"It gives me great pleasure to join in the celebration of Minor Hockey Week in Canada. Hockey is one of Canada's favorite winter sports and its value as a national recreational activity gives it added importance and significance.

"Hockey is of great benefit to our young boys, and does much to make our youth physically strong and healthy. Today great emphasis is being placed on the necessity for physical fitness and we can be proud of the contribution which hockey is making in this regard.

"I want to commend the parents who are taking an active part in promoting minor hockey, in acting as league officials, coaches, referees, linesmen, goal judges and other duties. At the same time I want to commend those who show their personal interest by attending the games, not by doing so, after their verbal and moral support to the young players. This, I believe, does much to strengthen family ties so essential and important in today's complex society."

The lengthy regular schedule of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association and packed seven time schedules does not permit of a special observance of the week here, according to an official.

The schedules themselves will give parents and others ample opportunity to contribute to "Minor Hockey Week" since the majority see action on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday morning.

Commended to parents and others by this department is the flourishing "Squirt Division," the latest member of the minor hockey family.

Six teams of these youngsters see action in Memorial Arena every Tuesday night from six to eight o'clock. This division is the basic foundation of minor hockey and some 130 youngsters under competent, dedicated coaches and officials take part. After the squirts the midgets take the ice spotlight from seven to eleven o'clock.

Saturday morning the peewees take over from 6.30 a.m. to 11.30 with ten teams taking part in five games. The bantams follow, taking the ice at 11.35 and playing four games until 3.30 p.m.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and its affiliates believe that minor hockey is a family affair; that parents should take-not-send-their boys to the arena. It wants to help young Canadians take part in Canada's national winter sport—under properly supervised conditions.

Shortly Canada will send a team to the world hockey tournament in Colorado Springs. In past years Canadian teams have been the envy of the hockey world. The majority of the players who brought glory to the nation, are graduates of organized minor hockey clubs.

Down deep, I believe all of us want to be a part of the program that develops the type of young men who can, and will retain world hockey supremacy in Canada.

The 135,000 Canadian boys who will be playing organized hockey next week are prospective world championship material.

Let's take-not-send the youngsters to their games next week. They'll get a kick hearing dad rooting for them from the sidelines.

No Trammell, Stephens

As Back To Old Quarters

MONTREAL (CP) — M. K. (Ted) Workman says Montreal Alouettes gave up hopes of signing quarterback Sandy Stephens because it was obvious "we are in a bidding war."

The president of the Eastern Football Conference club said he had learned Cleveland Browns of the National League had offered Stephens, University of Minnesota's hero of the Rose Bowl, a three-year, no-cut contract "in excess of $20,000 a year plus a $20,000 signing bonus.

"It's all off now," Workman said.

"Stephens wants to make his career in the U.S. and to be the first Negro pro quarterback. I can't blame him."

ously reported Friday that the Alouettes had offered Stephens the three-year, no-cut contract for more than $110,000).

The Alouettes have also given up hope of landing Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, general manager Perry Moss said Friday night. He said Trammell wanted a long-term, high-salary contract, the type of contract we're not interested in giving."

The withdrawals leave the Alouettes with the same quarterbacks—Joe Francis and Gerry Thompkins—they had last season when they ended in last place in the Eastern Conference of the Canadian Football League.

Moss said he still is negotiat-

Wings' Road Record Worst In League

Has Abel Worried

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Detroit Red Wings have the worst road record in the National Hockey League and it's beginning to worry coach Sid Abel.

The Red Wings tied their first game away from home this season, but since have lost 15 of 16, including their last six. Even lowly Boston Bruins have done better, winning four and tying two of 22 away games.

"It's a big problem," said Abel as he led his Red Wings into Montreal for the start of a home - and - home weekend set, five against the front - running Canadiens tonight. "We just don't seem to play well away from Detroit."

The Red Wings, however, have managed to stay in contention for a Stanley Cup playoff berth as a result of their home record — 12 wins, four defeats and six ties. They're fifth, but only one point behind fourth - place New York Rangers at the moment.

Sept. Jay's been unable to pin down the main factors for Detroit's feeble road showings.

"Some of the fellows are playing well and others are not," he said. "I don't want to mention any names.

Detroit, which already has lost four games at Montreal this season, won't have an easy task tonight.

The Canadiens are only two points ahead of the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs, but they haven't lost in their last six games, have seven straight winning five games and tying another in the last two weeks, the Canadiens have rookie Lorne Worsley in nets.

Worsley, who already has lost three

Marines Set Record for 100-Mile Hike

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — The U.S. Marine corporals claimed a world record Friday for a 100-mile walk.

Peter F. Zych, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Henry W. Hartmann, 21, of Tacoma, Wash., crossed the finish line after a hard, 33-mile pack performance that marine corps spokesmen said bettered the record set by two Englishmen last November.

Four marine corporals started out Thursday morning but two failed to finish.

During the last mile, the men were accompanied by the entire company which they belong and the division fife and drum band blaring the Marine Hymn.

Ont. Federation Anglers, Hunters 'Hunter Hoodlums' Said Problem

By FRED CHAPE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Friday reviewed a year of some solid achievements but agreed tough battles are ahead, particularly in the field of conservation education.

Almost 400 delegates opened the federation's three-day annual convention. They represent 18 constituents of Ontario's big game clubs.

The convention continues today.

On the credit side of the ledger, delegates were told that the war on the sea lamprey, in which sportsmen's groups assist wildlife officials, is paying off.

MAY ERADICATE EEL

H. Vic Sutton of Ridgetown, federation secretary - manager, said the destructive parasites are expected to be controlled enough not eradicated, in the Great Lakes by 1953.

His reported a major increase in park permits issued with the opening of Long Point Provincial Park on Lake Erie. He described Pelee as Lake Erie's controlled waterfowl hunting last fall. Darlington Provincial Park, near Bowmanville, was opened to duck hunters the previous year.

Dan Smith, deputy minister, said Zone 2 of the federalist pressed for action to "protect the game resources of deer herd in Northern Ontario," where hunting pressure has been sharply recently.

A study by Zone 3 officials and foresters department produced statistics showing that the deer hunting season in some areas. The proposals will be made to control the distribution of fish and game committee this spring.

President Jim Stockdale of Terrace Bay said the federation could take constitutional action on common problems but urged affiliated clubs not to push pet projects which could better be handled at the local level.

He said consultations with other sportsmen's groups across the country have laid the groundwork for the formation of some the first Canadian Wildlife Federation.

As retiring chairman presented their reports, three birds prob. were blood out — pollution, the ever - increasing spread of "do hunting" signs on private land, and the high productivity of duck - wilderness waterways of Highways and private aircraft reach farther northward.

Sutton urged a total ban on oil wells and drilling in the Great Lakes. The real danger, he said, is not spills, but the 15 or 20 gallons capped drill casings begin to corrode and leak their lethal contents.

"We don't regard the oil and we don't regard the gas, but the gas goes well need the water."

Delegates reported on several plans to co-operate with farmers and land owners, but agreed posting hunting privileges more and more frequent issues of boodlum element is eliminated.

Education is the only solution, said Joseph Gaj, city of Windsor.

"As long as we have a group of people who don't give a damn about other people's property and what they do to it, we're never going to get that solved."

Dave Adair of Toronto said the Ontario Trappers and Game Protective Association is supposed cards to its members guaranteeing them a fair trial if harassment if damage occurred while a card was carried on property. The system had been found effective.

A northern delegates said fishing in his area already is falling off as city folk flock there in increasing numbers.

Lew Barker of Fort Frances called for a check on enforcement and a school program of fish management at present applications are allowed to continue, he said, the government will be "killing the goose that laid the golden egg."

He laid much of the blame on fishermen from neighboring states flying small private aircraft equipped with echo sounders.

Many, he said, never, declare their entry to Canada. They catch vastly more than legal limits in the safety of wilderness areas and fly the fish out undetected.

When violators are caught, they were apt to escape lightly, Barker said. He told of fish fighting deer in neighboring Minnesota, is $500 but a poacher, nabbed in Ontario would be let off with $25.

They Could Lose Every Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Hugo Bezdek, 63, is going to be more crippled than ever around Northwestern football stadium.

The metropolitan district commission said Friday $100 might be taken off his pension in the area.

The leaves of the impressive oak trees, so live, simulate their normal native — will turn crimson, the official color of Harvard, each fall as football fans flock to the stadium.

Reds Edge Bisons 4-3

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Orland Kurtenbach, a young centre who started the season with Boston Bruins, fired the winning goal at 3:31 in overtime as Providence Reds defeated Buffalo Bisons 4-3 Friday night in an American Hockey League game.

The victory at home ended a four-game losing streak for the Reds and lifted them to within one point of second place in the Eastern Division.

Murray Hall scored on a 25-footer to give the Bisons a 1-0 lead at 14:39 in the first period. Bob Beckett, returned to the Reds earlier in the week by the Montreal Canadiens, tied it at 16:32.

Harry Cullen's goal, his 20th of the season, regained the lead for Buffalo at 2:35 of the second period, but Zellio Toppazzini scored again at 11:01 to force overtime.

Stan Baluik put Providence ahead in the third period, Hall scored again at 11:01 to force overtime.

Canadians Hold Control Bowie Race Track Sold

BALTIMORE (AP)—The sale of control of Bowie Race Track in southern Maryland to Canadian interests was announced Friday.

E. R. E. Carter, 39-year-old president of Patino Limited of Canada, will acquire 46 per cent of the stock, it was revealed by Donald C. Lillie, New York investment banker, has controlled 48 - year - old track since 1952.

Walsh said the sale will be completed Jan. 31 when a new Maryland corporation formed to operate Bowie will be voted upon at 4:00p.m. meeting starting Jan. 30. Walsh said there will be about 2,000 stockholders in the new corporation.

In Toronto, Carter said the transaction was arranged through an American affiliate of Patino, Patino Mines and Enterprises, in which the Canadian company has a 46-per-cent interest. The American company bought the stock outright, he said, and will own the remaining 54 per cent of the stock.

Carter is also president and director of Copper Rand Chemical Company, Flotation Oil, the Nipissing Mines Company, Advocate Mines Limited and is director of Anglo-Huronian Mines.

Tiger Meets Fernandez

The fight starts at 10 p.m. and will be carried on ABC television.

Fernandez has won 24 of his 33 fights by knockouts. Tiger, who is right - handed, has stopped 13 of 37 opponents. He has lost 12 by decisions, fought two draws and has never been knocked out.

'Ole Rajah' Mets Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Rogers Hornsby, a member of the Hall of Fame and one of the greatest hitters of all time, has been signed as a coach by New York Mets, president George Weiss announced Friday.

Hornsby, 66, who had been employed by the Mets as scout in the Chicago area, will serve as batting instructor. He succeeded a lifetime batting mark of .358, second only to Ty Cobb's .367, while playing with five clubs.

No Record For Quebec Juniors

TORONTO (CP)—Quebec City, one of the Ontario Hockey League did not set a Sunday attendance record in Ontario totals have not night.

Examination of all records kept by the RC Canadian Standard does not list the 1935-36 season; Toronto St. Michael's College's 22,000 at two Sunday games — 22 in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule and 12,000 in the Memorial Cup.

At St. Michael's, records show that the Majors were playing out season and playoffs undefeated but fail to show exactly how many games were played.

It was previously believed that the Oakdale broke a record of 18 unbeaten games held jointly by Gak Black Hawks and Guelph Royals.

Western Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks came up with their best performance of the Western Hockey League season Friday night and trounced Calgary Stampeders 6-0 before 1,300 at Vancouver.

Veteran forwards Larry Popein and Gus Kyle starred as they led the way as the Canucks, last-place team in the Northern Division, beat Calgary for the first time in seven games.

Popein scored two goals, only his third and fourth of the season, while Kyle drove home the 37 saves in earning his second shutout.

Wayne Hall also scored two for Vancouver and George Ford and Bob McCusker added single goals.

Woodstock, Chatham Win

Dogs Nip Terriers 7-1

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

There was plenty of action in three Ontario Hockey Association games Saturday night but not little in the series standings as the teams held tight to their skates.

Woodstock Athletics, in third place, moved into the Intermediate Waterloo Tigers 13-2, Chatham edged Sarnia Imperials 4-3 and Stratford, the last-place Sarnia Rams 7-4 and the second - place Windsor Spitfires 12-7 in Senior Ontario Oak Terriers 7-4.

In Toronto, the Athletics bombarded Waterloo with a 36-point scoring spree before 1,000 fans.

Don Mayers, Gerry Theberge and Stan Marc Aaiello paced Athletics with three goals each. Dave McLeod followed with two goals and Bob Bailey scored one.

Three Woodstock goals in the first period were answered with one by former Athletic Larry Cain. Woodstock added two more second goals in the second, and two in the third as Waterloo countered with tip other two goals by Nick Ristchin and Frank Balagula.

Marlene Loses in Upset

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Three newcomers and 1951 runner-up Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., moved into the semi-finals of the 30th annual Doherty golf championship Friday.

Miss Preuss whipped Ann Nesbitt of Philadelphia 8 and 6 and will meet Mrs. Robert Lyle of Montreal, who beat Phyllis Benson of Cowichan, B.C., 2 and 1.

Earlier, in second-round play, Mrs. Nesbitt pulled out of the tourney upsets in the seven-year championship, ousting three - time champion Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Fonthill, Ont., 2 and 1.

Ann Shanahan of Toledo, Ohio, who beat 1952 Doherty champion Barbara Romack of Baltimore, 2 and 1, will oppose Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis.

Pepsi's Shade Port Hope 8-8

This One Was Closer!

PORT HOPE — The Belleville Pepsi's scored a pair of goals in the last three minutes of the game to squeeze out an 8-6 victory over the Hockey Club here Friday night.

The score was tied all the time from five times in the 5-a-side after until F. P. Lemieux's league leaders finally scraped it up at 17.30 and 18.05 of the third heat. The Pepsi's had taken the Oakdale 17-0 in Belleville earlier this week.

Dukie Derks took Tom O'Malley pass and beat Port Hope goalie Stu Lingard with the game-winning marker. Four-by-five seconds later "Wimpy" Brown climbed home the insurance goal to wrap up the Pepsi's 12th win in fourteen starts in the Lakeshore Intermediate hockey loop.

Port Hope had leads of 2-0 and 5-4 at different times in the game while on other occasions the Pepsi's led 3-2, 4-3 and 6-5. It was 3-3 in favor of the winners at the end of the first and 5-5 after two periods.

The Oakdale opened the scoring after only one minute and 55 seconds of play on a goal by Ken Lee. It was tied at 1-1 at 6.46 before Baker got the Pepsi's in front in the first on a pair of goals by defenceman Fort Glasgow put the Pepsi's ahead 3-2 before the period ended.

Port Hope got by P. Walsh, Lee and Carleton, with replies by Hull and Goyer, made it 5-5 in the second.

Belleville surged ahead 6-5 on Baker's goal at 11.47 of the third but the Oakdale managed to quit and made it 6-6 on Mc-

Kenna's goal at 14.25. Then came the Derks-Brown-Brown goals to complete the scoring.

Belleville drew six minor penalties while Port Hope had five. Referee Pitts of Cobourg and Barnosky.

John "Buster" Baker (goal); Sinnett, Stinnear; attack with a pair of goals and three assists. Fort Glasgow contributed two goals with, Bert Hull and Gary Goyer each getting a goal and assist; Derks and Brown; Hal the other goals, Floyd Crawford and Tom O'Meara an assist each.

Bob Lee, with two and one, McKeen and Weiss, each with a goal and two helpers, paced the losers. Paul Walsky and Carleton rounded out the goal-getting. Brereton, Fenlon and B. Walsky had assists.

Soo Wins Over Wolves

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds crowned the Eastern Professional month stretch as sole occupants of the Eastern Professional Hockey League standings Friday night by a 7th-place tie with Sudbury Wolves.

The season was but three days old Oct. 24 when the Soo team, with an 0-3 win-loss record, was last place at the bottom of the league ladder.

The Thunderbirds went seven games before finally dropping their first points, from a 5-1 win over the trappers. And their play continued to be erratic to the point where in most quarters they'd bounce for a playoff berth (among top four teams) were all.

Things were going so badly that the Sault Arena Commission considered the idea of having disband unless play and attendance records showed an immediate improvement.

CATCH FIRE

Apparently that was all that was needed. The Thunderbirds suddenly caught fire, becoming one of the league's hottest teams.

Kidd Back in Training

Injuries Cleared Up

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd won't run again seriously until he has regained the form he had before he injured his right foot last year.

"We can't tell now how Bruce will feel," said Fred. "He need's two solid weeks of work before we will be ready for international competition in the distance class, though, that much we know."

WILL DECIDE

Kidd, like all athletes, said Foot, is susceptible to blisters on the feet. Not all blisters, however, "work into blood poisoning as happened to Bruce."

The Wimpledge organizers have been "very nice" about the situation, Foot said, and are more interested in the long-range future of Kidd than in seeing him incur serious injury by overexerting himself at the Meet of Champions.

They would much sooner see him run less at the meet and be able to return on March 17 for the Canadian champion-ship."

Quinte seniors and juniors won victories last night over the Trenton Tigers, while the Tiger bantams carried home the honors, 41-30. In the junior game, Quinte Little Saints took home the victory by a 45-38 win. The Belleville Saints followed up with another win-ner for the Quinte wreath with a 43-36 landslide.

BANTAM GAME

Both teams having won and three of their previous games, battled hard for the first place position. In the first quarter neither team could be picked as the more winner as Trenton took the quarter by only two points. In the second the Tigers saw a Tiger lead cut Trenton pulled out with a 12-point advantage.

Wirtick of Trenton pushed in nine points, and with the help of Davis and Williams, pulled the Trenton lead up to 19 points. Things looked bad for the Saints and in the fourth the Tiger defence halted all attempts for recovery by Quinte. The game ended with the Tigers capturing a 31-point win, and the first place position. The star of the game was Wirtick of Trenton with eight field goals and two fouls, for 18 points.

JUNIOR GAME

The first quarter was slow moving, with neither team scoring more than twice. The quarter ended in a tie. Then in the second with the aid of Dascifin Cavel, who had 10 points, the Tigers pulled out into a three point lead. The third saw another star pushing his team into the lead. This time it was Ken Quilty, adding in eight points for the Saints' winning advantage. The Little Saints cleaned up in the fourth, with four more from Quilty and three from McBride. Quinte pulled up from a slow start to a 14-point win. The star of the game was Doug Irvine of Quinte with 7 field goals and four foul shots for 17 points.

SENIOR GAME

The Saints took a quick lead in the first quarter and kept the Tigers from her back-boards, with the exception of three turnovers. It was Trenton's turn to start this quarter and outshoot Quinte by four points. This left them only three points behind the Tigers' lead at the third. Chestland and Gregory of Quinte went wild around the Trenton basket, racked up 13 points between them.

Burley and Lakeford gave Quinte a 11-point lead. Trenton never flagged in the fourth, the fourth to Quinte's seven. Thus the Trenton Tigers were handed to the Quinte Saints. The star of the game was Wayne Gilroy with 13 points.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) Wind and rain failed to halt the second meeting of Canada Cup pals, who grabbed the lead Friday in Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf tournament over the Cypress links of 136.

The 180-pounder from Pendleton, Ind., toured the treacherous Pebble Beach course in a one-under-par 71 and Art Wall Jr. soared in the gale-force winds. Jacky Cupit, who also had a 71 at Pebble Beach, was second with a 139 total.

Ken Venturi, who won the Crosby two years ago, slipped into third place with a 69-141. He played Monday for Peninsula Country Club on his second round.

Pro Bob McCallister and Los Angeles Angels outfielder Alex Grammas were tied for help-ing lead in the pro-amateur division with a best-ball 59.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver and his amateur partner, Dr. Bud Taylor, were in a three-way tie for fourth place in the pro-amateur event with a 63-68—130 score.

Sports Snapshots

By W. E. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP) — There seems good reason to believe a controversy could easily be stirred up over the redoubtable Jacques Plante.

Were the NHL all - star selectors right a few years ago in hailing him as the best goalie in the Montreal Canadiens goalie when Canadiens were really moaning from one title to another in runaway fashion?

For Plante is now a star in the coveted Vezina trophy as low - average goalie. But only twice in those five years was Plante named to the No. 1 all - star team.

If it is contended that the Vezina award really means anything, as it similarly does in the Most Valuable Player trophy race, there's no argument. But the selectors do not. Is reasoned this way: Anybody could play goal with that team in front of him, so phoote on Plante.

But now the selectors appear to have come around to the view that perhaps after all it was Plante playing for Canadiens instead of vice versa.

MAIN ASSET

Few still disagree that Plante definitely carried Canadiens through the first half of this promising Stanley Cup drive, putting up 73 points for Plante against 46 for Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, the Montreal Maple Leafs and 76 for Glenn Hall of Chicago Black Hawks.

The recognition was virtually obligatory. Then out again the masked Plante was outstanding. A weaker team has been in front of Jacques than Doug Harkey, the league's scoring champion, and two other rearguard regulars. Even the formidable Tom Johnson missed six games. Up forward, scoring strength was lost through injury Ralph (Cowboy) Backstrom, Dickie Moore and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

The comparative weakness of the whole team in front of Plante is shown in the number of shots he had to handle. In the first 43 games this season he was peppered with seven stitches, on most any goalie faced except Don Head of the lowly Boston Bruins. Head, and his relief in four games, faced 1,296 shots.

Glenn Hall of the Hawks was hit 1,134 times in 43 games and gave up 106 goals.

For the other goalies, including their relief in five games, the record at this time was: Toronto, 1,106 shots, goals in 41 games; Lorne Worsley, New York, 1,184 shots, 126 goals, in 44 games.

FINGERS CROSSED

The tall angular, sad - faced Plante can offer no logical reason for his hot work so far this season.

"I really don't know," he said a few days ago. "Sometimes I ask myself if it's just a dream and if I'll wake up some morning and find myself with the problems and troubles of last season."

He had plenty then, but they were more or less in keeping with this colorful, controversial character. He is lionized to Montreal fans but is capable, it is something of an individualist and often tends toward the unorthodox.

Before he came up to the NHL he threw his sticks away when playing. He knitted it himself, and can still do a capable job of knitting if occasion arises. He also does oil painting of sorts, as relaxation.

He was persuaded to discard the tuque on the ground that NHL fans would find it unbearable for a woolly - caped goalie.

But he didn't pass up further chances for innovation. He was the first NHL goalie to start wandering far from his cage. It wasn't long before others adopted the nomadic style.

STICKS WITH MASK

Then came the famous mask and, characteristically, Plante himself conceived and designed the mask. At first he wore it only in practices, in the middle of a game in New York Nov. 1, 1959, a shot hit him square in the face. He retired to the dressing room for seven stitches and came back wearing the mask.

He has never discarded it despite great furors that arise occasionally. The star insists Plante maintained that the mask does not interfere with his play. Others say it does, to which he has a contention.

Just the same, when the team goes sour a howl goes up about the mask. It all subsides when the team hits a winning streak.

Before wearing the mask Plante suffered fractures of each cheek bone and two fractures of his nose. He has had 150 stitches taken in his face.

Last season he had a knee injury and his play suffered and the howl about the mask again went up. He was benched and finally agreed to do the mid-nors for a spell. He came back to Canadiens' net, and a goal. He played a total of only 40 games of the 70-game schedule. His personal goals - against average was 2.80; the team's 2.60.

"Nature Girl and the Slaver" Based On Famous Work of Fiction

The story of "Nature Girl and the Slaver," it is based on the best seller by Anne Day-Helweg which has been read by over 20 million people and translated into many foreign languages.

It is the story of a beautiful girl who after the death of her missionary parents, was raised by a savage native tribe, and reared by the natives because of her beauty and purity, she wields absolute power over the hordes of warriors who have dedicated themselves to her protection.

How she is stolen by slavers and the savage battles fought over her are the action highlights of this famous book. Interwoven into this story of thrill after thrill is the story of an adventurer and his search for the golden-haired beauty.

The patrons of the Park Theatre when they picture opens on Monday for its first Belleville showing will see hundreds of the world's famous Arabian horses make an electrifying charge in an attack against the slave traders. They will see an entire village turned to the ground; they will see the ritualistic and authentic primitive tribal dances that fill the screen in spectacular Eastman Color and they will see the unusual story told against the background of traffic in slaves in Africa.

Playing the leading role of Diana is Marion Michael whose long golden hair and wholesome beauty has made her familiar to millions of magazine readers, having been one of the highest paid and most photographed models in the publishing field.

Marlise Ludwig, famous Dutch coach, gave Miss Michael two years of intensive dramatic lessons and after being satisfied as to her ability, allowed her to play the leading role. Her debut was successful, Marion Michael was chosen to play Diana in Anne Day-Helweg's book and a new screen personality was on the horizon for BCI.

Filmed on location in Sabaudia, the Ligurian Sea and the Italian marshes, "Nature Girl and the Slaver" captures the backgrounds of the many adventures which make a thrilling entertainment for the whole family.

Also on the screen when "Nature Girl and the Slaver" captures the hearts of millions of movie goers is the bonus picture "The Day the Sky Exploded" opens.

This timely celestial adventure explodes with all the danger and excitement of a shower of asteroids from outer space. Depicting the terror of earth's inhabitants add to the excitement of this thriller which promises to be the most powerful science fiction picture of the year. Complete shows 7:00-9:45 p.m.

Last Ernie Kovacs Show Will Be Aired Next Tuesday

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A week ago today, a skidding, blinding traffic crash killed comedian-star Ernie Kovacs.

But TV viewers will see his last show as scheduled over ABC-TV next Tuesday night — and without commercials.

Dutch Master Cigars, an unusual sponsor, will pick up the tab for the half - hour show. Instead of the usual four minutes of blatant commercials, the ishow will substitute a classic Kovacs skit — the Nairobi Trio.

The show was taped Dec. 3 and a spokesman for the sponsor said only one thing: "I decided its airing.

"Ernie would have liked that. It be seen and enjoyed," the spokesman said.

Kovacs' relationship with his sponsor was unique. He once said that the cigar firm "cared nothing about ratings, formats, critics or cost. All they cared about was me and the way I build that cigar."

The final show is one of Kovacs' better ones. It has a lot of his far - out humor and closes with some candid camera shots of him fooling around with his crew. These were not originally intended to be aired but they will be.

When working, the Kovacs crew lived in the same lavish trailer and filled comedian star Ernie Kovacs, overtime wages but paid for late suppers, catered from fancy restaurants.

Often, he picked up tabs for 30 or 40 workers.

Astrological Forecast

FOR JANUARY 31
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Permit your creative resourcefulness to come to the fore. Grow within yourself by quiet meditation . . . perhaps in a place of worship or at home. Look toward growth.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Certainly, the world is not always smooth. You know this from experience, and from your Taurean common sense. Today ride with the storm. Outlook is better than you think.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): On this day make your own decisions. If you err, at least you will suffer from your own mistakes . . . not the mistakes of others. Tendency, for those around you to be "grumpy." Remain neutral.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Month vitality in your favor. Be active. Entertain at home later today. Earlier, attend social or religious gathering. Basically, day for you to speak out and act. No more delays.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Jumping to conclusions could prove costly. Better to listen and bear with those who seem determined to have their way. Your cycle up. You can afford to be lenient. Listen to inner voice.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Fighting phantoms is a waste of both real and psychic energy. Come down to Earth today. Use these hours away from work to attend to details . . . to mend broken alliances.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): You could benefit greatly by taking time to really listen to one with greater experience. Your spiritual adviser could provide you with a valuable key. Absorb knowledge.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A lot of fun in store if you can be with people who are harmonious. Not too good for concentrating on intricate details. This should be a day of rest. Keep sense of humor.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Question aries and your problem is whether or not to answer it. You should. Truth will out. You gain in long run by forceful decision. Gain inspiration through worship.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Trying to beat the odds today could prove costly. Best to go along with what you know; that includes people, places, situations. Stress on possessions, budget. Be considerate.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Much tugging to and fro as associates disagree and seek you as ally. Remain neutral. To involve yourself in petty disagreements could prove wasteful. Judge fairly.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A journey to visit friends, relatives, promises much pleasure. But if such a trip is going to sap energy, cancel it. Take time today to analyze goals, future. Best to go slow.

* * *

If born today . . . you succeed by removing yourself from crowd. Your ideas are considered "far out" but, mainly, they work. Avoid outstanding month in year for you. Prepare for big change by getting house in order.

* * *

General Tendencies: All signs urged to look below surface. Much illusion apparent. Tendency is to want to believe people-say talk, schemes. Save much disappointment by facing facts. Cycle up for Cancer, Leo, Virgo.

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Look for new developments in situations you are accustomed to thinking of as quite familiar. This also applies to friends. Be ready for the unexpected. Don't be caught unprepared.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — If you try to duck responsibility . . . you could well regret it. Put in a little extra time, if necessary. Superiors, those who count, are watching. Be true to your own abilities.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Tendency is to hurry up — only to have to wait. Much in your favor . . . turn on Gemini sense of humor, charm. Much could fall in your lap . . . if you permit it. Calm modesty aside. Accept.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) — Stress on financial matters. Refuse to turn mountains into molehills. Attend to matters that require attention, or they may slide into serious irritations. Be prompt.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Like Aries, you must not put all eggs in one basket. Be versatile. Let others know you are not without allies. Tendency is to shove you . . . if one can get away with it. Tonight reward-ing.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Did you follow recent advice to stop fighting phantoms? If so, be ready now to gain from delightful source. Cycle moving up. Much that seemed like trouble is transformed . . . to good.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Many planets in favorable aspect to your Sun sign today. Take advantage of this by making contacts, appointments you have put off in recent past. Show devotion to loved ones.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — As this New Year progresses you begin to feel sense of authority, power, potential for improvement. Look, now for leads, ambition, ideas. Don't hold back. Go to it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you are willing to take action much could work out in your favor. If you sit back and wait . . . so you could indeed wait a long time. Grasp opportunities.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Money mystery spotlight. You are concerned about investment today . . . or should be. Those investments could be time or money, or both. Keep your own council. Let others flower.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — There is some pressure . . .

A Look at Shooting Preserves

Sports Illustrated magazine, self-proclaimed leader in the field of sports and sportsmen, recently ran an article (Nov. 20, 1961) they entitled, no doubt in plain language to be understood, Shoot Until I Open The Cage."

In the article, the author, one John Underwood, in his own words a "tyro" in the field of shooting sports...."I had never fired a shotgun at living creature all the end result one might expect from a plumber invited to repair a faulty ventilation fan."

Perhaps the most-maligned (and this not without cause) of all small businesses, the licensed shooting preserve circa 1962, after a year of "training", Sports men the country over have come to recognize the pheasant as game farm fills in the campfire field of shooting enjoyment.

No longer associated with "cocked" birds and a harvest of plenty, a shooting preserve can and does deliver, in dollars-spent-for-value-received fashion, a memorable day in the field.

Let no one be misled; even a tyro such as Mr. Underwood can kill a fair share of birds on many farms. Preserve owners have come to be 10-refutable position that they must and do size up their clientele and make adjustments accordingly. If a man is a lousy shot, he can find many targets available for his hit-miss technique. But let a party of fair-to-good shots appear on the premises and the picture changes. To be sure, they go home with their birds, but they put in a day's shooting to obtain them.

In the past 15 years, I have hunted many shooting preserves. Not all of these were good businesses; any more than all cleaners do good work or all grass cutters trim to the edges. Some have since gone out of the field to seek more profitable lines of endeavor. Others have prospered beyond their fondest hopes. The reason behind this is simple: they deliver, what their persons expect.

The word "sportsman" is vastly overused — this I think even the jaded editorial vocabulary will allow — to savor the name "sportsman" to a man who consistently passes up long shots in favor of a closer clean-skilling one, to the man who releases far more fish than he kills, to the man who is fearful of conservation legislation and sees to it that a elected governmental personnel do not make face-saving mistakes and then, in the same breath, apply this designation to a broad interpretation that would include riding to the hounds, roulette at Las Vegas and wheeling a Bugatti seems to detract from the very stature of the word.

Let us not use the name "sportsmen" when we speak of those who judge a shooting preserve on its merits...rather the all-sweeping title of the shooting public would be more apt.

Three long hours by car, not far from the Eisenhower farm in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, lies the Twin Hemlock Pheasant Farm. It is some 400 acres in size, and I have found it to be the best-operated business of its kind on which I have had the pleasure to shoot. My opinion in this matter stems from three basic functions accomplished preserve, shooter has proven to expect over the past decade of decline in open-field shooting.

Secondly, according to your taste, the shooting is as easy or as difficult (this by your own choice of shooting area) as is desired by any given party of gunners.

Thirdly, by staying away from the stenched frills and frippery — oak-panelled lounge, cocktails as evening and the like — they can and do offer a splendid day's gunning for a fair price.

If you care for a proverbial belt after the day's shooting is done, you may partake of it as we do, water thermos in one hand and flask in the other by the time we get to the car, while our birds are being tabled-dressed by a pro.

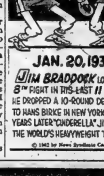
Game farm shooting can be expensive, oppressively so, if you care to take the free wheeling approach. I have had a day's shooting cost as high as $125 (this including 10-odd birds, guide, tips, food and drink). I have also killed the same number, just as happily, for $30. It all depends on how fancy you choose to be for the same basic result.

WORTH THE TRIP

As mentioned before, we choose to drive three hours by car to the Twin Hemlock Pheasant Farm. This is not because there is not another licensed preserve in our area; there are several. One specializes in taking a train of pheasants and releasing them directly in front of the guns. Another offers shells, accommodations and "don't give much of a damn" attitude. Happily, operations such as these are normally short-lived. People just will not part with their hard cash to be poorly treated.

Game farms offer another service many of us overlook. In my youth, my father used to reward well-behaved and behavior as I might muster a shot, or to offer to my host day by a trip to a local game farm. These were memorable shoots, ones on which no limits were placed on the number I might kill. Looking back, the odds against my killing any significant number of birds with a .410 double were definitely in favor of the house.)

Fathers today find, and this stems from many hours conversation with farm owners, that shooting preserve makes the best possible outdoor classroom a boy can have to learn the sports of shooting both fairly and well.



It is easy to josh something we do not choose to understand, as did'St and Mr. Underwood. Cynical reasoning, no matter how well meant, lacks authority when it takes in but part of the picture. It loses even more impact when this same, criticism comes from both a magazine and an author not known for their particular stability in the field.

GETS PARKING TAG

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner's official car got a ticket Thursday but the mayor says he's going to let his driver pay the $15 fine. The driver, Petey Kenny, said he parked the Cadillac, replete with official seals, in a no parking zone while he got a sandwich. Kenny said it was the first ticket he's got in 12 years of driving for New York City's mayors.

11th Canadian Province May Be Formed

BY JACK VAN DUSEN

TORONTO (CP) — The first step was taken Friday toward formation of an 11th Canadian province—that the public will not come for 30 years.

The Ontario Northwest Territories Council—despite objections from two of its members—decided to lay aside the established plan of the new Territory of Mackenzie on schedule.

The nine-member council set the boundaries of the territory, taking in the booming gold, oil and mineral-rich Mackenzie district, and tentatively decided on the 180-year-old, one-time trading post of Fort Simpson as its capital.

The new territory—to be governed by a council of five elected members and four appointed — is scheduled to come into being in 1964.

WILL TAKE YEARS

Members of the present council—four elected from Mackenzie and five appointed by the federal cabinet — say it will likely take 25 to 30 years before the territory achieves provincial status.

The western and southern boundaries of the Mackenzie Territory will be formed by the borders of the Yukon Territory and the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The eastern boundary, the council decided, will run along the 105th meridian to the Arctic Ocean. This gives a chunk of land, about 20 miles wide across its widest point, to the Keewatin Territory, which will form a portion of the remaining Northwest Territories.

Commissioner Gordon Robertson predicted a bright future for the new territory and said that his future would be hastened if the more developed area had greater control over its own destiny. The remaining eastern portion of the area was to be held in development and in effect held back the Mackenzie district.

REPORTS FLU OUTBREAKS

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Widespread outbreaks of influenza extending from Florida and Georgia across the U.S. to the west coast were reported Friday by the public health service.

Kincardine News Editor Dies Of Heart Attack

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP) — John Wilbert (Wib) MacLeod, 57, editor of the weekly Kincardine News and a veteran Bruce County newspaper man, died in his office Friday following a heart attack.

Mr. MacLeod was hired as a reporter for the Kincardine Reporter when he left high school and was made editor of The News when it took over from The Reporter in 1956.

Don Southcott of the Exeter Times - Advocate, president of the Western Counties Weekly Newspapers Association, said the weekly lost one of their most able practitioners with Mr. MacLeod's death.

"His editorial pen, with its rare combination of insight, courage and wit, was admired and respected by his fellow editors as much as it must have been by his local readers," Mr. Southcott said.

Mr. MacLeod's wife, Mary, survives.

Cross-Canada Survey

Saskatchewan and Manitoba Only Provinces to Boost Their Share Income Taxes

By SEAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The new year ushered in provincial income taxes across Canada but they caused almost no stir.

Except in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, taxpayers experienced no difference. But there is a difference: Part of the money now goes into provincial coffers.

The great majority of taxpayers won't have to do anything different until around April, 1963, when—except in Quebec—they'll file a joint 1962 tax return for both Ottawa and their provincial government. A simple, brief calculation at the bottom of the tax return, allocating part of the tax to their province, will be the only change.

A provincial income tax on individuals is nothing new in Quebec, which has had one since 1954. Ottawa continues to collect its own tax.

The other nine provinces entered the income tax field—some of them reluctantly—between 1939 and 1947. Provincial fiscal arrangements terminated the tax-rental system under which for 12 years Ottawa levied the entire income tax itself then gave the provinces a share.

TWO TAKE MORE

The new arrangement isn't the same for the provinces to decide whether to boost their share of taxes and a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that only Saskatchewan and Manitoba took the step.

The smoothness of the transition is due to a key provision in the new deal—Ottawa's offer to act as a central collection agency. Collection agreements with the nine provinces give the federal government the right to collect provincial taxes.

Under the old tax - rental agreements provinces got 12 per cent of the federal personal income tax collected within their borders.

The new tax deal gives them a bigger slice—18 per cent—and this share will rise by percentage points annually to 20 per cent in 1966.

In another way: Over-all rates of tax on personal income aren't changed. But if a man owes $1,000 in tax and $200 in he will reduce this by 18 per cent, or $36, in his 1962 tax return, and the 18 per cent goes to the provincial treasury. By 1966, the reduction will be 20 per cent, or $100.

MEDICAL PLAN MONEY

One of the federal government's biggest complaints about the old tax-rental system was that the provinces kept asking for larger payments from Ottawa, leaving the central government with the disagreeable task of increasing its taxes to get more money.

Manitoba wanted more money to reduce hospital insurance premiums. Saskatchewan needed funds to help finance its medical care insurance plan.

Both provinces decided to take an extra six-per-cent share of personal income taxes.

This means that for 1962 they will take 22 per cent of the basic tax liability of each individual, rising to 26 per cent by 1966. Ottawa, in turn, will have less than the federal abatement, income taxes will be higher in those two provinces than elsewhere.

A Manitoba or Saskatchewan resident with a $300 tax liability this year will get an $80 reduction from Ottawa but will pay $210 to his provincial government.

Quebec's personal income tax is approximately 16 per cent of the total levied in the province. It isn't known what the province will do about the future federal withdrawal to 20 per cent. But it's expected the Quebec government will take what other additional revenue it can get without danger of double taxation.

GUIDES MAILED

Ottawa has sent out personal income tax deduction guides to employers who withhold the tax from pay cheques. There are three forms—one for Quebec where Ottawa doesn't collect the provincial tax, one for Manitoba and Saskatchewan at the higher rates, and one for the rest of the country.

The new tax deal also requires the provinces to levy their own corporation income taxes, with Ottawa providing the collection services where desired. Here, too, there will be a variety of rates from province to province.

The federal government is reducing its tax rates on corporation profits by nine percentage points — the same share the provinces got under the rental plan. This gives the provinces leeway to levy a nine-per-cent tax without added tax burden on corporations.

The federal rate will drop to 12 per cent from 21 on corporate profits up to $25,000 and the rate on profits over $25,000 will drop to 41 per cent from 30.

But there is a greater variety of provincial rates of corporation tax. Ontario has already been levying an 11-per-cent tax and Quebec a nine-per-cent tax and both provinces collect their own.

COLLECTED BY OTTAWA

Manitoba and Saskatchewan have decided to add an extra percentage point, bringing their rates to 10 per cent. The other provinces are sticking with the nine per cent. Ottawa will do the collecting for all eight provinces.

MORE . . .

The new joining vesting of the tax - rental system is in estate taxes. The federal government will continue to pay half of its collections of estate taxes to provinces that have levy a succession duty, and that includes all but Ontario and Quebec.

The new tax deal has brought criticism and opposition—some of it vehement — in provincial capitals and on Parliament Hill.

One of the main accusations has been that it will mean "a return to the tax jungles of the 1930s." In 1939, all provinces had their own corporation income taxes and seven levied a personal income tax. But, each collected its own, and there was no offsetting reduction in federal taxes.

Most provincial legislatures have adopted model tax bills suggested by Ottawa covering the five years to 1966 and taking advantage of the progressive increase in the federal withdrawal from personal income taxes.

Nova Scotia is an exception. Its law applies only to 1962, but legislation next session is expected to be uniform with the other provinces.

The provincial laws define the provincial personal income tax simply as a percentage of the tax as determined under federal law, and their corporation taxes are based on taxable income of companies as determined by federal law.

It is this provision which enrages Ontario's anti-tax election agency. Officials say it will "rule out" income tax appeals in the courts against the amount of provincial taxes.

One theme behind the decision to put the provinces back into the income tax field has been that it will limit the federal government's power to influence the economy by tax changes.

The way the new system is set up means that any federal increase or reduction in personal income taxes will automatically alter the amount the provinces get. But a federal change in corporation income tax rates won't affect the provincial income taxes or their corporate tax rate is specified in provincial legislation.

PAYMENTS REVISED

The greatest burden of complaints, both in Parliament and provincial capitals, are generally directed at the tax deal itself but at another aspect of federal - provincial financial arrangements — equalization payments.

These payments are made by Ottawa to less wealthy provinces. Formulas by which they are signed to assure that the per-capita tax yield in eight provinces from their fixed-share tax rental payments was equal to the average yield in the two wealthiest provinces — Ontario and British Columbia.

Under the new plan, federal equalization payments will be geared to the average return in all provinces, and also will take into account provincial revenues from natural resources.

This has meant a cut in equalization payments for B.C. and Alberta, offset by a special floor provision. Similar cuts in the Atlantic provinces have been more than offset by an increase to $35,000,000 from $25,000,000 in the annual Atlantic provinces adjustment grants, which they share.

On July 11, Finance Minister Fleming issued a report forecasting the value in 1962-63 of the federal tax withdrawal, equalization payments, Atlantic adjustment grants and a special $8,000,000 grant to Newfoundland. These totalled $890,414,000, based on an assumption that tax yields would rise five per cent. This compared with the estimated $846,872,000 value of the comparable 1961 - 62 financial arrangements.

More Tips For Safe Winter Driving

By EUGENE R. MELMOE

A traffic cop, who's been dodging bumpers for 18 years, suggests we add a few tips to our recent column on winter driving. He labels them as most important but least considered.

Tip No. 1: Don't try to assist another car that's stuck in snow or ice by pushing. Always tow him out.

Tip No. 2: Practice skid-proof driving techniques. Stay at a slow to moderate pace, avoid sudden braking or quick changes in speed or direction, a tip grip that wheel as if you mean it.

Tip No. 4: This is one we've already mentioned, but our constructor says it should have been emphasized very strongly. N nowhere else, treacherous icy road spots are always lurking under bridges and overpasses.

Tip No. 5: The driver who pooh-poohs winter driving cautions is usually lucky to get through the season without a serious accident.

• • •

A.K. asks: "Please tell me if air-cooled automobile engines operate at higher temperatures than water-cooled ones.

(A.) Normally — yes.

• • •

From J.S.: "Is there such a thing as aligning the wheels for better riding and better tire wear? My friends say there is no such adjustment, but sometime ago you had a similar question."

(A.) That certainly is such a maintenance service and much has been said here about it. Correct wheel alignment can improve riding, steering, tire wear — even gas mileage.

• • •

A.M. writes: "Is it wise to switch oil brands? That is — can I just drain the oil and change over without affecting the engine?"

(A.) There's no harm in changing from one accepted brand to another...but mixing brands can be harmful.

• • •

R.Z. asks: "You say short trips are the engine's greatest enemy. Besides frequent oil changes, what can I do? My trip to work is only three miles — one way."

(A.) You can get rid of harmful combustion by-products and build back sludge formation by giving your car a good long run at brisk speeds, as often as possible...even if it's just every other weekend.

TO ISSUE STAMP

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's new black and gold five-cent education stamp will be issued Feb. 28 prior to the opening of the Canadian Conference on Education. The stamp depicts a young couple gazing into the future and surrounded by two panels of symbolic designs representing various fields of education.

HOW PROVINCES WILL FARE — A new federal-provincial tax-sharing agreement went into effect this year.

Graph shows how much each province will collect under the new plan, based on a report of the federal finance department, and estimated total receipts under the 1961-62 financial arrangements. Both bars assume a growth of five per cent a year in standard tax yields. (CP Newsmap.)

Mrs. Everett Phillips is spending sometime with Mr. Mr. Carmen Huffman and family during Mrs. Huffman's stay in hospital.

INAUGURAL SERVICE

The officers of the new organization United Church Women" met at Carmen United Church for their inaugural service on Tuesday evening. An impressive service was conducted by the pastor, Mr. Reid Pearson assisted by the various provisional committees. A delightful repast was served by Carmen ladies and all enjoyed a social half hour following the service.

Mr. James O'Sullivan spent a few days recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sequal.

Mrs. Arthur Balcanquel was hostess for the first meeting of the Gilead United Church Women on Wednesday afternoon. A good attendance was listed.

WELL SEEL PLANT

BRANDON (CP) — Bondholders of the financially - ailing Brandon Packers Limited voted Thursday to sell the plant and to keep it closed at least until the first purchase offers are received. The bondholders officially took control of the plant when the company defaulted an interest payment of about $21,-700 last Dec. 1.

Successful Living

Looking for Things to Do

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Where can people in their middle years go when they are left alone? There are places for senior citizens and young people, but what about a middle-aged widow?

I go to church on Sunday and work all week, but sometimes I feel as if I am going to blow up. The summers are not so bad for I have my garden, but the winters nearly drive me to doing something desperate.

I don't like shows and wouldn't go alone anyway, and it costs more than I can afford to go to a bingo. Where is there left to go and what is there ahead but work and loneliness?—NO FUTURE.

DEAR NO FUTURE—Is there no teen's association in your church? Or what about visiting hand-with some boy's week. No need to be timid about a talk with your minister.

If you haven't mixed much and feel uncertain of yourself, the first plunge into friendly society will be the worst. Fortify yourself with a good looking suit of clothes and overall grooming, and reach out to lend a hand.

You need a hobby. Since you have a garden, get a bird feeder out there with the recommended wild bird seed, and buy the book which tells you how to recognize the colorful feathered friends who will come for sustenance in winter months. Then join the birdwatchers.

Your garden also suggests doing some pre-spring planting in your own basement, in a flat or two. This way you get your plants off to an extra early start. And this is another skill you can share.

No need to sit at home alone and be sorry for yourself.

Avalanche Kills Six In Colorado, 4 Houses Buried

200,000 Tons of Snow Slide Down Mountain

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP)—A giant mass of snow slid almost silently down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday sweeping over four houses and taking at least six lives.

Officials estimated more than 200,000 tons of snow plunged down the southern slope of 14,-241-foot Mount Elbert in a 3½-mile area of the mountain's western end of Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village 140 miles southwest of Denver. The mountain's base was then 300 yards wide and 15 feet deep.

One family was wiped out. Mr. Shelton, 50, his wife Marie, 40, their son Stevie, 14, and daughters Linda, 9, and Vicki, 8, all died.

Two persons were rescued from the buried wreckage of Mr. and Mrs. William Adamich, 36, and his wife Barbara, 30, were taken to hospital in Leadville with frostbite and possible internal injuries. Their son, Skip, 5, and two children of another son, Michael, 10, was unharmed.

The other two houses were vacant.

SEARCH WRECKAGE

About 600 persons worked more than six hours in the frigid mountain air, searching the wreckage of the houses.

A neighbor, Nels Lindstone, 58, said that when he awoke at 8 a.m. he looked out of a window and saw only snow and wreckage where the houses had stood. "I hardly wanted to believe my eyes," he said.

Lindstone said he tried to telephone the sheriff in Leadville, but telephone lines were down. Dashing outside, Lindstone climbed a nearby hill and told the motorists to notify authorities.

Lindstone said he and a neighbor walked through the snow, covered in wrecking until they heard faint cries for help. They started digging.

"But it was another 2½ hours before the two survivors were dug out," he said. Adamich was pinned beneath heavy timbers across her legs and abdomen. Her husband was about 15 feet away.

The avalanche followed a three-day storm that dumped 30 inches of new snow.

ORBITAL FLIGHT NOW POSTPONED UNTIL SATURDAY

Spacecraft Trouble Found by Experts

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—United States plans to send astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. three times around the earth were postponed a second time today, probably until next Saturday.

Reliable sources reported additional days were needed to check a faulty oxygen system in the environmental control system. The system, which feeds oxygen to the astronaut's pressurized space suit, developed problems during a check early today.

The discovery of the trouble prompted officials to call an immediate 24-hour delay in the countdown that had put the entire control panel staff to be removed so technicians could correct it.

It is the fourth postponement of the launching, originally was set for Dec. 20, when officials felt there was a chance to achieve manned orbit flight in 1961. When this was deemed impossible the shot was put off until Jan. 16.

Problems with the Atlas booster resulted in another week's delay and minor capsule difficulty pushed the launching back still another day.

MADE 66 'FLIGHTS'

In the last three weeks he has flown 66 theoretical flights and in the process has landed in the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific oceans—hypothetically, that is.

The U.S. hopes to send Glenn, in the capsule on top the Atlas booster rocket, into an orbit be, tween 100 and 150 miles above the earth. If all goes well, he will make three trips around the earth in about 17,500 miles in four hours. Then his capsule is to parachute into the ocean for a pickup by waiting helicopters and ships.

Glenn gave little indication of tension Sunday. He attended the Shiloh Presbyterian Church in Cocoa Beach, prayed, joined the hymn-singing in a stunning tenor, signed autographs for Sunday school children and generally acted like a man who wasn't going any place more dangerous than a desk in a business office.

As he left the small church, the last hymn he heard the whole choir singing was 'God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Unsettled weather will continue in Southern Ontario today, but the remainder of southern part of Ontario temperatures are expected to range in the mid-30s and 40s. Precipitation will be mainly in the form of rain or drizzle. Snow is indicated for areas near Georgian Bay. Some freezing rain is likely in a zone through the northern Lake Huron and southern Georgian Bay regions. Strengthening northwesterly winds will bring cold air from Northern Ontario down across the lower lakes tonight and Tuesday.

MAY ABOLISH RATE INCREASES ACROSS BOARD

Freight Formula Will Be Based on Costs

OTTAWA - (CP)—The government is considering new legislation aimed at abolishing across-the-board freight rate increases, reliable informants say.

The proposed legislation, stemming from recommendations in the second-volume report of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation, is said to provide a new freight rate formula based on railway costs.

The report, resulting from almost two years of public and private investigation into Canada's transport problems, was placed before the cabinet last month.

So far, it has not been made public, though Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Friday that it would be tabled this week.

At that time, Mr. Diefenbaker may indicate government plans for implementing some of the key proposals in the two volumes of the transport report.

MAY BE REVOLUTIONARY

Far-reaching, even revolutionary proposals are anticipated in the second report. The third report, due early this year, will contain results of special research studies.

The first report last April proposed a series of shrinking federal subsidies to help the railways shed uneconomic passenger trains and unprofitable branch lines, as well as offset losses incurred in handling Prairie export grain shipments. The assistance would total almost $100,000,000 at the outset.

However, the government withheld action until it received the second volume.

The second volume may propose a new transport legislation policy aimed at letting competition achieve what public regulation sought to do under old monopoly rail conditions.

It is expected to call for a minimum of transport regulation and a fresh look at federal subsidy policies that use the

Secret Army Raiders Steal French Military Equipment

OF from AP-Reuters

ALGIERS—Striking boldly at camp but there was no indication that any were molested by the raiders.

French troops and police have been waging a losing battle to check the mounting wave of terrorism since the Secret Army Organization was formed 11 months ago.

French officials admit the right-wing group has the allegiance of at least 750,000 persons in Algeria with powerful sympathizers in the government administration and police.

Meanwhile, Algiers doctors today joined busmen in a 24-hour strike to back demands for protection from attacks by Moslem insurgents and European extremists.

The doctors also proclaimed today a day of mourning for a physician who was one of the more than 125 persons killed last week in Algeria.

The doctors are pressing for the right to have armed guards in their offices as well as authority to carry arms themselves. Similar demands have been made by the busmen, now in the fifth day of their strike.

Butcher Knife Entered as Crown Evidence

ST. THOMAS (CP) — A butcher knife was entered as Crown evidence Saturday at the capital - murder trial of Kenneth Raymond Summerhayes, 25, of St. Thomas.

Mary Wilson, 64, was stabbed to death the night of Oct. 30 while walking home from work.

Police Constable William Hamilton told the court the butcher knife in long grass 100 yards from the scene of the slaying.

Dr. Bernard Addiman, a pathologist, said Mrs. Wilson died as a result of a wound in her back and chest. He said the knife, with its bent back, broke two ribs.

Earlier, Murray Grant Clarke, 17, said he saw a "tousled up" man enter a hotel coffee shop the night of the slaying. He identified Summerhayes in a police lineup.

New Company Hires Skin Divers To Search for Gold in Chaudiere

ST. GEORGES DE BEAUCE, Que. (CP)—For the first time in Canada's mining history, skin divers are being used to look for gold.

The divers went into action during the weekend, plunging under the ice of the Chaudiere River to look for placer-gold deposits.

They haven't found anything worth while yet, but are still trying.

Aqua Mining Company, recently formed, hired the divers to explore the bed of the Chaudiere between St. Georges and St. Martin de Beauce, about 50 miles south of Quebec City.

The thin area the river is broken by a series of waterfalls and company engineer Howard Hogan said the area is good for gold deposits.

The Chaudiere is one of the few rivers in Canada in which placer gold can be found. Attempts have been made to mine it commercially since 1800, but none have met with success.

Hogan said gold found in the river is 90 per cent pure and 10 per cent silver.

Kennedy Reports U.S. Met Recovery Aims of 1961

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy said today the United States has regained its "momentum" but called on Congress to arm him with new power to trim the U.S. personal income tax rate by five per cent, in the event of another recession.

This would be equivalent to a cut of about 20 per cent or more for most citizens. The federal tax rate ranges from 20 to 87 per cent on taxable incomes.

Mr. Kennedy said rates of between 22 and 26 per cent.

Arguing there is no reason why the U.S. economy should have to take dips and climbs between lean years and fat, Kennedy proposed he be authorized to reduce the rate by as much as five per cent for periods of six months in times of stress. The period could be renewed if needed and if Congress did not exercise a veto within a 30-day period.

He estimated this would mean a saving to taxpayers of about $5,000,000,000 for six months or $10,000,000,000 during a full year. Personal income tax collections for the current year are estimated at $43,000,000,000.

Submitting his annual economic message to Congress, Kennedy also proposed he be authorized to step up government spending in times of recession and provide cities and states with federal loans and grants to help them speed up workmaking construction projects.

HOLDS WAGE LINE

At the same time, he appealed to management and labor to hold the price line in 1962 to prevent inflation as the U.S. economy starts to roll again. He suggested wage increases be

PRIME MINISTER POURS SCORN ON LIBERALS

Addresses Women In Ont. Workshop

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker Saturday ridiculed Opposition Leader Pearson's call for bold and imaginative policies and quoted the Liberal leader as saying he would leave the choice of symbols for a distinctive Canadian flag in the Quebec members of his cabinet, if and when elected to power.

The prime minister, addressing nearly 400 women attending a Progress of Conservative party workers Ontario workshop in preparation for the next general election, quoted from a transcript of part of a press conference given by Mr. Pearson in Amherst, N.S., last Nov. 8.

The remarks were made by Mr. Pearson when he was questioned on the flag question by John Andrews, a reporter with the tape recorder from station CJCH Halifax. The transcript was recently published in the Amherst Daily News and Victoria Colonist.

Mr. Diefenbaker urged the Conservative party women, gathered for the second of a series of Ontario workshop meetings, to pep up organization of campaign committees, executive and committee rooms and to secure copies of the transcript. Party officials said they had been available at Conservative party headquarters here.

QUOTES FROM INTERVIEW

In the questioning of Mr. Pearson, he was asked what delay he proposed for a Canadian flag and whether it would contain the Union Jack and the Fleur-de-Lis. Mr. Pearson replied that the flag of Canada should not be cluttered with the flag of any other country.

Tehran Police Club Backers Of Mossadegh

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Police again clashed with anti-government demonstrators in Tehran today, breaking up several street-corner meetings in the city's Bazaar quarter.

Clubs were used against some persons in the crowds who were shouting pro-Mossadegh slogans in support of the opposition Nationalist party.

Mossadegh, a former prime minister, is under virtual house arrest at his mountainside village of Ahmedabad, west of the capital.

Today's demonstrations also were in protest against the occupation of Tehran University campus by security forces Sunday.

Police were moved in after a clash with a crowd of 5,000 students, a cry for ending martial law in the government. The university building and some of its furnishings were damaged, mainly by flying rocks. Some 200 students were arrested and 100 persons, 80 of them police, were injured.

Later the university chairman, Dr. Ahmed Farhad, and members of the board resigned in protest against the entry of police into university precincts.

Today the university area was quiet. It is a religious holiday in Iran. There was no indication from the government as how long the university would remain closed.

Italy To Protest Bulgarian Pilot's Crash Landing

Elaborate Equipment Taken From Aircraft

OF from Reuters-AP

ROME, Italy — NATO military experts today sifted through the photographic equipment of Bulgarian jet plane which crashed near a NATO base Saturday in what appeared to be a bid for defection or reverse.

The investigation was expected to determine positively whether or not the Russian-built MIG 19 plane was on a spy mission.

The pilot, 2nd Lieut. Mihaz Stoikov, 23, was reported in heavy guard in a hospital at Acquaviva, south east Italy with broken left arm and head injuries, claimed he crash landed when "I chose freedom."

But the Italian government and police treated his statement with scepticism and fired off a stern protest Sunday to Communist Bulgaria.

The circumstances of the crash have led most observers to believe the plane was on a deliberate mission but of U.S. pilot Francis Gary Powers, who was shot down while flying a similar plane over Russia in May, 1960. Powers is serving a 3-year prison sentence in Russia.

ONE OF A GROUP

The discovery, pointed to the course of the jet, which was reported to be one of a flight of four to take off from a base in southeast Italy.

If the pilot was "choosing freedom," he could have landed his plane safely at the coastal naval and air base at Brindisi which he flew over on his way inland, the observers said.

The Bulgarian, Stoikov, which has asked for the return of the plane and pilot, claimed the jet was on a training flight and lost its way because of bad weather. The inquiries added that the plane was not supposed to leave Bulgarian territory, which is 400 air miles from the Italian coast.

"Press reports alleging the plane was one of four are incorrect," the legation said. "The pilot was on a routine information, was flying alone."

WILL BE TRIED

An Italian defence ministry spokesman said Sunday the pilot will be questioned and "if, as is probable, in case of escaping, he will be arrested and brought to trial."

Questioning so far has identified Stoikov as a member of the Bulgarian air force's 11th Fighter - Reconnaissance Unit based at Bergovitza airport in Bulgaria.

The pilot was reported to have been politically indoctrinated and to have told Italian officials he does not want to see Bulgarian officials.

Like Powers, Soikov was flying a light-skinned reconnaissance plane loaded with photographic and radio equipment. The Russians claimed they shot down Powers' U-2 plane. Italian authorities implied that Soikov's plane crashed from engine failure. He was reported to have clipped an olive tree and rammed into a stone fence.

Both wings were ripped off but otherwise the plane was not severely damaged.

Clouts Light ~ With Crowbar To Fix TV

HUNSTANTON, England (AP)—Every time actor Fleming's television picture goes haywire, he marches outside with a crowbar, and clouts the street light near his front door.

He goes on whanging until his wife yells from the window that the picture is all right again.

All attempts to find out what caused the nightly interference had failed, and Fleming's crowbar is going to remain the only way to remedy it.

Fleming has to go outside with the crowbar several times a night. One good clout usually keeps the picture straight for half an hour. His neighbors have the same trouble, and electricity board experts are investigating.

RED PROTESTS RED MOVE?

BERLIN (Reuters) — East German Communist boat builder Ulbricht has protested to the Russian government about its December memorandum to West Germany, the newspaper Telegraf says. The 22 - page memorandum, handed to the West German ambassador in Moscow Dec. 27, called on West Germany to recognize that its "true interest" lay in Soviet-German harmony.

Cold Wave Again Grips Central United States

More snow fell over the northern portions. Some higher elevation reported up to 18 inches.

Rain and freezing drizzle fell over some sections of teh country in a band about 300 miles wide from Texas to Iowa, northeastward into southern Illinois and Indiana.

Portions of California were slowly returning to normal after a severe wintertime melange of weather.

In the Los Angeles area the sunday nearly 1½ inches of precipitation was recorded — snow and rain.

San Francisco had its first measurable snowfall in 30 years — one inch. Previous inches, it was the heaviest snowfall since 1887.

Kennedy Asks Silver Controls Be Ended

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy recommended Congress today in his economic report that it remove present silver controls on silver and end its purchase as backing for silver certificates and as a silver coins.

Silver was a sick metal in the 1930s, he recalled, but now there is a big demand, especially by industry, for electrical equipment and other space-age devices.

He reported further the treasury suspended its sales of the metal—sales which in effect set a floor price of $1.29 an ounce. Now, Kennedy said, Congress should act to remove its government floor—90½ cents. This is the figure at which the government buys newly mined silver.

Kennedy also advocated repeal of the 50-per-cent tax on profits in silver transactions. It said it would encourage the development of a future 'practical silver, like the markets in grain and cotton, and thus foster orderly price movements.

In another step, he urged legislation permitting the government to withdraw 2,000,000 ounces of silver now backed by silver and the replacement by other bills of the same denomination.

Thirteen Children, 5 or Younger, Die in Three BC, Ontario Fires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thirteen children ranging in ages from five months to five years died in three fires—two in British Columbia and one in Ontario—during the weekend.

At Lillooet, 120 miles northeast of Vancouver, five children died in their beds as flames swept through a three-room auto court bungalow.

Another five died as fire destroyed their small shack on an Indian reserve near Alert Bay, an island fishing settlement on the B.C. coast.

In the Ontario fire at Kars, 20 miles south of Ottawa, three children were burned to death in a small frame bungalow.

In all three fires the children were alone in the houses, in each case the parents having suggested overheated stoves as the cause of the fire.

The Alert Bay victims were the three children of Mabel and Harry Hanson, five, three months, and Harry, George, 18 months, and Harry Joseph, 5; and the two children of Mary and Harry George Walkus: Allen Theodore, 3, and Maggie Alice, 18 months.

All but two firemen thought the fire alarm was a children's curfew, scheduled to sound 10 minutes later. However, firemen said, by the time the alarm

$6,000 Quota Set for 1962 For March of Dimes Drive

The mothers of Belleville are on the march. This was announced today by Mrs. James R. Sister in kicking off the 1962 Trade campaign of the March of Dimes.

Serving as Chief Marching Mother, Mrs. Sister expressed her dedication to this annual project. "Helping the disabled to live full and useful lives and achievement is not a one-shot affair", she said. "Rather, it is a continuing process which virtually needs continuing public support. This year we are one of nearly 800 Ontario communities taking part in the March of Dimes months. That is why I am asking for the full assistance of everyone in our community.

"At the present stage of this drive our main problem is the need for volunteers. Obviously there cannot be a Mothers' March unless sufficient numbers of our women volunteer to devote their one hour in behalf of this truly worthy cause".

Mrs. Sister pointed out that, while the former years in the March of Dimes campaign has been with enthusiastic response, the need is even greater this year. "Although the rehabilitation of disabled persons becomes more and more successful each year", she said, "the number of men and women who have become disabled through accidents, sickness or inherited causes, is growing each year."

RECORD PLACEMENTS

"Yet efforts in their behalf to pay dividends for the placement of disabled workers in wage-paying positions has resulted in record high level and these handicapped persons are proving their worth in competitive industry".

The March of Dimes, which, in Ontario is the Rehabilitation Foundation for the Disabled, depends entirely upon voluntary contributions to provide the medical, surgical and rehabilitating programs which are operated throughout the year. Related to realize their rightful positions as useful citizens.

Noting the remarkable extension of the Rehabilitation Foundation since its beginning fifteen years ago, Mrs. Sister pointed out that the Foundation's first campaign netted $11,818. Within six years the annual returns rose to more than $400,000, and the Foundation broadened its services to include rehabilitation services not only to victims of polio, but to all adults physically disabled by any cause.

In 1961, a high mark was reached when more than $600,000 was collected by an army of some 80,000 volunteers in Ontario. This expansion has triggered the present requirement of the Foundation's province-wide program.

Further expansion is planned.

In pointing up the need for further expansion, Joseph Clark, provincial president of the March of Dimes, recently said: "Our established definition of 'disabled' needs to be re-examined. Must we restrict them to those who are clearly physically 'disabled'? What about the 'mentally handicapped by strokes or epilepsy for example? Many of these people — and rightfully there are many — can be helped toward independence by the rehabilitation services we have developed. By the time these are ready, you cannot qualify — go elsewhere? There is no elsewhere for them to go.

"It is because of the ever-growing need and the ever-growing services provided by the Rehabilitation Foundation that more funds are required each year," said Mrs. Sister. "That is why I am asking our volunteers, the Marching Mothers of Belleville, to raise the amount of $6,000 for the March of Dimes. It is difficult to find words to describe the benefits which the campaign will bring to the thousands of Ontario people who are a part of Ontario.

"Provide the most important from the viewpoint of the handicapped individual is the overcoming of discrimination in hiring practices and public charity and the restoration of self-reliance and personal dignity.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

"It is up to each of us to see that this great humanitarian work continues," Mrs. Sister said. "Surely, I can think of few occasions in which a modest contribution and a small amount of time can bring so much to so many."

In Belleville, the Mothers' March will take place between the hours of 7.00 and 8.00 p.m. on Tuesday evening, January 30th. Can you spare this hour? Remember one Marching Mother equals ten donations! Please phone WO 8-9786 and volunteer your services.

GET PICKEREL IN STOCO LAKE

The pickerel were biting at least one spot on ice-bound Stoco Lake over the week-end.

Two city anglers brought home four two-pounders and a four-pounder after an afternoon's outing in the comfort of their fishing hut.

Patience had its reward. They didn't get a nibble for the first three hours of the afternoon, then the fun began and within a half-hour they had the haul.

They fished through twelve inches of ice using live minnows.

MISS DOROTHY RUTH ANDREWS Smith's Falls Bride

Miss Dorothy Ruth Andrews of Smith's Falls, Ontario, died suddenly in Smith's Falls on Sunday, January 21, 1962, in her 39th year.

Born in Hinchinbrooke Township, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Andrews of Bonarlaw, she was a member of the Central Hall. Also surviving are a brother, Lawrence Andrews (ey) Holland of Belleville, and a sister, Mrs. Douglas Andrews of Springbrook.

Racing Pigeon Club Wins Many Awards

They came home with four Blue Ribbon winners, three thirds and four fourth-place diplomas.

The show judged fourteen classes with a large number of provincial clubs participating. Judging was close in many of the classes. The exhibition was stated to be the best in years.

Walter Wardaugh and Son of this city won two first blue ribbons and a third-place diploma.

T. Woodcock came home with two first blue ribbons, a third and two fourth-place diplomas.

C. Sisco won a first and two fourths and J. Deleon a third-place award.

Party Leaders To Fire Opening Guns in Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The party leaders fire the big opening guns in the throne speech debate today when Progressive Conservative Leader Pearson getting the first chance to present the Liberals' views on the government's legislative program.

Mr. Pearson is expected to follow the customary practice of moving a motion of non-confidence, outlining the specific criticisms of the government's program at the end of his address. He is to be followed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Tommy Argue, parliamentary leader of the CCF-New Democratic Party group, has his turn next but may not get a chance to outline his group's stand until later if the other leaders consume all the time available.

Taxable Assessment Growth Second Highest in History Of City, 1961 Figures Show

The city of Belleville during 1961 enjoyed its second best year in natural growth in the taxable assessment, being increased by nearly one and a half million dollars.

This is revealed in the annual report of City Assessor Thompson's assessment commissioner which shows a total of $46,856,400, which is the taxable assessment.

Total assessed valuation of property in the city, including that exempt from taxation, was $56,687,360 at the year end.

The only other year which exceeded last year's assessment increase was in 1959 when the increase was $6,542,000. Increased assessment is the result of annexation amounted to over $5 million.

BOOM IS SURPRISE

After the banner year in 1959, however, the assessment officials expected construction in the city to taper off and last year's boom came mostly as a surprise.

The residential assessment ratio dropped slightly in Belleville last year and was placed at 41.5 per cent value as compared with 58.05 per cent the year previous.

Commercial assessment in the city stood at $1.13 per cent at the year end, while manufacturing at 10.32 per cent and miscellaneous at 10.32 per cent.

The city population, according to the assessment role figures, stood at 31,113 per cent compared with a figure of 30,163 returned by the Dominion census last summer.

Mr. Thompson explained the difference in totals from the fact that the assessment figures were taken six months or more before the national census.

TRIPLED SINCE 1945

The assessor's report shows that Belleville has enjoyed an almost three-fold growth in assessment since 1945, when the assessment was but $11,-949,000. That same year the city's population was given as 16,643 and the tax rate at 37 mills. Assessment per capita in Belleville had risen to $1001.59. The tax rate was 88.5 mills residential and 99.5 mills commercial. The split tax rate for residential and commercial properties came into effect in 1957.

Assessment of tax exempt property in the city is given as $9,864,200.

Of the city's total taxable assessment, $27,013,000 is given as public school support and $5,-000,000 is provincial school support.

Mr. Thompson noted that the city's re-assessment program is well in hand and is expected to be completed in time for the 1964 taxation. At the present time more than one half of the old role has been completely re-assessed.

Dr. G.H. Stobie, Former Surgeon Of Belleville, Dies in Toronto

Dr. George H. Stobie, 195 Poplar Plains Road, Toronto, former resident of this city where he practised for many years as a surgeon and physician, died in Toronto General Hospital, Toronto, early Sunday morning, January 21, 1962, after suffering a heart attack.

He was born at Bruce Mines near Sault Ste. Marie, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Stobie. He received his early education in that community, but attended Albert College for his secondary education and then entered the University of Toronto, where he graduated in medicine in 1916. He immediately entered the service of his country joining the Royal Canadian Medical Corps with a commission and served with distinction in the First World War. After the close of the war he continued his association with the army of occupation until 1919, when he was discharged. He then attended the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., on a fellowship and then came to this city, where he was an outstanding physician and surgeon for 25 years, retiring in 1951, when he suffered a heart attack. He moved to Toronto in 1953.

NOTED SURGEON

On coming to this city Dr. Stobie developed a great deal of his practice to surgery and he became noted for his prowess in this section of Ontario for his excellence and skill. Dr. Stobie was kind and considerate with his patients and beloved by hospital staffs. Dr. Stobie was interested in the younger members of the medical profession and was always willing to assist or give advice when requested. Dr. Stobie, during his life, was a devoted members of the fraternity and for his surgical skill was elected to and made a Fellow of American College of Surgeons and a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons and a Fellow of the International College of Surgeons.

KEEN SPORTSMAN

Dr. Stobie was a keen lover of outdoors sports and was an ardent angler, hunter and a keen golfer. These were his recreations and he never was happier than when he joined his friends for a trip to the northern part of the country for a spot of fishing for speckled trout. Nearly every fall that he was able to get away he went north for game. He was also an expert angler and a good shot and when duty's sport was over he was at his best as he sat around the camp fire or in a lodge telling and swapping stories. To say he was a good story teller would be putting it mildly. He could embellish his stories with dialect and this made them all the more humorous. Not only was he the life of a hunting or fishing trip but at the fishing-room he was always happy to be with friends for a social evening. He was an excellent golfer and constantly endeavored to improve his game.

STANDS IN GENERAL

In politics he was a Liberal and was always ready to defend his principles. Although he never took an active part he was always interested in Federal and Provincial politics and in the civic life he did not take a back seat and was always interested in the well being and the advancement of the city. Dr. Stobie suffered a stroke every weAK of life and he will be remembered by a multitude of friends.

PROMINENT MASON

He was a member of Bridge Street United Church and fraternally, was a member of the Masonic Order, the Royal Arch Masons and Preceptory of Ionic, and Ramses Shrine in Toronto. While in the city he was a member of the Rotary the Belleville Club and the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club and in Toronto was a member of the Toronto Hunt Club.

Surviving are his wife, the former Jessie Hodgkins, two daughters, Mrs. E. B. (Jean) Osler of Winnipeg, Mrs. James (Meribeth) Coyne of Hamilton, one son, Dr. George Stobie Jr. of Toronto, two brothers, Mrs. Grant (Cora) Kettles of Lansing, Michigan; Miss Isabella Stobie of Toronto; Michigan; Miss Nellie Stobie of Flint, Michigan, and Mrs. John (Kate) Stobie of Spanish Mines.

The funeral service will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Toronto. Burial with interment in the family plot at Belleville cemetery.

Harry Rollins New Chairman Of Utilities

Now in his second year of a two year term in office, W. Harry Rollins, was named chairman of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission at their inaugural meeting last week.

Mr. Rollins succeeds John A. Weese who headed the commission during 1961.

The local commission this year will carry out a campaign to acquaint the electrical heating of homes, either through auxiliary systems for additional heating or for all-electric heating of the entire home.

A hydro cooking school sponsored by the Ladies of Tabernacle Church is being planned by the utilities.

A letter from Fire Chief Gerald Vance was read at the inaugural meeting expressing the appreciation of the department for the co-operation of utility linemen during the recent fire at the Safe block on East Bridge Street.

IN MEMORIAM

BELL — In loving memory of our father, Charles Bell, who passed away January 1952.
Often think of bygone days,
Memories bring back sad sighs,
The family chair is broken now,
But memories live forever.
We that have not gone away,
Our God doth know,
Let's meet again at parting
And set the gates ajar.
Inserted by daughter.

BENEDICT. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John Benedict, who passed away January 29th, 1960.
He is gone but not forgotten,
His memory we will always keep,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
We think of him and shed a tear.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Years will pass, but memories linger,
But they little know the sorrow,
Which lies in the heart.
Lovingly missed
Lovingly remembered by wife Charlotte and daughter Kitty (Mrs. Ray) of Chelsea.

GREGORY. — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Jack Gregory, who passed away January 22nd, 1961.
Time in our hearts has a picture,
More precious than silver and gold
It's a picture of memories,
Whose memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by sister Madeline, brothers-in-law Mark and Bert.

BOYD. — In loving memory of my dear son, Gerald (Gerry) Boyd, who passed away January 31st, 1960.
Our son was great, our son was true,
We think thought his death so near;
Only those that have lost can tell,
The sorrow of parting without farewell.
Sadly missed by Dad.

Two Important Events

Two events of political importance occurred last Thursday. One was the opening of Parliament, with a Speech from the Throne which made it clear that a Federal election will be held this year, but not for a few months. The other was the voting in five Ontario by-elections.

That Prime Minister John Diefenbaker is planning an appeal to the people was confirmed by the announcement in the Throne Speech that old age pensions would be increased. Unless it was to fulfill an election pledge, no government would ever waste such vote-getting legislation on a non-election year. That the election is not likely to come soon is evident from the list of other measures likely to win friends and influence people. It will take some time to get the required legislation through the House.

What might upset plans for the Federal election date, either hurrying it or delaying it, are the results of the five Ontario by-elections. There is no question but that the results were disappointing for Ontario Conservatives. True, they lost only one seat, but the real story lies in the majorities, heavily increased for the Liberals in Brant and Kenora and drastically reduced for the Conservatives in Beaches and Eglinton in Toronto.

It may be argued, with considerable validity, that the accurate deductions about Federal results can be drawn from voting for provincial legislature seats. This is true, but the Conservative reverse Thursday throws some uncertainty over the Federal Conservatives' prospects in Ontario, on which the result of the next election will largely depend. (There can be no doubt but that the Conservatives will lose seats in Quebec and they can hardly be expected to duplicate their virtual clean sweep of the Prairie Provinces with CCF-er Hazen Argue the lone survivor of a one-large mixed parcel of Liberals, CCF-ers and Socreds.)

Leaders of the new Democratic Party were surprisingly frank in expressing their disappointment with Thursday's results. Evidently they expected big dividends from labor's official backing of the revamped CCF. The realist will be somewhat amazed at this, but will be skeptical about any claims that this assures a NDP flop in the next Federal election. Party gains would be most reasonably expected in the West rather than the East, unless the official labor tieups with the NDP are more effective in frightening away the farm vote than they were in attracting the workers' votes. And Donald MacDonald, Ontario leader, can hardly be said to be a reasonable facsimile of Tommy Douglas NDP Federal chieftain.

The Choice—Mob or Dictator

Last week's outbreak of rioting in the Dominican Republic, and the assumption of control by a seven-man civil-military junta, may be of little concern to most Canadians, but it provides an excellent illustration of an ever-present difficulty in the replacement of any dictatorship.

The junta later glutted, was installed after troops firing on a crowd had touched off violent rioting. The crowd had been demonstrating against Joaquin Balaguer, head of a seven-man council of state which had ruled for 15 days. Balaguer is described as "a holdover from the Trujillo era." But the difficulty is that almost any person of prominence and influence in a land which has been governed by a dictatorship for a lengthy period is almost certain to have been linked to this dictatorship. Otherwise he would not be prominent and have influence. He may have split with the ruling clique and led the fight to overthrow it, but that does not mean that he is not tarred by the same brush.

The idea of mob rule is abhorrent to those of us who are fortunate enough to live in a democracy—but in a dictatorship the mob is comprised of precisely those members who hate dictatorships of all their forms, the members of the mob having been the oppressed and almost all who stand apart from the mob having been numbered amongst the oppressors.

Unless there is some exile, generally esteemed for his opposition to the dictatorship, the choice is all too often between mob rule and a continuation of the dictatorship with a new man at the helm, a man who may give lip service to democracy and who may even moderate the oppressive practices of the overthrown regime, but who nevertheless, by his past record, has shown that he is no true democrat.

Know how to listen, and you will profit even from those who talk badly.—Plutarch.

Automation Nothing New

Automation is the greatest menace of our time. Yet automation is nothing new. It has been developed through years of experiment and research. It is only now, however, that it has become more jobs than ever, and a standard of life that would have been impossible with previous methods.

A glimpse into an early example of automation is given in George Orwell's book, "Down and Out in Paris and London." He was a chef.

"His view of life had originally been genial, and such an occupation as cooking for a small mansion within and without, and held a position of easy, undisputed authority, but the recent installation of Sellbrye had embittered him.

"'Why, every fan on the road would be shut up!' said a chef. 'And the cooking apparatus will force him with the blank gaze of one who had driven like one possessed, compared with the stage coach drivers. Indeed, "I'll be surprised if the rail-road" becomes one of the songs of the later 19th century.

The process of automation has been going on steadily. Last week the president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, Neil McKinnon, of the bank's annual meeting, spoke of the effect that the full-scale over banking procedures during his year's presidency.

When he first went to work in a bank, most of the record-keeping was by hand done by hand; the old-fashioned ledgers were still in use. Subsequent action has taken the place of all this tedious hand-work. Yet employment has not fallen off, given by the banks to incomparably greater extent. There is no doubt but that the Conservatives will lose in Quebec and they can hardly be expected to duplicate their virtual clean sweep of the Prairie Provinces with CCF-er Hazen Argue the lone survivor of a one-large mixed parcel of Liberals, CCF-ers and Socreds.)

Gradually, tuberculosis is being stamped out in the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School. It is revealed in the latest reports of Dr. G. G. Brayley, head of the local tuberculin clinic, who recently has completed a test of the entrance classes in the Collegiate and in other students who wished to undergo examination. Out of a total of 201 students tested, only 26, or 7.97 per cent were returned as reactors. A test of the staff was found to have an active tuberculin condition. The cost of the survey and of the test to the school board is negligible compared with the results obtained. The total cost of testing 201 students amounted to only $65.

Robbers broke and entered a general store in Foxboro over the weekend and stole a large quantity of merchandise. Chief Constable Ferguson of the Tweed district police today. It is believed the robbery was the work of car stolen from Toronto in which m'hasi away the loot. Evidently the "find" the "gold mine" was in the form of a U.S. gold piece, face value $20, dated 1861. Yesterday he happened to show it to Dr. Bleasdell, who immediately identified the coin, and a very surprised young man dashed to tell his parents of his good fortune.

At the annual meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on the Rev. Dr. Seymour presided and Mr. K. S. Hill acted as secretary. Satisfactory reports were received from all departments in the church and Mr. Thompson were elected to the board of management for the term of three years: Messrs. Arthur McGie, George A. Reid, W. D. Springer, C. G. Hepple, and J. W. Haggerty. A special vote of thanks to Miss Seymour, Mrs. E. V. Insley and seconded by Mr. Arthur McGie, was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Seymour for their great devotion to the church and the welfare of the congregation.

Mr. W. J. Stringer of the Forestry Department at Ban-croft was in town today.

Miss M. Garnett of Charles Street has returned home after visiting friends in Smiths Falls and Perth.

Mr. Ernest Terry, who has been Presidents Warden of Christ Church Anglican at Hillier for close to 25 years, was re-elected unanimously to that office for another year. Mr. L. K. Leavens was appointed Rector's Warden.

A plan is being considered to form a joint stock company to take hold of the Belleville Fair and put it on a high plane.

Mr. A. W. Cawardine has been granted a permit to build a combined house and grocery store at the north-east corner of Dundas and Albert Streets.

The city council will grant the graduate nurses in Belleville the sum of $50 towards the purchase of an ambulance provided the Belleville business men procure the property of the city.

Mr. William Rose of this city has leased his large wheat farm in Western Canada and will remove to his old home here.

Mr. Reginald Abrams of this city has been granted the rank of lieutenant in the Argyll Light Infantry and he has received his first commission, which will be signed by Lord Byng, the new governor-general.

Last evening an exciting game of hockey was played between the "Hardly Ables" and the "Never Sweats" and the result was a score of 6 to 5 in favor of the former team. The following composed the teams: "Hardly Ables": McKenna, Green, Smith, Fraser, Dotson, Dineen, Dusebery, H. Hunter. "Never Sweats": Harrison, Davidson, McNeil, Dotson, Hunter, Barnett and Patterson. Harvey Wheeler, manager of the "Hardly Ables" certainly has a good lineup.

In a hockey match between the Belleville and Trenton High School, the result was a tie, the score being 2 and 2. The following composed the teams: Belleville: Hurse, Mitchell, Downey Mills, Cronk, Sinclair and Elliott. Trenton: Mowal, MacGowan, Symons, Barr, Hoag, Hawley and Porter.

Why Bosses Get Grouchy

Cobourg Sentinel-Star

According to The Municipal World tax arrears will be practically nothing to do except to decide what is to be done, to tell someone to do it, to listen to arguments why it should not be done is to differ, to persuade them to follow up to see if it has been done, only to discover that it has not been done, and then to listen to all sorts of excuses from the person who should have done it; to follow up and see if the work has been done properly at last only to discover that it was done incorrectly. Then to point out how it should have been done, to conclude that as long as it has been done, and is done, it is time to wonder if there is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing right, but also to reflect that he probably has a wife and children who look after all concerns else would be just as well, if not worse, to consider how much simpler and better the work would have been done had it been done himself in the first place, and to arrive at the conclusion sadly that he could have done it correctly in 20 minutes, and, as things turned out, he has had to spend two days to find out wrongly. It takes three weeks for someone else to do the work in the wrong way.

Strictly Personal

Failure Hurts And Can Also Depress One

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Almost everybody thinks he holds a worse hand than he does. He reads a book in cards, and I suspect it is true in the more serious pursuit of living.

I like to read bridge books in bed, as a way of killing myself more quickly. Yesterday I came across the greatest argument about the greatest argument about the rest of us, complain about the greatest argument.

One of the world's finest players, Terence Reese, the British champion, keeps refusing to his poor holdings. The late S.J. Simon, author of "How To Lose at Bridge" is a class, one of his pets, did the same, in fact, I have never read a treatise on bridge in which the author did not complain about his below-average hands.

Yet these men know that, statistically speaking, they get the same cards as everyone else over a period of time. The laws or probability remain about the only constant in the modern world, and therefore, in other thoughts of chance.

What makes them feel, there, fore, is a fair share of the good hands elude them? Certainly they do not use the excuse of "bad cards" to justify their poor playing, as we med. locre players do.

I believe that what happens, psychologically, is that the good hands are quickly forgotten, while the poor ones continue to rankle us. For instance, see how quickly we rise to a real fortune and accept it as our due: in the same way we are living luxuriously as if we had been used to it all our lives.

But if, in the midst of this good fortune, we experience a single frustration, a single loss, it gives us more pain than the entire fortune gives us pleasure. In the same way, one frustration can more than offset a dozen compliments; and a dozen negative things bring us more discomfort than positive things bring us ease.

A man who may make a half-million dollars in the market in a year may quite suddenly feel "poor" if he has to pay $10,000 of it in unlucky venture. This seems ridiculous to someone who regards a half-million as an astronomical figure, of course — but nothing in the world is as relative as riches.

We are also constituted that the good hands dealt to us are taken for granted, while the poor ones seem a personal rebuff. I can give a dozen lectures at this college without getting any elation— but then one that is a failure will depress me, and will remain with me much longer than the others. Perhaps, over the years, I shall to confirm some secret low estimate we have of our essential worth.

To Your Good Health

Attacks of Tic Douloureux May Be Long or Short

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been waiting for an article about tic-douloureux. I am a sufferer of the condition.

Does an alcohol injection for it throw your head out of kilter, affecting eyesight and hearing, and causing aches and pains? What about dilantin pills?

You write about so many things the average person never has heard about, that I thought you would include tic-dol-o-reux. — Mrs. A.S.

Fifty or even 30 years ago I'd have written a quite differ, ent column, emphasizing the things that imperiled us or hurt us then. I'd have pounded away at getting rid of water supplies, vaccinating against smallpox, giving babies Vitamins C and D, and so on.

Society has learned its lesson well in many such regards, so it's time to move on to other problems. We no longer die, in health from typhoid fever, Diphtheria, Dusebery, H. Hunter. "Never Sweats": Harrison, Davidson, McNeil, Dotson, Hunter, Barnett and Patterson. Harvey Wheeler, manager of the "Hardly Ables" certainly has a good lineup.

In a hockey match between the Belleville and Trenton High School, the result was a tie, the score being 2 and 2. The following composed the teams: Belleville: Hurse, Mitchell, Downey Mills, Cronk, Sinclair and Elliott. Trenton: Mowal, MacGowan, Symons, Barr, Hoag, Hawley and Porter.

Tic douloureux is a form of neuralgia, affecting a main nerve of the head and face. It is one of the most agonizing pains affecting man, when the attacks become frequent. The victim usually is well on in years and more often a woman than a man. The pain is more likely to be on the right than the left side.

Attacks may be long or short, but they don't usually last past at night. There are "trigger" situations which may set off an attack, conducting or touching a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover handling and postage.

JUST A FEW THOUGHTS

No matter how great an achievement may be, it is not known or be so great as the man who conceived it.

Thought always is foundation; in this marvelous make-up of ours. Our thoughts it often has obscured the course of human history. A mind's eye "yes" or "no" has caused multitudes to follow, create, build and, carry on.

We are only just beginning to understand the vast power that hidden within the mind of man. His brain. There is not a vital organ of the body which does not give to this master for healthy guidance.

How the body wastes, or rebuilds like a wilted plant, under the spell of the mind through its many thoughts! How far a great thought goes. How it reaches, encompasses, builds, recruits, and delivers its message.

All through my life one man's few thoughts have inspired me. Even when I disagreed they came when I needed them most at a critical time during my college career. They were full of decisive conclusions and urged me on. "Trust in Father to his own son," he said.

It's a few thoughts that go to the deepest wells within me to their hearts and spurring their minds. Often the memory of a few words I've made immortal just through a single hallowed down deed, or beauty in the shape of a poem or piece of prose. "Thalatopdy by "o" has caused multitudes to follow, create, build and, carry on.

We are only just beginning to understand the vast power that hidden within the mind of man. His brain. There is not a vital organ of the body which does not give to this master for healthy guidance.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When a singing commercials first came in, on radio, they were called jingles, and the general listener reaction to them, in those hard-and-opinionistic days, was kindly. "Aw, isn't that cute!" we used to say.

Little did we know! But the skilled few did know, and one of those who confidently predicted it wouldn't last. They are inflexible, I explained, to give us a sick of them, we said. The advertising profession is far too smart to go lumbering further down that childish path.

Today, long years after, there is hardly a program on the air that isn't fitted with a jingle, many of them so amazingly authentic they are hardly intelligible. Jingles have become traditional. They have become longer, livelier, more involved, ornate.

But the prime charge against them is this. They launched the theory that music had to accompany a message, that it had to have music in the background of every announcement, to pick up "feel" what we see, I warn you. The day is not far distant when politicians will sing their campaign speeches.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OPEN THE GATES

What does prayer do?

Some people regard prayer as an attempt to persuade God to do something against His will. By prayer God is persuaded to be able to overcome the divine reluctance to give us what we want. Or, it may be that we try to change God's attitude towards something we particularly desire.

Such crude ideas are distorted and thoroughly false ideas regarding prayer. The Bible assures us that instead of love, God desire is always to pour upon us every blessing we can receive. But unfortunately we are often quite unprepared to receive God's blessings. Furthermore, we may want things which are not right for us to have. Or, we may want at a certain time something which God does not intend to give us until later.

Prayer appears to do two things. In the first place, it leads us into a wiser state of mind. We come to know what, in this broader sense, we really want. Through prayer, our discernment is sharpened and deepened until we understand what is best for us. Furthermore, prayer feeds the soul, and let it always be remembered that the soul needs feeding precisely as does the body.

The other function of prayer is that it opens the sluice gates and allows the blessings of God to flow into our lives. Those who have seen the irrigation canals in desert areas know what happens when water flows into a section formerly arid.

Likewise our souls become lush and fruitful when the sluice gates are open and God's spirit flows in upon us.

One-Day Spiel At Curling Club Much Enjoyed

If you want to have a lot of fun you should get into one of the one-day bonspiels organized by the Quinte Curling Club. One was held on Saturday with 14 rinks competing, six in the first draw and eight in the second and it was a round of merriment from the beginning to the end with a rink of Ed Woodland, Abe Tobe, Sid Spiegel and Dave Tobe winning all the honors. They did not depend on one skip but used three of their number to take turns on being on the back end and it worked out to perfection. Eddie Woodland was forced to play lead in all three games and it was his fine curling that probably won the spiel for these gallant boys. They had a score of 51 points but how they were arrived at one would never know.

The two-game high winners were Jim Young, Bud Drury, James Wright with Bill Dowling directing traffic and they had 29 points. The club rink of Howard Thompson, Bob Alexander, Bill Spinelli and Fred Maund as skip won the one game high with 24 points.

This rink was composed of members that formed a club during the Sportsmen's spiel and one had to have a lot of courage to join it but once you were initiated there was fun galore. Incidentally this rink curled real well during the spiel and had a lot of fun doing it. The one-game winners was a rink of Lorne McDougall, Lloyd Lantz, Hugh Murray with Pat Hourion as skip and they certainly deserved a better fate for every rink that played them had to go all out to get a decision. This spiel was decided on a point system, so many for a win, so many for big ends and then a bonus and Murray Johnson, who ably directed the draw had an IBM machine in the clubhouse trying to figure out the correct amount of points each team won after each game. The boys would like to see one spiel run where a win or loss counted. The high end game was won by a rink of R. S. Gibbons, Frank Daniels, Malcolm Murray and Jack Olaveson who combined for a big six on one end.

RINK SCORES SHUTOUT

There was one rink which scored a shutout but there were no prizes given for that feat. In the last game a rink of Hugh Watkins, Ken Bolford, Ron Deem and Claude Tew defeated Geo Kirkwood and his fine aggregation and for six ends the winning rink scored single stones with two in the first and two in the eighth. Cec. tried hard in the eighth to break the string but a well-placed guard in front prevented him from getting into the house. There was a lot of good-natured banter going on behind the glass and the inside skips were trying to direct the traffic on the rinks.

The women's section of the club catered to the inner man and delicious hamburgers, pies, muffins and coffee were served to the hungry curlers. Too much cannot be said in regard to the women of the club for their willingness to help in the progress of a club, that is in the midst of its most successful season and which will be highlighted by the annual spiel that is coming up this week starting on Wednesday night. The official opening will be on Wednesday evening with the two mayors of Belleville and Trenton along with the Commandant of the RCAF Station, Trenton, doing the honors. This will be a combined spiel of the three clubs with the entry list of sixty-four rinks has been filled.

Belleville Rink Wins Bonspiel At Whitby

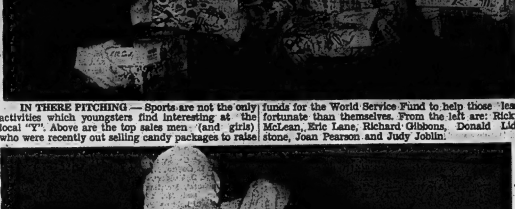
White's foursome picked up 49 points to oust Bob Walker of Oshawa, who scored 45½ points.



Members of the White rink included Rosemary and Glenn Davidson and Heather White. The Walker rink was made up of Hettie Herrington, Ken Radson and Nellie Vesey. Last year Fred Richards' rink from Oshawa won the event and the McTeague Trophy.

Suggest Congo, Katanga Unite To Catch Rebels

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) United Nations officials here have proposed joint actions by Katanga province and Congolese central government forces to put down rebel Congolese troops responsible for atrocities in north Katanga, reliable sources said today.

The sources said the suggestion was being put to President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga and was believed to have been considered by UN officials in Leopoldville, the central government capital, and at UN headquarters in New York.

The joint action would be undertaken with UN support.

Observers here said if the proposal was carried out it would be the first important step toward establishing direct cooperation between the central government and Tshombe.

Tshombe has blamed both the UN and the central government for the atrocities.

Meanwhile, hope rose for the lives of 13 Roman Catholic priests and nuns who operated a mission station attacked and and burned Friday by the rebels.

Bishop Richard Cleire of Kasongo, in Kivu province said it was possible the six priests and seven nuns fled before the attack on the Sola mission station.

The same troops were believed responsible for the massacre of 19 priests reported killed at Kongolo, New Year's Day, and Leopoldville observers also blamed them for the killing of 11 Italian UN airmen at November.

PLANES LEAVE

LONDON (AP)—The foreign office disclosed Sunday night that two anti-submarine planes ordered long ago left Britain for Indonesia recently. Informed sources said future British arms sales to Indonesia will be subjected to tight scrutiny while the New Guinea crisis is on. A foreign office spokesman said the two planes were the last of a contingent of 18 sold to Indonesia in 1959 with The Netherlands' knowledge.

Local 'Y' Will Take Part In National YMCA Week

This week is National YMCA Week across Canada and the United States. Throughout North America YMCA's will be opening their doors to the general public for people to visit and see what their local "Y" has to offer the citizens of the community in recreational, spiritual and physical activities for all age levels.

Locally most churches observed YMCA Sunday this past weekend when there was a "Y" Church Parade at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for YMCA members, families and friends.

Many of the local service clubs, including Rotarians, Kinsmen, Kiwanians and, of course, Y's Men will be conducting YMCA-oriented programs at their regular weekly meetings.

The "Y" building on Campbellcroft Street is a hub of busy place throughout the week. Activities for the observance of YMCA week have been planned. These will include displays by nearly every club or group which holds regular weekly sessions.

Boys' and youths' activities will be on display from Monday through Wednesday and on the following Saturday. Gym activities, judo demonstrations, swimming and life saving, basketball games, crafts, exhibits, a table tennis tournament and weightlifting demonstrations are amongst the many varied "Y" sports and recreational projects which will be shown.

Girls' activities will be on view to the public on Thursday and Friday. All of these demonstrations will be held in the evenings commencing about 7:15 o'clock. Refreshments will be served visitors towards the end of the evening.

On the Tuesday evening there will be a family swim for all. Children are to be accompanied by their parents. The Saturday program starts at 9.00 a.m. with the various boys' activities and at 2 p.m. with the Junior Basketball League doubleheader.

The week's activities will conclude on Sunday, January 29th, with a Hi-Y Clubs church service at Christ Church.

Germans Arrest Himmler's Aide For War Crimes

STARNBERG, Germany (AP) Fordr Nazi Gen. Karl Wolff, a prominent figure in German-Allied peace negotiations in 1945, is being held on suspicion of crimes against the Jewish people.

The Bavarian justice ministry said Wolff is suspected of complicity in the mass murder of Jews in Nazi-occupied Europe. No further details were given.

The SS Einsatzgruppen, or death commandos, killed some 2,000,000 Jews in Eastern Europe in the early stages of the war against the Soviet Union.

The 63-year-old general, former chief of staff to SS head Heinrich Himmler, was arrested at his villa at Kempfenhausen, on Lake Starnberg, last Thursday. Officials did not explain why the announcement of his arrest had been delayed.

railways to help specific regions or shippers.

But the key recommendation is expected to revolve around the freight rate structure.

Since 1946, the railways have been authorized to raise freight rates by a total of 152 per cent in a series of rate applications to the federal board of transport commissioners.

In each rate fight, there have been loud protests before the board of transport from eight of the 10 provinces—all but Quebec and Ontario, where alternative transport tends to keep freight rates down.

It was the public outcry after the last freight rate boost—a 17 per-cent jump in late 1958—that led to establishment of the MacPherson commission.

Combined Spiel For Three Clubs Opens Wed.

Setting a new milestone in district curling, three city and district clubs will inaugurate the Bay of Quinte Bonspiel this week.

The clubs, Quinte of Belleville, RCAF Curling Club and the Trenton Country Club will compete for eight trophies and prizes in the colorful upcoming event.

Sixty-four rinks comprising 256 curlers will be on hand for the opening of the bonspiel proper Thursday morning.

The formal opening takes place at the Quinte Curling Club Wednesday night when Mayor D. McLean Daly will throw the first rock. RCAF pipers will lead the curlers to the ice.

Forty-four rinks from the three participating clubs will be augmented by twenty "ringers" from other parts of the district.

A number of prizes donated for the curlers have been planned by the bonspiel committee.

Curling will start Wednesday night through the first four finals slated for Saturday evening. Two of these take place at the Quinte club, the other at Trenton Club. Sunday will see the completion of the bonspiel.

Stork Catches Arden Mothers Hospital-Bound

KINGSTON (CP)—Two Arden women failed to make it to a Kingston hospital during the weekend for the births of their daughters. Both babies arrived en route.

It started Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Clark Hugh, 24, was picked up to be taken to a Kingston hospital for the birth of her first child.

Her six-pound daughter was born in the ambulance about one miles north of Verona, which is 20 miles northwest of Kingston. Area obstetrician Dr. R. D. Campbell, arrived on the scene after the infant was born.

Four hours later mother and daughter were returned to the Hugh homestead.

Ambulance personnel were still recounting that venture when at 6 a.m. Sunday they were summoned for another dash with the stork.

Again the timing was off.

Mrs. Seldon Hughes, 23, also of Arden and a close friend of Mrs. Hugh, was also en route to a Kingston hospital for the birth of her fourth child.

She, too, didn't make it.

The infant, a six-pound girl, was delivered in the ambulance at Parham with Dr. Campbell this time handling the delivery. Later, after mother and baby had been taken back to Arden, an alarm was sent to Kingston for oxygen and suction cups. The baby had developed breathing difficulty. The child was revived by Dr. Campbell and is reported to be resting comfortably at home.

CHESTERTON KIN DIES

LONDON (Reuters) — Mrs. Ada Elizabeth Chesterton, British playwright and journalist, died Saturday, it was announced today. Mrs. Chesterton, believed to have been in her early 80's, was the widow of Cecil Edward Chesterton, a brother of author G. K. Chesterton. In 1927 she founded the first of the Cecil H o u s e s for homeless women in London. She was a former correspondent for the London Daily Express in England, Russia, China and Japan.

At Lillooet Mrs. Laura Copeland, about 30, collapsed and died with her child. Police learned of the death of her children, Rose, 8, Madeline, 4, Felix, 3, Susan 2 and Geraldine four months. Mrs. Copeland was described as the wife of a hard-working logger, who drowned in the Fraser River.

"The cabin exploded like a bomb," said the Lillooet assistant fire chief. "Boy, fires. There wasn't a chance of anybody in the cabin."

The Kars fire broke out Saturday afternoon in a one-storey home belonging to Aidan Hiver.

Danny, 4, and Nicky, 3, were found dead in the fire, said Lukyniuk. The third victim, Donna Lee, 4, was the daughter of Mr. Donna Young, who kept house for the Lukyniuk family.

Mrs. Young had gone to get a loaf of bread from a neighbor when the fire started.

Mr. Lukyniuk was at work. His wife was residing with two other children in the Edwards area, southeast of Ottawa.

"LAWYER WINS ACQUITTAL — Sitting on notes and evidence he compiled during nearly two years in Canadian jails, New Yorker lawyer Sol Rauch awaits on his cot news from Don Jail, Toronto. Rauch won an acquittal on a theft charge when he became the first prisoner ever to appear before the Supreme Court of Canada on his own behalf. Court heard he will also defend a second charge of fraud. Rauch, 46, spent much of his time in prison delving into the cases of fellow prisoners whom he plans to help. He was one of four men originally sentenced for theft involving a missing cheque for $960,000 from Brilund Mines Limited. (CP Wirephoto).

CAS Undersget Budget By $1,000 Meeting Told

Mrs. Jez H. Forrester, CAS president, chaired the monthly meeting of the society held at the headquarters on Bridge last.

Mr. B. W. Hurley, the treasurer said that in 1961, and for the second straight year, the Society had underspent its budget by more than $10,000, in moving acceptance of the budget, Mr. Hurley noted it was approximately $15,000 lower than the year previous, yet it would be a decrease to see the Society's needs. A budget of $158,685 for all purposes was unanimously approved.

Mrs. Forrester announced the final steps have been taken to establish an educational fund designed to benefit those former wards of the Society now over the age of 16 who are desirous of continuing their education. It would be the board's hope that one

World Day Of Prayer On March 9th

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The theme for the 36th Women's World Day of Prayer Friday, March 9, is "God's Love for the Whole World."

The service, written in Uruguay this year, will be held in 170 countries by women in 145 countries.

It is a joint effort of Violeta Cavalieo, a deaconess of the Methodist church, and Mme. Beatrix Rivas Svetkoff, former president of the Uruguay League of Evangelical Women.

The Women's Inter - Church Council of Canada is sending copies of the service through 3,500 local church councils and committees and 1,000 English copies are sent to the WCW Ottawa headquarters in St Mets, France, where French women in the community are invited to join in the service.

Contributions made on the day set 96 causes. The 1961 Canadian contribution was used for world refugees, the production of Christian literature by foreign - language residents in Canada, and braille publications.

The movement began in the United States in 1887. Canada held its first service in 1920 and two years later joined the U.S. in the First International Day of Prayer. It became a worldwide observance in 1927.

Stirling WI Marks 50th Anniversary

The 50th anniversary of Stirling W. Institute was celebrated on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. C. West with a turkey dinner followed by the regular meeting in the afternoon and a quilting for charity.

The Stirling Women's Institute has accomplished much over the 50 years of service, furnishing the furnishings in the Community Hall in the village along with numerous donations to other societies such as Belleville General Hospital and Trenton Memorial Hospital.

On Jan. 22nd, 1912, Mrs. Farley of Ballencrief came and organized a Women's Institute in Stirling.

At the meeting on Wednesday, the 10th, Mrs. B. Reid presided. A $50 cheque will be given to the Stirling Council for the purpose of re-surfacing the Community Hall kitchen floor. This was included in the regular routine of business.

FINE TURNOUT GIVEN

Mrs. L. Rodgers of West Hill, Toronto, was present at this meeting to speak on a timely topic on agriculture and Canadian industries. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Ross Cook, Home Making Club, and Farm Forum as the advancements and furthering interest in farming as agriculture is the oldest industry in existence feeding the people of the world, leadership and responsibility must be performed by the youth of today.

Mrs. P. Smith gave two readings entitled "Black is Beautiful" and "The Wrong Train."

Mrs. Everhart, on behalf of the members, presented Mrs. West with a gift for all the work done in opening her home for this occasion.

At the close of the meeting all returned to the dining room to where the table was graced by a beautiful centre piece of daffodils, also an anniversary cake with 50 blue and yellow candles and 50 colors.

Mrs. L. Rodgers did the honors of lighting the candles. All joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne". Mrs. R. Reid blew out candles, and Mrs. W. H. Cooke cut the cake. This was served with tea.

Others who couldn't attend sent greetings and a donation was presented also.

UCW Inaugural Services

BRIDGE ST. UNITED

Bridge St. United Church was the setting for a historic occasion in the life of the women of Belleville Presbyterial when a new number met for the inaugural service Sunday afternoon. The Rev. H. M. Davis conducted the election after Mrs. Clarence Dickens, chairman of the Nominating Committee of the Provincial Committee, read the slate of officers.

The Rev. C. W. Coleman, assisted by Mrs. George Carlisle, Stirling, Mrs. Frank Davidson of Belleville and Mrs. Norman Vrooman of Odessa, proceeded with the formal service. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Robert Reid, with Mr. S. Alec Ordon at the organ, sang "How Great Thou Art."

Mr. Davis used the theme "Vision of the Future" for his address. He said he was inspired by the above hymn in which he says "How great is our love in serving Thee, O Lord". He said in part: "we must beware of being pointed to be having some vision of the future. There is some uncertainty in the world today and therefore we must be wary of the changes. The new organization, the United Church Women, is to unite all the women of the church in the task of working for the total mission of the church.

There is a growing recognition of men's and women's lay work in the church. Women will be a Board of Women...to equal the now-functioning board of men. This is a completely new organization of not only Former W.M.S. and W.M.S. members but every woman of the church There will no longer be an overlapping of overseas mission field where W.M.S. and Overseas Mission Board send their own missionaries to the same field, but a new Board of World Missions. Thanks are due for the many achievements of the past. This is a beginning of a new type of work, but of a new organization through which it is believed, we can do the old work better".

The executive was asking to come forward for the dedication, conducted by Mr. Coleman.

The following came forward: president — Mrs. R. H. Smith; Trenton; first vice-president — Hastings East — Mrs. L. Fisk; Thurlow, Hastings North — Mrs. V. A. McMurray, Gilmour; Hastings West — Mrs. K. Weaver, Stirling; Manor and Ashdington North — Mrs. Frank Sinclair, Newburgh; Lennox and Addington — Mrs. Ross Cook, Hillsen Hogan, Collins Bay; Richmond East — Mrs. J. Wells, Picton; Prince Edward West — Mrs. Morgan Sills, Consecon; Prince Edward Territory — Mrs. Andrew Bonvie, Picton; second vice-president — Mrs. W. G. Smith, Napanee; treasurer — Mrs. C. W. Smith, Belleville; secretary — Mrs. Ray Vanzeel, Enterprise; co-operation in Christian education — Mrs. Norman Vrooman, Odessa; finance — Mrs. R. G. Coaker, Belleville; leadership development — Mrs. G. Carlisle, Stirling; membership — Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Belleville; organization and promotion — Mrs. F. Davidson, Bellesidle.

Portfolio secretaries: community friendship and visiting — Mrs. S. Stinson, Thurlow; literature and communication — Mrs. C. W. Hall, Bayside; periodicals — Mrs. Mercedes Clancy, R. R. 1, Holloway; press and publicity — Mrs. J. Stoneburg, Wellington; program — Mrs. Gerald Vincent, Picton; stewardship and recruiting — Mrs. Don Williams, Belleville; supply and social assistance — Mrs. C. H. LaRue of Foxboro.

After the benediction was pronounced, the newly appointed executive Belleville Presbyterial United Church Women met with Mrs. R. H. Smithson of Trenton presiding. In her opening remarks she said "We are all going to try to be a new kind of women"; try constantly the 'Word'; by uniting in peace; and by being renewed in knowledge. She said we must learn

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

CHANTERTON W.I.

The January meeting of Chanterton W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Carman Frost, 5th concession of Ameliasburg with 21 members and two visitors in attendance.

The meeting opened and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. Correspondence consisted of a letter from Mrs. Lymburner regarding the 50th anniversary luncheon to be held in Toronto on February 19, for which the Unionville members hope to obtain tickets. A letter from "Care" was read as well as several thank-you notes. The W.I. will be catering to the Junior Farmers at their banquet February 16th at the Frankford Community Hall. The invitation to the Farm Forum program February 5th at the Oliver Valley School was accepted.

Owing to the absence of Mrs. Ivey MacMillan, the district president, a paper on ACWW was taken in parts by Mrs. M. Hine, Mrs. G. Sine and Mrs. J. Mervyn. Mrs. Frank Phillips gave a paper on home economics prepared by the convener, Mrs. Ernest Anderson. Several readings were given by Mrs. J. Jance, Mrs. R. Flemington, Mrs. Maurice Dafoe and Mrs. Cameron Sine. Mrs. M. Sine read an article on pork from a pamphlet entitled "The Market Place," stressing that pork contains the protein contained in most foods and is equivalent in vitamins to bread, cereals and other products.

The executive is to be the committee to prepare for the junior farmers' banquet. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Mallory, 4th concession of Sidney, with Mrs. George Striker as convener. The topic discussed at this meeting will be educational.

Lunch was served by the January committee and a social time was spent.

Congregational Meeting

CENTRE ST. UNITED CHURCH

The congregation of Centre St. Church held its annual meeting on Tuesday evening in the church room preceded by a delicious dinner served and prepared by ladies of the congregation.

The Rev. R. Vessey asked the blessing and a social hour was enjoyed before the business session.

While the ladies cleaned up the kitchen, the men cleared up the room ready for the meeting. Mr. Vessey conducted a short worship before the meeting came to order. He also welcomed the Rev. O. E. Wagar.

Mrs. Keitha Ferguson, secretary, read the minutes of the previous annual meeting which were approved.

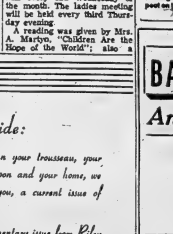
The leaders of the various organizations including C.G.I.T., both senior and intermediate groups, Explorers, Messengers, Tyros, W.A. and the Sunday School, all these reports for 1961 were good.

Mrs. Ruth Hodgins, church treasurer, read her report for 1961 which showed a most successful year.

The Board of Sessions is as follows: Mrs. C. Collins, Mrs. L. Longhurst, Mr. D. Vandervaart, Mr. A. Longhurst, Mr. Ronald Schaenbrom, Mrs. Clare Wood, these will hold office for three years.

Committee of stewards, G. Wood, Clare Wood, Mrs. K. Ferguson, Mrs. D. Hodgins, Mrs. L. Longhurst, Mrs. Dora Draddy, Mrs. A. Hawley, Mrs. M. Vandervaart, and Mr. A. Longhurst.

Clerk of session, Ronald Schaenbrom.



Board of trustees, Mrs. L. Collins, the Rev. O. E. Wagar, Mrs. K. Ferguson, Mrs. D. Ward, Mrs. K. Ferguson, Mrs. Ward.

Sunday school superintendent Ronald Schaenbrom; assistant, Mrs. D. Hodgins; secretary, Mrs. the church, Mrs. K. Ferguson; treasurer, Mrs. D. Hodgins; press secretary, Mrs. Clare Wood; pianist, Mrs. L. Collins; assistant, Mrs. D. Hodgins; collators for the year 1962 are Mrs. Stapley and Mrs. G. Wood.

Mr. Vessey expressed his thanks to all the group leaders for the splendid job they had done through the year and said he was glad to be the minister and enjoyed working with the congregation, and hoped all will enjoy and have a prosperous year worshiping together. He closed the meeting with prayer.

reading by Mrs. Morley Sine, Mrs. Martyn a short write-up describing the lady-slipper, a tiny life of the new women's editor of the United Church Observer, Grace Lane, written by Irene Baker.

Mrs. A. Martyn closed the meeting with prayer and Mrs. K. Faul showed a few slides.

Argyll IODE Sponsors Winter Fantasy

A most successful dance, sponsored by the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E., was held in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Officers' Mess on Saturday 13th.

The mess had been beautifully decorated by the ladies of the chapter under the leadership of Mrs. R. Will-cocks. Giant snowflakes, "frost" covered arches and winter scene models and murals were blended to exemplify the theme of the dance — "Winter Fantasy".

Guests were greeted by Mrs. A. Cunningham, regent and Major Cunningham and Mrs. H. Campbell, vice-regent and Major Campbell.

Music was provided by the "Starlighters" and the mess was full to capacity with members and guests who appeared to thoroughly enjoy themselves.

ATTRACTIVE SUPPER

A particularly attractive supper was organized by the hospitality committee convened by Mrs. A. Bailey.

Spot prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Liddle; Mr. and Mrs. Pacquin; Major and Mrs. D. Riordan and Dr. and Mrs. A. Ellidd. Door prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Liddle and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Weaver of Trenton.

The occasion was highly successful in every respect and the proceeds will be used to advance the charitable works carried on by the chapter.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The Women of the Moose held their first meeting of the month in Moose Hall with Sr. Regent, N. Shandrow, presiding.

The roll was called by recorder and the business of the Chapter was discussed. A letter was read from Mooseheart inviting the Chapter to attend the mid-winter conference in Toronto on January 29; the Chapter to charter a bus to go.

A draw, donated by Dorothy Embury, was won by Nellie Burke.

The next meeting is to be an "open meeting" and pot-luck supper for the Chapter and their friends at seven o'clock at Moose Hall.

Some co-workers thanked the Chapter for gifts and cards received while ill.

After the meeting closed beauty bingo was played and lunch was served by Dorothy Embury and her committee.

Last night the business of the Moose held a euchre at Clara Swanton's home on Porter Avenue. The winners were: ladies' — Margaret Johnson, Betty Reed and consolation — Bernice Prindle; lons hands — Margaret Johnson. For the men: George Seamen, Irene Carney; consolation — Ruby Morris and lone hands — George Seamen.

After euchre, lunch was served by Dorothy Embury and her committee.

The next draw is won by Margaret Johnson.

LIPSTICK COURTESY AT DINNER

Long-lasting lipsticks may be a blessing to the make-up artist, but they're a bane of the hostess who often has to go to a lot of extra trouble erasing "beauty spots" from her dinner guests' towels.

At the end of an evening, many a hostess literally gets spots before her eyes from smears and blobs of lipstick and other make-up deposited on linen by thoughtless women guests.

Some seem to think the dinner napkin is nothing but a bib oversized Kleenex and casually use it to swab off every last trace of lip color at the end of a meal. A careless few even go further and apply a fresh coat of lipstick, then use the napkin to blot off the excess.

Needless to say, this makes more of an impression on the napkin than it does on the hostess, who can readily do without an indelible stamp of approval. Naturally, cleaning of the linen can be marked off to thought, lessness, but it can be avoided if guests would remember to make the following spot check:

The napkin should never be handled as a blotter. It may be used to dab at the corners of the mouth or just below it, but even this should be done lightly, without a rubbing motion.

If one has a sudden urge to cough and can't get a handkerchief out in time, then it is napkin duty. Hold it in front of the mouth and not pressed against it. Be aware, too, that the lipstick stays where it belongs — on the lips — and that the napkin is unsoiled with color.

The same sort of courtesy should apply to use of linens in the powder room. Under no circumstances should a linen guest towel be used to wipe off powder or lipstick. Disposable towels may be used, but a piece of tissue or cotton makes a good substitute. A thoughtful guest also keeps off lines, towels when hands are sticky with cream or smeared with mascara or eye-shadow. Wash first, or use paper towels.

And while we're on the subject, here are a few other grooming reminders:

If you comb your hair over a sink, make sure strays don't get a wash-down the drain. Hair caught in the trap can plug up the plumbing, and this is a guarantee to put the hostess more than just spots before her eyes.

Any make-up that's applied to the sink should be washed away from the basin. If powder spills on the floor, then a piece of damp, soaped cloth is handy to clean it up.

An overnight guest can show consideration by being careful where she places her jars and bottles of creams and oils. Make sure bottoms are wiped clean after each use, then placed on the dresser tray or runner provided for this purpose. Hair clips, curlers and pins also should be kept on some sort of padding so they won't scratch a wooden surface.

Women's Institutes

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mrs. William Joyce opened her home for the January meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute which was opened by the president, Mrs. W. Barber in the usual manner, with 16 members and several visitors present.

After the business, Mrs. Alan Wallbridge read most interesting "current events" for the past month.

Owing to the absence of Mrs. C. Barber who had charge of resolutions, Mrs. Bob Barber read an article on the new minister of Agriculture, William A. Stewart of Deafield, Ontario, and Mrs. Al Wallbridge told about the preparations for the 65th birthday of the Institute to be held in Toronto in February.

The meeting closed and the hostess assisted by co-hostess, Mrs. Alfred Poste and lunch committee Mrs. W. Westerveen and Mrs. E. Hall served refreshments.

Mrs. K. Hall conducted a contest with Mrs. A. Wallbridge receiving the favor.

Mrs. W. Motley thanked the hostess and her daughter Hilda, for their hospitality.

Life in Japan Topic at Lutheran CW

The January meeting of the United Lutheran Church Women was held in the form of a "Japanese Night". The meeting room was decorated in a quaint Japanese manner. Each person receiving a name tag with a 'Noshi' attached. There was also a fortune tree in which each received a fortune. Mrs. Grills opened the meeting with a prayer.

Opening remarks by Mrs. Heitbohner included some interesting facts about the tiny island of Japan. Japan's population is 90,000,000 or over half the population of the U.S.A. The average farm in Japan is two and one-half acres compared to Canada's 150-200 acre farms. Only three and one-half percent of Japan's population are Christians; the chief religions being Buddhism or Shintoism.

Devotions took the form of a Japanese family worship service. Mrs. Grills, Mrs. Heitbohner and Mrs. K. Brinkert were dressed in Japanese attire lending more realism to the scene.

The 'Noshi' was then explained by Mrs. Lindeman. This was given to a guest as a gift of friendship. A more elaborate 'Noshi was made opening up to reveal a cross, symbolizing the gift of Christ to everyone.

Mrs. K. Brinkert read the Scripture lesson.

FILM SHOWN

A film was shown and narrated by Mrs. Heitbohner. This film showed the life of a Christian Japanese woman, how she prepared her meals, cared for her children and her home.

Following the film an open discussion was held, pertinent to the preceding film.

The roll call was read and in response the ladies read their fortunes taken from the fortune tree.

Everyone participated in a Japanese puzzle-mat.

A short business meeting was held at which time the Christian Service Committee gave a report. Articles of the food and clothing delivered to the local family and also of the January goodies.

Some of the U.L.C.W. ladies will visit the County Home. Used clothing was handed out to be repaired and given to the Children's Aid. A workshop day was discussed and a tentative date set for January 25, 1962.

The meeting was adjourned followed by the missionary Benediction.

Lunch was supplied by Mrs. K. Brinkert and Mrs. N. Brinkert.

Living In The Lap Of Frugal Elegance

by Mary Moore

"It's amazing how cheaply you can live if you put your mind to it" says Bruce. They both wanted roast beef for Sunday dinner but Eleanor finally refused to pay $1.15 per pound.

What they did buy was a pound of dried beans and half pound smoked pork squares (40c per pound); margarine and cheese and half pound hamburg. With these she made for Saturday night's dinner meal, scrod and cheese with her special tomato and meat treatment. For Sunday she made perfect Baked Beans, the aroma of which, installed Bruce and the boys all Sunday afternoon. After dinner Bruce said "Honey, that was as good as a dollar steak".

Eleanor thinks I should repeat these two dishes for there are many families like hers who want to eat delicious food that is definitely not extravagant.

ELEANOR'S MACARONI CASSEROLE

Put on 1 quart water to boil and add 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1-2 to 2-3 pound elbow macaroni and boil for 10 minutes, stirring two or three times. Drain well. Meanwhile in 1 tablespoon bacon drippings saute 1-2 pound hamburg, 1 chopped onion until brown, stirring. To assemble turn drained macaroni and sauteed hamburg and onion into large casserole. Add and stir in 3-4 pound shredded old Cheddar cheese and about 2 cups tomato juice — enough to submerge macaroni. Add salt and pepper to taste — remembering that the macaroni is salted. Cover with 1 cup coarse soft bread-crumbs and dot generously (2 tablespoons) with hard butter. Bake at 350 deg. F. for about 40 minutes or until crumbs are brown and whole dish is bubbling. Eleanor served this with a salad of cabbage, radishes, onions, parsley, and tomato salad olives dressed with commercial salad dressing.

Women's Activities

W.M.C. MEETING

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle held its Women's Missionary Council meeting on January 18th at the home of Mrs. Gordon Smith.

The president, Mrs. C. Curry, welcomed the ladies and opened the meeting. Mrs. F. Wood led in prayer. Mrs. K. Heim gave the secretaria's report and read thank-you letters for gifts received, from the Rev. and Mrs. Bell Dunsan of Stirling, and the Rev. and Mrs A. Hodgins of Camden East. Miss Marjorie Forbes gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. C. Curry gave the W.M.C report of 1961. Projects were mentioned and various needs. The monthly bulletin was read. There will be a WMC "work night" on February 1.

Mrs. E. Strome brought the evening message from St. John 14, speaking on "Let not your heart be troubled," and "Work and serve our wonderful Lord."

Prayer requests were given and a time of prayer followed.

Refreshments were served and a time of fellowship was enjoyed by all.

County Home Aux. Names 1962 Officers

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings County Home for the Aged was held at the Home on January 15th, with 26 ladies in attendance.

The visiting convener, Mrs. Ray reported approximately 400 visits had been made to the home during the past year. Many successful projects were carried out at the Home in 1961, including the annual bazaar, a New Year's party for the residents, and the operation of the "travelling tuck shop," convened by Mrs. William Kempston, the latter being of great assistance and convenience to the residents.

The nominating committee presented the new slate of officers for 1962: president, Mrs. C. Holmes; 1st vice-president, Mrs. A. W. Daniels; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Nobes; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Bongard; treasurer, Mrs. H. Wallbridge; social convener, Mrs. Wilfred Watson; entertainment conveners, Mrs. G. Day and Mrs. W. Townson; visiting convener, Mrs. Christopher; publicity convener, Mrs. A. W. Daniels; membership convener Mrs. Kempston; Handicraft convener, Mrs. A. Bongard; hucke-buck convener, Mrs W Kempston; liaison officer, Mrs. K. Yorke.

Mrs. K. Bird conducted the installation of the new officers.

Mrs. Yorke extended her appreciation to the members of the Auxiliary for their valued assistance to her during the past year, and wished them success in the year ahead.

Mrs. Holmes, the retiring president, thanked the ladies for the loyal support during her past two years in office. She also expressed thanks to Mrs. Yorke and staff for making her auxiliary work most pleasant.

Mrs. C. Holmes, the incoming president, expressed gratitude for the honour of being elected as president, and hoped that the new year would be most successful, paying tribute, on behalf of the Auxiliary members of the Auxiliary for her valued service while in office, as well as to all other members of the Auxiliary for their work during the past year, also to Mr. and Mrs. Yorke for their assistance to the Auxiliary.

At the conclusion of the business portion of the meeting, the ladies adjourned to the dining room where they met the residents and joined with them in the Christmas celebration.

After the singing of the birthday song to the guests, Mr. Keith Casey, the eldest guest present, cut the beautiful birthday cake. Mrs.. Murphy and Mrs. Bowden poured tea and everyone enjoyed a delicious lunch while chatting with the residents.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ada H. — She should stick up for a few rights of her own.

Jeanne B. — Not with a husband like mine! He wants things his way.

• • •

Ada H. — Jeanne is my only sister, and, if she'd only get some starch in her backbone, we could see each other once in a while the way other sisters do. But she waits on her husband hand and foot, never speaks up about anything she might want for herself.

No matter what time he gets in, she keeps a hot meal waiting for him. Everything he wolves around till, She's like a mouse and acts afraid of him. Yet Bill's a good sort. He'd probably help-sit and let her mess the some evening. But she says she doesn't dare ask him.

In a few years, when she's the dullest thing on two feet, she'll probably blame Bill. But it will be her own fault.

• • •

Jeanne B. — It's easy for Ada to talk. She's married to a saint, the most easy-going guy in the world. He'd even offer to take up flagpole sitting, he'd let her!

But Bill wants to call the tunes in our home and I let him. We've been married a year and a half, and we have a 6 month-old daughter. I learned in the first few weeks of our marriage that my husband has a horrible temper when crossed. I've avoided bringing it out again. And by saving my opinions, I don't have to put up with his grouchiness which used to annoy me consistantly in the early days. He'd snarl over cold food, missing buttons or unexpected company.

Of course I'd like to see Ada. But I'd suffer at home later.

• • •

The Council: The marriage of Jeanne and Bill, as here depicted, seems to be more suited (a vegetable) and mineral, than human! The mineral part is the rocks in her head. In urging her sister to act human rather than cabbagey, Ada isn't being a troublemaker. She may be a marriage saver.

Who knows but that Bill's grouches come from life with a Cipher? Since cipherism seems to consider herself a Nothing, he treats her like a Nothing. Evidently he took his cues from her and learned to fill the void with his demands. But by night have preferred, even longed for, a wife with full-bodied flavor and a strong personality.

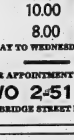
Whatever personality Jeanne's been ploughing under had better be exhumed and resuscitated, if possible. We can't believe that Bill wants the robot around, that is Jeanne, instead of a free American citizen who loves life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness within legal and moral limits. Ada's husband, like most other men, wasn't born a saint. He became easy-going, no doubt, through his wife's insistence upon easy living practices.

What would happen, Jeanne, if you told Bill in advance that he was baby-sitting so you could meet Ada, or go to the beauty parlor, or join a club, or sign up for a course in Esperanto Composition? He might be too breathless or too shocked to say No or have a tantrum. At any rate, it would start your restore to street level from the underground you inhabit now. A guidance counselor may be needed to bolster your confidence to continue your rise from self-imposed enslavement. But it's more likely to be intrigued, than infuriated, by the New You. But where there's fury, there can be cold applications. You'll learn.

Remember, you're not an automaton. You're a woman. Act like one and be treated like one.

Honor Pastor, Family on Departure

TWEED—The Rev. Douglas Louie, Mrs. Louie, Jeffery and Denise left on Monday, January 15th for the new pastorate at Ridgeway east of Port Colborne.



Mr. Louie came from Saskatchewan to St. John's United Church, Tweed in October of 1957 following the transfer of the Rev. W. K. Pace of Beaverton.

At the annual congregational meeting held recently, reports from the secretaries of the various organizations of the church were heard, after which Mr. and Mrs. Louie were the recipients of a gift from the church and the two children were presented with Bibles.

In accepting the gifts from his congregation, Mr. Louie referred to the many good friends he had made while in Tweed, and of the wonderful help and kindness to his wife and children.

Mr. S. H. Connor conducted a short program which included a reading by Mr. G. H. Cotton and a piano duet by Beverley McCulloch and Jean Woods.

Three Children Burn to Death In Their Cots

KARS Ont. (CP) — Three small children were burned to death in their cots despite the efforts of the mother of one of the tots to rescue them from their fire-engulfed frame home Saturday afternoon.

The children were found in the embers of their beds after fire swept through the one-storey home of Dan Lukyniuk on the banks of the Rideau River, near this community 21 miles south of Ottawa.

They were identified as: Danny 4, and Nicky Lukyniuk, 3; and Donna Lee Young, 4, daughter of Mrs. Donna Young, a housekeeper.

When fire broke out about 1 p.m. Mr. Lukyniuk, 27, was away at his service station job in Ottawa and Mrs. Young had just gone across the road to fetch a dozen of bread from a neighbor. Mrs. Shirley Lukyniuk was staying with another two children in the Edwards, Ont., area.

Volunteer firemen from nearby North Gower arrived too late to quell the flames, which destroyed the house.

The fire is believed to have been possibly started by an overheated stove or an explosion. The Ontario fire marshal's office sent a representative to investigate.

Three Killed In 2-Car Crash Near Cochrane

COCHRANE, Ont. (CP)— Three men were killed Sunday in a two-car collision on Highway 11, about 11 miles south of here.

Dead are Leonard Addis, 32, of Scarborough, and Frank Ross Smith, 31, and William Clifford Crozier, 41, both of Kirkland Lake.

Smith and Crozier, who had been at a Presbyterian Church meeting in Cochrane, were driving south when their car was in collision with Addis' northbound vehicle. The road was snow-covered and slippery.

Smith, a shipper, leaves six children. He had retired three months ago from his job as a mining foreman. Crozier leaves a wife and three children. Both men were prominent in the Boy Scout movement and in civic circles in Kirkland Lake.

Cochrane is about 50 miles north of Timmins.

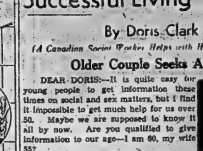
THE GORE — After a holiday at his home recruit Eric Hatfield returned to Camp Gagetown, N.B.



Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Brooks, Stirling, were overnight guests of their daughter and family, Mrs. Morris Pulver. They also visited Mrs. Kenneth Green, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Townsend motored to Toronto where Mr. Townsend attended the Milk Producers' convention.

Mrs. Ralph Redner entertained the ladies of the community to an afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. Parris (nee Gloria Reid) who with her baby daughter is leaving soon to join her husband in England. Gloria was presented with a purse of money. A pleasant afternoon was spent.

Centre United Church Women held their January meeting at the home of Mrs. Ralph Redner.

Mrs. Humphrey who has been spending sometime with her daughter, Mrs. Winston Pulver is now in her new home on the Bay Shore Road.

HITS ALL TIME HIGH—Canada's mineral production in 1961 reached a record value of $3,581,845,000 an increase of 2.8 per cent over the 1960 figure of $3,482,310,000. The jump resulted from increased values for iron ore, nickel, asbestos, crude petroleum and cement.

Graph shows upward trend in mineral value since 1951.

War of Blood and Nerves Threatens to Plunge France And Algeria Into Ruins

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—A war of blood and nerves is being fought in Algeria and France, threatening at any day to plunge the countries into ruin.

The struggle is three-cornered — involving President Charles de Gaulle, the Algerian rebels and the rightist Secret Army Organization.

Like poker players with gigantic stakes, each is keeping his hand partly shielded, awaiting the right moment to make his play.

Since Christmas, at least 300 persons — Europeans and Moslems — have fallen in terrorist bullets and grenades as the seven-year-old Algerian revolt entered a new stage. Thundering charges of plastic, touched off by the secret army, have caused heavy property damage within this capital itself. But the big test is yet to come.

Much studied opinion is this: it will come when—and if—the rebels and de Gaulle announce formal agreement on Algeria's future or move their secret talks out of the shadows to a public official stage.

Some talks from the secret talks tend to confirm what has long been fairly evident: De Gaulle and the rebels are basically in accord that Algeria will be independent, and will maintain links with France.

Nothing seems to stand in the way of a formal announcement except the question of principle—nothing but the secret army organization.

Many feel—and the belief is shared in French official quarters—that the secret army is holding off in a last-ditch effort until it has such an agreement for a clear cut issue and becomes reasonably clear from a flood of secret army tracts. One source said a few days ago:

"When an agreement is announced there will be a general uprising in Algeria among the Europeans. It's perfectly normal because then they are acting in self defence—defence of a French Algeria."

De Gaulle and Premier Michel Debre meet almost continually with defence and Algerian administrative chiefs. Spokesmen assert "drastic action" will be taken against the secret army to prevent "bloody folly." Paris police patrols have been doubled.

But few feel secret army guerrilla action can be snuffed out any more than Moslem rebel attacks can be finally halted without a mass political decision.

When this decision comes the fibre of France will be stretched as it seldom has before.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Heavy drinking, heavy eating and aging.

QUESTION OF APPETITE

One answer to heavy drinking may be to eat more—not just for vitamins — but for total food.

Laboratory rats, fed all they wanted of food, drank practically no alcohol, even though it was available, said Maud B. Purdy, Louisiana State University chemist. But some rats kept on a limited diet, both with and without vitamins, drank much more alcohol.

QUESTION OF DIET

Many persons are taxing their lives by carrying around extra pounds. But a 1,500-calorie - a - day diet and a moderate amount of exercise should enable you to lose weight regularly.

An article in the American Medical Association magazine Today's Health lists one such diet, recommended by the American Dietetic Association: One pint whole milk, one egg, five ounces lean meat, poultry or fish (broiled, boiled or roasted), or cheese, with liver once a week.

Also, a cup of enriched or whole grain cereal, a small potato and four slices of enriched or whole wheat bread (or a half cup of cooked spaghetti, noodles or rice) or a muffin, biscuit or two - inch square of cornbread.)

Also, a serving of green or yellow vegetables, two servings of other vegetables, either a four-ounce glass of citrus fruit juice or eight ounces of tomato juice, two servings of other fruit—fresh or unsweetened, four teaspoons of butter or enriched margarine.

PRICE OF AGE

From a peak of strength or ability to do work at about age of 28, man steadily, but slowly loses, says Dr. Nathan Shock of the National Institutes of Health in an article in Scientific American.

By the age of 75, he has lost 30 per cent of his ability to do work that increased at age 30. He loses weight, and his faculties become sluggish. His brain weighs 36 per cent of what it once did. He has only about 40 per cent of his capacity to absorb oxygen through his lungs. His kidneys are at about half of their former effectiveness. Also by age 75, he has lost all but 36 per cent of his taste buds.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Older Couple Seeks Advice

DEAR DORIS:—It is quite easy for young people to get information these times on social and sex matters, but I find it impossible to get much help for us over 50. Maybe we are supposed to know it all by now. Are you qualified to give information to our age—I am 60, my wife 55?

DORIS CLARK

We have five children, all grown up and married. My wife figures we are all through with sex; we can just skip it. She is quite healthy and vigorous. I very much need sex and affection. She has no use for psychiatrists- but might possibly heed another woman.—STILL VIGOROUS.

DEAR STILL VIGOROUS:—What I don't know for sure I find out—and this time my information comes from a leading Canadian gynaecologist.

We never get past the point where we need affection from those dear to us. And any number of couples as old and older than you are still having completely satisfactory physical relations—perhaps not quite as frequently as in their youth.

There are times when physical distress is caused because of small physical abnormalties. Often these can be relieved. Your wife does not need a psychiatrist, but someone who can tell her whether she is physically fit—a gynaecologist. If she is timid, find her a specialist who is a woman, and get her to go.

With a clean bill of health, she may take new heart. I am sending you the name of an inexpensive book which sheds light on this important part of marriage.

DEAR DORIS:—When a visiting friend lets her little boy walk on the piano stool and then sit on it and kick the front of the piano, do good manners leads that you act dumb?

When some Little Monster interrupts every conversation and his mother stops to listen and do whatever he wants, do you still grin and bear it without a murmur?

It took all my will power to preserve our friendship when those things happened to me last week. There must be a better way!—BATTERED AND BAFFLED.

DEAR BATTERED:—Maybap you have no such precious little demons of your own? Just how much you endure from other people's children depends on your stamina and how much you prize your furniture.

The worst damage is being done to Little Monster, who will become Big Monster in real earnest, if he is not taught how to respect the rights of others—which includes taking the background when others are talking as well as keeping his feet off the piano.

DEAR DORIS:—I am 13 years of age and would like some help. My parents are rather strict and will not let me go to a dance which I really want to go to.

Adults are there to watch us, and it is quite safe. This dance starts about 7.30 and ends at 9.00, and is especially for pupils of grades 7 and 8.—HELP NEEDED.

DEAR HELP NEEDED:—Have your teacher or a responsible adult phone your mother and explain that this is a school affair to which almost everybody goes. Be sure it is made clear that you will be brought home right after the dance and have her state who will be bringing you.

WOOLER—Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Warland, Mr. and Mrs. Elgio McMaster and Ross spent Thursday afternoon in Brighton at the home of Mrs. Grace Mitchell to celebrate the 85th birthday of her father, Mr. Charlie Sharpe, of Wooler.

Arthur Dorland returned home from Trenton Hospital on Saturday and is able to be around again.

The Girls 4-H Club and their Leaders, Mrs. G. R. Putnam, and Mrs. Jim Jewell, met on Thursday evening to plan for the achievement day on February 3rd. The president, Beverley Mallory, took charge and Mary E. Neyvatte read the minutes of the last meeting. After the meeting was finished, the girls spent the rest of the evening sewing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryand with Mrs. Helen McColl spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. Wiley and Wally Elliott, near Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Morrow spent Saturday afternoon in Belleville.

Mrs. A. Anderson of Trenton, is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. J. Putnam and family.

Mrs. Elwood Fox spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. D. Bull.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dorland entertained her mother, Mrs. Way of Brighton, and her sister, and husband, of Cobourg at Sunday tea hour.

Residents on Both Sides Canso Strait Say Causeway Has Been Aid to Business

By IRA DEYDEDALE

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—Townsfolk on both sides of the Canso Strait used to dread the thought of a highway link ending the ferrying business between the Nova Scotia mainland and Cape Breton Island.

Now they figure the Canso Causeway, completed six years ago at a cost of $6,000,000, is the greatest thing that ever happened here.

The causeway did put an end to the ferrying, chief industry in both towns for as long as anyone can remember. But in return it set off a development that has rapidly grown into the biggest industrial boom in Nova Scotia.

Nova Scotia Pulp Limited is completing a $40,000,000 pulp processing mill at Point Tupper, two miles southeast of here. British American Oil Company has completed storage and shipping facilities worth $1,750,000 at Point Tupper. Bestwell Gypsum Company is developing facilities for shipping gypsum from a deposit at River Denys in central Cape Breton.

FINE NEW HARBOR

By blocking off the winter and spring run of ice, the causeway has created a harbor that matches any on the Atlantic coast.

The twin towns each had a population of about 1,000 before the causeway was built. This has more than doubled. About 300 men from the two towns were engaged in ferrying, but new industries have taken more than this number.

With the end of service by the two car ferries and two railway ferries came an expansion of the former A. and R. Loggie fish plant here that absorbed 200 workers. New jobs were added by the pulp and gypsum facilities.

Musgrave, on the mainland side, is shaping into a healthy shipping town. Acadia Fisheries Limited, a subsidiary of England's Boston Deep Sea Trawler Company, works a five-trawler fleet out of Mulgrave all year. When unusually heavy ice last winter shut off the CNR's Nova Scotia terminal for Newfoundland passenger and freight runs at North Sydney, Mulgrave port facilities were used.

POPULATION JUMP

Port Hawkesbury, on the island end of the causeway, has seen its population jump to 2,500 in the last two years. Mulgrave has also experienced the growth.

Mulgrave Mayor Willoughby Digdon, 61 - year - old head of a construction company, said: "Think of the 14 miles of harbor, a mile to two miles wide, with not a shot or bridge. You can jump right off into 30 feet of water."

One of those who predicted long ago that a causeway would help the area to prosper, Mayor Digdon now declares that he is living "in one of the brightest spots in the Maritimes—if not were engaged in ferrying, but the brightest."

Law to Cope With Habitual Criminals Being Advocated By Some in Justice Dept.

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—A stiffer law to cope with habitual criminals is being advocated in some quarters of the justice department.

The aim is to make more use of the indefinite sentence and thus break the vicious circle in which scores of hardened criminals have become notorious repeaters in prison, serving relatively short sentences and then committing another crime.

It is argued here that the indefinite imprisonment of such men, subject to annual review for parole, would give society more protection. It would be squarely up to the convict either to change his ways or perhaps spend the rest of his life in custody.

This is a daring argument. Many lawyers and jurists are known to oppose it vehemently. They say it is insidious to deprive a man of his liberty without fixing a specific penalty for his crime.

CHANGE UNLIKELY

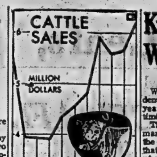
Despite this, the case for tightening up the Criminal Code has been carried to Justice Minister Fulton. There has been no indication of his or the government's views, however, and observers say it is unlikely any changes will be proposed to the new session of Parliament.

The statistical story:

During the year ended March 31, 1960, latest for which figures are available, 3,403 persons were sent to penitentiary and 1,525 of them had been there at least three times before.

Forty of those persons — one of them a woman — had more than 20 previous convictions. Twenty-nine others had 16 to 20 previous convictions. A total of had been in custody 11 to times before, and 400 had six to 10 previous committals.

Yet none of these criminals ever had been convicted or even tried as a habitual criminal, a charge which carries a penalty of preventive detention —in effect, life imprisonment subject to reform.



Correctional experts here believe the fault lies in inadequacy of the Criminal Code—in the difficulty of getting a conviction on the habitual charge, and in the lack of uniformity in applying the law.

The code requires proof that a person charged as a habitual criminal must have been convicted on three separate occasions of indictable offences carrying terms of five years or

Kennedy Enters 2nd Year With Cautious Optimism

By HAROLD MORRISON

The 44-year-old Boston Irishman has come a long way on the road of experience from that blustery winter day in 1960 when he stood hatless before a Jan. 20 inauguration audience and called for American belt-tightening and sacrifices.

He has been gratified, not satisfied by the emergence of economic recovery at home. He can draw satisfaction from some increases in North Atlantic military strength, but there were far short of the accomplishments he had in mind.

His fire encounter with Soviet Premier Khrushchev was discouraging. Communism was unyielding. Even among Kennedy's own allies, overseas, there was a jarring note of disharmony. Then came that crash-log blow in Cuba where the Kennedy - approved rebel invasion was stopped on the beaches by Fidel Castro's forces.

At home the American people moved at their own pace, insisted of the faster one advocated by Kennedy. They showed increasing admiration for the youthful president but organized labor refused to abide by Kennedy's appeal for a truce in demands for higher wages. And the Republican opposition grew more belligerent in criticism of Kennedy's foreign policy.

The United Nations, which Kennedy supported as the key link in world peace-keeping machinery, was in trouble. The eight - country Southeast Asia Treaty alliance, which was designed as a major defence in that sensitive area, proved unworkable in Laos.

In The Congo, Kennedy found himself split with most of his European allies as the U.S. backed the UN attempt to end the secession of Katanga province. In Berlin, Kennedy found he may be the Western leader in name but not in ability to revise the opinion of French President de Gaulle, who wanted no part of negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Kennedy's great personal satisfaction was that his defence

Three Cars Tangle in Fog, Two Killed

COPPER CLIFF, Ont. (CP) Three cars tangled in a fog here Saturday night, killing two persons and injuring five others.

Dead are Ivar Lakso, 54, and Mrs. Selma Wuori, 72, both of Copper Cliff.

Charles Lewis, 60, of Copper Cliff, William Davenport, 25, and George Thompson 20, both of Chelmsford, were treated and released.

Police said the collision shrewed wreckage for nearly 500 feet along Highway 17.

The crash happened in this village five miles west of Sudbury.

Another motorist drove over a 14 - foot embankment in trying to avoid the pile-up, but escaped injury.

Some 12,000 whistling, cheering Creeks packed the Stadium in Bratislava on the Czech-Austrian border that mild morning in March, 1953.

They whistled (The Czech form of booing) when "Big Doe" (Al Dewsbury) stated out on the ice. They rose like a flock of frightened ducks when "Big Red" appeared, and the stadium rocked to the cheering.

Some 3,000 of them had seats, the rest stood like stalks in a healthy asparagus patch.

RED BERENSON

It was the day the Belleville McFarlands defeated the Czech Nationals 5-3 and the star of the clash and the foemen here of the Creeks was Big "Red" Gordon Berenson. The rangy several-top with his long sweeping stride, adept stickhandling and uncanny shooting caught the fancy of the Bratislavans. The ex-junior "A" star of the Flin Flon Bombers had joined the Macs for the world tourney, and in passing had been tabbed by the Montreal Canadiens. He was the first-tournament scorer.

But "Red" had more between his ears than a shock of red hair and a love of hockey.

He told me that morning in Zurich that he had been approached by the Canadiens and placed on their inactive list. But there was when he leaves school they can place him in their active negotiation list. No other club can dicker with him.

"They offered me a $15,000-two-year contract" the youngster said, "but I turned it down. I love hockey but want to play for it I am good enough but I think my educational future is more important. I want a degree and a sense of security before I touch a pro puck."

That was the longest speech Red made during the whole sojourn in Europe.

Berenson wasn't fooling. At subsequent events he have proved he meant every word he said. After his return he dropped out of the hockey limelight as far as Canada is concerned. But he went back to Michigan and today is probably the best college hockey player in the world.

Red is alternating as a centre-wing and has scored 24 goals and 15 assists in 14 games this season. He has been a leader factor in Michigan's winning the Rensselaer Polytechnic Tournament, and leadership of the Western College Hockey Association.

And in case some of Red's former teen-age gal fans are listening in, the big 190-pound sorrel-top is married and became the proud father of a baby girl on New Year's Day.

And as I said, Red is keeping his world tournament word. He is looking ahead to a pro hockey career but first plans to graduate from the University School of Business Administration and then law school and graduate training.

And so, in due course of events, Red Berenson will become a pro hockey player with a college degree, a rarity in the mucked puck ranks. He will join Bill "Red" Hay, Chicago Black Hawks star who has proven that college graduates can make the big time.

Sixth-Round TKO

Tiger Stops Fernandez

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP, AP) — Dick Tiger of Nigeria pummelled stiff-punching Pier, erwer the last four rounds before referee Mike Kaplan stopped the bout. He staggered badly breaking the No. 1 middleweight contender's nose to win a victory that went into the books as a sixth-round technical knockout.

Fernandez, ranked leading challenger by the National Boxing Association after he lost a close 15-round decision in May, got start to champion Gene Fullmer; was unable to answer the bell for the sixth round. The televised bout had been scheduled for 10 rounds.

Tiger, British Empire middleweight champion and ranked leading contender for world honors by Ring Magazine, weighed 160¾; Fernandez 160.

The Nigerian finished Fernandez, supposed to be the much heavier puncher, with smashing lefts and rights to the face that left the Cuban covered with blood. Tiger concentrated his attack on Fernandez's head to prevent the latter from getting before referee Mike Kaplan stopped the bout. He staggered the Cuban several times to win his 44th victory in 58 fights while Fernandez, only in his fourth loss of a 34-fight career, dropped to 28 scores of 25 seven years Tiger's junior, had been stopped only once previously.

Tiger, the 2-1 choice, was ahead on points on the cards of Referee Lodge and Kaplan when the end came. Mike manager, Jersey Jones, said he will receive a $2,500 bonus with the Nigerian for a title fight with Fullmer.

FIGHT POSTPONED

LONDON (AP)—British lightweight champion Dave Charnley, stricken with influenza Sunday postponed his fight with Cuba's Jose Stable to Feb. 1. The bout had been set for Jan. 25.

Hawks Clip Fading Blues

There are times when Boston Bruins look more like a first-class team than a National Hockey League collar dwellers. But the Leafs snapped a 1-1 deadlock and the rout was on.

Before the game ended George Armstrong, Dave Keon and Frank Mahovlich all scored unaided goals as the Boston defence collapsed.

Bob Pulford had the Leafs first goal in the first period while Andre Pronovost tallied Boston's first goal in the second.

Rejean Laferge, recently recalled from Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League, scored at 1:44 of the third period to bring the Red Wings a tie with Montreal Saturday night. Leo Labine and Terry Sawchuk's goal and Gilles Tremblay and rookie Bobby Rousseau scored for the Canadiens.

COUNT IN THIRD

At Detroit, the Canadiens beat the Red Wings on third period goals by Henri Richard and Claude Provost. Provost's goal was his 25th of the season, tops in the NHL.

Gilles Tremblay, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Dickie Moore scored for Montreal Habs while Gordie Howe, Norm Ullman and defenceman Pete Goegan connected for Detroit.

The Rangers, who dropped into a tie for fourth place with the Wings, took a 1-0 lead at Chicago on Ted Hampston's goal early in the second period.

But defenceman Pierre Pilote tied the score four minutes before the second period ended and Bill (Red) Hay and Ken Wharram scored for Chicago two minutes later in the third to put the game away.

Ironic Baseball Twist

Foxx Sells Maris Bats!

CLEVELAND (AP) — At one time a hot item in the sporting goods business was a glove or a ball autographed by Jimmie Foxx. Today Roger Maris's bats and gloves are the best-sellers.

And here's the twist: Jimmie Foxx is selling the Maris merchandise.

You'll find the 54 - year - old Hall of Famer slinging on the second floor at a department store where he is a sporting goods salesman.

Foxx is starting all over again but breathing room is the Foxx family, which consists of his wife and son, Jimmie Jr., a high school sophomore and athlete.

Foxx recently went through bankruptcy. "I didn't want to do it," he explained, "but a food company I had been associated with collapsed and all of a sudden I owed a big bill that wasn't mine. I had no choice."

CAN'T AFFORD PHONE

Financially, he admitted, he's wiped clean. He is even unable to afford a telephone at home.

In Orange Bowl

Urges CFL-AFL All-Star Game

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — K. S. (Bud) Adams, owner of Houston Oilers, is trying to drum up an all-star football game between the Canadian and American leagues.

Adams said he has written AFL commissioner Joe Foss, suggesting such a game, and has discussed the idea by phone with M. E. (Ted) Worsham, president of Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Conference.

"He said he was very much for it," said Adams, adding that the latest time and site for the first game would be Miami's Orange Bowl Stadium Jan. 13, 1963.

Adams said he would prefer to follow AFL rules when that league's all - stars have the ball and Canadian rules when that league's team has possession of the ball. He said Workman suggested playing under Canadian rules for one half and AFL rules the other.

In Winnipeg, CFL commissioner G. Sydney Halter said he has "a couple of weeks ago and a couple of months" before such a game.

"I don't think it can be communicated with in any way," Halter said.

Workman said in Montreal that such a game could lead eventually to a playoff for an international championship.

Workman said he thinks it's "definitely a matter for the league as a whole." He said the game would be a good source of revenue for a players' pension fund and this should appeal to CFL executives.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hartley Capozzi, general manager of British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference, says a proposed annual all-star game between Canadian and American league clubs would help Canadian teams recruit and publicity for our games in the U.S. We feel an annual bowl game in the South can help our recruiting."

Capozzi said that two weeks ago at the football coaches convention in Chicago, general managers of the Canadian Football League, sponsored him and Jim Ausley of Winnipeg Blue Bombers to look into getting a U.S. bowl affiliation for the Canadian game.

Capozzi said he and Ausley will get in touch with various bowl organizers shortly.

"We'll be trying to find out if they are satisfied with their current promotions and also what sort of a game might interest them.

He said he and Ausley hope to have the information in time for the CFL annual meeting here Feb. 15-16.

Aaron, Mathews Sign

Boys Getting on Line

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews, milwaukee's one-two power punch for nearly 10 years, have signed their contracts, joining a determined band of Braves itching to get the 1962 baseball campaign under way. The Braves finished fourth in the National League last year.

Earlier in the week, Warren Spahn, baseball's highest paid pitcher, and Del Crandall, No. 1 catcher in the National League until he developed a sore arm last season, signed agreements. The Braves have 18 players in the fold.

The signing the Aaron and Mathews cost the Braves more than $100,000 a year, president John McHale declined to give exact figures at any time unless raises were involved. Their salaries are reported to be between $80,000 and $90,000.

Aaron hit .327 last year with 34 homers and 126 runs batted in. Mathews batted .306 with 32 homers and 91 RBIs. He has a career total of 370 homers and needs 30 to become the seventh player in history to reach the 400-mark.

YANKS SIGN ARROYO

The world champion New York Yankees CFL signed top name as ace reliever Luis Arroyo received a "substantial raise" to about $17,000. The 35-year-old was rewarded for his record year in the 1961 American League campaign when he appeared in 65 games and compiled a 15-5 won-lost record.

Los Angeles Dodgers lured pitcher Don Drysdale and outfielder Tommy Davis into the fold, Detroit Tigers signed pitchers Hank Aguirre and Phil Regan and outfielder Mickey Stanley and Cincinnati Reds signed catcher Johnny Edwards.

Norm Cash, American League batting king last season with a .361 batting average, talked with Detroit general manager Rick Ferrell but did not come to terms. Cash seeks $26,000, double his 1961 salary.

Italian Bobsledder Wins Title

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany (AP) — Eugenio Monti of Italy, who had raced on an international level for five, surprised experts Sunday by rocketing to the world two-man bobsledding championship after being sent here as a replacement for the injured world champion Eugenio Monti.

Ruatti, 32, shot through four one - mile heats in a combined time of five minutes, 3.73 seconds. Only the first heat was close, in 1:14.26, breaking Monti's track record of 1:14.28 set during the 1956 winter Olympics, skips.

Lamont Gordon of Morrison, Ont., with Gordon Currie of Toronto brakeman, had a combined time, said to be the fastest for the seventh place, John Emery Longyear, Ont., with Peter Kirby of Montreal at the brake, was ninth in 5:13.17.

Lloyd Johnson, the U.S.'s No. 2 sled, finished 13th among 16 entries. The other U.S. sled, under Clyde Shoenfeld and Jerry Tennant, both U.S. marines, was 15th.

Ten countries have entered sleds for next weekend's four-man world championship.

Al Cullen Sensation With Barons

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Substitute goaltender Al Cullen is the talk of the American Hockey League for his sensational work with Cleveland Barons.

Cullen, filling in for injured Joe Shideler, turned in two shutouts during the past weekend as the Barons, Western Division leaders, stretched their winning string to eight games. Cleveland blanked Pittsburgh Hornets 5-0 Sunday night after beating Quebec Aces 3-0 Saturday night.

In other games Sunday night, Rochester Americans drubbed Springfield Indians 7-3, Buffalo Bisons beat Quebec 4-1, and Hershey Bears edged Provid. ence Reds 5-4 in overtime.

Hershey defeated Providence 6-1, Springfield turned back Buffalo 3-1 and Rochester and Pittsburgh played to a 3-3 overtime tie in Saturday matches.

Cullen, 20, was brought up to the Barons from Woodstock of the Ontario Hockey Association senior series after Shakley, the regular netminder, suffered a sprained ankle. In five games with Cleveland, Cullen has allowed only five goals and posted three shutouts.

Booths Tie Vagdens 3-3, Napanee Wins

Booth TV's and Vagden Mills fought to a 3-3 deadlock while Napanee Feeds-Ag Falcons and local Rollins Construction 4-3 in a pair of evenly-matched Belleville Intermediate hockey league games played last night.

The tie boosted Booth's into sole possession of first place while the single point for Vagden's was their first of the campaign. Napanee climbed into a tie for third place with Rollins by virtue of that victory.

The TV's scored in the dying seconds of the first half to open the scoring in their game, Cornell triggering the goal. Woodcock got the back for Vagden's early in the second half to make it 1-1 but Ivor's goal late in the first stop-leaders out in front. Hugh Pointer and Emerson put Vagden's ahead 3-2 but Gill closed the scoring while one of his own teammates was receiving a penalty in earning Booth's the split in points.

Mills was drawing a penalty in the second minor penalties.

Vagden marksmen were Jim Woodcock, Hugh Pointer and Pete Emerson while Cec. Haynes and Jerry St. Denis had assists. Phil Cornell, Gord Irwin and Jackie Gill scored for the TV's with Doug Booth and Don Forsythe earning assists.

Napanee took a 2-0 first-half lead in their game with Rollins but the Construction crew tied it 2-2 early in the second half. Paterson Feeds scored the winning goal while one of his mates was receiving a penalty and Aylesworth upped the lead to 4-2 with less than two minutes left in the game.

Don Aylesworth, with two goals, Maracle and Carl Gray, with a pair of assists each, paced the shorthanded Napanee team. Yearwood and Fish had assists.

Each club picked up two minor penalties while Jack Hughes, of Rollins, also drew a misconduct.

Following is the league standing, including all games played to date.

Fishing, Wetlands, Deer

Fish, Gamers Want Survey, Program

By FRED CHAFE

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters wants an extensive survey and management program for the province's three major recreational resources — fishing waters, waterfowl wetlands and the deer herd.

The federation, which wound up its 17th annual convention Sunday, addressed the proposals to the department of lands and forests in a policy statement drafted by the central executive. Approved unanimously by the delegates, representing fish and game clubs across the province, its main points included:

Fishing — A productivity survey of sport-fishing waters to help future management, liberalization of regulations, where indicated and a study of the possible reclamation of game-fish waters, now infested by coarse species;

Wetlands — A requisition of marsh areas for public shooting grounds and a program to help control structures to prevent undue fluctuation of water levels;

Deer — A complete biological population fluctuations and adjustment of hunting season accordingly, coupled with a study of how timber-cutting practices can be coordinated with the welfare of the deer herd in mind.

ACCESS STRESSED

The federation released policy on access to hunting ranges and fishing waters and the delegates received a partial answer along these lines from Lands Minister Lee Kerr, who addressed the convention Saturday.

A comprehensive list of possible public hunting areas is being compiled and work will start as funds become available he said. Only a start in the long-term stocking program will be directed towards these areas. A study of the parks system and fishing in provincial parks already has been established — he water, fowl, stocked pheasants and, in some cases, deer and moose.

Federal Resources Minister Dinsdale addressed the annual banquet Saturday night, reporting on the Resources for Tomorrow conference in Montreal and outlining the parts government and private conservation groups will have to play in car, he said, not the objective.

Mr. Dinsdale said that a supplementary Prairie farmers be paid to put up with the "nuisances" of wild ducks is going to be tried out by the federal government.

It would involve a "modest" payment to land owners who agreed not to drain wetlands used by nesting ducks and to farmers willing to set aside small tracts of grain for duck food.

Three major awards were presented — the Ontario Wildlife and Forests Junior Conservation Trophy to the Highgreen Conservation Club, the Mary Pick, Iori Conservation Trophy to the Creighton Valley Conservation Club and the Carling Conservation Trophy to Douglas Elliot of Welland, who was the moving spirit behind the founding of the Association of Welland Lands and Conservation Clubs.

In other business, the hunter safety committee proposed its own dissolution in favor of the establishment of a new committee on farmer-sportsmen relations.

Resolutions passed called for:

Strongest possible opposition to construction of a Kirby Heers replace the present deterioratin Prairie siliery on the Severn River, which federation treasurer Charles Evans of Orillia said would allow a new commercial lamprey and smelts to move upstream from Georgian Bay. Influences to Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching and the entire sport fishing area of the Trent waterway.

An extension of the rutted Grenadier Pond, opposed by game delegates, to Dec. 31 from the present 1963 to allow November closing. Bill Owens of Oshawa, the federations' first-vice president, said the extended season, coinciding with duck, goose and rabbit hunting, encourages more hunters to go after grouse late in the season rather than ducks — and reduced hunting pressure would help the critical waterfowl situation.

Restriction of the moose season in the North Bay forestry zone, where only residents may hunt them, to the second half of October where it now extends into late December. District delegates said the move was designed to limit the harvest to what the herd could support.

A change in opening of the goose-hunting season in Essex County to Nov. 1 from early October in order to allow hunters from the north to fan out over the province's most populous county starts. Newly-arrived birds now flee to sanctuaries at the Point Pelee National Park, it was said, and hunters in the area are not getting a fair harvest.

Seven Bowlers Qualify at Bowl-O-Drome

Seven bowlers, two ladies, qualified for the Ontario Bowling Championships regional tournaments at the Bowl-O-Drome on Saturday.

Crosby Final Postponed

PEMBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The $50,000 Bing Crosby's golf tournament was set for its 10th windup today with young Joe Campbell clinging to a slight lead after the first 54.

The 72-hole event had been scheduled to end Sunday but a severe hail and snowstorm, which had never before interfered with the crooner's golf production, forced postponement of the final 18 holes.

Campbell, 26, from Pendleton, Ind., fired a par 72 Saturday for a total of 210, two strokes ahead of the field—reduced to the low 60 professionals and 4; low-amateur teams.

Veteran Doug Ford moved into close contention when he shot a 69 for a 213 total.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver led the Canadian contingent, reduced to three players. Leonard shot a 71 for 219 and was bracketed with seven other players.

The other Canadian survivors were Toronto's Al Balding with a 71 for 221, and Wes Memenuik of Winnipeg, with 74 for 224.

Jim Lenz was less than five strokes behind Campbell at 215.

The second game saw the Bombers go under to the Celtics by a 57-7 score. Bill Maida was top Celtic, scoring 17 markers. Mike Hume led the Bombers with five points.

Quinte Rink Loses in Cup Final

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Bradley Sommers's well - aimed final shot knocked out his opponent's shot stone Sunday and gave Ivy Lea a 9-8 victory over Smiths Falls in an all - Ontario final at Utica Curling Club's 51st international bonspiel.

Sumner's stone squeezed through a narrow opening to defeat the rink skipped by Morley Ferguson and give Ivy Lea the Mitchell Medal, top award of the bonspiel.

In the Century Club Cup final, C. W. Kenny's Buckingham, Que., rink defeated a Belleville rink skipped by Keefe Wilkinson 12-6.

The Dewar Trophy went to a Soo rink skipped by Ken Haigood by Harry Floyd, which defeated Nelson Booth's Catharines entry 8-5 in the final.

Ingy On Comeback Trail

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—A 29-year-old Swede, former stone-breaker and world heavyweight champion, had started his preparations for a boxing comeback.

Ingemar Johansson is about to wind up his training for the Feb. 2 fight with world champion Joe Bygraves, 30, of Jamaica.

Ingo seems determined to get back into the world picture. He has undergone a complete three-month endurance march in the Swedish mountains and kept on through the night with a workout with daily roadwork, shadow-boxing and sparring sessions with tough sparring mates.

He now scales 200 pounds and says he is in fine shape.

Since Ingemar started his preparations for the forthcoming match, he has knocked down three sparring mates, including a former member of the Parliament stable, John Henry.

Henry recently left his sparring job with Johansson, saying that Ingo was too tough.

Vancouver-Based Trio Sets Out to Make Musical Career

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Brian Preston was clowning, but with some truth.

"Just that we may not go without a meal, but we may go a long time between meals."

He was speaking as one of the Emperors, a Vancouver-based trio of teen-agers who with youthful enthusiasm set out seven months ago to make a career in the world of popular music.

So far, their success has been encouraging as each appearance seems to bring contracts for one or two more engagements, the latest a night club date in Portland, where they made their United States debut.

Members of the group are Preston, 18, who sings tenor and handles impersonations; Doug Martin, 18, baritone, guitarist and the on-stage spokesman who introduces the numbers; and Gerry Sobich, 19, bass-guitarist.

They got together as a trio somewhat by accident, although Doug and Gerry had been playing together since they were youngsters-rearing at church picnics and bazaars.

TV DEBUT

Doug and Gerry, singing rock 'n' roll patterned along the lines of the Everley Brothers, turned up for a fashion debut. At the same time, Brian showed up as a tenor soloist with a band from Mission City, about 30 miles east of Vancouver.

Doug and Gerry had wanted to change their style and when they found Brian at the fashion show, they invited him to join them. The trio turned to folk singing in a fashion which also prompted Mayor Percy Scurrah of Victoria to tag them as "Canada's Kingston Trio."

Each cut the three had studied for four or five years, although Doug learned to handle the guitar on his own, without formal instruction. The group does its own arranging. Many numbers are novelty numbers.

"We can't blame anybody else for our mistakes," Doug said.

Brian graduated from high school in Mission last spring and worked for a while as a grocery clerk. Gerry was a pipefitter for a time after high school graduation and Doug sold clothing in a department store.

NOVELTY NUMBERS

But once they'd worked out their songs and show format as a trio, they abandoned other forms of labor to take up singing, which they love to do.

Their club program sticks to music with little conversation, but they spice it up with novelty numbers and Brian's impersonations. They do three shows nightly in most club dates, each lasting from 30 to 40 minutes. "It runs to 35 minutes if I break a guitar string—and it's happened," said Doug.

The Emperors have made their first professional appearance since last July, when a night club audition brought them to the attention of Ben Kopelow of Pacific Show Productions, a booking and talent agency. They've appeared at several Vancouver night clubs and television and concert appearances, which Gerry said "keeps us in practice every day and a little spending money besides."

The Portland engagement date coming up soon, too, with Australian Rolf Harris, who's been playing at Vancouver for several months; and it may not be long before they're up there on the hit parade with the others.

Movie Columnist Thinks New Job Won't Last Long

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Yul Brynner: "He could become the new Jack Hoxie."

Tony Curtis: "I heard about the shortage of actors because of runaway production but this is ridiculous."

Publicity man James Denton: "He should have been a cossack years ago. Just read his reviews."

All were talking about Jimmy Starr, new actor.

For 30 years, Jimmy was motion picture editor of the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express. When that paper recently merged with the defunct Examiner, Jimmy was released.

"I knew when I took the job it wasn't going to be steady," quipped the movie columnist. "And after all, I'm 52 years old. If it rushes, I don't think this one is it."

Starr is playing a cossack in Taras Bulba, with Brynner and Curtis. It was the first job offer he got after the recent newspaper fold-ups.

Starr was one of Hollywood's best known reporters and, like many a journalist, more of a character than the people he wrote about.

Jimmy, born in Clarksville, Tex., came here in 1919 when he was 12.

"I started as an office boy at the old Metro studio. I remember first meeting an unknown tango dancer there whom the studio put in Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

"The dancer, of course, was Rudolph Valentino."

Jimmy's dithering was pretty funny in those days, too. Once when he was office boy for the late Joe Schenck, he had the task of arranging the band for a big party.

"It looked like such a good party," Jimmy recalls, "I decided to stay. After sipping a few drinks, I asked Mae Murray to dance.

"Everything would have been fine—except we won a contest. I still got the cup but Joe fired me the next day."

Sea Lamprey, Trout Scourge, Roasted to Golden Brown Becomes Gourmet's Delight

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—The sea lamprey — parasitic scourge of the lake trout and whitefish in the Great Lakes—isn't so bad after all.

With its ugly head lopped off and roasted on both sides to a golden brown, this blood-sucking predator becomes the delight of gourmets, especially when served with schnapps.

But most Canadians, excluding those of recent European origin, would regard the eel-like lamprey with disgust.

While the lamprey is a delicacy in high nutritional content (each pound contains 567,000 units of vitamin A) it doesn't likely that it will be developed commercially in this country.

Aside from the fact that its very appearance causes loss of appetite, the lamprey is a menace to game fish in any waters it inhabits. Its invasion o Canadian inland waters in recent years all but wiped out the commercial lake trout industry in the Great Lakes.

MUST BE ERADICATED

It is for this reason that Canada and the United States are trying to eliminate the lamprey from the Great Lakes with traps and poisons. Only by eradicating the lamprey will lake trout and whitefish be able to survive.

Even if a moderate market were found for lamprey it would not be possible to allow a relatively small population to exist in the lakes. It takes only a few lamprey to deplete trout and whitefish stocks.

The lamprey feeds on the blood and body juices of fish attaching itself to its victim by means of a sucker-like mouth and rasping a hole in the body with its sharp teeth.

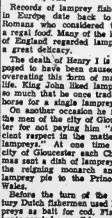
There's only one small-lamprey dietary in Canada. It operates for about a month and a half in the early spring when lampreys ascend the Saugeen River into Lake Huron to spawn.

Teodora Rose of Toronto uses methods he learned in his native Latvia to harvest an annual catch of some 10,000. He finds a ready market in Toronto where lampreys are eaten with gusto by Europeans.

BREAKFAST DISH

The distaste of native-born Canadians for the lamprey makes the average European wonder whether Canadians are losing their taste for food delicacies. Europeans even eat the lamprey for breakfast.

But the lamprey has not always been shunned by north American Indians and early settlers in both Canada and the United States consumed the lamprey in large quantities.



"Judging by many accounts, those of us who refuse to eat lampreys miss a great deal," says Dr. M. L. H. Thomas of the Fisheries Biological station at London, Ont.

Records of lamprey fisheries in Europe date back to the Romans who considered them a royal dish. The early kings of England regarded lampreys a great delicacy.

The death of Henry I is supposed to have been caused by overeating this form of marine life. King John of England was so much that he once traded a whole city for a single lamprey.

On another occasion he fined the men of the city of Gloucester 100 pounds "sufficient respect in the matter of lampreys." At one time the city of Gloucester each Christmas sent a dish of lampreys to the reigning monarch and a lamprey pie to the Prince of Wales.

Before the turn of the century Dutch fishermen used lampreys as bait for cod. Fishing boats carried a small boy whose job was to split the head of each lamprey caught, thus destroying the brain and making them easy to handle.

"They outscored us 2 to 1 in concessions and 3 to 2 in free throws. The only thing we're leading in is goals!"

'No Strings' Opens Feb. 6 at O'Keefe's

TORONTO—January 10 the O'Keefe Centre is offering one of the most eagerly awaited productions of the season, Richard Rodgers' new musical "No Strings", which will begin a two-week pre-Broadway engagement on Tuesday, February 6th.

Richard Kiley and Diahann Carroll are co-starred in "No Strings", which has a book by Samuel Taylor and is the first production for which Richard Rodgers has written both music and lyrics. Sets, principally in Paris, "No Strings" tells the story of an expatriate American author and a high fashion American model.

Rodgers and Taylor promise a few surprises in the staging. For one thing, the orchestra will not be in the pit, but its individual members (brass and woodwind only — no strings) will be on stage as integral parts of the action. The overture will suit and flow into the shimmering images of a kaleidoscope.

Joe Layton will stage the dances as well as the book of "No Strings". David Hayes has done the settings, and Fred Voelpel and Donald Brooks the costumes. Peter Matz is musical director.

The supporting cast is headed by Polly Bowles, Noelle Adam, Bernice Massi, Don Chastain, Alvin Epstein and Mitchell Greg.

"No Strings" is set to open on Broadway on March 1, at the Mark Hellinger Theatre.

Problem of Live Television Illustrated on Sunday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — A big problem of live television was illustrated Sunday on ABC.

"The network has reserved 90 minutes for the wedding of Stag Crosby's annual Pebble Beach golf tournament. When the hour came, the weather—which also plagued last year's finals—was so bad that play was postponed until today. A film account of last year's British Open was quickly substituted and bragged about California's climate were silenced.

This reporter missed all the shots of snow, hail and sleet in sunny California because of a conflict of programs. NBC, at the time, was broadcasting a taped dramatization of Poes a novel by Arthur Miller.

Television viewers' most frequent question, judging from mail to this columnist, is "How does one help keep the producers from the likes on the air?"

Alas, it's a question hard to answer — except to write and work and sponsors telling them when you enjoy a show. Most of the time, we're not heard from are outraged, irked or insulted.

FAMOUS SLAVE TRADER ROUTE USED AGAIN

Whet wise once a route for the illegal shipment of thousands of slaves within Africa, again resounded to the crack of the Slave Traders' whips and the pounding of full blooded Arabian Horses. The journey, it was for a Hollywood picture company, who left their search for realism, while filming in Africa, and the dark jungle parts that the ancient slavers once made.

Legend has it, that the coastal path used by the Slave Merchants is the same hearted at night by the spirits of the Ten Thousand dead natives who perished in the forced marches. The native bearers refused to go near the film evidently took the legend seriously because at dusk they disappeared and returned only after dawn — not even for a comfortable camp cots would cause them to stay on "Taboo" land after dark.

Patrons of the Park Theatre where "Nature Girl and the Slaver" opening today at a three day engagement will see the authentic slave routes, the actual "Slavers Oasis" used by camels, horses and natives and a reconstruction of the slavers' attack on a village.

SECOND FEATURE

SPACE SPECTACULAR WITH TRAVELS OF SHEPARD AND GAGARIN

Science fiction is losing the second half of its name. The travels of Alan Shepard and Gagarin are enlightening the peoples of the world to the Flying Pictures such as "The Day The Sky Exploded" now at the Park Theatre, become terrifying truths as news delves deeper and deeper into the facts once referred to as the unknown.

This Excelsior Pictures release is a thrilling account of an exploding missile which brings about a atmospheric shower of asteroids over the earth's surface — an incident which causes much tragic and chaotic consequences.

The feature shows at 7.00 and 8.46 p.m.

BAGPIPE INTERN

Pipe Major Grigor Murdoch of Belleville Legion Pipe Band appears on the "Dennis the Menace" show Jan. 28, as a performer in a school show.

WILL ESCORT CIVILIANS

WITNEY, England (Reuters) — The United States Air Force confronted with complaints that a sentry struck a British workman with a rifle, announced Saturday that guards will in future escort all British civilians in restricted areas of the base near here. The announcement followed an incident Thursday when an electrician said he was struck on the back of the neck with a rifle butt because he failed to halt on a sentry's orders.

Thirteen Small Children Die In Three Fires

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thirteen small children died in three fires in Canada during the weekend. The youngest was four months old, and none was older than five years.

Two fires in Stellig, Columbia each claimed the lives of five children. Another in Ontario took three.

Another multiple fatality claimed five lives when two cars collided in a head-on crash on the Trans-Canada Highway near Winnipeg Sunday night. Six others were injured.

The fatalities were among the 30 recorded in a Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight EST Sunday. All together traffic accidents claimed 84 lives, 16 of them in Ontario.

On Saturday night the five children of Mrs. Laura Cope, land, aged from four months to five years, died when flames roared through an auto court bungalow at Gilbert, 130 miles northeast of Vancouver.

On Friday night bystanders stood by helplessly when five Indian children, the youngest six months old, perished in a blazing shack at Alert Bay, 200 miles northwest of Vancouver.

FIVE KILLED JOYS

Three youngsters, aged between three and four died when fire destroyed a bungalow at Kars, Ontario, south of Ottawa, on Saturday.

There was one other fatality, a 60-year-old man in Montreal.

One person died in a snow slide near Vernon, B.C., there were three drownings and three deaths from other causes.

British Columbia, with five other deaths besides the 10 children who died in fires, had the highest toll. There were 14 accidental deaths in Ontario, eight in Quebec, five in Manitoba, four in Nova Scotia, three in Alberta and one in Saskatchewan. The other provinces were free of fatalities.

The survey does not include natural deaths, known suicides or industrial accidents.

Other deaths:

Danny Lukyniuk, 4, his brother Micky, 2, and Donna Lee Young, 4, in a fire which destroyed a bungalow Saturday at Kars, south of Ottawa.

CAR ROLLS OVER

Harry Simpson, 46, of Constance Bay, when his car rolled over Saturday on an approach to a curve near Dunrobin, 20 miles west of Ottawa.

Peter Pawtz, 32, of the Shawanaga Indian reserve, hit by a train Saturday about 19 miles north of Parry Sound, Ont.

Brian Horne, 19, and Benjamin Lee, 17, both of London, Ont., when their army truck skidded on an icy road in Yarmouth Township Saturday and struck a tree.

Ivar Laakso, 54, and Mrs. Selma Wuori, 72, both of Copper Cliff, in a multiple collision in Copper Cliff, five miles west of Sudbury, Saturday night.

CREEKED INTO TREE

Leo P. Seguin, 35, of Verner, Ont., when his five - ton truck went off the road near Sturgeon Falls Saturday night and crashed into a tree.

Frank Ross Smith, 31, William Clifford Crozier, 41, both of Kirkland Lake, and Leonard Addis, 32, of Scarborough, in a two - car collision Sunday on slippery roads south of Cochrane.

Alvin Gale, 36, of Kingsville area, when his car crashed into a culvert Sunday night about 35 miles south of Windsor.

Earl of Snowdon's Bid to Get Into Fleet Street Unhappy One

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — They told him to get a job. So he got a job. And then they told him to quit.

That's the short unhappy story, so far, of the Earl of Snowdon's bid to get back into Fleet Street.

It's been a rough week for former society photographer Anthony Armstrong - Jones, the commoner who married Princess Margaret May 6, 1960.

When it was announced two weeks ago that Snowdon was to join The Sunday Times as artistic adviser, thus resuming the kind of work he did before joining the periphery of royalty, it seemed a logical step.

After all, hadn't there been some cocktail-circuit comments about Snowdon and Margaret leading the soft life?

For example, didn't John Gordon in The Sunday Express was sarcastic over their recent Caribbean tour to recover from strain of "their almost worthless year?"

So, hardly an editorial muscle twitched at the news that Tony would trundle out his old two-reel camera on behalf of The Sunday Times; which is introducing a color supplement Feb. 4. For a week, there was practically no reaction.

But The Observer broke the silence with two separate comments Jan. 14. It suggested that the appointment was a bad one because it would involve the Royal family, directly or indirectly, in the fierce jungle war of Fleet Street economics.

The observer, a direct competitor of The Sunday Times, estimated that Lord Snowdon's annual salary will pick up as many as 200,000 new readers for publisher Roy Thomson's pet paper.

COLOR EXPENSIVE

Some experts think Tony will just give Thomson enough extra circulation to get over the hump with the color insert. Color is extremely expensive in Britain. The New Statesman says Thomson's new venture is a "desperately dicey gamble."

All last week, jellisoning earlier reticence, Fleet Street weighed the pros and cons of Tony's job. The Evening Standard called it a "booby trap." Papers published by Lord Beaverbrook usually go gently on Thomson, a fellow Canadian.

The Daily Mirror, not always tender with royalty, good - naturedly boosted the appointment and, like the Communist Daily Worker, offered Tony a spot in its offices if The Sunday Times cut him off the grind.

A spate of cartoons included a four-column likeness of Thomson and Snowdon in a rival paper, recalling the mother-and-child shots Lord Snowdon took after the Snowdons had their first baby.

Latin America Given Warning By Dean Rusk

PUNTA DEL ESTA, Uruguay (AP) — The United States warned Latin America Sunday it must quarantine Cuban communism to keep secrets of President Kennedy's $20,000,000,000 Alliance for Progress program.

The warning came from State Secretary Dean Rusk as a diplomatic struggle began in this plush South American resort over how or whether to punish Fidel Castro for establishing a communist stronghold in the hemisphere.

Delegation chiefs agreed Sunday night to postpone until Tuesday the first plenary session. Then they will begin speechmaking. Brazil made the proposal to allow for further informal talks aimed at resolving the dispute over ways to deal with Cuba.

Prime Minister Verwoerd Facing a Year of Many External, Internal Crises

Brian Barrow is a South African journalist who experienced in reporting on the problems of his country. In this story he discusses the difficulties facing the government in 1961.

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP)—It is going to be a year of many internal and external crises for South Africa and one of confrontation for Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

He now must convince even his own supporters that the idea of separate states—Bantustans for the country's 11,000,000 Africans is not only workable but that he wants it to work.

For 13 years the Bantustans have existed in theory only. The theory has been sufficient to keep Dr. Verwoerd in power, to give list of election victories. But suddenly things have changed and he will be compelled this year to do what he has always hoped to avoid—put his theory into practice, or rather, begin to.

Two things have forced him to do this: First, the necessity to make apartheid, the system of racial segregation, seem honest and respectable in the eyes of those who support it; and second, to show a hostile world that when he talks about giving Africans full separate government in their own states, he means it.

NOW OR NEVER

Dr. Verwoerd knows, and every thinking Nationalist knows, that if the Bantustans do not begin materializing in 1961 they never will.

So he now will have to tell the white electorate that if they want apartheid they must pay for it. There is going to be palatable news for people who, relatively, pay some of the lowest taxes in the world.

Somehow he must also make a beginning with what many economists consider an insane task—shifting the gigantic African labor force from the so-called white industrial areas by giving them work in industries which do not yet exist on the borders of the proposed Bantustans.

Dis Burger, the pro - government newspaper in Cape Town, suggested a month ago that to start should be made by gradually removing the 80,000 African workers from the Western Cape. The suggestion provoked a violent outcry, and those who cried loudest were Afrikaner farmers and Nationalist industrialists who employ African labor.

WHERE IT HURTS

If Dr. Verwoerd even begins to withdraw black labor from the white areas he will not only create serious labor difficulties, grave social problems and even economic instability, but may lose considerable support to cause his political downfall.

It is easy for the average Nationalist to vote for the idea of apartheid that brings humiliation and hardship to people with dark skins. It is not going to be so easy for them to support an apartheid that hits their own pockets.

The government is naive in its belief that the creation of separate African states within the republic will make apartheid look moral in the eyes of the world. It is difficult to recognize the morality of a scheme that will accommodate 8 per cent of the population in "states" which will comprise only 13 per cent of the area of the country.

RIFEL PREJUDICE

Even if the Bantustans eventually were to become Utopias they would still have been brought about by a colossal reprudiation of one people by another because of color prejudice.

The year poses other problems for Dr. Verwoerd. It is unlikely that such big Western powers as Britain and the United States will jeopardize their diplomatic position again by rescuing South Africa from another sanctions move in the United Nations.

Soviet backing of the African powers against the reluctance of Britain and the U.S. was a propaganda triumph for the Communists. The West cannot afford to let this happen again.

Perhaps the biggest mistake the government has made diplomatically was leaving the Commonwealth last year. In the Commonwealth there was always the hope of facing the Afro - Asian nations under sheltered conditions.

OPEN CLASH

Britain and Australia were always there to mediate. Now the clash between South Africa and her Afro-Asian rivals will be open and ugly.

Finally, there is the South-West African problem. A World Court decision early this year to end South Africa's mandate over South-West Africa would give legal and moral strength to the move in the United Nations to take over administration of the territory.

If the UN finally decided to take over, Dr. Verwoerd would almost certainly decide to resist. The consequences of such a decision for South Africa would be grave.

Democracy for Dominicans Council's Aim

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—The Dominican Republic's ruling State council got down today to the business of bringing democracy to the troubled Caribbean nation which has known virtually no political liberties for more than three decades.

The council faced a mountain of economic and social ills left over from the regime of dictator Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, who ruled the country as his private preserve for 31 years before his assassination last May. But the council also had promises of U.S. economic assistance and the apparent support of most Dominicans.

Unfinished business also remained from the military takeover led by ousted strongman Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, political elements although considered of lesser importance. Rodriguez Echavarria and former president Joaquin Balaguer, to be sent back to Spain.

INSTALLS JUNTA

Balaguer headed the council during its first 18 days, until Rodriguez Echavarria in a surprise Tuesday night installed a military junta headed by himself. A junta counter-coup led by Rodriguez Echavarria's own office, subordinates and Balaguer's from the council and made the general a prisoner.

Frankford

FRANKFORD—Mrs. M. Campbell, Mrs. Percy Campbell, and Miss Eza Potter, were Wednesday supper guests with Mr. and Mrs. Judd Sine and family, the occasion being Miss Potter's birthday.

COLD THROUGHOUT WEST — Below-normal temperatures are predicted across Canada and Northern Ontario in the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau mid-January to mid-February.

The outlook is not a specific forecast. It is based on long-range predictions and a change in weather pattern may produce major errors.

Heavy precipitation is expected in Eastern Canada. Normal precipitation is given in inches of rain; one inch of rain equals 10 inches of snow. (CP Newsmap.)

Sunshine State of Florida Attracting Lot of Canadians Who Are Making It Home

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—A partially completed census report shows that Florida ranks as the state in attracting a lot of Canadians.

In fact, over a period of a decade, the Florida population of Canadian - born residents grew with their American-born offspring more than doubled to 77,125 in 1960 and 34,168 in 1950.

This category of the American population is included in what the U.S. Census Bureau defines as "foreign white stock"—a combination of foreign - born white persons and Americans who said their parents were foreign born.

Now in the midst of tabulating a state-by-state survey of population based on the 1960 census, the bureau says its figures show the Canadian category increased also in Wisconsin, Georgia, Alabama, Arizona, Nevada, Connecticut, Maryland, New Mexico and a number of other states.

SOME DECLINES

Other states ranked in Maine, New Hampshire, Minnesota, Rhode Island and Vermont. The total Canadian stock in Maine dropped to 163,209 from 178,959 in 1950, a decrease of 12,438 from 59,476 and in New Hampshire to 105,657 from 117,605.

Following is a tabulation of 25 of the 50 states—mainly the ones which the bureau estimates the total Canadian stock of 1960 figures rose to 812,196 in 1960 from 851,895 a decade ago.

Still to come are tabulations for such states as New York, California, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois—which are big traditional centres for Canadian emigrants—as well as Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The tabulations for example, the number of Canadian-born or the offspring of Canadians totalled 377,599 in 1950 in Massachusetts they totalled 601,799; in New York, 309,319; in Michigan, 415,338.

In 1950, the number of persons born in Canada descent in the United States totalled about 1,000,000 compared with 4,700,000 of German descent and 4,600,000 of Italian descent.

OTHERS GAIN

While Florida showed a striking rise in Canadian stock in the 1950-60 decade, some other states also showed significant increases. The number in Connecticut increased to 122,277 from 100,831; to Arizona, to 17,406 from 8,209; in Georgia, to 7,482 from 3,908; in Maryland, to 20,316 from 11,764, in Wisconsin, to 66,381 from 46,122.

Alaska showed a total of 6,313 for 1960, though there was no comparable figure for 1950. The bureau suggested, however, that on the basis of what it knows, there was a bit of a rise in Canadian stock in that far northern state, too.

Some of the decline in the New England states of New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont was attributed to a general shift in population.

In Minnesota, however, the decline was relatively sharp, to 42,441 from 70,170. In Rhode Island and the number dropped to 219 from 91,296. Heavily industrialized Rhode Island is the most densely populated state, with 812 persons for every square mile.

New Surgical Device By Ottawa Doctor

TORONTO (CP) — Six years of teamwork between an Ottawa surgeon and National Research Council scientist have produced a surgical device that opens the way to intricate surgery on the heart and arteries for the first time.

Developers of the new instrument hope its possible use in transplanting human organs and in repairing old vessels broken in accidents or wounds.

Dr. Isaac J. Vogelzang, Ottawa civic surgeon, explained who inspired and directed the project, described the device and its possible application Friday at the annual meeting of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada.

The vessels have been joined without causing subsequent blood clots, a major danger in such operations. No anti - clotting drugs were necessary.

Dr. Vogelzang, attending the conference described the development as "a real triumph for Canadian research."

Dr. Vogelzanger's device has been tested only in surgery on dogs, but he believes its use in operations on human beings will come soon.

Characters You've Probably Overheard in Your Office

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Now and then a memo such as this is circulated in every office:

"These phones are strictly for the conduct of company business, upon which the livelihood of this firm depends. Employees wishing to make emergency private calls during working hours will please use the pay telephones in the corridor."

Management always launches this memo with high hopes but they would be just as effective if they were printed in Chinese, and floated out to sea in a sealed bottle.

For a day or two the hired hands dutifully drop their coins in the pay phone, then they go back, one by one, to slipping their private calls through the office switchboard again.

Who makes all these private calls, and what is the desperate nature of their emergencies?

Well, here are a few typical characters you have probably overheard in your own office:

"Hungry Harry"—Life is just one long coffee break to him. Three times a day he phones the drug store lunch counter downstairs for java, sandwiches, doughnuts and pie and cheesecake. At 5:15 he makes his final call: "Rush up some sodium bicarb, fast, my stomach feels kinda tense."

Stuffy head

Mentholatum Ointment quickly helps to clear head cold stuffiness! Eases head pressure, opens nasal passages, relieves miserable dry sneezy-breathing.

Soothing Comforting

Mentholatum Ointment

"Bashful Bob"—Bob is afraid to ask for a date over the phone, so he writes long, mushy letters to the girl he wants to take out. Then he tears them up and calls her on the phone and says, "Hi, baby, I've had a lonesome day. Wanta go out tonight?"

"Homebody Hubert" — Every half hour he phones home to see (1) if his shirts got back from the laundry, (2) if the baby has broken out with the measles or a new tooth, (3) if his wife wants to go to a movie that night, (4) if so, which movie, (5) to ask what they have for dinner, (6) should he stop to pick up anything, and (7) whether anything new has happened since he called half an hour before.

"Old Bubblehead Himself"—The boss makes only two kinds of personal calls. In the morning he phones seven to eight executive buddies in other firms trying to set up a golf foursome. In the afternoon (if he isn't playing golf) he phones his broker six times.

Royal York Hotel Strike Now Seen by Labor as a Struggle for Union Survival

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—The Royal York Hotel strike has settled into a sterile war of attrition between a union with a record of bulldog tenacity and a employer who claims the battle is over.

The Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International Union has led marathon strikes in the United States, including one lasting seven years. Toronto local 261 knows no sign of yielding after picketing the Royal York since April 26, 1961, said.

The CPR - owned hotel claims the union has lost the strike. Management's current 4 p.m. terms would require virtual capitulation by the strikers.

Pay questions have drifted into the background as the issues have been distilled into a dispute over such basics as the right to strike and the union shop principle.

TALKS FAIL

The strike, now seen by labor as a struggle for union survival against one of the union's biggest employers, was launched after 10 months of fruitless negotiation on a new work contract. Bitterness has prevailed, but labor leaders have produced virtually no violence.

The union was seeking an hourly increase of 10 cents spread over 33-months Monthly wages ranged from a page boy's $110, through a dishwasher's $119, to a pastry chef's $400 plus tips and meals.

Union leaders called out 1,350 employees hours after 12:01 April 26 amid accusations of management bad faith. The 1,600-room hotel maintained its Toronto Dominion Square operation.

The hotel also demands the right to settle which strikers could return to work, when they would be rehired and how their seniority would be established in relation to other staff. The union says such terms are unacceptable.

The dispute became a test of basic labor law after the hotel formally dismissed some 600 strikers in July.

UNION SUES

The union sued the hotel for violating the Ontario Labor Relations Act. Magistrate Thomas Hughes ruled in May that the CPR did not break the law, a ruling seen by labor leaders as a threat to the right to strike. Chief Justice J. C. McRuer reserved judgment Dec. 15 but the CPR is appealing the McRuer decision.

Federal mediator Angus MacKinnon has claimed victory on the ground that the role of the hotel's services with sympathy strikers has ceased.

CANCEL BOOKINGS

Some 70 groups, from wedding parties to 1,200-delegate conventions, have cancelled reservations at the Royal York since the strike started. Others have refused to enter the hotel while he was premier of Ontario, and his successor John Roberts, crossed the picket lines Dec. 7 to attend a Grey Cup football dinner.

URGE END OF CONTROL OF RAILWAYS

Old Age Pension Raised $10 Monthly

Blind, Disabled Also To Get Aid Says Diefenbaker

Prime Minister Makes Announcement Today

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons today that the old age pension will be increased by $10 a month and federal contributions to provincial pensions for blind and disabled persons will be boosted on a similar basis.

The old age pension increase would raise the payment, made to all at age 70, to $65 a month from $55.

Mr. Diefenbaker, resuming his marathon address during the throne speech debate, said that after careful consideration "we have come to the conclusion . . ." that the old age pension be increased by $10 a month and the amount of the federal contribution increased for old age assistance, blind and disabled pensions will be on the same basis."

NOW PAYS HALF

The federal government now pays half of maximum $55-a-month to needy persons between 65 and 69 as well as to blind and disabled persons. Thus the federal contribution would be half of a $65-a-month maximum pension provided the provinces agreed to provide the same basis.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he expected the Conservative Party will describe the increases as "meagre" or "peanuts" but it was important to note that in Saskatchewan, where a CCF government holds power, the provincial contribution to old age assistance and blind and disabled pensions is less than in some other provinces.

He said that in 1957 in a Toronto speech he suggested that old age pensions should be set based on increases in the cost of living. If that principle were followed in a year now there would be "very small indeed." One thing the government had been able to do was control inflation which reduces the purchasing power of the dollar.

OFFERS OBJECTION

Even Opposition Leader Pearson, said Mr. Diefenbaker, has said the OCF-NDP proposal for a national pension was not a responsible one.

Mr. Pearson objected, complained Mr. Diefenbaker, when he has again misquoted me. The Liberal Party and not this party had regarded as irresponsible was the CCF-NDP proposal that the $75 pension be raised to age 65 rather than 70.

The prime minister countered with the charge that a Liberal proposal, made before the openings of parliament, for a $10 increase after one year had been "whittled down" "misled the old people of this country."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson's slogan for 1962 was "the Liberals have the answer." Mr. Pearson's slogan for 1962 was been an old-age pension increase of $8.

"It's the same old group—the same assortment that said $6 was enough."

OWEN SOUND UNDERTAKER HELD IN ROBBERY

15 to 20 Thousand Taken at Walkerton

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—A 33-year-old Owen Sound undertaker has been charged in the $15,500 - $20,000 robbery of a branch of the Bank of Montreal here Monday.

George Coutts was charged with robbery.

Provincial police arrested Coutts in Owen Sound late Monday night after a search was undertaken for a car fitting a description of the getaway car provided by eyewitnesses.

Bank Manager Walter Wagg said he came to the bank door about 3:30 p.m., half an hour after the normal closing. He said the employees let him in, thinking he was "one of our farmer customers."

As the man entered the bank he produced what was believed to have been a 25-calibre revolver and marched accountant

Announcements Come Fast From Prime Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, off and running early in the new session, has announced a one-third boost in grants to universities, set out a new policy on foreign magazines and hinted at the possible direction of efforts to reform the Senate.

Announcements by the prime minister came thick and fast Monday night as he took the Commons floor on the heels of a speech by Opposition Leader Pearson who called for early election.

Mr. Pearson, toward the end of the eight-day throne speech debate, disavowed the government with accusations of mismanagement and unkept promises.

The cost of "following John" of 4½ years has been $3,120,000,000, Mr. Pearson said in a dig at the "follow John" campaign slogan of Progressive Conservatives in 1957 and 1958.

DISCLOSES DETAILS

The prime minister, while talking some political jabs at the Liberals, spent more time disclosing details of the government's program. This was outlined in the throne speech last Thursday.

Federal grants to universities, now based on $1.50 per capita of population in each province will be increased to $2, he announced.

The government also intended to implement, with only one modification, the two main recommendations of the royal com-

GOVT. THROWS LIFELINE TO CANADIAN MAGS

Reader's Digest, Times Are Targets

OTTAWA - (CP) — The government has thrown a lifeline to Canadian magazines in the hope of rescuing them from "unfair" American competition.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced in the Commons Monday impending tax and tariff measures to divert Canadian advertising dollars away from United States publications, whether printed here or in the U.S.

He said the action will not interfere with press freedom or the reading preferences of Canadians. There would be "no interference with editorial comment, no tax on ideas or information."

Backgrounding his announcement were statistics showing that Canadians now read four U.S. magazines to every one published and owned in Canada. Main targets of the government action are Time and Reader's Digest, both together carrying 40 per cent of Canadian magazine advertising through their Canadian editions.

TELLS OF STEPS

The two steps by which Mr. Diefenbaker said will be taken "in due course."

—Certain magazines which carry advertising that is directed primarily to the Canadian market will no longer be allowed to enter this country.

2. There will be a reduction to 50 per cent from 100 per cent in the deductibility for tax purposes of advertising placed by Canadian companies in foreign-owned magazines printed in Canada, with all deductibility

Construction Industry to Get New Safety Law

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Labor Minister William Warrender promised Monday night that Ontario's 250,000 construction workers will get a new safety law this year.

Mr. Warrender told the annual meeting of the Toronto Builders Exchange that a proposed new safety code is already being drafted by his department.

He said a draft of the code will be given to the newly-formed Industrial Safety Council "in a few weeks" for examination before it is introduced as a bill in the legislature.

BELIZE (AP) — Hurricane Hattie took a total of 262 lives when it battered British Honduras in 1961, a final report said today. Nearly one-third of the deaths occurred in Belize, the capital where 200-mile winds poured over the city to a depth of more than 10 feet.

Macaulay Suggests D. MacDonald Guilty of Conflict of Interest

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Energy Resources Minister Macaulay of Ontario said Monday night that Donald MacDonald, provincial New Democratic Party leader, may be guilty of a conflict of interest.

Mr. Macaulay said such conflict might be found in Mr. MacDonald's acceptance of a supplementary party-paid salary to go to some unions contribute.

If unions help pay his salary, Mr. Macaulay asked, is it so Mr. MacDonald will represent their interests or introduce legislation for them?

The minister, speaking to the Toronto and District Young Progressive Conservative Association, challenged the NDP leader to say whether he was contravening the Legislative Assem-

Major Crisis Looming Over OAS Action Against Cuba

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (Reuters)—The Organization of American States today resumed its fight for survival against the fate of Cuba with a major crisis looming among the 20 member countries.

The stormy issue has split the group which has previously split into two camps and left at risk the future of President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress aid program for Latin America.

Bolivian Foreign Minister Jose Fellman Valverde warned Monday night that the OAS was on "the edge of a catastrophic crisis."

Fellman described as "extremely serious" the rift which has seen his delegation line up with Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico and Uruguay in oppo-

Doctors Will Refuse Care Under Saskatchewan's Plan

REGINA (CP) — The organized doctors of Saskatchewan will refuse to provide services under the province's medical care insurance program which the provincial government nevertheless supports, it was learned today in a report laid before the rest of Canada.

The doctors' position was outlined Monday in a brief to the Royal Commission on Health Services from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Saskatchewan and the Saskatchewan division of the Canadian Medical Association.

Earlier in the same sitting the CCF government told the commission that a plan such as

ROBARTS SEES GROWTH SIGNS IN ECONOMY

Premier Speaks To Board of Trade

TORONTO (CP) — All major indicators point to continued economic growth this year, Premier Robarts told the annual dinner of the Board of Trade of Metropolitan Toronto Monday night.

"One may say that the outlook is bright," he added. "Ontario's gross provincial product is expected to rise at least five or six per cent. We can look forward to increasing employment, rising production, high personal incomes and improved profit positions."

However, the premier continued, the changing world economic environment poses several challenges, "some of which we will be forced to adopt.

"This is particularly true of the manufacturing sector. While impressive gains were made in total value of production last year, there were still areas of weakness that pointed to the impact of foreign competition in domestic markets.

While wonders was felt about the United Kingdom's applications for entry into the European Common Market, "we must also recognize that many opportunities are opening up for the expansion of trade throughout the world."

CITES EXAMPLE

"This fact has been brought to our attention through the recent conference between our department of economics and development and the federal department of trade and commerce in the export trade."

Mr. Roberts said problems resulting from changing economic situations as peoples of other lands use a new place in the sun "indicate that we must be flexible in our approach. We have to adapt new methods and policies. At the same time the government must continue to provide serv-

Railways Make Counter-Proposals To Fifteen Non-Operating Unions

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's railways today presented a series of counter-proposals to 15 unions representing 100,000 employees in contract covering 110,000 non-operating railway employees.

The railways then dished for a recess "to consolidate some proposals" and "to prepare tabulating team went into private sessions to consider the request.

No details of the company offers were made public and both sides declined to give any indication of what went on during the four-hour opening talk.

It was believed, however, the counter - proposals were presented only in broad outline.

A brief joint statement was read to newspapermen by the union's chief negotiator, Frank Hall.

He said only that there has been a "preliminary discussion" and that the unions have asked for a recess.

The meeting, the first, gathered together of the company and railway negotiators since the 15 CLC affiliated unions presented their demands late in December, broke up briefly after half an hour while the union members met privately.

Let Competition Regulate Rates Report Suggests

Commission Asks Govt. Minimize Intervention

OTTAWA (CP)—A sweeping overhaul of federal transportation policies and regulations, aimed at freeing Canada's railways from a stake-over-in competitive battle against other forms of transport, was proposed today by the MacPherson royal commission.

In its second report, tabled in the Commons today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, the six-man royal commission on transportation unveiled an over-all transport blueprint with immense economic and political implications for the nation.

Its recommendations, centered through the 289-page, 85,000-word report, are based on the commission's view that its mission—that competition, not government, is and should be the main price regulator in transportation.

In its key recommendation, the commission urged that all rail freight rates be set free, subject only to a ceiling on rates charged against so-called "captive" rail traffic.

WOULD SCRAP CONTROLS

Under this plan, present freight rate controls would be largely scrapped as obsolete, thus giving railways a free hand to set most freight rates just as ordinary businesses set their prices.

Released from most regulatory restraints, the railways would be tossed into a free-for-all fight against trucks, ships, planes and pipelines.

The second volume rounds out the commission's main report to the government on its two-year public and private investigation of Canada's transportation troubles. The first report was made public last April, its third volume, giving results of special research studies, is expected later this year.

A dissenting view on some aspects of the second report was filed by Commissioner Herbert Anscomb of Victoria, a former British Columbia provincial minister. Otherwise recommendations were unanimous.

Regina lawyer M. A. MacPherson, a former Saskatchewan cabinet minister and committee contender for the national Progressive Conservative leadership, was chairman. Other commissioners were Archibald Leish, Fort Erie, Ont., railway union leader now retired; Rene Cobeil, Quebec City, forestry engineer; Howard A. Mann, Ottawa, chairman of the National Harbors Board and Arnold Platt, Lethbridge, farmer and farm leader.

In addition to its freight-rate plan, the commission proposed:

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONDAY, Jan. 22, 1962

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced government acceptance of the main recommendations of the publications royal commission, with one modification.

The prime minister also announced a one-third increase in federal grants to universities—to $2 per capita of population in each province from $1.50.

Opposition Leader Pearson, calling for an election "at the earliest possible date," attacked the government's record and accused it of negligence and confusion.

The prime minister replied "No" when H. W. Herridge (CCF — Kootenay - West) asked whether he would consider appointing a royal commission to examine all aspects of bilingualism.

Place Gizenga Under Arrest

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Antoine Gizenga was placed under house arrest in a villa today to await trial for acts of rebellion against the Central Congolese government.

UN protection for the former deputy premier was lifted Monday night and Gizenga was transferred from accommodations in the headquarters building where he had been held prisoner since his arrival from Stanleyville Saturday.

Officially the armed Congolese troops in jungle uniforms surrounding the modern two-storey house were to protect Gizenga. But the sergeant in charge assured reporters that they had orders to prevent the Lumumbist leader from leaving the house without authorization from Premier Cyrille Adoula's government.

'Y' and Rotary Building Bridges to Close Cultural Gaps in East Club Is Told

East and west are meeting today in the United, as Rotarians and their guests were told yesterday afternoon by Col. John A. Stewart, M.C., at the regular weekly meeting of the club at the Hotel Quinte. Col. Stewart, a veteran of two World Wars, a former mayor of the City of Peterborough, and a Canadian representative on the International committee of the YMCA, was the guest speaker for the local Rotary Club's annual observance of YMCA Week.

Col. Stewart, a Rotarian himself, spoke on the conditions and the activities of the YMCA in various countries of the Orient which he visited following his attendance at the annual international convention of Rotary International held in Tokyo, Japan, last year.

Both the YMCA and Rotary International were building bridges to close the cultural and sociological gap between the peoples of the East and the West he said.

"A tremendous revolution is currently taking place in the Orient in the way of progress some of the things which people of the West take for granted," he said. There is great desire and thirst for knowledge and education amongst the young people of his area and students have a great desire to get to the West especially the United States to further their education, he added.

In Japan, where there are 84 YMCA branches in the universities, there is a slogan "a bigger mind in a building world," Col. Stewart said. Western institutions, such as the YMCA, can help overcome this by helping these people in achieving their goals, especially regarding the education of the children and the youth who will be the leaders of the nations of the East in a few years' time.

With the aid of slides shown the speaker described the tremendous efforts by the "Y" in such countries as Formosa, Thailand, Pakistan, Japan, Hong Kong and Greece to help to educate the peoples of these nations. He noted that the fact that the "Y" was interdenominational gave it a great advantage when it came to helping these people and winning their acceptance.

HEADED BY BUDDHIST

An example of this acceptance was to be found in Burma, where the YMCA's building was occupied by one of the country's leading Buddhists, he said.

Today all people are living in a dangerous world, the speaker stated. The spread of the influence of the totalitarian regimes can only be checked by the efforts of democratic institutions such as the "Y", he suggested. The reason for this is that although the peoples of the Orient have had too long an association with the exploiting nations of the western nations with very few exceptions and have grown to dislike the whites because of this they have to be shown the real efforts of white people representing institutions which are attempting to render the people dia-

Horse Sense

On Monday morning there wasn't a horse on "Old MacDonald's Farm"; however, 13 stallion were there with the horses at the "Older MacDonald's Farm."

Shortly after midnight, Sunday, Claude MacDonald of Ameliasburg, checked his livestock and, finding that 13 of his horses his father had turned over to the grandsons for safekeeping in the barn in the morning they had departed, leaving tracks heading south, all the way back to their former home, the farm of Gus MacDonald at Consecon.

Since the team had been free to wander previously, the youngest MacDonald, a wonder if the pair had overheard the plans for a coming sleigh ride in which they would play an important role.

Chris J. Lewis Dies in Hospital, Ill Long Time

In failing health for the past two years and a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for the past ten months, Christopher James Lewis, prominent businessman and First World War veteran, died in the institution this Tuesday morning.

Another link with the past of the early days of Sidney and Mr. Lewis' death for he has been a resident of this community for the last 60 years.

He was born in Worchester, England, 78 years ago, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Lewis and as a young boy he came to this country to make his way. For some years he resided in Hamilton and came to Belleville 50 years ago. For some time he was employed with the Seymour Power Company and later was taken over by the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission and then founded a business, the Quinte Battery, which he and his sons operated for many years, before his retirement. This business is still in operation under the same name.

When the First World War broke out Mr. Lewis enlisted in this city in 1915 and during his unit in Toronto proceeded overseas and there saw service and distinction in France. He was discharged in 1917 but his love of country brought him back again in the Second World conflict, when he was an instructor at the 62nd Training Station. He was a staunch supporter of his adopted country and never failed to speak of its virtues and the opportunity for the young lads of this country never lost his interest in the veteran and was always ready to assist the needy cases in this city.

Mr. Lewis enjoyed a wide circle of friends in all walks of life and the clientele of his business was widespread. He enjoyed meeting his friends for a chat for he was a kindly man of good neighbour and an excellent citizen.

He was a member of Christ Church where he was active in all branches of parish work. Fraternally he was a life member of Moira Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 16 and also a life member of Belleville Chapter R.A.M. No. 7. He was active in fraternal circles when health permitted.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Cooke and two daughters, Dr. C. Lewis, cigar store owner in this city John J. Lewis, Lake View, Florida, and one daughter, Mrs. Violet M. Slavin also of this city. Also survived are five grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

His first wife, the former Jane Moore died in 1942. He was the last of his family.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. from the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Avenue with interment in Belleville Cemetery.

Three Charged With Theft Remanded Week

A chicken dinner was on the menu for three Belleville prisoners last Sunday, but they didn't get a chance to eat it.

William Smith, 16, John Mowbray Moore, 17, and Carl Kalvin Hudnut, 19, appeared in city magistrate's court this morning on two charges of theft, both under the value of $50.

The three boys were charged with stealing a camera, a bicycle, a pair of golf clubs and other articles, from a farmer at Halloway.

They were further charged with stealing a camera, bicycle wheel wrench, battery booster and tire gauge, the property of Allan Mills and rim, from John B. Ketchen of R.R. 1, Halloway, on Jan. 19.

All three pleaded guilty to both charges.

Carl Kalvin Moore was further charged with producing counterfeit money in connection with the theft of a camera, valued at $50, belonging to Stewart Dickson of Calgary, Alta.

Barrister Thomson Lally of Belleville appeared for Smith.

The three boys were remanded for one week, to allow police to obtain further information on them.

Owners Along Bridge St. East Do Not Want Sidewalks

Property owners along Bridge Street East, between Herchimer and Front Streets, are objecting to the proposed construction of sidewalks in the area under Section 8 of the Local Improvement Act.

Council was informed of the objection yesterday through a recommendation from the Public Works Committee, which recommended that the work not be proceeded with.

But councillors took a different viewpoint and turned down the recommendation. This means the matter will go to the Ontario Municipal Board unless property owners will have the opportunity of making their objection at the time of a public hearing if such is called by the board.

Last fall council decided that sidewalks should be built along the south side of Bridge Street and voted to proceed under section 8 of the Local Improvement Act which allows the work to be processed with without petition from the owners. Owners, however, are given the opportunity to voice objections to the laying.

Alderman Ben Corke and Alderman Elliott pressed for the work to proceed, claiming that this section of Bridge Street was a dangerous roadway due to the heavy vehicular traffic and the great number of school children walking to and from schools.

And Alderman Joseph Rayeroft felt that these should also be sidewalks built on Farley Avenue which he said were "just as important" as walks on Bridge Street.

Bruce McDonald into the manager's office:

"He had his gun at my head and told me to put the money in a canvas bag," Mr. Way said.

The bandit ordered the manager to a vault and told him to unlock it. The manager replied that he had left his glasses in his office and "couldn't see the numbers without them."

Mr. Wagg said the man became slightly nervous for the first time at this point, warning "Don't be stalling."

"By that time I was as glad to get into the safe as he was to put me there," Mr. Wagg said.

Council Approves of Site North of Beer Warehouse For New Federal Building

TRENTON — Indications are that Trenton's new federal building is at least being thought about in federal government circles.

Last night, Trenton council met as a committee of the whole. As a result of an afternoon telephone conversation between Clerk-Comptroller O. W. Larry and Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South, council passed a resolution concurring with a proposal that the site of the new post office be located on Lots 6, 7 and 8, on the west side of Front Street (directly north of the new Brewers' Retail Store and across from the Front St. municipal parking lot.)

At a meeting between Mr. Grills and members of Trenton's Industrial and Economic Development Committee on January 31, 1951, Mr. Grills told the committee that "if the people of Trenton could get together and agree with government suggestions concerning the site of the proposed federal building," he "had an idea that work on the project could commence by mid-1962."

Several sites have been suggested by the government agency and possible acquisition explored. A few months ago, three federal government representatives visited the Front St. site with Mr. Grills, Mayor MacDonald and Mr. Larry, and later, Mr. Grills told an Ontario intelligencer reporter that all were generally agreed that the site was suitable. Today, Mr. Grills was reported as being at Ottawa and unavailable for comment.

To Terminate Principalship

TRENTON — W. J. Houston, principal at Trenton High School since September, 1960, said yesterday that the end of the school year would also terminate his principalship at the local school. Mr. Houston was named to the school head at Trenton on May 16, 1960, following the resignation of E. S. McElwain. Since Mr. Houston was hired on a temporary basis, for one year, and asked to continue as principal last year, he was not under contract and there is no need for an official resignation.

Construction on a new technical addition to the school is expected to commence in a few weeks. When the addition, it will be possible to accommodate 1500 students at the "composite school." A head principal will direct the activities of two vice-principals.

Judge Upholds Assessment

TRENTON — Building assessment, as compiled by assessment commissioner J. Allan Smith, on property occupied by Trenton Cleaners and Dyers on Dundas Street, and owned by D. Vanderkruy was this week upheld by County Judge J. C. Anderson at Trenton.

Mr. Vanderkruy told the court that the value of his building was depreciated by the presences in the neighborhood of a coal yard.

In the past two years, a number of merchants from the east side of town have asked for lowered assessment, because of what was termed "the coal dust factor."

Mr. Vanderkruy was represented by Trenton solicitor Gregory Butler, and representing the town were the assessment commissioner and town solicitor Roderick Campbell.

Only one of the assessment appeals heard by the 1961 Court of Revision Mr. Vanderkruy's was the only one to be taken to county court level.

Gets Promotion

TRENTON — Recently, Sqn. Leader Charles F. "Bob" Simmons, 34, of Amherst, N.S. (Aircrew Leader with 437 Squadron at Trenton), was promoted to that rank by the RCAF.

S/L Simmons has been associated with flying for most of his adult life. From 1940 to 1942 he and his brother Donald, operated an air service from Moncton to Bathurst, N.B. He joined the RCAF in 1942 and trained as a pilot at Centralia, where he won the Sidney Flying Trophy and the Scroll of Honor. Later, while stationed with 441 Fighter Squadron at Luffenham in England, he flew in the Coronation Fly-Past.

Memorial Arena Deficit $11,000 Council Told

The Belleville Memorial Arena incurred a deficit of approximately $11,000 last year — or roughly $500 more than was provided for in the budget.

This was the financial picture for the arena which was presented to council yesterday by Alderman Don Whalen, last year's arena committee chairman.

Ald. Whalen said that efficient operation of the arena by its manager, Jack Dickerson, had been greatly responsible for ending the year close to the budget estimate, and this despite the fact there had been no senior hockey to boost the revenue and despite the fact wrestling crowds had fallen off.

Sponsors of minor organized hockey in the city want more ice time at the arena, council was told by Alderman Bob Temple.

The matter was referred to the recreation committee and Alderman William Jarvis said he would take it up with this body.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were rested unchanged today. The egg market was firm with offerings inadequate for a fair demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on Canada grade eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 32; A medium 31; A small 28; B and C grades no market.

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Ontario tederable 63-64; undertable 59½. In light trading: western 68 (nominal).

Parks Board Will Be Asked To Buy Property

The city parks board will be asked to give consideration to the purchase of property in the Herchimer Avenue district of the city now being used for sledding and tobogganing by the younger generation.

Alderman Stuart Robb said the Herchimer Avenue district was about the only one in the city suitable for sledding and asked if the parks board had given consideration to its purchase to assure its continued use for recreational purposes.

Parks board member Alderman Jack Ruby replied as far as he knew this had not been the case, but he promised he would bring the matter to their attention.

JESSE PUGH DIES

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP)— Jesse M. Pugh, the onetime radio voice of Scatterpood Bates, died today in a Rochester nursing home. He was 82. Pugh started the radio serial in the 1930s and took the cracker-barrel philosopher onto the CBS network.

UNEXPECTED VISITORS — These leghorn pullets at the Masedale Poultry Farm on No. 2 highway had an unexpected visitor this morning when the front end of a tractor trailer crashed through the wall into their feeding pen. The truck, left parked on a slight grade, crashed through the poultry house wall when the brakes gave way. A number of the several thousand pullets in the building were killed beneath the truck.

Big Transport Punches Hole In Poultry House, Brakes Fail

Moving down a slight downgrade when the brakes failed to hold in the absence of the driver, a big highway transport trailer crashed through the wall of the Masedale Farms poultry house on the Trent Road this morning coming to rest with the cab completely inside the building.

A hole the size of the front end of the truck was smashed in the side of the building and a still undetermined number of young pullets were killed.

None of the workers in the egg grading section of the poultry house, just a few feet from where the truck crashed through the building, was injured.

Driver of the Argosy Carriers, George A. Wickett of Parkes Street, Belleville, told police that he had parked his loaded transport about 100 feet from the poultry house in the driveway. While he was in the building making directions about where to deliver his load of empty egg crates, the truck moved down the slight grade and through the side of the building.

Bancroft Firm Has Contract For Sidney Street Overpass

Construction of an overpass on Sidney Street to take local traffic over 401 highway will get underway as soon as weather permits in the spring, it was learned today.

The general construction contract has been let to G. O'-Shaughnessy Ltd., Bancroft contractors.

Wilson Concrete Products of Belleville will build the prestressed concrete girders which will go into the construction of the overpass.

Yesterday city council indirectly made mention of the proposed overpass when it agreed to take over two parcels of land at the Sidney Street - 401 highway intersection, subject to a satisfactory agreement being reached between the city and the department regarding provision of access from Sidney Street to 401 from Sidney Street to Highway 14.

FOR OVERPASS ONLY

The contract has been awarded to the Bancroft firm is for an overpass only with no provision for access from Sidney Street onto 401 highway.

Officials at Wilson Concrete Products in Belleville said today they had a contract to build the prestressed girders for the Sidney Street overpass. Eight of the girders would have a clear span of 82 feet and the other eight a span of about 35½ feet.

The Belleville firm last year constructed concrete members for several such structures in the province.

"We were happy to get one this close to home," the official noted.

No Fingerprints of Accused Found in Bank Says Witness

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Hazel Jamieson were heard Monday in the opening day's trial of four Montreal men charged with the armed robbery of $633,000 from the Toronto - Dominion Bank at nearby Havelock, Ont., Aug. 31.

Charged are Roger Martel, 41, Roger Poirier, 31, and brothers Jean-Claude and Yvon Lalonde 23 and 31.

All pleaded not guilty to the charges of robbery. In addition, Poirier, Martel and Jean-Claude Lalonde pleaded not guilty to two charges of possessing stolen cars, resisting arrest by shooting at a provincial policeman and breaking and entering a summer cottage.

Jean - Claude Lalonde is on $30,000 bail, granted in mid-December.

Cpl. William Baluk of the Cobourg OPP testified that fingerprints of the accused were not found in the bank, nor in any of the cars found later in bush country north of Havelock.

DISCUSSES WEAPON

Weapons expert William Sutherland of the attorney - general's laboratory took the stand holding an M-1 army carbine. He said he believed a spent bullet found in one of the abandoned cars had been fired from a similar weapon. Mr. Sutherland said he would not explain how a bullet could be fired from a car and found in the same car, unless it had first rebounded off a piece of metal on the vehicle.

A mixed bag of carbine and revolver bullets was found in one of the abandoned cars, Cpl. Baluk testified.

Two Montreal men told the court their cars had been stolen the month of the robbery and two other witnesses said licence plates were stolen from their cars.

Lucien Bray of Cornwall said his plates were those found on an abandoned car north of Havelock the day of the robbery.

Havelock store operator Roy Thompson testified he saw four masked men leave the bank the day of the robbery. He noted the number of the car in which they drove away. The number tallied with the plates stolen from Mr. Bray.

It is expected that more than 50 prosecution witnesses will be called during the trial, being heard in county court before Judge A. R. Wilmot.

Building for the Future

This week is YMCA Week across North America. In just about every community of any size on this continent recognition will be given to efforts of local YMCA's to help their community through a form of service geared to the needs or demands of the individual community.

Primarily the YMCA is thought of as a youth organization. This is not surprising since the major part of an "Y" program features a multitude of activities which will assist the young people of the community to develop mentally, spiritually and physically. The concept of sound minds in sound bodies is one which has guided "Y" activities and has served North America well.

There are other functions for the YMCA however, and our own "Y" offers a good example of how catholic an approach is made to meet the needs of all members of the family and all levels of the community. The local "Y" has promoted a Foremen's Club to foster better relations between management and industry in the community. It offers the use of its facilities to any non-profit organization such as the Ministerial Association or the United Appeal.

This is quite a practical and worthwhile approach. Whilst the youth are being prepared for the world of tomorrow, the current generation is given every assistance in working out the problems of today.

Each YMCA is a local entity which must seek some satisfactory level between meeting the needs of its own community and existing and providing these services in accordance with what the community can afford. Sometimes, this level goes more to one side of these two sides of the scale than the other. Sometimes it balances out between the two.

With the construction of a new building to serve better the community's youth and adults scheduled to begin in the near future, the Belleville YMCA is attempting to reach a point of balance. It has been a most necessary project and, although it will not be as large and provide as broad a range of activities as was originally planned, the community can rest assured that it is getting the best possible return for its investment in its youth and the future of the community.

We have no doubt that any person wishing to avail themselves of the open invitation to visit the "Y" any evening this week to see just what goes on will find out just why local citizens should be proud of their YMCA.

Would Abandon Farms

Dr. J. M. Nesbitt, head of the department of dairy science at the University of Manitoba, urges a completely new approach to the farm products surplus problem.

He says present programs are aimed at halting the flow of people from the farm, "when they should be aimed at speeding it up."

It is obvious that the smaller the proportion of the population required to raise all the food needed to adequately feed the whole population, the larger will be the proportion available to undertake other tasks, and the greater will be the possibility of providing a high standard of living for all. The poor civilizations have been those in which it was all a man could do to feed, shelter and clothe himself and his immediate family.

If Canada was a world unto itself, the only opponents Dr. Nesbitt would find would be people with selfish reasons for opposing him, in the main farmers who did not wish to venture into the urban world and change their whole mode of life.

But Canada is not isolated from the rest of the world and it seems almost criminal to advocate that food production be reduced in a world where the majority of people are perpetually hungry.

Nevertheless, Dr. Nesbitt may have a point. Such a small proportion of our farm surpluses are finding their way to the hungry that perhaps we ought to disregard the ideal, which appears unattainable, and concentrate on the practical, which would be to reduce our food production to the amount which we can consume or sell.

If there were in the world today any large number of people who desired their own happiness more than they desired the unhappiness of others, we could have a paradise in a few years. —Bertrand Russell.

If you are to stand up for your Government you must be able to stand up to your Government.—Sir Harold Cassie, on the diplomat's role.

Hees Is Always Happy

BY RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Parliamentary Twitter . . . Prime Minister Diefenbaker may have his problems . . . Liberal Leader Pearson somehow manages to find consolation . . . the probable envy of the rest of the ministers of the Conservative Cabinet, too, is not without its distinctive power. Some in the camp favor bandbag Trade Minister Hees . . . he always seems to be above the ordinary woes and worries of the work-a-day world.

The recurring specs and reads, the not infrequent crisis, the mixing of genuine and political life as it is lived on Parliament Hill, seem all to brush aside Hees, unmarked. In the five years of Conservative power, Hees is the only member of the Cabinet for whom everything always comes up roses.

How does he do it?

Perhaps it's simple, relaxed true and easy attitude of mind, his approach of disarming informality. Even all to those who envy him.

Like the other days when he was 10 minutes late for the start of the trade talks between the Canadian and American Cabinet sub-committees on economics . . .

U.S. . . . Secretary Douglas Dillon, Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, Interior Secretary Udall, Finance Minister Fleming, External Affairs Minister Green and Agriculture Minister Hamilton and finally the press and public relations people-in-attendance to the conference.

III. FELLOWS

Dutifully they had posed and grinned for the cameramen, grouped about the genuine old fireplace in the Commons Railway Committee Room for television photographers, answered all the prepared statements and off-the-cuff comments for the correspondents.

They were all done, about to go into closed session, when the TV crews had hauled down their lights and packed their gear . . . and the reporters and news photographers were on their way out of the door . . . when in breezed George Hees.

As Canadian Trade Minister he was an important, even key member, of the Cabinet subcommittee.

Now most other members of the Cabinet, both American and Canadian, entering the room under similar circumstances, would have quietly accepted the fact that the publicity preliminaries were finished and the serious conference business about to get under way.

But not the amazing extrovert, George Hees.

"Hi, fellows," he beamed in an expansive gesture to the other Cabinet Ministers and the reporters and photographers who were filing out from the room. "Start all over again, fellows!"

And start all over again they did, the VIPs from Washington and the Ottawa men, all crowding up anew, this time with George Hees obviously the star of the political act, and the cameramen crews unpacking their gear and stringing up their floodlit spots.

"George, by golly, you're wonderful!" blurted out the Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon, the grandson of the United States Treasury Secretary administration of the amazing Hees' aplomb.

ANIMALS IN THE ACT

A wicked grin with the election drawing ever closer, the nevertiring High Tariff Liberal Leader is becoming a dog and cat affair . . . literally.

Frank Sinclair, the young Conservative MP for Tweedsmuir-Bentinck, has secured his own new Siamese kittens "Pitch" and "Paul," because, as he explains with a wicked and a grin, when he first got them they cried all night." This is another of the variations on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's campaign "Pipe" of Martin, Pearson, Pickersgill — Misery, Pessimism and Panic — being what he calls "The Tough Times Trio," forever crying the Economic — with-holding Night.

Not to be outdone, even in the wild-life department, Liberal Leader Pearson has scoured a stuffed animal record "Slap," as companion, he explains, for the Prime Minister's new Labrador puppy "Happy." Pair them, and you've got "Slap and Happy," of course, is the idea Mike Pearson and his Liberals are trying to get across.

But perhaps it's not strange that while speeches, statements and general political stumping are such anathema to the usual subjects as the Common Market, the nuclear issue, defence, Cuba, Laos and the Caribbean evoke only bored yawns, such a simple, homely thing as petting a dog is something quickly understood and appreciated by the common man in the street.

The Prime Minister's office and Mike Pearson's, too — alike have been surrounded by the public attention and yards of newspaper space that the Diefenbaker dog, "Happy" has been given in recent weeks.

Seems silly, even to the supposedly sophisticated age, dogs and children are sure-fire stuff politically.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A thoughtful old friend of mine has a violent antipathy to the words New Canadian.

"I'm not a New Canadian," he says, "aren't Canadians yet."

He insists that the title New Canadian is to be applied only strictly to those newcomers who have been here long enough to qualify for citizenship and have passed their tests.

"The original New Canadian," he says, "as applied to every newcomer, is as unfair to him as it is to the rest of us. By all means let us be welcoming and kind to them. But let us beware to them in such a manner that they will understand how lucky they are to have chosen to be amongst us. They don't want to be told. To be amongst us, of course. But the first thing you know, they will arrive at the conclusion that they are conferring something of a favor on us by coming here. And that is as bad for them as for us. What I hope for every newcomer, to this country, is the sense of thankgiving, despite all the hardships, that filled our pioneers and which, if they feel that, they're Canadians."

Well, I hope we Old Canadians have a proper sense of thanks-giving too.

THE CREATOR AND HIS CREATURES

Wisdom

Is it a matter of schooling? Or diplomas? Of learned theories? Of degrees? Socrates and Lincoln will always be listed among the world's great, but they were by no formal education. They were wise. They were wisdom. That they had very little learning.

Wisdom has been defined as the art of using knowledge, and this definition is true as far as it goes. But we venture the belief that wisdom is something vastly beyond this. Wisdom is a gift which comes from God Himself — out of the blue, as it were. Our brains are like the antennae which pick up radio and television messages. Our beings are like receiving sets which may be tuned on the wisdom

"Then it's pretty much a fatalistic attitude, eh? If we have a good brain, okay, if we don't, that's just too bad. But this is only part of the story, and a very small part. The brain is the receiving set. Even the wisest people in the world use only a small percentage of their brain capacity. We can all become many times wiser than we are if we set ourselves to learning how to catch that subtle supernatural thing called wisdom which comes to us out of the blue — straight from the loving and fingers of God.

But life is mysterious. Nothing is more mysterious than the factor we call "wisdom." It is God's thoughts being shared with His creatures.

Along Front Street today, reading matter flaunted sexy when the bell in the City Hall tower tolled continuously for fifteen minutes. Subsequent investigation by city hall officials revealed that some unknown manner the mechanism of the clock must have become adjusted as the tolling ceased and mysteriously as it had commenced and without the aid of human hands.

The annual report of the Chief of Police, in which it was stated that during the past twenty years only one automobile fatality has been stolen in the city had not been returned to its owner, came to mind the one incident which took place in 1925. Vernon Webster, then a boy of 12 years old, on the Belleville National baseball team had purchased a new motorcycle. The price had been than 100 miles. He had parted with Front Street when he walked a block to purchase a paper. When he came back the machine had gone. It was never found.

Police throughout the province today were on the alert for the car was ever found. Vern had neglected for the time being to take the license plate on the vehicle, and though he taught about the incident today, Sergeant he had to write that one off to "profit and loss" mostly "loss."

To Your Good Health

Penicillin Should Not Be Used Unless Necessary

Dear Dr. Molner: I read your article about changing doctors. I wonder if I should. The problem is penicillin, and my 5-year-old son.

Since he was 15 months old he has been getting fevers and sore throats.

A doctor we used to go to gave him sulfa several times and it worked very well.

But the one he goes to lately insists he should have penicillin. He took my son's tonsils out recently, and on a check-up he said the scars seemed to be inflamed and gave him more penicillin.

Isn't there something else he could use? I'm afraid to take him to this doctor again. He's had so much penicillin now that I don't see how any more could do any good. — Mrs. T.M.

I've protested before and will again, against the person who goes to the doctor fasy with a cold and demands "a shot of penicillin."

Why do I object? Because antibiotics, while it attacks bacteria, will not attack a virus and hence can't cure the average cold. Also, after getting effectively half "secondary infections" (the fever is cold, and are of bacterial origin.)

In addition, some people (one in 100, or more) may soon or late happen to become sensitive to penicillin. Sometimes a first drug may cause serious allergic reactions.

That does not mean that I disapprove of penicillin. I disapprove only of its misuses use. Other drugs can cause similar reactions, but penicillin does it more often, simply because if being an extremely useful drug, it is used more often!

If a child has an flu in this case, bravely battling some stubborn infection, then the most effective medication should be used to help him.

One of the very useful strik. ings of penicillin is that the laboratories have perfected how to make a variation which is long-lasting, a quality we cannot reproduce in any other drugs.

Therefore I can see plenty of excellent reasons why this child should continue to have penicillin. If (which is not too likely here) this much use of the drug he becomes sensitive to it, that's time enough for change. And there is no reason so far that it will "lose its effectiveness because of continued use.

I don't like to appear to be on both sides of the argument — saying "don't use penicillin" one day, and "do use it" another.

When I warn against it. I do so only because I violently protest pointless use of it.

It's like saying that someone opposes automobiles simply because he protests against hard driving.

By all means, let's use penicillin when needed. Let's never misuse it. It is too good to be wasted — too good to use unless there is real need.

Dear Dr. Molner: A neighbor gave me a box for our children. It had been used by a person who died of cancer. Is it safe? — H.B.

Yes, absolutely.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've heard about bad teeth causing people to feel ill at the time. I have several teeth broken off at my gums. On the side that has the most trouble I have a few inches of hearing, ear aches and a constant headache. Would you advise me to have all my teeth pulled, as they all seem bad? — E.R.

I can't be certain that the broken off and probably infected teeth are the exact cause of your troubles — but it is possible. So to have all of them out is the only condition is a strain on your health. As to having all of them removed — rely on your dentist's advice. He is the one to decide whether you have enough worth saving.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer can be simple. Send for my booklet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and dime in coin to cover cost of handling and postage.

Irrationalism Is Our Biggest, Worst Enemy

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In a world of conflicting forces, our real enemy is not communism or fascism or any other political "ism." The real enemy, in all countries, is irrationalism — that is the "ism" we have most to fear.

Communism and fascism are merely symptoms of the deeply seated irrationalism in all of us. It takes different forms in different countries; but it is everywhere based on the same emotions — rage and fear.

And the terrible thing about irrationalism is that it creates one evil to fight another — violence against violence, hate against hate, extremism against extremism.

The irrational imperialism of the European nations in Asia and Africa has brought forth the irrational anti-colonial movements, in which fear has been replaced by rage.

The irrational tyranny of the Russian Czar gave birth to the irrational rule of Lenin and Stalin.

The extreme right-wing corruption of a Batista made inevitable the extreme left-wing fanaticism of a Castro.

These political doctrines seem to be on opposite sides, but they are closely allied, because all manifestations of the irrational in man, big and small, destructive impulses, big, anger and his frustration.

Defeating the evils may have subdued the irrational drives, in the German people, but the drives are more abroad today than they were 20 years ago. There is more confusion, more fear, more race hatred and more antagonism, judging by anxiety in society than the human race has ever known.

For the dark irrational dwelling within man cannot be defeated by force. Force only fans the flames of resentment and rebellion. This is a lesson we should have learned from Lao-tse, Confucius and Christ; but we have not learned it, and we are paying a heavy price for ignoring it.

In the end, I fear, only the ultimate bomb will convert mankind to pacifism; only a destruction that is nearly total will awaken us to the profound psychological truth at the heart of all world religions; only a doomsday fall will make us aware of our constant danger of the irrationalism deep within our own breasts.

Meanwhile, each "ism" gives rise to its opposite; and both opposites are fated to end in a mad whirling dance of hate and mutual annihilation. We see it everywhere in the world — there is no third force of rationalism to temper the fanatic, the savage extremes of feeling. Each day the forces of hate embrace and clench more furious, and allies and enemies are swept along together in the mad embrace along the precipice of doom.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PURPOSE

Something must always lift us, else we would become shackle, or fall.

There is something in us all that makes us feel we are not strong enough for many an emergency, and we feel we must somehow be reinforced.

And it is this realization that we carry which arouses the flame within us that warms our souls, stirs our hearts and makes us say to ourselves that we can win, that we can excel, that we can go higher!

We do not know what this force is that lifts us, we call it the hidden purpose.

Without purpose to lift us, to lead us, to drive us, life is a dull incentive.

The poet, the tree parted in autumn foliage, the towering sky-scraper, the book you have read, the experience you have had, the teacher, the woodsman, the scientist — these have all had a deeper purpose behind them.

The silent man, who thinks and plods on, how often he emerges as a giant and controlling figure in the world.

We are not able to judge a purpose. He, or she, who works and harbors it, is able to know its dominating and inspiring power.

The more we feel that we understand the great God, the more do we feel an enlarging purpose growing and maturing within us.

It is this purpose that we own which leads us through life in the midst of doubt and consecutive failure and which gives us our every victory.

The purposeful and the purposeful life is the only happy and successful life.

Banana Skins Become Wax

Mimico Weekly

There is some interesting progress in the banana skin field. Dr. Kenneth Jewers, a British scientist, has found a waste-skins and getting a pound of wax from 10 pounds of banana skins. This is no word yet on how this wax will be used. The patient, Albany, it can be made into a new sort of super-wax for hardwood floors. Where peel banana skins do slip as easily and merrily as on an old-fashioned banana skin out on the sidewalk.

How Lobsters Travel

Belleville and District Home, School Council Meets

"Equality of Educational Opportunity in Ontario" was the theme of the recent meeting of the Belleville and District Home and School Council held at King George School, Belleville.

School education chairman, Mr. Gordon Hutchinson, moderated a panel of local educators who had attended the Ontario Conference on Education held this fall in Windsor, Ontario.

Panellists were: Mrs. Grace Anderson, Queen Mary School staff; Mrs. Dorothy Blakely, guidance staff teacher in Belleville Public Schools; Mr. H. R. Frink, principal, Queen Victoria School; Mr. W. J. Musgrove, principal of Area Secondary School; Mr. L.F. Reid, principal, Quinte Secondary School and Mr. Arnold Clerc, principal, Belleville Collegiate Institute.

In introducing the speakers, Mr. Hutchinson, refereed to the working papers for the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations' study project, "Equality of Educational Opportunity in Ontario".

USEFUL HAPPY CITIZEN

"The aim of all education is to produce a citizen who is publicly useful and privately happy.

There is much evidence to show that throughout the Province of Ontario there is great disparity in the opportunity for and the quality of, education offered to students, in urban or in rural areas, in metropolitan areas or in outlying districts.

There are many students who lack the ability to benefit from the academic courses offered in most of the District High Schools in the Province, but who could assimilate training for a trade, and become workers are needed in our industrial society.

Many parts particularly in areas away from the large centres are concerned about such matters and have expressed a desire to learn more about the reasons for conditions as they now exist, and the possibility for improvement in these conditions.

Therefore, the Board of Directors of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, Inc., at its April meeting, adopted a plan for the study of "Equality of Educational Opportunity in Ontario".

The primary purpose of this study is to make Home and School members aware of existing school facilities in their own communities, and to learn, through study, what conditions will provide equal educational opportunities for their children from kindergarten to college."

EQUALITY OF EDUCATION

What is meant by Equality of Educational Opportunity? It is this: - firstly, to obtain the best for each child according to his physical, mental, social and spiritual needs, and, secondly, the chance for the type of education that will benefit each child to the utmost based upon his ability, his interests and his needs.

Mr. Hutchinson concluded his remarks by inviting every association to work on this study project and by diligent effort to bring it to a successful conclusion. He emphasized that this study was the job of the association not of the principal of each school!

Mrs. Grace Anderson began by giving a "word" picture of just what the Ontario Conference on Education was like. It was the first conference of this kind with delegates from many different groups and with difficulties centred on the theme "The Quest for Excellence in Education". Mrs. Anderson attended the sessions on "Individual Interests of Pupils."

She said that only in the past few years has anything specific been done about individual student differences and it is based on the premise of equal opportunity for each child to achieve to the best of his or her ability. Make democracy thriving really for each child.

Individual differences caused by heredity, environment, disabilities are discovered, by testing, done by qualified personnel (not necessarily teachers) and the results compiled. From these results, pupils could be grouped more accurately - normal, gifted, or slow learners. However, there is still the difficulty of obtaining a specific assistance for the teachers who not only may have pupils in all three of the mentioned groups, but, also, pupils who are over-achievers and under-achievers.

SPECIAL CLASSES NEEDED

Mrs. Anderson emphasized the need for special classes to be set up for the especially slow learners and that these children should be discovered at the early school years.

Provincial governments should provide more certified psychologists, more remedial teachers and increased library services. Auxiliary education classes should be established.

The good teacher is the key to achievement of higher standards in education. The standard of entrance to a Teachers College should be raised to equal that of Ontario universities and that further training be provided. The value of in-service training and summer courses arranged by the local school boards to keep teachers up-to-date on the latest educational methods was stressed.

The report important result of the conference by this group, Mrs. Anderson added, was the recommendation to establish a Central Research Institute. This would be a non-governmental institute for research to assess the primary needs of education. All teachers would be able to use the findings and pass the benefits along to the child in the classroom.

In closing Mrs. Anderson quoted Dr. R.W. B. Jackson: "If we want the best education possible for our children and, I believe we must have this, we must be prepared to pay for it in blood, sweat--and cash!"

SPECIAL GROUPS

Mrs. Dorothy Blakely spoke on Education of Special Groups, the "Exceptional Child," by the establishment of special classes in special schools under the supervision of the Auxiliary Classes Branch of the Department of Education. These classes would be for gifted children, "average children" and classes for slow learners and "auxiliary" classes for especially slow learners. Teachers for these classes should have special training in addition to the regular teaching certificate.

At the present time, there are too few of these special classes; a lack of adequately trained teachers and a lack of knowledge of the Auxiliary Services available. One of these is suggested that a travelling staff be employed and used as a means of dispelling religious intolerance.

HOME RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The minority felt that religious education was the job of the home and the church and State (schools) should be neutral. This can't be objective about beliefs. There is no place for it when schools are open to all faiths. Ontario is the only province which includes it in its course of study. The 50 per cent figure mentioned before does not indicate a Christian population and they felt that the regulations ought to be changed.

As to the right of exemption, they felt that it was difficult to withdraw from a highly respected program.

NOT REPEATED

If the regulations can not be repealed, they said that the present course of study should be changed and made some changes in the Teachers College program might improve the attitude of teachers, where now they often feel doubtful and insecure. It was also pointed out that teachers may claim the right of exemption and, in this case, suitable supervision could be made for exchange teachers.

The Religious Education group brought forward the following suggestions: - that Ontario Council of Education be asked to find any solution to this very complicated problem.

Some of the questions discussed were as follows: How long should children remain in school? What percentage should consider technical education? What percentage should enter university? What type of education do parents want for their children? Will the non-academic pupil be successful?

There is a great need for personnel co-operation with regard to the acceptance of technical education.

In defining a 'drop-out', Mr. Orr stated that a "drop-out" is a pupil who leaves school before his or her potential is reached. The ladder to educational success and the abyss of failure is not a true concept of education, but rather, a set of successive plateaus with many sideroads. We must remember that there are just as many above average students as over average students in our educational system. Some pupils leave school because of lack of motivation, opportunity, means, and stimulating courses.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Recommendations put forward by the study were as follows: There should be a much more effective guidance and we should provide the parent as one of the best guides! Through good guidance there can be early recognition of the potential "drop-out"; healthy attitudes towards education can be developed and realistic educational goals can be set; composite secondary schools should provide a more diversified curriculum allowing for individual differences and preferences; there should be improved orientation and training of teachers. The teacher is the chief 'cog in the wheel, a part from the parent; home study was another of the topics discussed, Mr. Orr stated.

There should be increased attention to instruction in "How to Study", and more assigned home study for senior elementary students. Parents should provide good facilities for study in the home, but, if this is not possible, it was felt that accommodation should be provided for students to do their home work at school; a good public relations program is important to education if we are to give equal educational opportunity. Parents can play an effective role; there is a need for improved co-operation between all education levels.

Directly or indirectly, in all probability it will be up to Belleville residents whether they want fluoridation of the city water supply.

And that, despite the fact that city council last year approved of the matter and directed the city public utilities commission to take fluoridation program into effect.

Last year carrying out of the fluoridation program was deferred due to lack of finances and in December council voted to defer the matter until March 31st.

Council indicated that following that date, the fluoridation program would be proceeded with unless a petition bearing the names of 10 percent of the electors was received asking that the matter be placed before the electorate.

Legal opinion was sought on the matter and the city solicitor has advised council that if a petition signed by 10 percent of the electors was received asking this the matter go to the electorate, council would be bound to submit the question either before or at the time of the municipal election.

Alderman William Jarvah took his stand that the matter of fluoridation should be decided "only by the electors."

"We are not going to back out from under it we say that unless we receive a petition with 2,000 names, all the people of Belleville will have to take fluoridation," he said.

Mayor A M. Haig said he agreed with Alderman Jarvah.

"The people should be a voice," he said "Only the people themselves can decide whether they want fluoridation."

Mayor Haig said the fluoridation question was first under discussion by the utilities commission and he thought by council will be deferred until the receipt of correspondence from this body.

mission on publications for tax and tariff measures to reduce the flow of Canadian advertising dollars into imported United States magazines.

Dr. Senta Siborn, Mr. Diefenbaker said three suggestions will be considered in drafting legislation: that the age limited of the present Medina appointments, removal of the Senate's remaining powers on money bills, and a set length of term for Senate appointments.

The prime minister also announced he has already asked provincial governments for agreement on a constitutional amendment that would let Ottawa go ahead with a new plan of contributory old age pensions, the Hon. Horace, in the House speech.

TAKE UP WHOLE TIME

Mr. Pearson spoke for almost 2½ hours and Mr. Diefenbaker topped this in speaking up to one hour 10 min. Yesterday the prime minister was to continue his speech on the opening of today's sitting at 11 a.m.

The length of the two speeches was expected to put the Liberal Leader Hazen Argue out of what normally is considered "leaders' day" in the throne speech debate.

Mr. Pearson presented a motion of no confidence in the government, "because of such conduct as to bring failure to bring forward policies to deal with the real problems confronting the country."

Mr. Argue was expected to add another, non-confidence motion today.

During the debate, though cutting at times, was somewhat subdued in tone as the Commons settled down to business. Pearson which is expected to lead to a general election later this year.

SAYS PROMISES BROKEN

Mr. Pearson, said eight basic promises of the Conservatives have not been kept.

These were pledges of full, client government, a suffering from unemployment, lower sales and interest rates, elimination of waste and extravagance, a balanced budget, an increase in trade, especially abroad, maintenance of economic stability, a national health order, reduced government spending.

Each one of these promises has been carried out," Mr. Pearson said.

"Canadians will be given a better chance after the next election," he added.

But he indicated that the government should have presented a budget--as he put it, a financial accounting to the people.

He said the present Conservative government, Mr. Pearson stated was piling up a deficit of about $2,000,000,000, a $900,000,000 drop in the unemployment insurance fund, and a $500,000,000 investigation in the 1962 budget for the construction of a storm sewer on Gordon Street to run from the Bay Shore to Harriett Street, the work to be completed for the Winter Works Program.

Alderman Jarvah objected to the idea of funds being allocated out of the year's budget, until all tender figures had been considered.

Under the Winter Works Program if the work is done the costs of the project would be split 50-50 between and Provincial governments.

The council as a whole overruled the objections of the Councillormen and voted to approve the recommendation.

be said.

MORE CABINET DISUNITY

Mr. Diefenbaker said that reports of division within the cabinet "had not gone far enough."

"The unity among us is always strong, and I know most effective."

At another point he said that there is and has been no foundation" for rumors of disagreement between himself and Finance Minister Fleming.

"Methinks the lady doth protest too often," said J. W. Pickersgill (L — Honavista-Twillingate).

Dealing with the government's representations to Britain on the British Entry into the Common Market, Mr. Diefenbaker said the government was carrying out its responsibilities in doing this.

What would the Liberals have said if the government hadn't put Canada's case forward?

Mr. Pearson said he intended this past statement; that a Commonwealth Prime Ministers conference should be held before Britain makes a final decision.

Parkdale Baptist S.S. Donates $304.44 to Spread the Gospel

Last Sunday morning a cheque for $304.44 was given by the Sunday School of Parkdale Baptist Church for the spread of the gospel in the Province of Quebec.

The project to raise this money was started several months before Christmas, and its aim was to give a Christmas gift to Jesus Christ on His birthday. The Sunday School scholars contributed each week in special envelopes.

The services on Sunday were conducted by Mr. Fernand Petit-Clerc from Lennoxville, Quebec. At the morning service Mr. Petit-Clerc gratefully accepted the gift on behalf of the fellowship Baptist Churches.

Council Votes To Provide For Storm Sewer

The current city policy of providing money out of the general rate for the construction of storm sewers, rather than by levying area, came under attack at the council meeting.

The objection was made by Alderman Walter T. Elliott who said that construction costs fall back on the taxpayer as a whole.

He said it was high time that the purchasers of property in the city be called upon to help with the drainage of their own lots.

The discussion came up as the result of a council recommendation for a sum of $4,200 to be included in the 1963 budget for the construction of a storm sewer on Gordon Street to run from the Bay Shore to Harriett Street, the work to be completed for the Winter Works Program.

Alderman Jarvah objected to the idea of funds being allocated out of the year's budget, until all tender figures had been considered.

Under the Winter Works Program if the work is done the costs of the project would be split 50-50 between and Provincial governments.

The council as a whole overruled the objections of the Councillormen and voted to approve the recommendation.

DIRECTORS BOARD MEETING

Mrs. R. Stenson, council president, gave an interesting report of the provincial board meeting of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Federation of Home and School held along with Mrs. R. D. Jones, District Organizer.

Brian Gray, Prince Charles and Hillcrest Associations were in charge of arrangements for the social hour following the meeting.

Mrs. Georgina Digby was pianist.

Seventeen city and district associations answered to the roll call and the Council was pleased to welcome Home and School members from: as far away as Marmora.

AWARDED DAMAGES.

LONDON (AP) — A man whose truck caught fire accused best in a collision with a dog was awarded $23.15 ($100) damages from the animal's owner Monday. Hyman Gomberg said the 200-pound St. Bernard dashed out of a store and in front of his truck. The truck's radiator was bashed. The dog, owned by Arthur Smith, loped away unhurt.

ELECTION SOFTENS?

Mrs. Diefenbaker, in reply said the Liberal leader's voice softened when it came to election talk.

It was reminiscent of the 1954 election campaign when "I had our jobs"—the motion by Mr. Pearson soon after he became Liberal leader—that the Conservative government was doing so many things right, so far away as Marmora.

What would the Liberals have said if the government hadn't put Canada's case forward?

Mr. Pearson said he intended this past statement; that a Commonwealth Prime Ministers conference should be held before Britain makes a final decision.

Silhouette Revived in Spring Show

By TEDDY HASKIN

PARIS (Reuter) — Spring fashions at the opening of the Paris dress season today revived the princess silhouette with flared skirts, short necklines and indented waistlines.

Jean Desses, the Greek couturier, showed a princess fashion look in a real princess — Princess Sophie of Greece, wife of Prince Joseph Franz Metternich, who came from Athens for the Desses showing.

Jacques Fath, the gutter-playing, song - and - dance couturier, also revived new versions of the long - lost waistline. His basic theme is a flared look with wide belt-shaped or spreading skirts and bodices tapering sharply to a raglan or yoke at the waist. Fath's collection revived the bell-shaped Desses of the 1930s' cost style.

Two suit styles are widely emerged are widen from mens' wear. Princess feature one is a mix on short - waisted jackets, often tapering to a point. Jackets with cropped sleeves sheared off just below the natural waistline. Extra-deep cardigan suit jackets, gathered at the back and with belts to hook each or wide belts.

Gabrie Sare in umbrella pleats or gores of the same hot-pink as the fullness when paired with Estorel's longer jackets.

Chitton is a winner in both the Estorel and Desses collections. Some chiffon fabrics are shaded from dark to light, or are printed in small floral or paisley patterns.

Estorel employs chiffon in a series of Twist dresses, cut with simple fullness for confection dancing frocks of chiffon or super crepe fall straight and unruffled from the deep, scooped necklines.

Brilliant colors flashed across the Paris fashion horizon. Jean Desses retains a supply of sassy - hitting silhouette with bright electric fashion fabric interests.

Conical-shape skirts rise to show the knees in front and are pointed one inch longer behind. Bertold Klein has a treatment contrast with lightly - indented fronts. Jacques Heim introduces a deep-hole necklines, set of the backs filled in with bow or drapery of the matching fabric blouse.

Patou's designer, Karl, continues to endorse sleeveless dresses opposed to other designers who are reviving long tight sleeves.

WI Entertains Council, Wives, Husbands

On January 10th, Wooler Women's Institute entertained their husbands and the Township Council and their wives.

Mrs. Robert Reid and Mrs. G. Herrington were the hostesses and Mrs. Mac Anderson presided over the president and secretary were present.

Thank you notes were read from the shut-ins who received a gift from the W.I. at Christmas. Those who took the needy duties, will be attending summary day, February 8th, at Gretton.

Correspondence was dealt with. A letter from Mrs. Whitehouse announcing the senior work shop will be held January 30th, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Brighton Agriculture building, with Mrs. James Haggerty in charge.

The 4-H lambs are busy getting the 4-H girls ready for achievement day on February 3rd held at Brighton, in the Agriculture building.

To prove that Wooler Women's Institute ladies are an active group they are planning now to cater to Hoard's sales barn, February 8th.

F. Bellstedt To Address VON Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday evening.

After the business had the minutes of the December meeting which were accepted. In the absence of the treasurer, Mr. J. Ketcheson, Mrs. Ross read the financial statement. He also stated that Mr. Glenne had audited the books and approved the auditing. When this has been accomplished the programme for the annual dinner will be picked.

Mr. Frank Bellstedt, secretary of the programme committee for the dinner, stated he had secured Mr. R. Hilliard, Q.C., chairman of Corbyville. Mr. Bellstedt will give a talk on South Africa, a timely topic. T. E. Franklin will endeavor to secure a singer for the dinner.

On behalf of the nominating committee, Mr. Harold Parker stated there was a vacancy for one committee man. The nominating committee would welcome suggestions from members as to whom they would like to see.

Mrs. R. Grant had tickets for the dinner with her, which she distributed.

Miss Catherine Ross, Registered Director and her successor, Miss Hazel Grimshaw, attended the branch last week. They felt that the board should adopt a uniform personnel policy for the nurses, in regard to hours, and remuneration. There is a possibility of attaining a hospital referral plan in Belleville. This would place a V.O.N. nurse on part-time duty at the hospital. Miss Ross pointed out the valuable time and publicity, namely that some of the local V.O.N. services had secured in the past, stressing publicity by showing slides to clubs.

The annual meeting is to be held in Ottawa in the week of June 11.

Miss Dorothy Connor gave the nurses report for December, which showed a total of 1,106 calls, the month of 106 patients. The nurses made 537 home visits. Comparing with November an increase in morbidity care. In Special Activities, one visit was made to Canadian Corbyville School and two visits to Douglas Atkins School.

CGIT Girl's Work Board Plans Banquet

A meeting of the C.G.I.T. Work Board of Bethel Heritage, January 9th, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held with chairman, Mrs. R. C. Ellis, presiding.

Mrs. Wilson reported that the chocolates would soon be available to the C.G.I.T. groups for sale, and also urged that the stewardship cards be filled in as soon as possible.

January 28 - February 2, is Canadian Girls in Training week and it is hoped that all the Canadian Girls in Training in Belleville and Bethel Heritage, will attend Sunday, January 28th.

Plans are being made for the annual citywide Mother-Daughter banquet which will be held this year in Bethel Heritage United Church on February 27. As Mrs. W. Slavin, chairman of the Events committee, found it necessary to resign from the Board, Mrs. J. Farrell agreed to act as chairman for the balance of the year. Leaders will be notified by this committee when final plans have been decided upon for the banquet.

The following delegates were appointed to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Girls' Work Board in Toronto: Mrs. J. Farrell, Mrs. J. Hamilton, Mrs. O. Bertrand and Mrs. B. Stenson.

REACHES 100TH BIRTHDAY — Mrs. Mary Anne Ford, born in Connecticut, U.S.A., and married at age 23 in 1884, celebrated her 100th birthday January 21. Her husband died in 1934. Mrs. Ford now lives with a daughter in Dorchester, Ont., and every Sunday gets a phone call from a son-in-law in the United States. (CP Photo).

Mrs. Mary Anne Ford Will Be 100 Years Old Jan. 31.

By WARREN MacDOUGALL.

DORCHESTER, Ont. (CP)— Mrs. Mary Anne Ford lifted the album with the brown cover, flaking and cracked with age, and turned the first page to look at an oval photograph.

She smiled at the 23-year-old girl and her husband, who, stopped by the camera for a wedding day in March of 1884, gazed uncomfortably back.

Mrs Ford will be 100 years old Jan. 31. She seems younger as she sits in the den she defiates with humor the flattery of those who defer to her age.

She was born in Omemee, Ont., near Peterborough. Her father, Robert Cammon was a farmer, died in an accident when she was young. Later Mary Anne moved with her mother and stepfather to Minden, 40 miles north of Lindsay.

She worked there as a telegrapher for the CNR, tapping messages in morse. Part on the key? "I could send messages as fast as anyone would want," Mrs. Ford recalled.

FARMED 32 YEARS

Mary Anne married John Ford and they moved southwest that year to a 200-acre farm near Bridge 10 miles south of London. They farmed for 32 years before coming to live in Dorchester. Mr. Ford died in 1934.

Life on a Canadian farm in the 19th century was not easy, Mrs. Ford shrugs it the suggestion of hardship. "We had enough warmth and enough to eat."

Every Thursday she drove a horse and buggy laden with earthen roads to deliver the farm's produce to customers in Port Stanley. She'd stand in the old Market Square.

Mrs. Ford's eyes brightened when she talked of the horse and buggy. There was another horse on the farm, a temperamental Clydesdale. At night the massive Clydesdale would kick his stall with steel-shod hooves.

"You could hear the noise for half a mile," Mrs. Ford said. She often arose from bed and, with a lamp in hand, crept across the dark yard to the barn. "I'd step him, she said, "and give him a couple of good whacks with a stick."

TELEPHONE CALLS

Mrs. Ford now lives with her daughter, Mrs. Evelena McMurray. There are two other daughters, Mrs. Percy Smith of Ashcourt, Ont., and Miss Nellie Ford of Winnipeg; three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Every Sunday she awaits a telephone call from a son-in-law, Harry Cammon of Auburn, N.Y., widower of another daughter, Mr. Cammon has been calling his mother - in - law at 1 p.m. on Sundays for 18 years.

The pages of the album with the brown cover contain the photographs of many relatives and friends. Mrs. Ford can name them all.

There is her mother, wearing a wedding garland of orange blossoms, and her father as he was in a moment of 130 years ago; here is a man and wife who were friends of the Fords at the turn of the century.

Mrs. Ford closed the album. Her hand trembled slightly. She remembered: "I am sometimes forgets what happens in her home in 1962, but she will always remember the earlier days.

Parent-Child Relationship Topic at PTA

St. Joseph's P.T.A. meeting was opened with prayer led by the president, Mr. Paul Fleming.

Due to the absence of the treasurer, Mr. Herbert gave a brief outline of the transactions of the P.T.A.

Prize attendance was won by Sister Mary Norreen's room.

The program for the evening was a tape-talk provided through the Bellville Public Education C.F.U.L. Dr. Bressett a renowned pediatrician and his wife, who has taken several course in child psychology gave an address to the Social Life Conference in Peterborough on the subject of "The Role of the Father and Mother in Parent-Child Relationships."

Dr. H. Bressett stated that there are five divisions in the development of the child, each of which required different action on the part of the parents. He advised the prime functions towards the child was his education and this should not be the sole responsibility of the mother.

An informative and provocative group discussion followed after the tape. Mr. Gordon Tuggey directing the question.

The president announced that there would be a four-room addition to St. Joseph's school and it is hoped to be completed by September 1962.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dell, Mrs. Keogh.

Carmel WI Views Dew Line Film

The January meeting of the Carmel W.I. was held in the hall with 35 members and nine visitors present. It was decided to have the annual banquet. Reports be dispensed with, for the evening. Letter of thanks was read by the secretary from the Hospital Children's School and one of the members moved that the W.I. donate $10 to the Pleasantville YPU, in aid of the Hungarian Relief. Another night out was brought to the floor. Prizes were auctioned off to get tickets for the Quinte performance of "Annie Get Your Gun".

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. K. Lyons, agriculture convener, who introduced her program with community singing accompanied by Miss R. Britnell.

Mrs. S. Homer, gave a reading entitled "Grandpa in the cooking year". Mrs. Lyons introduced Mrs. Sudder as a member of the staff of the Belle Telephone Co. and showed pictures of the Dew Line, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Sudder showed pictures of the Dew Line, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

There is a contest for another meeting and presented him with a gift of appreciation from the ladies.

Women Take Course for Car Owners

CALGARY (CP)—Technically women are learning how to differentiate between a differential and a positraction rear axle and identify a break drum breakdown.

The women, with 27 men, are attending a car-owner's course for evenings at the Southern Alberta Calgary Institute of Technology and Art.

Instructor Nyal Tweedle says: "The course is not designed to teach students how to repair cars.

"Instead, they learn how a car operates, what maintenance should be done and at what intervals."

The women dismantle every part of an automobile, have each explained and then reassemble it. Before receiving their certificates they bring their cars to school, point out each part and change a tire.

Mr. Tweedle says he finds the women a "real learner" to learn than the men. "To women, everything is new. The men have a basic understanding before they even start the course."

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD U.C.W.

The first meeting of the new organization "United Church Women" was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Clarke on January 11th, with 16 present, and one child.

Mrs. Clifford Reid, president, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Vessey had charge of the devotional. "What is the Church," and Mrs. Roy Clarke read the Scripture lesson.

A short business discussion on "Why I Like the Church". "What Makes a Church Alive?", "What is the Role of a Church in a Community" was held.

Roll call included paying of fees for the new year and Mrs. Reid closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Reid closed the meeting with prayer after which dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Clarke.

HOLY TRINITY G.A.

SHANNONVILLE — The Ladies' Guild of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville met at the home of Mrs. W. Houston, on January 18.

The president opened the meeting. Roll call showed thirteen present.

Then were several of the members not missing through illness on having moved away. Correspondence was read and the Guild is happy to add two new members Mrs. James Kent and Mrs. Frank Bedford.

The treasurer gave the annual report which showed a prosperous year's work.

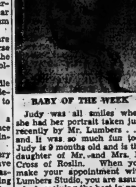
Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald thanked the Guild for the gift sent to her son by Mr. Fitzgerald in hospital.

The ladies expressed thanks for a Christmas parcel received from Mrs. Marion, a former member.

Plans for a turkey supper to be held at Mrs. Gordon Segar's in February were further discussed.

Next meeting to be held at Mrs. Lorne Spencer's on February 7.

Part of the meeting closed, Mrs. Boyce Cook, Mrs. James Kent served refreshments, which were enjoyed by all.



Mrs. Josie Williams thanked the hostess.

$300 Scholarship To Be Presented By IODE

Mrs. W. R. Morrison, Hamilton, president of the Provincial Chapter of the I.O.D.E., Belleville, announced at a recent meeting that a new scholarship will be offered this year, 1962, from the Lucy Morrison Memorial Fund for Nursing, valued at $300, to a student with at least Grade X standing who is enrolled at the National Ballet School of Canada.

It is widely recognized fact that the National Ballet is contributing to the cultural life of Canada.

The Provincial Chapter of Ontario, I.O.D.E., offers two other Art scholarships from this fund —one in the artist's department of the Royal Conservatory of Music, University of Toronto, and one at the Ontario College of Art in the painting and drawing course — valued at $300 each.

Clare Booth Luce Critical Of Jacky Kennedy's Clothes

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Clare Booth Luce says that whatever Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy "does for French fashions does not help our own fashion industry."

Mrs. Luce, former ambassador to Italy, Republican congresswoman and playwright, also says in an article in the current issue of Modern Maturity:

"When she wears French-designed, French-made clothes, it may be interpreted by fashion-conscious Americans as rejection of American designers' ability to bring out her full beauty.

"This would be unfortunate, since it's country can boast of some of the finest designers in the world."

Mrs. Luce was replying to a question by a reader: "Do you think Mrs. Kennedy should be concerned for buying some of her clothes in Paris?"

TRIBUTE TO FRENCH

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said in Washington that Mrs. Kennedy "wears American clothes in the course of her official duties."

Miss Turnure said Mrs. Kennedy's wardrobe one exception—"is a tribute to the French," this, Miss Turnure said, was when Mrs. Kennedy wore a dress in honor of Givenchy, a French designer, during her state visit to Paris last June.

Mrs. Kennedy wore clothes by American designers during her recent trip to South America with the president, Miss Turnure said.

Miss Turnure said she had no comment on what Mrs. Kennedy wears in private. And she said the White House officially would have no comment on Mrs. Luce's article.

Social Eve Held Prior To Departure

TWEED — Friends and neighbors from the Farnsworth and Ledgerton districts gathered at the home of Mr. T. S. McCrea to spend a social evening prior to her departure to take up residence in her new home at Tweed.

After a social evening of fellowship and reminiscing about days gone by, Mrs. McCrea was presented with an electric tea kettle and pop-up toaster.

Although taken by surprise she expressed sincere appreciation to all for their kind remembrance and invited them to visit her in her new home.

Chicken Esquimalt
A Smash Hit
by Mary Moore

A week ago yesterday I told you to watch for a dish called Chicken Esquimalt that I made for a dinner party.

This was such a hit with all present that it deserves a place on your dinner table and an accessible slot in your recipe box or book.

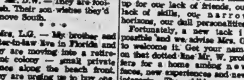
When you read through the recipe be not off by the two cups sour cream. The only thing you could omit (and I say this reluctantly) are the ripe olives. But don't leave them out unless you must economize.

Combine sour cream with tarragon, thyme, garlic salt, paprika and salt. Dip pieces of chicken into sour cream mixture, drain off excess, then roll in cornflake crumbs, coating well. Melt butter in baking dish (please see below). Place chicken skin down in dish and bake uncovered 30 minutes; turn, bake approximately 25 minutes longer. Meanwhile, to remaining sour cream mixture add shrimp and olives. Pour sauce over chicken during last 10 minutes of baking time.

Note 1: This may be cooked two ways. I first cooked the chicken my large pyrocream frying pan on its own electric burner, then all cooking time being two hours. This frying pan is large and because of its attractive design may be taken directly to the table sizzling hot.

Note 2: Chicken Esquimalt may be baked cooled and frozen, carefully covered, in a pyrocream dish. When serving time is about two hours ahead, remove from freezer, put directly in oven to thaw and heat through.

With this I served spinach with a mushroom sauce, tossed salad and a half and half mixture of cauliflower flowerets and carrot chunks that were sprinkled with finely chopped parsley. Our salad was in individual wooden bowls and consisted of a little mound of dressed greens on lettuce topped with long crescents of ripe avocado.



TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Beans (see Monday); Shredded Cabbage and Carrot Salad with Cold-Pack Boiled Salad Dressing; Apple-sauce with Chocolate Date Layer Cake; Tea.

CHICKEN ESQUIMALT
(Serves six generously.)

2 cups dairy sour cream, 1 teaspoon tarragon, 1 teaspoon thyme, ¼ teaspoon garlic salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 teaspoons salt, 6 chicken breasts or 3½ lbs. chicken—I had 3 breasts and 4 chicken legs, ¼ cups of fine cornflake crumbs, ¼ cup butter, 1 cup cooked, cleaned shrimp or one canned shrimp, tiny size, drained, ¾ cup diced ripe olives.

Mrs. L.G. — We live for our children. They are all we have in life.

Mr. D.W. — They are foolish. They don't even thank you when they move South.

• • •

Mrs. L.G. — My brother and sister-in-law live in Florida and they are moving into a retirement colony — small private homes about five beach front. They are urging us to buy one, too, and settle down there.

But we don't want anything for ourselves. Our only interest is our children and grandchildren, and they all live in a ring around New York. If we moved we'd harder ever see them.

And what would we do down there? Just sit in the sun? Or play cards all day? Up here we help the kids, go on errands, baby-sit. We share their worries and their joys. Why give it all up?

• • •

Mr. D.W. — My sister is a fool and she'd better wake up before it's too late. I hate to have to tell her this, but it's children consider her a nuisance and a pest.

We have children, too, but we don't hang on their necks the way Carrie and Harry do. And it happens that our children are close friends with Carrie's and they confide their troubles. I feel about having their parents breathing down their necks every day. My nephew's wife topped me off that the best thing that could happen in the family would be for his folks to move South.

At least then they might have a few other subjects to talk about. Now they send your cars with babies, baking, babies. Well, the baby's the object.

• • •

The Council: Every once in a while one hears the expression, "They gave their life to their children." To thoughtful people, this is an alarming predicament. Life is given to each of us by ourselves, too. Those who keep running from self to give it away are escapists. And those to whom they gave their life — what must they give back, in return? How can children fill the total hungers of human beings who lack life, put in their order for the like that?

This is the "light spot" Mr. and Mrs. G. and their children are headed for. The children, with Mr. W. as spokesman, are suddenly aware of the price they must pay for being "all" their parents have.

At this late date, they'd like Mom and Dad to take on a few other concerns — such as each other; such as themselves; such as the world about. Any one of these preoccupations can easily fill half a lifetime. Granted, they're harder to concentrate on and less immediately rewarding than a new baby, a new home or a new recipe. But they're there. They're real problems.

Evading them by being too busy with the children doesn't solve them. It just dumps them on the children eventually. That's where the G. children find themselves now.

So, where's the kindness? To speak bluntly, isn't Mr. G. expecting a mother-in-law? We gave up everything for you, now you make up for the things we gave up — this is the unspoken barter. You must make up for our lack of friends, our lack of skills, our narrow horizons, our dull personalities.

Fortunately, a new lack is possible and we advise Mrs. G. to welcome it. Get your mama on that doleful Miss Ida, W. problem for a home among new faces, new experiences and new friends. Grandchildren and grandchildren can visit you (not stay with you we hope).

As long last you will begin to fill your emotional needs by connections, through your children — not through a feed pipe perpetually attached to your offspring.

Four Delegates Will Attend Special Service

HALLOWAY.— On January 17th, the women of the church met at the home of Mrs. Coleman Townsend for their meeting, with a good attendance.

Mrs. H. Morgan was leader of the worship period and used the theme, "Praise and Pray in the Lord for His Creativity," and read a portion of Psalm 117.

The Scripture was taken from Col. 1:15-17, and St. John 1:1-3,9 and read by Mrs. A. Donaldson. The dedication and prayers were given by Mrs. Morgan.

Mrs. Charles Huffman, as president of the new group, took charge. Membership fee amounted to $7.50. A new mission book is to be procured.

Mrs. John Holden gave the treasurer's report.

The new appointments were made as follows: Mrs. Earl Snider to the board of stewards; Mrs. Coleman Townsend to the session; Mrs. Ed. Emerson and Mrs. R. Daly to the department of Christian education.

Renovation plans for the parsonage were discussed and some decisions concerning members' parts were made.

Four delegates to the inaugural service in Bridge Street Church on Sunday were elected, with four alternates.

Mrs. Townsend and her assistants served refreshments.

JOHNSTOWN — The United Church Women of Johnstown held their first meeting in the home of Mrs. William S. Harry with a good attendance.

Mrs. Earl Stickle, president, conducted in her opening remarks, that this is the day of beginning again, after which we can say, you to yourself, "All of us, unfortunately, are blessed with hindsight. We can see clearly — after something happens — how the situation should have been handled. But too many of us are prone to announce this revelation to the world at large and to the miscreable wrongdoer in particular.

The latter, of course, usually knows exactly where he went astray off the true path, and doesn't have to be reminded by a Monday morning quarterback how he made his mistake.

The second-guesser seems to greet other people's goofs with an air of triumph. But he's not intent on telling them what they should have done that he forgets completely that what they'd like to know now is how to remedy the situation.

If the friend of us, I-told-you-so-er makes a terrible error after disregarding advice on the "only" course of action, then he'll hate to say, "I told you so." The second-guesser, having established himself as a man of vision, will put

Liberal Leader Guesses Mind Of Diefenbaker

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — It is a political fact of life that a pronouncement by government out weighs a statement by the opposition.

The reason for this, naturally enough, is that a government has the immediate means of translating its pronouncements into legislation.

But it is often overlooked that the timing of government pronouncements may be almost as important politically as the pronouncements themselves.

One person who does not overlook political timing is Prime Minister Diefenbaker. He is a recognized as a master in this field by Opposition Leader Pearson.

On Jan. 18, 1960, Mr. Pearson led off the throne speech debate by belaboring the government.

Mr. Diefenbaker made his counter - stroke by making announcements of a royal commission to recommend means of curbing government more efficiently, on plans for Canada to amend its own constitution and on "Canadian control" of any American nuclear warhead, stored in this country.

The debate known as the "Throne speech" in law parlance to the main throne speech outlining government legislation and read at Parliament's opening.

Mr. Pearson Monday had a premonition that the prime minister again was going to run off with the political ball.

Before Mr. Diefenbaker spoke, Mr. Pearson offered this aside in his heavy attack on the government:

"... The prime minister has introduced into our constitution a new convention — and it is a very dubious one indeed — of making his own speech from the throne after the official one has been banded down and of including in that political speech of his own things which he thinks will perhaps get more credit for himself and his party as coming from him than from any more exalted or objective source.

MAY DO IT NOW

"He has done it more than once and for all anyone knows he may be doing it today."

Mr. Diefenbaker was right.

Mr. Diefenbaker made announcements about government plans to ban import of foreign periodicals containing advertising aimed primarily at the Canadian market, a cut — third increase in university grants, Senate reform and a contributory old age pension system.

CASTRO DENIES

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro denied Monday night reports that he may soon release 1,100 prisoners of the unsuccessful 1961 invasion. Castro said in a televised address monitored here that speculation the prisoners may go free "is a dream of a summer night." The mercenaries would not leave Cuba until indemnification was paid.

Mass Murder Blamed on Communists

MONTREAL (CP)—The mass murder of 18 Roman Catholic missionaries in Kongolo, The Congo, Jan. 1, was blamed on Communist agitators Monday by Rev. Gerard Roy, Canadian superior of the Holy Ghost Fathers.

He said in an interview Communist agents accompanied Congolese troops loyal to leftist leader Antoine Gizenga and incited them to machine-gun the missionaries in the town of 35,000 population in northern Katanga.

Father Roy said he based his comments on the report of Rev. Jules Dartmont, a Belgian member of the same order who escaped the massacre.

Two other priests, both Congolese, also escaped. They are Bishop Kalwes and Rev. Gervais Banza. Father Dartmont's report was sent to Father Roy by members of the order in Belgium.

Revised Bill Applies to All Firms, Unions

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's revised version of legislation aimed at determining the financial structure and control of corporations and unions has its application in the Commons Monday.

The measure, introduced by Justice Minister Fulton, contains several changes—notably by applying to Canadian as well as international corporations and unions operating in Canada—from the bill brought in at the last session but not proceeded with.

Another alteration, provides that only some of the wide range of financial and statistical information required may be available to the public. Other types of information are to be kept confidential and penalties of up to $1,000, three months in jail or both are provided for breach of confidence.

With a number of exceptions, corporations are required to furnish the secretary of state with two kinds of reports—one open to public scrutiny and the other confidential.

The requirements for unions apply to all unions operating in Canada and having Canadian branches or to those with fewer than 100 members. Their reports are to be made to the registrar of labor.

MUST GIVE OFFICERS

Information to be open to the public includes name, address, constitution, officers with name and addresser, non-clerical or stenographic employees, branch names and addresses, number of men and women members, names and addresses of employers with whom the union has a collective bargaining agreement and details of any trusteeships imposed on locals by the union.

The confidential information required covers financial statements showing assets, liabilities, income and expenditures; payments to non-residents; unions by Canadian members for initiation fees, dues; health and welfare, death benefit and strike benefit plans; assessments; fines and work permits.

Penalties for non-compliance are similar to those for corporations.

3RD BELLEVILLE LADIES' AUXILIARY FOR CUBS AND SCOUTS

The 3rd Belleville Ladies' Auxiliary for Cubs and Scouts held their January meeting at St. Michael's Junior Club.

The president, Mrs. W. Barrett welcomed all members and introduced the new members.

Correspondence was read from the Provincial Advisory Committee and also the Belleville District Committee for Scout Auxiliaries. A report of the December meeting of the Belleville District Council was appreciated because one item worth mentioning was that swimming for the Cubs and Scouts on Saturdays from 12.45 to 2.05 pm. It is a good way for the boys to earn their "Swimming Badge".

A badge sale has been planned for the February meeting of the Catholic Parent Teachers' Association: It is hoped that all Auxiliary members will give this project their usual good support.

It was announced that the 3rd Belleville Auxiliary will be hostess to the District Committee of Belleville Boy Scout Auxiliaries' annual pot-luck supper on May 2nd.

A successful meeting ended with the serving of refreshments.

1ST AVONDALE CUB AND SCOUT MOTHERS' AUXILIARY

The January meeting of the Avondale Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary was held in the home of Mrs. Harder, Marshal Road.

A note was read from Mr. MacKinnon, Cub Leader, thanking the auxiliary for gifts to the leaders at Christmas.

Reports were given by the treasurer and social convener. The Group Committee report was read by Mrs. Cook, who announced that a new Scout Leader has been recruited, Mr. Ray Dearborn, of Wright Avenue.

Plans were made for the Scout "Coming Up" party to be held the end of January. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Harder, Mrs. Womacott and Mrs. Pugh.

Minutes of the October and December meetings of the executive committee of Belleville District Council were read. Correspondence was read from the District Committee for Scout Auxiliary inviting all Auxiliary members of Belleville and district to attend a "Workshop Meeting" to be held at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill on Friday, February 8th, at Thursday, January 25th to commence at 7.30 p.m. sharp. District Committee executive will lead in round table discussion, to be followed by a question and answer period. Mr. Murray Maw will be the guest speaker. Members are asked to attend this meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. MacKinnon, 153 Wright Avenue on Feb. 25th, 8 p.m. Hostesses to be Mrs. Cooke.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Harder.

Personal Remarks Hurt

DEAR DORIS:—Every chance my mother-in-law has she tells me how terribly thin I look, or "How do I ever get clothes to fit?" or that the reason I look so thin is because I'm so tall. I am five foot seven and weigh 118 pounds.

She is five foot eight and wears a size 44, but I would never think of reminding her that she is at least 40 pounds too heavy. She never gives me a compliment, but I try to give her one often.

I am getting so I don't want her to come and visit us. Surely if she realized that these remarks hurt, she would stop. I have told her that it bothers me when people say I look thin, and that I feel well.

DORIS CLARK

My husband says she resents me as he took her so many places and spent so much on her before we were married.—TALL AND SLIM.

• • •

DEAR TALL AND SLIM—It's that nose-out-of-joint complex that deals the unkind blows. Junior pinches baby sister in the same mood.

Your husband is with you in this—so you are in the strong position. Is there a way in which you can make your mother-in-law feel important to you? This is what she needs.

But that caustic tongue may come of long habit. Some people need to know such remarks hurt, right at the time. You may find she is surprised at the impression she is making.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—My position is something like that of a Heart Breaker. I do not like to be alone too much and do not get out without help because of arthritis. I do all the necessary work of my own house.

I am alone now. My particular requirements would be a congenial spirit, and one who does not drink or smoke. My home is in the country but not a lonely place, with all kinds of garden space. I will be back there in the spring.

I hope H.B. finds suitable company.—BEWILDERED.

• • •

DEAR BEWILDERED:—Advertise in the paper you are reading right now. That way you will reach someone near enough to get in touch with you.

There are many lonely old persons who need a home in the country. Ask Mr. Whitman at the Belleville City Mall about this.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—I need help before all my friends turn against me. I am one of the smartest in the whole grade and because of this the others are beginning to dislike me.

To top this off the teachers pay a little more attention to me than them, thus I am called the "teacher's pet."

Should I play dumb to lower my marks or should I let my friends go? It's my girl friends I'm losing.—JUST TOO SMART.

• • •

DEAR JUST:—It's little credit to you if your endowment of grey matter makes high grades easy. Don't preen yourself, but admit the truth—that you need to know more about being friendly, which takes a special kind of intelligence.

Get your teacher to call off making a pet of you. And when you are with your friends, forget about your marks. Show some admiration for their good points and they'll stay with you.

• • •

DEAR DORIS:—Do you believe fortune tellers tell the truth or not?—HOPEFUL F

• • •

DEAR HOPEFUL—If our futures depended on the accidental swish of tea leaves or the chance arrangement of cards, this would be a sorry world indeed. The general run of racketeering fortune tellers are a menace.

It does seem, though, that evidence in favor of the existence of extrasensory perception is increasing; and that there really are people who can foresee some future events. The experiments done at Duke University have been proving this.

THOMASBURG — Mr. and Mrs. William Geen; Mrs. Charles Grills; Mrs. H. K. Morton and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Wilson attended the service held in Belleville during the week of prayer, at the Wesleyan Methodist Church on Thursday evening last, when the Rev. Crossley Hunter of Toronto was the guest speaker.

On Thursday afternoon, while tobogganing on the school grounds, Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Green had the misfortune to fracture his leg. He will be unable to attend school for some time.

The card party, sponsored by the Crescent Rebekah Lodge, in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Monday evening, January 7, was rather poorly attended, due to road and weather conditions.

Mr. Horace Vance is confined to his home through illness.

Mrs. George Dyson, who has been a patient in Belleville General Hospital, since early in December, returned to her home on Wednesday of this week, considerably improved in health.

The annual official board meeting for the Thomasburg - West Huntingdon pastoral charge of the United Church of Canada, took place in Eggleton United Church, on Wednesday evening, January 17. Several from here attended the meeting.

DENIES RED-LED

WARSAW (Reuters) — Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka Saturday night insisted that the Communist underground in wartime Poland was financially and politically independent of the Kremlin. In a speech at a rally celebrating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Polish Workers Party in Nazi-occupied Poland, Gomulka denied charges by the London Polish exile government that the party "was a well paid agent of Moscow."

Sukarno Again Says Peaceful Accord Desired

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno repeated Monday that Indonesia will welcome a peaceful settlement of her dispute with The Nether. lands over Dutch-ruled West New Guinea.

He also insisted again that any negotiations with the Dutch must be based on the transfer of the disputed territory's administration to Indonesia.

Sukarno spoke during installation of a new air force chief of staff, Air Vice Marshal Omar Dani. He replaces Air Marshal S. Suryadarma, armed military adviser to Sukarno.

The president urged the armed forces to be ready and united and exhorted them to develop their fighting spirit.

The change in the air force command created some fears that the armed forces are not united in policy.

Political observers in Jakarta detect a slowing of the "free West Irian" enthusiasm that Sukarno generated among his people.

The politically unsophisticated Indonesian masses, enthused for a while by Sukarno's fiery speechmaking, appear to be settling down again to their more personal worries over food and clothing. Sukarno's less belligerent tone in recent days has accentuated this.

PROTEST DELAYS

BERLIN (AP)—The Western allies formally protested to the Russians against what the West calls unjustified delays of United States, British and French military trains linking isolated occupied Berlin with western Europe, a Western spokesman said Sunday. Since the protest, the trains started running much closer to schedule, he added.

When can a father afford to relax?
A father can only afford to relax when sufficient income is guaranteed for the family no matter what may happen to him.
The investment a father chooses to safeguard his family's future is undoubtedly the most significant purchase of a lifetime. Each year more Canadians look to the one guaranteed investment—life insurance. With a practical life insurance program, a father can build assets to realize future dreams while he protects, daily, all that he holds dear.
In 1961, Manufacturers Life paid out over $68 millions to families who made this investment in their future—vital dollars, for these were received at a time of greatest need!
It was a record year for payments and a record year in protection for new policyowners. If you too want to guarantee a financially secure tomorrow for yourself and your family, why not call the Man from Manufacturers today.

Small Stations Will Suffer As Big Oil Companies Open Automotive Supermarkets

By GERALD L'ANGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Automotive supermarkets are becoming the main field of battle in a war among the big oil companies for expanding markets for their surplus production.

The major casualty in the fight is likely to be the neighborhood service station. These one-man businesses will have to work hard to escape the fate that overtook the old-time corner grocery store with the development of food supermarkets.

Several super service stations, each pumping as much gasoline as four or five regular neighborhood stations, already are operating in Canada. The big stations combine gasoline sales, merchandise coupons and supermarket - type outlets for accessories.

Four of the eight major oil companies operating in Canada have made deals with firms outside the oil business, such as department stores, discount houses and auto parts outlets. Another has made plans for its own super-sized gasoline and parts stores.

FIGHT BACK

Competition among the oil companies was not the only factor in the trend toward bigger outlets offering more services.

"The discount stores and auto accessories stores have been having a field day using gasoline as a non-profit item to attract customers to their main business," said A. F. Campo, president of Canadian Petrofina.

"It's about time they learned that others can play the game. If they want that kind of competition they're going to get it. We can't let this thing run hog-wild."

Mr. Campo's company announced it will invest up to $3,000,000 to establish super gasoline stations combined with parts stores. He went so far as to say Petrofina "may have to distribute food products or something else in some of our locations."

So far Imperial Oil, Canadian Oil and Cities Service have announced no tie-ups with outside firms or plans for their own supermarts but all admit they're watching the situation closely.

DISCOUNT HOOKUP

British Petroleum Canada Ltd. announced Jan. 6 it has joined with Towers Mart discounters to set up automotive centres selling gasoline and auto accessories at seven Towers shopping centres. The first has opened at St. Catharines, Ont., and four others are planned in Ontario and two in Quebec.

Shell Oil, teamed with Handy Andy chain or parts stores, operating mostly in the Maritimes and Quebec, and on a smaller scale in Ontario. A similar deal has been made by Shell with a Goodyear outlet in Calgary and others are planned in the West.

British American Oil Company has a tie-up with Eaton's at the Toronto outlet. L. R. Woolsey, BA's vice-president in charge of marketing, says his firm is "investigating every innovation that shows promise."

Mr. Woolsey says that, despite establishment of large service centres at key locations, "well-run neighborhood stations will continue to provide their own brand of personal service for many years to come."

MUST CUT COSTS

E.J. Riddell, Webster, British Petroleum's vice-president for advertising, says:

"We believe there is room in an expanding market for both types of operation — the shopping centre outlet for the highly - mobile consumer who tends toward one-stop shopping and the neighborhood service station aimed at residents of a particular area or travellers."

Texaco president A. Neil Lilley says experiments in new merchandising methods are necessary to seek ways to cut distribution costs.

"The only trend one can predict with any certainty at this stage is that in future the accent will be on more sales through fewer outlets. The real test as to what is sold and how it is sold will be return on investment."

Petrofina will open its first supervice station in Montreal early in the summer and plans to have three or four more in the area by the end of the year.

Ross Reid, assistant president, said the company is prepared to expand as far east as Halifax or as far west as Toronto in the first two years.

REDUCED PRICES

He says the "financeries" may have to sell accessories on a low-profit or non-profit basis, much as the present auto centres sell gasoline on a low-profit basis to appeal to customers, for the more profitable accessories.

Officials of the Retail Gasoline and Automotive Services Association, which represents service station operators, agree there will be fewer small stations in future.

K. W. Langdon, the association's Ontario executive, predicts a shrinkage of 10 per cent in the present number of operators.

However, the association doesn't expect "any great fight over this," he said.

"There is a large degree of co - operation between the oil companies and the lessees. The service stations have a rich uncle (the oil companies). The problem is the rich uncle sometimes doesn't want to part with too much. We are trying to get more out of him."

Bob Hope Tells How Lightning Hit His Plane

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A twin-engine airliner, carrying comedian Bob Hope, actress Jane Wyman and several others was struck by lightning Sunday over northern California, Hope said Monday.

The lightning bolt evidently disabled some of the craft's instruments, Hope said, and the pilot turned around and landed at San Francisco instead of continuing to Los Angeles.

"We were about 15 minutes out of Monterey," Hope told The Associated Press. "I heard a loud and saw a flash of light. I thought the engine had backfired.

"The lightning hit the nose of the plane. The pilot told us: 'A strange thing just happened, ladies and gentlemen. We've been hit by lightning and we're still flying.'

"I turned to Jane Wyman and said: 'Is there an insurance machine on this plane?'

"The pilot said he didn't like the way the instruments were acting so he was going back to San Francisco to get another plane. I said I thought we ought to get off in San Francisco and toboggan down to Los Angeles."

Hope said the plane was operated by Pacific Air Lines. He said about 40 persons were aboard.

Hope, who had been at the Crosby golf tournament at Pebble Beach, south of San Francisco, flew there later on another plane. Miss Wyman, accompanied by her husband, Fred Karger, also took another plane home.

Inaugural Services

UNITED CHURCH

FRANKFORD — The annual meeting of Frankford United Church Women was held on January 16th in the church. The meeting opened with quiet music played by Miss Barbara Sickle at the organ.

Mrs. Gerald Harrington conducted the worship service and the Rev. C. Judd gave a few thoughts on the new organization, "The United Church Women."

1962 OFFICERS

The officers for 1962 are as follows: honorary president, Mrs. C. Judd; president, Mrs. Preston Chase; vice-president, Mrs. Claude Moran; recording secretary, Mrs. Doug. Montgomery; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charlie Bennett; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Morrow; unit leaders, No. 1, Mrs. Ted Lewis, 2, Mrs. Dick Reid, No. 3, Mrs. Gerald Harrington; manse, Mrs. Lawrence Way; community friendship and visitation, Mrs. A. Sickle; finance, Mrs. Nick Beach; flowers, Mrs. George Mowry; literature and communications, Mrs. Claude Moran; membership, Mrs. George Montgomery; nominations, Mrs. Frank Moran; press and publicity, Mrs. H. Rowe; program, Mrs. Raymond Rowe; social functions, Mrs. Frank Rebel; stewardship and recruiting, Mrs. Hans Boer; supply and pastoral assistance, Mrs. O. Seabrooke.

Mrs. Walter Morrow and Mrs. Leslie Frost favored with a vocal duet with Miss Barbara Sickle at the organ.

Mrs. P. Chase, president-elect, briefly addressed the ladies.

Mr. Judd introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Harold Morgan, of Cayuga, who related the various organizations of "The United Church Women."

Mrs. Ray Osterhout tendered a vote of thanks to the special speaker.

The inaugural induction service will be held on January 28th.

Mr. Judd closed with prayer. Refreshments were served in Rose Lowery Hall.

MASSASSAGA UNITED CHURCH

The inaugural service of the new United Church Women of Massassaga Church took place last Sunday and was conducted by the minister, Mr. L. M. Neddow.

Preceding the service, Mr. Neddow asked for a report from the nominating committee which was given by Mrs. Morley Davidson.

The following slate of officers was read: president, Mrs. Will Jose; 1st vice-pres. Mrs. Howard Adams; 2nd vice-pres. Mrs. Norman Salisbury; recording secretary, Mrs. Alan Revill; corresponding sect. Mrs. Roy Valleau; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Valleau; organist, Mrs. Will Grey.

It was decided that the report be adopted as read.

The special service which followed was issued by the Interim Board of Women at Toronto. The pianist for the service was Mrs. J. Wallbridge.

Mr. Neddow gave an inspiring and timely address on Jesus' two friends, Martha and Mary.

The new executive was asked to come forward and Mr. Neddow conducted the dedication service. He asked members of the Board of Session, Mr. Morley Davidson, Mr. George Flower and Mr. M. Wannamaker, to greet the new members of the executive.

The service ended with the hymn "Lead On O King Eternal" and Mr. Neddow pronounced the benediction.

The first meeting of the newly-formed United Church Women of Massassaga United Church was held at the home of Mrs. R. B. McCulloch, with the president, Mrs. W. Jose, presiding.

Mrs. Jose opened the meeting with a welcome to all members and a wish that the motto for the year might be "Dedication Prayer," which the officers repeated at the dedication service, and which she read again.

Mrs. Eva Foster had charge of the devotional, which was followed by the business period.

It was decided to cater to the banquet for Temple Lodge "Ladies' Night," March 19th.

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. George Flower and Mrs. Roy Valleau for their time and devotion to the work of the W.A. and W.M.S. in the past year.

SLIDES SHOWN

Mrs. R. B. McCulloch showed slides of their trip to Jamaica, which were enjoyed.

Mrs. Jose thanked Mrs. McCulloch on behalf of all present, for the lovely pictures and also for opening her home for the meeting.

The hostess served lunch, assisted by Mrs. A. Valleau, Mrs. N. Salisbury and Mrs. A. Wallbridge.

"Good thing we saw these bargains advertised in the paper last night!"

Your newspaper is YOUR SHOPPING GUIDE

In newspapers the news of better products and services is as important to today's modern family as that of current events or features concerning home and family, food and fashion, hobbies and health.

For newspapers are the medium by which most people shop. No other medium supplies the variety and detail of advertising by which one may compare prices and benefits and choose the comforts and conveniences that make for a full living standard.

There's much significance in this for local advertisers. For only in the newspaper can people of all age and income groups find the information and inspiration so necessary for good citizenship and for the enjoyment of a better way of life.

And because newspapers gain their friendship and regular readership, newspaper advertisers are provided the most productive medium of communication with customers.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The fight, like most fights, started suddenly that night in the Los Angeles Sports Arena. The origin was likely one of the usual—and two players were throwing punches.

From an actual photograph of the ruthless big, blonde Gerry Geyer, sun seared star of the Edmonton Blades, threw a left hook that sent Keith Walsh, a brash young rookie of the Edmonton Flyers crashing to the ice.

The Los Angeles story says: "Walsh landed set at Geyer with his stick after falling to the ice. Walsh's blade caught Geyer in the webbing of the hand and blood spurted from the slash. Geyer was rushed to Mount Sinai Hospital where he underwent an operation to repair torn muscles, tendons, blood vessels and a nerve in the right hand."

It is doubtful if the Belleville-born centre star will play hockey again this winter. A recent letter to Geyer's mother in the city stated Gerry is getting along well after four or five days in hospital. Doctors hope no complication will set in.

Gerry's mother, Mrs. F. Geyer, of 90 South John St., was in L.A. at the time visiting her son and his family. The night of the fight she stayed at home babysitting, but Gerry's wife was at the game and saw her husband cut down.

Gerry, one of this city's better all-round athletes, was headed for the best year in his amateur-professional hockey career. At the time of the accident he was leading points-getter of the Western Hockey League and appeared destined for the heights, and perhaps National League status.

It won't be the fault of his doctors if Geyer does not return to hockey this year. Dr. Lewis Spiegelman, a noted hand specialist, performed the operation. Spiegelman is noted in the field for his work on hands of piano players and other artists.

Walsh, the Edmonton Flyers rookie, was fined $100 and suspended indefinitely for his part in the affair.

Coach George Agar of the Blades naturally was bitter over the affair. Later he said: "I'm still bitter, naturally, but after thinking it over, you cannot crucify the kid. He is only a youngster and it was not out there on the ice."

Geyer, interviewed in his hospital bed later, was generous in his attitude toward Walsh. He held no grudge nor bitterness. "It was really stupid," he said. "I went into the corner with him and dropped my stick. But somehow I thought he had grabbed it so I tried to wrestle it away from him."

"Finally, I looked down and realized it was his stick, so I let loose. By this time he had dropped his gloves and was hitting me from behind."

Gerry said he started swinging and knocked Walsh down. "When I went to make my next move he kicked me in the shins and caught me on the head."

"I was very freaky. It would never happen again in a million years. I have no hard feelings. He's just a rookie, and it was just one of those things," said Geyer.

While other reports state it is doubtful Geyer will be able to play again this season, Spiegelman declares he will be able to "make the playoffs. I have just talked with the doctor and he is very encouraged by the results of the operation."

Geyer had scored 46 goals and had 30 assists to top the league scoring at the time of his accident. He piled up a record for the league with three hat-tricks.

Rousseau Best Rookie

MONTREAL (CP) — Doug Harvey, 27 - year - old player-coach of New York Rangers, has been voted the National Hockey League's most valuable player and outstanding defenseman from the NHL.

Harvey was overwhelming choice by the James Norris Memorial Trophy, a prize he already has won a record six times as top defenseman, but he polled only 13 more points than Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante for the Hart Memorial Trophy, awarded to the league's MVP.

Montreal players led the way in extremely close balloting for two other awards.

Right winger Bobby Rousseau edged Cliff Pennington of Boston Bruins in the battle for the rookie-of-the-year award — the Calder Memorial Trophy. Rousseau got 53 points, Pennington 51.

Claude Provost, the league's leading face - off getter with 25, nosed out Don McKenney of Boston by one point for the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy, given to the player who combines good sportsmanship with a high standard of playing ability.

The hockey writers, broadcasters and television men in the six NHL cities will vote again at the end of the season. The players scoupulating the most points for the two halves will win the trophies and $1,000 each from the NHL.

Harvey collected 83 points, just seven shy of the maximum, in the voting for the top defenseman. Pronovost was third with 23 points, 17 behind Plante. Toronto goalie Johnny Bower was fourth with 16, and Chicago goalie Glenn Hall fifth with 15.

Boston defenseman Pat Stapleton was third in the rookie-of-the - year voting with 32 points, followed by Bruce Mac. Gregor, of the Wings with 10.

Sixteen players drew votes for the Lady Byng Trophy with Provost edging McKenney 36-33. Ken Wharram of the Hawks won the trophy last season, finishing with 38. Camille Henry of the Rangers followed with 23.

Canadians Well Back

Doug Ford Wins Crosby Playoff

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Doug Ford checked the rush of golf's youth brigade Monday as he captured the $50,000 Bing Crosby golf tournament title in a sudden - death playoff after whipping miserable weather en route to his crown.

The 35-year-old former Masters and PGA champion from Vernon Hills, N.Y., went 71 holes before he caught Joe Campbell the 26-year-old former collegiate champion, in the snow-delayed finals.

They finished the 72 holes all even at 288 and went on to the first extra hole. If Campbell had won, it would have continued the youth dominance for 1962 that started when Phil Rodgers won the Los Angeles Open and Tommy Jacobs followed with a triumph at San Diego.

Neither Ford nor Campbell hit the green on the 386-yard, par four hole. Campbell, who had led from the opening day, was in the fringe at the front edge of the green. He tried a putter, and left ball six feet from the cup.

Ford's second shot split a grassy embankment, bounced off a woman spectator's leg and into a trap. He calmly wedged the trap within five feet of the hole. Campbell missed his putt and Doug calmly tapped a perfect downhill stroke with a four-inch break. When it dropped, Ford had $5,200.

In addition to his first prize as low pro, Ford collected $1,000 for a four-places finish with partner Dudley Wysong in the pro-amateur.

Wysong handed Albie Pearson, the outfielder for Los Angeles Angels, helped his partner, Bob McCallister, to a $5,000 cheque as winners in the pro-amateur category.

Rodgers finished third as he made a run at Campbell but began falling back after nine holes. He finished with a 288, two strokes off the pace. Both he and Ford carded two-over-par 74s while Campbell had a 76 and, after the playoff, a check for $3,400.

Ken Venturi and Dave Ragan finished at 290 as the former shot a 76 and the latter a 73. At 291 were Jacobs, Mason Rudolph, and Johnny Pott. One stroke farther back came Ted Kroll, Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Englishman Bernard Hunt, Paul Harney, Don Massengale, and Butch Baird.

WINS $2,250

Leonard augmented his $1,000 winnings with another $1,250 when he and Rod Taylor, former California amateur champion, finished in a second-place tie in the pro - amateur, six strokes behind McCallister and Pearson.

Al Balding of Toronto won $640 for a ninth-place tie in the main tournament at 292. George Knudson of Toronto, eliminated from the main tournament earlier, got $145 in the pro-amateur in which he and partner Jay Sigel had a 272.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 78 Monday for a 302 total—not good enough to put him in the money.

Sid Finney Not 'Fini'

CALGARY (CP)—Sid Finney, 33, veteran Western Hockey League centre who announced his resignation from Calgary Stampeders Friday, will rejoin the team.

Finney had announced his retirement after he was fined $500 for missing a practice.

Coach Alf Pike said Finney has an outstanding season so far and will reclaim $250 of the fine returned "if he continues to help us as much as he has."

Cleroux Puts Gray Away

By STUART LAKE

HULL, Que. (CP)—Canadian heavyweight boxing champion Bob Cleroux, who says he has run out of challengers in Canada, probably will take up his trade in the United States for the next few months.

The 22-year - old Ottawaite had little trouble disposing of second - ranked Cecil Gray of Halifax Monday night, scoring a knockout at 2:20 of the third round. A crowd of 5,807 paid $15,803 to watch the fight, first held in the Valley area.

Cleroux took the title from George Chuvalo of Toronto, but financial arrangements can't be made to the satisfaction of both for a return fight.

"So we'll go to the United States, probably California, for a few fights," manager Al Bachman said in the champion's dressing room.

Cleroux, who had a 17-pound weight advantage over Gray at 207 pounds, now has won 29 fights in 32 starts.

RIGHT HAND DOES IT

Bachman thought Cleroux's body punching set up the challenger for the finish, which dropped him twice in the second round for counts of seven and eight and put him down for keeps in the third.

The fight was billed as a title defence but was not sanctioned by the Ontario Athletic Commission, the National Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission.

Gray, who lost a seventh-round technical knockout to Cleroux two years ago, now has lost six fights in 35 starts.

The challenger, 29, said Cleroux was "just too strong for me" but added that he would like a return. Cleroux again.

In the supporting card, Burke Rowbotham of Sherbrooke, Que., Canada's light - heavy weight champion, earned a seventh-round TKO win over Jimmy White of Athens, Ga. Officials announced that White suffered a broken nose and couldn't continue.

Eddie Kerwin of Ottawa, Canadian welterweight champion, knocked out Bucky Klug of Charlotte, N.C., in the second round of their 10-rounder with a hard left hook to the stomach.

Macs Take Over Top

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Writer

PETERBOROUGH — Mac Weston scored a goal halfway through the third period here last night to cut short a determined Peterborough rally and give the Belleville McFarlands a hard-fought 7-5 OHA Eastern junior league win over the Peterborough Mounties.

The Macs are in first place, two points ahead of Kingston and Cornwall, and Weston whipped Gan 18-4 last night.

Belleville, playing heads-up two-way hockey, had built what appeared to be a comfortable 6-1 lead by the 15.20 mark of the second period. Then the Mounties came to life and took over the major part of the play.

They hammered Mac Hunter in their own end of the rink and scored once, at 17.20 and 18.01 to cut the lead to 6-3 at the end of the second heat. The Mounties kept the pressure on in the third and goals by Morris at 3.33 and Asta at 7.44 made it a 8-5 hockey game.

Peterborough continued to press while the Macs were busy serving a hooking penalty at the nine-minute mark. But after his return, the Belleville line of Weston, Smith and Hunter found a forward in the second zone. The trio kept the play around the boomsters' net and at 11.56 Weston scored the goal that broke the Mounties' back, with Smith assisting.

Smith shot from alongside the Peterborough net and Scott deflected in off the goalie to open the scoring at 1.38 of the first heat. Scott scored from a scramble at 2.38 to make it 2-0 after one period.

Keller and Hunter upped the lead to 4-0 before Carm Asta bagged the lone goal of the night at 9.21. Smith got that one back seconds later and Reid completed a beautiful passing play with McGuire and Ethier at 15.20 for the 5-2 score. Then Rutherford and Gary Dalliday bagged the other Peterborough goals before the second's end.

Dave Smith, with two goals and two assists, led the McFarland's attack while Pete Weston Pug Keller and Graydon Scott each had a goal and assist. Mac Hunter Wad Gary Reid had the other goals with Gary Duvall drawing two assists.

Ethier and Billy McGuire one apiece.

Sam Hakkill came up with some fine stops when the Mounties applied the pressure while at the other end of the rink Paul Rose also turned in some good saves.

The Macs picked up five of the game's eight minor penalties while Moe Hunter and the Mounties' Bill Gallagher copped a brief fight at 10.38 of the second.

Belleville — Haskill, Zakos, Reid, Mawby, Boyle, Weston, Smith, Hunter, Scott, Duvall, Keller, McGuire, Ethier, Hall.

Peterborough— Rexe, Shearer, Rutherford, Nicholls, Hill, Dalliday, LeBarr, Milburn, Morris, Marchen, Payne, Asta, Rotherford, Thompson.

Ski Star Not Serious

TORONTO (CP)—Gary Battistella of Kimberley, B.C., injured in downhill international competition Saturday at Val Gardenel, Austria, is in fine condition, the Canadian Amateur Ski Association said Monday.

The association reported that Stan Smith, coach of the Kimberley Ski Club received a cable from Frank McIntyre, manager of Canada's Men's Alpine team, which said: "Mild concussion. No fractures, systems Gary fine. Rejoins team in a few days."

Neck, Neck Points Race In AHL

NEW YORK (AP)—Just four points separated the first four players in one of the closest scoring races in the history of the American Hockey League.

Veteran centre Willie Marshall of Hershey Bear. took over the lead with 57 points, league figures showed today, edging Springfield Indians' Bill Sweeney is right on Marshall's heels with 56 points. The two players were tied for first place a week ago.

Marshall, who collected five points during the week, has accumulated 22 goals and 35 assists. Sweeney produced four points last week.

Barry Cullen of Buffalo Bisons scored six points and moved into third place with 53, one point ahead of Springfield's Brian Kilrea, fourth with 52. Alex Faulkner of Rochester Americans, Fred Glover of Cleveland Barons and Brian Cullen of Buffalo are tied for fifth with 48 points apiece.

Barry Cullen has scored the most goals, 26, while Kilrea has a leads in assists with 41. Hershey's Jack McKenzie has been assessed the most minutes in penalties, 126.

Bobby Perreault of Hershey boasts the lowest goals-against average among the goalies, 1.78 and 929 runs batted in.

2.32 on 31 goals allowed in 8 games. Buffalo's allowed in 8 is tops in shutouts with five.

Will Police Race Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Maj. Arnold H. Snedmore of Ottawa has been appointed chief security officer of the Jockey Club Limited, it was announced Monday.

He will be in charge of policing all Ontario race courses operated by the club and has already moved to Toronto to prepare for the 1962 racing season which opens April 7 at Fort Erie.

Maj. Snedmore, 49, served for 25 years in the Canadian Army, the last five as officer commanding the Armed Forces Identification Bureau. He was responsible for all disciplinary problems of the Canadian occupation forces in Germany and handled the administrative arrangements for the trial of Gen. Kurt Meyer in 1946.

JENSEN QUITS

BOSTON (AP) Boston Red Sox confirmed Monday night that outfielder Jackie Jensen has retired from baseball Jensen returned last season after a year's retirement and batted .263 in 137 games, in his 11 years in the majors, the last seven with the Sox, Jensen had a lifetime batting average of .279 and 929 runs batted in.

Tigers, Nats In Baseball Opener

BOSTON (AP) — The American League will open its 1962 baseball schedule April 9 with Detroit Tigers visiting Washington Senators, President Joe Cronin announced Monday.

The league will have 360 night games, 16 more than in 1961. There will be 82 doubleheaders, an increase of 18.

The season's opener will be played in the new Washington stadium, where this year's first all-star game is scheduled for July 10. The second will be at Chicago's Wrigley Field July 30.

Lightfoots Win Over N. Electric

The Belleville Lightfoots, displaying power to spare, whipped Northern Electric 96-34 while Crawford Metals downed the Picton Prospects 67-31 in a pair of Bay Quinte Basketball league games played here last night.

The Lightfoots, with every man in the lineup sharing in the scoring, took a slim 17-16 lead over Northern in the first quarter and widened the margin in the rest of the way. It was 31-23 at the half and 64-34 after three quarters while the winners poured in 43 points to the losers' four in the last quarter.

Lou Orazzetti paced the Northern crew with 14 points.

Teddy Batchelor scored 31 points and Don Skinner 26 to account for most of the Crawford scoring.

Hopkins had 18, Laundry 17 and Smith ten for the Prospects.

Indict Two For Bribery

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — A two-term veteran of the Fifth Amendment recently when a congressional committee asked him if he was left - handed or right - handed has been indicted here on basketball fix charges.

The Rowan County grand jury returned a true bill Monday charging Lloyd (Lefty) Rosenthal of Miami, Fla., and Chicago, with offering a bribe to play to shave points.

Charged along with Rosenthal was David Zeigler, 23 - year - old New Yorker who already is under indictment here on charges of conspiracy to fix basketball games involving Catawba College players.

Each was charged with two counts of conspiracy to offer to bribe and two counts of bribery.

A Senate subcommittee on organized crime recently quizzed Rosenthal last September on an attempt to fix a football game between Tennessee and Michigan.

Rosenthal continually invoked the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution on declining to answer questions.

Gordie Howe Chops Bathgate Lead

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings surpassed by no intention of letting New York's Andy Bathgate walk away with the National Hockey League scoring championship.

Howe, five-time winner of the scoring title, scored two goals and assisted on a third in the first quarter and widened the margin in the rest of the way. It was 31-23 at the half and 64-34 after three quarters while the winners poured in 43 points to the losers' four in the last quarter.

Gary Davis topped the Lightfoot scorers with 23 points followed by Don Smith with 19. Harry Pasternak and Al Dever each hooped 12 with Gord Mutter getting 11.

Lou Orazzetti paced the Northern crew with 14 points.

Teddy Batchelor scored 31 points and Don Skinner 26 to account for most of the Crawford scoring.

Hopkins had 18, Laundry 17 and Smith ten for the Prospects.

In the game held, Trenton 53-32 lead at half three and never never headed.

Goegan 'Slaps' 2-1 Win

Pepsi's Edge Uxbridge

UXBRIDGE — The league-leading Belleville Pepsi's were forced to pull all stops here last night to stop a hard-fighting Black Hawks squad.

Two blazing slap-shots from the stick of Flori Goegan and a late lively scorer in the first period won the story.

The 2-1 victory gave the Pepsi's 34 points, two ahead of the Hawks, who have won 13, three of them four-pointers, and lost three. The Pepsi record is 14-1, two of the wins four-point affairs.

All the scoring was wrapped up, stamped and mailed in the first sixteen minutes of the opening period. From there in it was a nip-and-tuck battle with Barclay and Carpenter in the respective nets standing out. The latter was sticking with some minutes when Floyd Crawford got into a scrap with not a spectator. The fan, it is stated, grabbed Crawford's stick and refused to hand it over. Crawford is no uncertain manner.

It was a close-checking, hard-hitting affair but cleanly fought throughout. Referee Al Shropshire handed out but four penalties, all minors, three to the Pepsi crew. None caused any damage.

The game was scarcely three minutes old when the Hawks brought the crowd to its feet with the opening marker. A Jewson took Vern Ferguson's pass to beat Barclay at 2.28.

Two minutes later Chuck Rowbotham and Duke Doran breezed in on the Hawks net and clipped a pass back to Goegan on the point. Flori blazed a shot that Carpenter has not seen yet.

Davey Jones and Grandy of the Hawks lifted their sticks high at 13.07 and both sat out two minutes.

At 16.20 Davey Jones spearheaded a Pepsi's drive and flipped a pass back to Goegan. Flori pulled the trigger and again his lasting "slapper" ripped past Carpenter for what proved to be the winning marker.

It was one of the best games seen here this season, one that could be a dress rehearsal for the playoffs.

The Pepsi's face another tough battle at home tomorrow night when they host the Trenton RCAF Globetrotters. This one will be a package tea party and a good crowd should be on hand.

The teams:

BELLEVILLE PEPSI'S — Barclay, Scotty, Goegan, Jones, Baker, O'Meara, Goyer, Hall, MacDonald, Taylor, Rowbotham, Doran, Crawford, Maclossen, Lanirande.

UXBRIDGE — Carpenter, Todd, Haynes, Etcher, Rencich, Tomlinson, Jermond, Rilkhaw, Ferguson, Gibson, C., Todd, Bradbury, Grandy, Simpson, Forbr.

1st. Period
Uxbridge—Jermond (Ferguson) 2.28
Pepsi's—Goegan (Rowbotham, Doran) 4.34

2nd. Period
Pepsi's—Goegan (Jones) 16.24
Penalties — Grandy, Jones.

3rd. Period
No scoring.
Penalties — Baker.

Warsaw Wins Over Marmora

MARMORA (Special)—Warsaw outscored Marmora-Havelock by every period here last night to register an 8-2 victory in OHA Hastings-Northumberland Intermediate "C" hockey league.

The visiting Warsaw team took a 2-1 lead in the first period, added four without a reply in the middle heat and edged the Combines with a pair in the final twenty minutes.

Tedford and Rowe each scored twice for the winners while Nelson, Stewart, Coulter and Keating had a goal apiece.

Mann and Watson were the Marmora-Havelock scorers.

The clubs split ten minor penalties down the centre while Watson, of the losers and Warsaw's Rowe also had majors for fighting.

Spar-Mate Verdicts McNeeley

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Tom McNeeley, beaten last month for the world's heavy weight championship, dropped a split 10-round decision to his sparring partner Monday night.

Chief Don Prout, 192 pounds, of Providence, who helped prepare McNeeley, 203½, for his fading battle on Toronto with champion Floyd Patterson, was in command most of the sixth round on, except briefly in the eighth when McNeeley staggered him with a right.

Prout, who now has a 20-3 pro record, was a big underdog.

Recalls Players

Shore Divorces Canucks

VANCOUVER (CP) — Eddie Shore, owner of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League, has severed all connections with Vancouver Canucks of the Western League.

Shore ended a working agreement with Canucks Monday night when he removed goaltender Claude Evans, defenceman Dale Anderson and forward Murray Wilde to the Springfield roster. They had been playing for Vancouver on loan.

The Canucks, last in first in the WHL's Northern Division, are down to 10 players as a result of Shore's action.

Shore, in a telephone interview from Springfield, said he recalled the players Monday because of a continued abuse from the Vancouver management.

Sports Snapshots

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP) — A move is afoot to bring a youthful brand of professional hockey back to Winnipeg as a possible preliminary to obtaining a National Hockey League franchise.

Backers of the plan hope to have a team operating next season in Winnipeg, long a producer of top-flight hockey talent.

If the team draws well, this would set the stage in a few years for a campaign to win an NHL franchise if the big league decides to expand.

A prime mover in the project here is Denis Hall, manager of the Lakeview Winnipeg Rowers and a scout for the team's sponsor, New York Rangers.

Hall says he is confident a team can be established "that the big stumbling block will be finding the right league to play in."

He is looking to the United States. The seven - team International League, one step below the Midwest wants to expand and possibly go professional with Winnipeg as a prime territory.

WANTS THEM YOUNG

Hall prefers a league with a player age limit of 23 and with teams stocked with almost-ready NHL clubs with their best young prospects.

He says he thinks he is investigating the possibility of setting up a new league between the Minneapolis and St. Paul amateur entries.

Hall is mindful that he will have to give customers a fast, high-quality brand of hockey to succeed at the gate.

Winnipeg dropped out of pro hockey last year after the demise of the Warriors, who lost money for four years in the Western Hockey League. Owner Jack Perrin said he lost $50,000 in the last season before the WHL franchise is going begging.

Hall's idea is for a team that in two or three years would be in a par with the Western Hockey League, just a notch below NHL calibre.

Looking to the future, he says: "I'd love to see NHL competition here but we'll have to prove we can draw the crowds before we can get it."

CAMPBELL BUOYANT

His view is borne out by NHL President Clarence Campbell who reacted coolly to a suggestion that Winnipeg is ready for big time sport. Campbell said there are no geographical or population objections but he doubted the city had the gendog power to support a major league club with an annual budget running about $800,000.

Associated with Hall in the project are a group of prominent Winnipeg businessmen and Winnipeg Enterprises, the semi-public corporation that operates the 8,700 - seat Winnipeg Arena.

Arena officials are anxious to see the seats filled, a rarity these days. Only the five visiting teams of the Manitoba Junior League.

Despite the gloomy history of the Warriors, Hall maintains Winnipeg is a "hockey hockey town" and is sure it can support pro hockey again.

He claims he is in for extra work because of Cleveland's trade of Bobby Mitchell to Washington. Redskins for draft rights to Syracuse's Ernie Davis.

Despite 7-Year Algerian Insurrection Oilfields Have Been Unaffected by Trouble

By BASIL CHAPMAN

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Some 16,000,000 tons of oil poured out of France's Sahara desert oilfields last year, unaffected and untroubled by the seven-year Algerian insurrection.

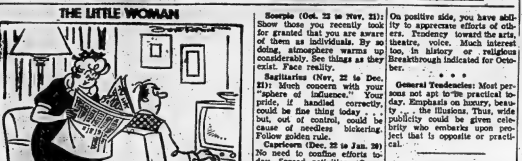
The charmed life of the precious oil, which has enabled France to overcome foreign exchange difficulties and finance development funds for the Sahara and Algeria, is one of the enigmas of the Algerian war.

Since the first oil strikes were made in 1956, the French-built installations and 2,035 miles of oil and natural -gas pipelines have been virtually immune from attack.

An isolated insurgent attack in 1959, which blew up an oil train on the Touggourt-to-Mediterranean railroad before a pipeline was built, is the only case on record when the flow of oil was halted, even temporarily.

A possible answer to the riddle of oil's apparent immunity lies in the demand of the rebel Algerian provisional government for sovereignty over the Sahara. The insurgent leaders count on the revenues and power and resources of the oil and natural gas to give a future independend Algeria a privileged economic place in North Africa.

OIL SPELLS POWER



If the long-sought-after peace is achieved in 1962, it will find Algeria equipped with power resources unrivalled in Africa. These resources were discovered and developed by France with an energy and speed which would have been astonishing even without an Algerian war.

The Moslem insurrection was well under way when, in 1956,

CONGREGATIONAL MEET

WEST HUNTINGDON — A pot-luck supper was held in the Orange Hall recently prior to the congregational meeting of West Huntingdon United Church.

After the meal the members assembled in the church when Mr. George Dyson conducted the business period after reading a portion of Scripture. Mrs. Frank Hammond was appointed secretary for meeting. Reports from the various departments of the church were given and all proved quite satisfactory and showed improvement. Mr. Clayton Wright was elected treasurer for a second term with Alex McCurdy as assistant; Mrs. William Grant – pianist; Mrs. Alex McCurdy – superintendent of the Sunday School. Following a few other items of business the meeting closed.

Mr. and Mrs. Carman Davidson and family were Saturday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Morgan.

Mr. Roscoe Morgan observed his 18th birthday on January 3rd and had as his guests – his parents; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morgan and family; Miss Ruth Morgan and Mr. Gary Howe; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morgan and Darlene; Mr. and Mrs. Skinkle of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sherry and Burton of Thomasburg. The playing of cards and other games were enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McIntyre were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campion for dinner, and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Campion of Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Morgan spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Bessie Clare of Wallbridge.

Astrological Forecast

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): To a large extent you should be concerned with public reaction today. The "public" in your life depends, of course, upon your individual circumstances. Take care in what you do, say.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Wonderful evening for romance; day good for putting across creative ideas, making changes which unloose a bottle-neck. Let your Venus side shine through. Stress luxury, beauty.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Dealings with relatives in connection with property, future security stressed. Speak up. Strive for greater independence. Presenting original idea could be best thing for you.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Moon favorable in aspect to your Sun sign . . . and to Neptune, which is also favorable. Today you can perceive truth—know what others really think. Learn!

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Today it is best to hold your ground. If others insist upon battle . . . stand up to them. Harmony should reign . . . but on money matters it is hard to predict. Stand pat.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Look around you. Are you satisfied with what you see? If not, take matters in your own hands by starting home improvements, neighborhood projects. You seldom are happy when conditions are not tidy.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Certain inhibitions could be thrown off before day is over. You are a lover of justice, fair play. Why not be fair to yourself? Start today! No more carrying that burden.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Show those you recently took for granted that you are aware of them as individuals. By so doing, atmosphere warms up considerably. See things as they exist. Face reality.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Much concern with your "sphere of influence." Your pride, if handled correctly, could be fine thing today . . . but, out of control, could be cause of needless bickering. Follow golden rule.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) No need to confine efforts today. Spread activities. Spurn other which would box you in . . . counter with proposal of your own. Show off talents, abilities. Write, communicate.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show more compassion for those ill, or in less favorable circumstances. Let humanitarian side come through. Your patience will be tried. Be calm.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may be justified in speaking harshly to loved one or associate. But, in reality, nothing would be accomplished. Permit others to express themselves. Then day will turn harmonious. Patience!

If born today . . . tendency is for you to make yourself up happy by demanding perfection. On positive side, you have ability to appreciate efforts of others. Tendency toward the arts, theatre, voice. Much interest too, in history or religious. Breakthrough indicated for October.

General Tendencies: Most persons not apt to be practical today. Emphasis on luxury, beauty . . . the illusions. Thus, wide publicity could be given celebrity who embarks upon project that is opposite or practical.

BRITISH CARS

Automobile production in Britain reached 1,190,000 cars in 1959, compared with 881,000 in 1957.

LET COMPETITION

tion policy aimed at creating an efficient land, water and air transport system through competition and with a minimum of government regulation or intervention.

2. A national transportation advisory council to judge and assess the impact and effect of decisions of all transport regulatory agencies, as well as establish priorities for public investment in transport facilities.

3. A fresh look by Parliament at the effect on transportation of the Maritime Freight Rates Act of 1927, with an eye to withdrawing federal subsidies on goods moved within the Atlantic provinces but keeping them on westbound traffic and extending the subsidies to all carriers.

4. Special subsidy aid for Newfoundland to reduce high costs of transport, plus federal assistance for major road building program on the island.

5. Complete provincial regulation of trucking, scrapping all controls except those dealing with safety and performance with no restriction on rail entry or road transport.

6. Federal tax concessions for industries chiefly the Prairie grain-handling industry—giving serious and costly adjustments because of rail line abandonments of branch lines.

7. Assessment of adequate charges for various modes of transport using public facilities such as air routes, airports, canals, harbors and roads.

However, the central proposal of the royal commission was to drastically new plan for railway rates and maximum freight rate control.

"The implementation of this recommendation will see the end of general permissive horizontal percentage rate increases and the selective and protracted hearings which accompany them," the report said.

The new rate formula was to be tied directly to actual costs incurred by the railways in hauling any specific shipment, a maybe designed to make the old rate structure founded largely on the value-of-service principle.

The rate floor would be the out-of-pocket cost of moving any specific movement. The main purpose of this minimum was to prevent a rate war in the transport industry.

The rate ceiling, open to annual upward adjustment, if costs rise, would apply only to shipments formally declared "captive" to the railways, it is defined as shipments which exceed plus 150 per cent.

Within these guidelines, the commission said: "The railways will be free to set individual rates by meeting business standards and to adjust them upwards or downwards to meet the competitive conditions and changes in cost patterns re-

In advancing its maximum rate plan, the commission founded a strong warning:

"There is a very real danger that either unwarranted misunderstanding or inadvertence the recommendations for maximum rate control . . . will be only partially implemented or superimposed on top of existing regulation.

"Nothing could in our view be more harmful nor less in accordance with our findings and recommendations."

The report also emphasized that the second volume's conclusions and recommendations be founded on implementation of the first recommendations. The first volume, made public nine months ago.

The first report called for a series of shrinking federal subsidies to the railways, starting at almost $100,000,000 in the first year, dropping to $47,000,000 after five years and $22,000,000 after 15 years.

Most of the general aid would be used to help the railways over a two-stage program of abandonment of "excess" and losing passenger operations in the next 15 years, including branch lines in 13 years. The rest would cover rail losses in moving Western Canada's record grain crop to ocean terminals.

WRECKAGE AFTER PARIS BOMB BLAST—This is the wreckage of an automobile at French Foreign Ministry in Paris after a heavy explosion damaged the building. Foreign ministry spokesman said the explosion apparently came from this booby-trapped auto. He said the car snapped into flames after several vehicles parked in the courtyard near it. (AP Wirephoto).

MAJOR CRISIS

declared in a TV speech Monday night that Canada—would never accept "sanctions or condemning declarations" from the United States.

He asserted that any anti-Cuban action taken by the OAS might be a spark igniting sentiments throughout the hemisphere.

Despite the opposition, the U.S. backed by a group of countries, mostly the Latin American republics, was reported pressing ahead in a drive for stiff sanctions against Cuba.

Over the heads of the states proposing a "soft line" on Cuba was the fear that the U.S. Congress might cut off the $20,000,000,000, 10-year new frontier program for Latin American development.

DOCTORS WILL

we cannot agree to render service under the plan."

The profession would, however, continue to treat patients "in accordance with our established practice."

"We would presume that patients presenting receipts of payments would be able to obtain reimbursement from the insurance program."

Under the Saskatchewan plan, premiums are compulsory for all residents except those on welfare. The rate is $12 for a single person and $24 for a family —no matter how large.

WILL BE ISSUED CARD

On paying his premium a person is issued a card which will show to his doctor on receiving treatment that he has access. The doctor will collect his fee from the insurance fund.

An extra 1½ per cent on provincial sales tax which now totals 3½ per cent, plus seven corporation tax increase, and a six-per-cent increase in income tax are other measures being used to raise the $21,000,000-a-year cost of the plan.

The medical profession's brief contended that the effect of the province's program may be to substitute quantity for quality "and in the long term achieve a mediocrity of medical care which would not be in the public interest."

Public Support For Police Seen Lacking

HAMILTON (CP) — Lack of public co-operation with police forces hinders law enforcement, says RCMP Commissioner Leo M. Harvison.

"No law can be properly enforced unless your police force is supported by the public but for certain reasons, to some extent, we have lost some public support."

This "let-down" was felt not only in Canada, but in other countries, including the United States and the United Kingdom.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Men's Canadian Club Monday that in the U.S., last year there were 9,000 assaults plus against police officers, some 2,000 in the UK and 1,000 in Canada.

An unwritten law seemed to be observed by many who considered that to inform on or complain about a criminal invoked the description "stool pigeon" or "squealer."

The commissioner said it is nonsensical "when you pay something like $200,000,000 a year to maintain the police forces in Canada, then don't help the police do their job."

He thought it exaggerated to suggest certain restrictive work done by the police—in traffic, matters, for instance — is to blame for public apathy.

U.S. Bid for Collective Action Against Cuba Fails

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The attitude of many Latin American countries toward Cuba appears to follow the tradition: "Don't poke a hornets' nest just because you dislike hornets."

The United States would clearly love to pull down the Cuban hornets' nest and bolt it in oil. But its bid for collective action at the current Organization of American States conference seems likely to result in nothing more devastating than pebble-throwing.

What the U.S. wants from the foreign ministers conference at Punta del Este, Uruguay, is an OAS quarantine of Cuba. But it probably would be played with much less, even a declaration condemning the Fidel Castro regime.

SOME BEGINNINGS

There is a sort of wide-spread Latin American dissatisfaction with Castro, particularly since his public avowal of Marxism last month. Thirteen of the 21 OAS members have broken relations with his government, many of them communist-spying, propaganda or internal subversion.

Nevertheless, the U.S. will have to do some fast talking to obtain the necessary two-thirds vote for any kind of sanctions. And even if it does succeed, there is no firm guarantee that the dissenting nations will abide by the majority decision.

The big main Latin American countries—Brazil, Argentina, Mexico and Chile—all continue to recognize the Castro government, along with Uruguay, Ecuador and Bolivia.

The attitude of many Latin countries is that Castro's threat is a matter for the OAS to handle.

Brazil, which abstained on the vote to call the Punta del Este meeting, is actively working on a lukewarm proposal that would call on Cuba to sever military and political links with the Communist bloc within a set period of time, during which the OAS would take no action.

OPPOSED CONFERENCE

Mexico, which has considerable trade with Cuba, was the only country besides Cuba to vote against holding the conference.

At the other end of the spectrum was Haiti, another of the countries closely allied with the U.S. Haiti severed relations with Cuba but refused to walk out of the meeting if it does not vote for effective action against Castro.

With these sharp divisions, the delegates are meeting privately to try to thrash out a common policy before going into open session.

Castro predicts that the conference will be homerang on the U.S., and he has sent a strong delegation to try to ensure that end.

ROBARTS SEES

lege necessary for the achievement of social and economic progress at home.

"All this will cost money. As we develop new services, we will have to find money for additional costs on industry that would injure our competitive position. Our industries will have to continue to modernize if we are to provide employment for 50,000 new workers in the next 10 years."

Mr. Robarts said Canada needs a thorough investigation of its tax structure aimed at removing discrimination and any deterrent to industrial expansion. Ontario has proposed to discuss this with the federal government at any time.

In a review of Ontario affairs Premier Robarts described education as the most formidable challenge. For the current year there was $402,000,000 voted to assist education and provincial grants have to be made for 70,000 additional school places each year for the foreseeable future.

Commenting on proposed changes in the province's plan of studies for secondary schools, he said there are based on the belief that it is impossible to devise a single course of study that will minister to the needs of all pupils in all areas.

He said: "Irresponsible statements are being circulated by persons who state that academic standards are being sacrificed. Nobody will the academic program is retained, but, with a more careful selection of pupils studied in academic courses, consistent of courses, can be strength. Less and made more significant."

"At the same time, technical and commercial training will assume a role commensurate with the changing economic pattern."

Father Appeals Death Sentence

TORONTO (CP) — The evidence of three children was kept silent for nine years was told in court Monday of a father began his appeal against death sentence.

Charles Dubin, counsel for Arthur Kendall, 51, read from the transcribed testimony of three of Kendall's five children.

Kendall is appealing his conviction on a charge of murder in the disappearance of his wife Hazel. He is sentenced to be hanged Feb. 14.

Mrs. Kendall vanished Aug. 7, 1952, from their home in Johnston's Harbor on the Bruce Peninsula.

Mr. Dubin said that during the ensuing nine years "when the children had many years' influence of their father, they (Kendall and many opportunities to tell anybody—members of the Caldigen's Aid Society—what they recounted at trial."

At their father's trial last fall, three of the children, who said they feared the wrath of their father, told of seeing a blood - stained knife on the cover in the cabin and of hearing their mother say, "Please Art, don't" and of seeing their father drag her down the road.

That night Kendall took his five children to visit Mrs. Fenette House at Wiarton, Ont. Later, Mrs. Mercy and her five children moved in with the Kendalls in Johnston's Harbor and were subsequently married.

The appeal is being heard by a full five - judge court.

PROMISES AID

BANGKOK, Thailand (Reuters) — President Kennedy has assured Thailand of United States assistance in meeting any Communist threat and promised that aid to Laos will continue, it was disclosed today. Reporters there assurances were action contained in a letter to him from the president.

Jumping to Conclusions, Do You Agree With Them?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions (and how many do you agree with?):

Fat women are more good-natured than skinny women — at least to gas handlers. They are more likely to fall for a hard luck story.

I never trust a man who is too fond of those gooey cocktail canapes. Any man who can really stuff away a lot in my life must have a deficiency of judgment or character in more important matters.

Nurses make the worst of all hospital patients, because they know how much a doctor doesn't know. I also suspect some of the things he thinks he does know.

A boy gets a deeper thrill out of learning to make a shift knot through his teeth than a man does the day the bank account tops $1,000,000.

The great thing about modern art is this: it gives as much pleasure to a blind person as to one who can see.

WHO'S CALLING

The least impressive executive to me is the one who, when you phone his office, tells secretaries who invariably defend, "what's calling, please?" (What difference does it make who's calling? They're either there or they're not there.)

You're a real married veteran if, in an argument, your wife says to you, 'you figure she's picking on you.'

It isn't true that no one ever said a memorable thing at a party after midnight. But for every memorable remark a man makes after that hour he makes many dull days nothing he had said something less commendable.

You hear a lot of jokes about the waiter who puts his thumb in the soup, but in my life I have never seen this happen. Nor can I recall ever seeing a waiter spill hot soup on a patron.

(Editor's note: Boyle usually eats in self-service cafeterias.)

NO SMOKER, NO LIGHT

The most annoying borrower in the office isn't the one who asks you for money. It's the one who is always fresh out of both cigarettes and matches. A man who runs out of cigarettes ought to at least have a match in his pocket.

Few things make a man feel more like a public benefactor than giving away a two-bit cigar to someone who really appreciates it.

I instinctively like a man who wears a vest and carries a silk handkerchief tucked in it. They give him an air of gentlemanly decadence, a disdain of the opinion of others.

Never bet on a racehorse with a name that is a bore. A man with a hole in both his socks needs either a wife—or a divorce.

wiped out for magazines "that are or will shortly be carrying on editing operations in this country."

Both steps stem from last June's report of the royal commission on publications, headed by M. Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal.

The first measure is just as the commission recommended, but the government has modified the commission's second proposal which would have eliminated all deductibility without exception.

CAN PREVENT AIDS

The effect of the first step will be to prevent Canadian companies from placing ads in "split-run" editions or "editions" of American magazines entering Canada. Canadian business men accept Monday said that Life, Look and Saturday Evening Post have put out such editions occasionally.

The second move is aimed mainly at Time, Digest, whose Canadian editions in English — Time Canada — and Montreal — have a circulation of 1,000,000, far greater than any Canadian magazine. The magazine also has announced plans to print in Canadian editions here.

Mr. Diefenbaker did not mention a date for the new steps. But he did note that "adequate time" will have to be allowed for all existing advertising plans, laid out months in advance, to be completed.

"Nevertheless, the announcement I am making today will give immediate encouragement to Canadian magazines.

"We are deeply interested in reaching the Canadian market with our periodical press and, today, by laying down plans in ways that will give further and more assured support to the truly Canadian publications."

The United States is known to have expressed concern over the new measures—particularly the clause, Mr. Diefenbaker acknowledged last year that "consultations" were taking place but he never revealed the nature or extent of these.

He said Monday the government has considered the impending action in relation to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and said that while the issues "are not essentially of a commercial character but do go into the realm of trade and culture."

Nonetheless, there would be "appropriate consultations" with any other government concerned.

CLAIMS PENALIZED

Initial reaction by E. P. Taylor, president of the Canadian Daxit Association Limited, was that the prime minister had proposed "a severe and drastic penalty for my company." He said: "I am going to study with our case before Parliament."

"We still have to evaluate our position . . . and decide whether we can survive economically if the penalty enacts its proposal to put forward by the prime minister."

Reader's Digest, Mr. Zimmerman said, is a "Canadian-financed and managed" business providing employment for more than 1,000 Canadians.

Such legislation would be "a severe and drastic penalty for my company after 32 years as a full corporate citizen of Canada."

There was no immediate reaction by Time.

But Canadian magazine publishers heard praise on the an-

Accused Worked Under an Alias In Restaurant

ST. THOMAS (CP) — A Supreme Court jury was told Monday that Kenneth Raymond Summerhayes, 25, charged with capital murder in the Oct. 19 stabbing death of Ida Mae Wilson, 56, had been employed under the name of Ken Raymond, where a knife similar to the murder weapon, was stolen.

Allan Thompson, owner of the Geddes Restaurant, told the court he met Jay Ken Summerhayes, whom he knew as Bob, Wilson, 316 for four years, at a Toronto bowling alley. He said a knife similar to the murder weapon was stolen sometime during that period.

Mildred Thomas Gauthro and David Charles Gauthro said that the night Mrs. Wilson was stabbed fingering of bowling on a lawn, they were with Summerhayes in a St. Thomas restaurant. Mrs. Gauthro Summerhayes showed them a knife with a brown handle.

Norman Erickson of the attorney - general's laboratory in Toronto testified a chemical laboratory tests carried out on blood stains found on Summerhayes and Summerhayes on the night of the murder. He said blood type A was found on Summerhayes' clothing and on that worn by Mrs. Wilson.

PRAISES SOLUTION

Ralph Snyder, workable solution," said C. J. Laurin, president of the Periodical Press Association and vice-president of the magazine division of Maclean - Hunter Publishing Company.

"This is going to provide a climate in Canada for the survival of existing periodicals and the continued healthy development of many new Canadian publications. But it would be very foolish to look for overnight results."

Arnold Edinborough, president of the Magazine Publishers Association and publisher of Saturday Night, said:

"This doesn't answer all our problems but is more than I ever expected, and I am very happy. But we still have our work cut out."

"Time and Reader's Digest have got to live up without a struggle and other magazines will enter the field. This removes the element of competition and makes it possible for us to have a go."

COMMENTS SOLD STEP

Floyd S. Chalmers, president of Maclean-Hunter, commended the government for "a very bold step" and said it will enable an equitable situation to have a reasonable chance for survival.

The real test of the government action will be whether Canadian ads will be attracted to magazine publishing, he said. "Starting any magazine in Canada in recent years was a sure road to bankruptcy."

Ian Sclater of Montreal, publisher of the Montrealer and 19 business papers, said "the same benefits that will accrue to consumer magazines will accrue even to business magazines."

There had been a recent trend for United States publishers setting jointly to enter the business magazine field in Canada but "this will stop it, I think."

Michael O'Hurley, Defence Production Minister, MP For Riding 99.9 PC French

By JACK BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — A French-thinking Irishman from Quebec, grandson of an Imperial army officer who helped to maintain colonial rule in Canada, stands as a living synthesis of this country's disparate cultures.

Raymond Joseph Michael O'Hurley, 52-year-old defence production minister, almost seems to symbolize the concept of dual culture and language enshrined in Confederation.

Though Irish by ancestry—and by every line of his roughhewn, Celtic features—he represents a constituency that is 99.9 per cent French: Lotbinière, a short distance southwest of Quebec City.

English was the language spoken in his childhood home in St. Gilles, Que. His father could barely make his way in French and his mother didn't care to try. But he picked up the language at an early age and now is equally fluent in both.

THINKS IN FRENCH

Over the years he has come to "think in French" rather than English. All the same time he has retained a robust Irish wit.

He married a French - Canadian, Charlotte Demers, and French is the language spoken in the O'Hurley home. But his five children—four boys and a girl — have Irish or English names.

In the recent census Dermot, 26, graduated from the University of Ottawa, and Bertha, 21, a registered nurse in Quebec City, were old enough to be independently enumerated. Dermot registered as of French descent; Bertha as of Irish descent.

"I think I am in a position to express the wishes and opinions of the French - Canadian people," says the minister as he relaxed in his comfortably appointed office about five minutes' walk from Parliament Hill.

"I have been accepted as one of their own. I think French, though I still observe St. Patrick's Day and like to visit Ireland once in a while. The problems of the French - Canadian are my problems."

ATTACKS SEPARATISM

A contemporary issue in French Canada for which he has little sympathy is separatism.

National-unity has been almost a second ministry for the bashful, hard - working former lumberman since his appointment May 12, 1958, to head the department which is the contracting authority for procurement of defence supplies.

He agrees that for French Canada, Confederation has produced special problems. But he insists there is only one place to deal with them—inside Confederation.

What is needed above all else, he says, is understanding. To achieve this he advocates more exchanges between French-speaking and English-speaking Canada—exchanges of students, professors and industrials.

He is the first Conservative the voters of Lotbinière have sent to the Commons since Confederation, having been elected in 1957 by narrowly Hugues Lapointe, former Liberal post-master-general.

PROMOTED QUICKLY

In his first year as an MP he was parliamentary secretary to Mines Minister Comtois, now lieutenant-governor of Quebec. Now he is at the helm of a government department which in the last fiscal year let defence contracts worth between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000.

Mr. O'Hurley still remembers his surprise when called by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to take on a cabinet portfolio after less than a year in the Commons. "I had never even thought of becoming a cabinet minister," he says.

Though short in parliamentary experience, he was by no means lacking in administrative experience. For 20 years he had been mayor of St. Gilles — always elected by acclamation—and for 10 years had been warden of Lotbinière County.

Nor was he without contracting experience. He had done a lot of this type of work as manager of a huge timber estate near his hometown—a job he held for 22 years before entering federal politics.

PURE IRISH

He hasn't a drop of French blood in his veins. His grandfather, Daniel O'Hurley from County Cork, came to Canada as an officer in the Royal Hussars. He met Raymond's grandmother, Annie Chadwick, while posted out of Quebec to kill brown bears that were ruining settlers' crops in the St. Gilles region.

Annie was 16 at the time, a farmer's daughter and first-generation Irish - Canadian. Their son, George O'Hurley, Raymond's father, kept the Irish bloodline intact by marrying Helen Nora McGuire.

Though his work fit in Ottawa, day O'Hurley's heart is still in St. Gilles with the habitants. Every Friday night he flies to Quebec City and goes by auto to St. Gilles to spend the week-end.

All day Saturday and all day Sunday he "holds office" for people of the district who come to him for advice on problems ranging from family affairs to business transactions. "His door is open to everyone," says an associate.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS

JOHNSTOWN — The Young People's Union of Johnstown held their last meeting on Friday evening, January 12, at the home of Bob Hamilton.

Miss Thelma Stickle was in charge of the worship service. Miss Eleanor Clapp read the Scripture.

It was arranged that a tobogganing party to be held at Johnstown with the YPU's of Stone, Wallbridge and North Trenton invited.

The regular discussion then followed, based on "Stewardship and Training."

A slate of officers was brought in for 1963 as follows: president, Miss Beverley Clapp; 1st vice-president, Miss Eleanor Clapp secretary - treasurer, Wayne Moore.

Civil Defence night is to be held at Johnstown school on February 2nd. Mr. Broadbent will talk on "Radiation and the Effects On the Farm." All are requested to attend.

Janet and Nancy Reynolds and Gloria Parks spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. B. Hamilton and family. Mr. Frank Hamilton was a visitor on Friday evening.

Liberal Member Sees Mining Bank for North

SUDBURY (CP) — A development bank for Northern Ontario, with a starting fund of $25,000,000, was forecast Sunday by Elmer Sopha, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Sudbury.

Mr. Sopha was speaking to delegates attending the annual meeting of the Association of Mining Municipalities of Northern Ontario.

Advocating a new approach to the problems of Northern Ontario, Mr. Sopha said he thinks only "a fraction of the mineral potential" of the area has been developed.

He said he was disillusioned with the stock exchange method of financing development and that this method must give way soon to a more orderly approach.

"Most of the people carrying on activity on the stock exchange are not concerned with the creation of mines at all. It is a gigantic gamble for them."

He said access roads must be built in a north-south direction because "it is only by these lines of communication we can unlock the riches of the North."

Arguing for creation within the government of a department of northern development, he said there are only six men in top posts at Queen's Park who come from Northern Ontario and "have the experience to advise on problems" of the area.

Liberals Draft Federal Medical Insurance Plan

Walter Gordon Reveals Program Nearly Ready

Quebec Will Continue Grants To Universities

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage announced Tuesday Quebec and Ottawa have agreed to continue an arrangement to make grants to universities just as a Union Nationale legislature member accused his government of being one cause of separatism by entering federal-provincial agreements at the expense of Quebec's rights.

Armand Maltais (UN — Quebec East) said during the throne speech debate that the separatist movement is partly a reaction against Quebec's entry into federal - provincial plans conceived by Ottawa.

During an impromptu press conference by the pregier on the university grants situation, a reporter used the term federal-provincial "agreements."

Mr. Lesage hastened to correct him. "They are arrangements, not agreements," he said, referring to his government's policy of making the plans because it needs money although opposing them on principle.

CAN APPLY TAXES

In other provinces, Ottawa makes grants of $1.50 per capita of population. However, since Quebec maintains education is strictly a provincial matter a provision was established by which any provincial government can increase corporation taxes by one per cent and apply the money towards university grants.

Mr. Lesage told reporters and wrote Mr. Diefenbaker that Ottawa offered him no "check-book" to agree to continue the system, even though it violates the fundamental rights of the provinces in education.

He told reporters Mr. Diefenbaker "held a knife at my throat."

Mr. Lesage told Mr. Diefenbaker last September that the system under which Quebec receives its money for university grants is "an attack on provincial legislative autonomy."

To change the system, Mr. Diefenbaker replied, would be to "open the door to inequalities" between the provinces.

TORONTO (CP) — Within a few weeks the Liberal party hopes to announce plans for a medical aid program acceptable to the whole country, Walter L. Gordon said Tuesday night.

Mr. Gordon, 55, was nominated without opposition as Liberal candidate in Toronto Davenport in the next federal general election. The seat is held by Progressive Conservative Murray Morton.

Mr. Gordon, Toronto economist and management consultant, was chairman of the 1956 royal commission which investigated Canada's economic future.

Standing beneath a red-on-white banner reading Canada needs the Liberal team, Mr. Gordon emphasized that his own endeavor would be to see more done "in fields of social security."

PROMISE BENEFITS

About $20 persons at the nominating convention heard Mr. Gordon promise the Liberal party will work for the new medical plan, higher unemployment insurance benefits, greater benefits for persons handicapped by industrial injury or retraining, a better old age pension scheme, portable pensions and a better old age assistance program.

The medical plan was not elaborated upon.

Mr. Gordon spoke briefly of a four-point university education program the Liberals are working on, adding that there is "something wrong when a university is not free" as are primary and secondary education.

He party, he said, has committed itself to implement all these programs by "democratic means."

Lester B. Pearson, national Liberal leader, warned against Socialist policies and "those with the admonition that "we can't trust security without freedom."

THE ONLY CHOICE?

Mr. Pearson says he does not want to be thought that the choice is between freedom and peace. "I don't believe that. It is not a choice between freedom and peace. We can—and will—have both."

But "we must have power on our side to prevent the other side has power. To be defenceless is to be destroyed. It sometimes is because you have no power."

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Gordon would have "a big part to play in the next Liberal administration."

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTION BEATEN BY PC MAJORITY

Liberals Support Motion by Argue

OTTAWA (CP)—An omnibus non-confidence motion attacking the government on nearly every count was beaten 155 to 49 in the Commons Tuesday night.

The motion of the motion by Hazen Argue, House leader of the CCF — New Democratic Party group, gained Liberal support but unanimous rejection by the Progressive Conservative majority.

He motion cited government failure in various fields to develop the economy to provide expanded export markets, full employment, and, with provincial co-operation, a pre - paid medical care program for all Canadians.

Transportation Blueprints Get High-Level Thought

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport blueprint of the MacPherson royal commission was still undergoing high-level study today.

In Ottawa, at railway headquarters in Montreal, in all provincial capitals and in most transport circles, the far-reaching recommendations of the six-man commission were being analyzed and digested.

So far, the principal comments regarding the 340-page report has come from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

In tabling it in the Commons Tuesday, he said:

"The report will help Parliament, the government and industry concerned in reaching solutions to the problems that were placed before the commission.

"The report will be thoroughly examined and considered—and if it is felt that recommendations contained therein can be made during the present session, that course will be taken."

The prime minister also termed the purely speculative" a Canadian Press report quanting reliable informants as saying legislation is being considered aimed at abolishing across-the-board freight rate increases.

In practical effect, the recommendations of the royal commission would free the big railways from the shackles of competitive struggle for business.

It would lose the railways "to the winds"—a challenge issued recently by CPR President N. R. Crump who added:

"Let us see if we can run with the pack. If we can't compete in an open market, then we should not exist."

However, there was no immediate indication officially that the report itself from either the publicly - owned CNR or the privately-owned CPR.

The report would have far-reaching consequences if the main proposals were implemented by the government.

The commission, headed by M. A. MacPherson, a Regina lawyer, suggested that the present freight rate structure be scrapped and replaced with a

Queen Picks Philip's Old School Amongst Dour Scots for Charles

LONDON (CP) — "My heart bleeds for Charles."

Thus spoke Lord Rudolph Russell, 70-year-old son of the Duke of Bedford, as he took peace away from Gordonstoun, the school near the rugged coast of northeast Scotland that has been selected for Prince Charles.

The Queen announced her decision Tuesday.

Many of Gordonstoun's "old boys" would not agree with the choice. Among them is Prince Philip, the school's most famous graduate, is known to have a deep affection for the establishment that his son go to the school.

It's a place where the bare feet are expected to hit the cold plank floors of the dormitory at 7:05 a.m. The emphasis is on self-discipline and leadership in an atmosphere of cold showers, bare wooden tables, short pants, open-neck shirts and lots of outdoor activity.

But despite its reputation, it has a good academic score and is also noted in dealing with even delicate boys.

The school, in a pleasant wooded area within a mile of the sea, also offers training in pottery, sculpture and pottery and has an observatory, orchestra, band and thriving drama society.

The Queen has visited Gordonstoun several times and Prince Charles visited there last August.

Headmaster Robert Chew said Tuesday night that "We are all delighted that the Prince of Wales will be following his father's footstope and coming to us." He said the prince will be treated the same as the other boys.

There is no "fagging" — the practice in most such British schools under which junior students do chores and run errands for senior students.

Non-Op Railway Unions Have Accepted a Recess

MONTREAL (CP) — Fifteen unions seeking a new contract for 110,000 railway employees acting employees agreed today to a railway-requested recess in contract talks.

The talks, which started only Tuesday, will resumed Feb. 14.

The railways asked for the recess after presenting the 15 CLC - affiliated unions with a series of proposals. They said they wanted time to "consolidate" their offers.

The talks failed to indicate that only a general outline of the railway program was put forward, with a complete version to come later.

Further side gave any indication Tuesday of the details of the new proposals. If the recess is approved, the talks are expected to be adjourned until early February.

Tuesday's session marked the first time in several years that the railways have made any offers to the unions so early in the negotiations.

The union demands were made public last before Christmas. They included a call for a revolutionary job freeze, which if accepted would limit the reduction in the number of workers in any given classification within the railway system to one per cent a year for employees with five or more years' seniority.

Other demands included a 35-cent-an-hour wage increase. The

Dealer in Meat For Dogs, Cats Is Arrested

BUFFALO (CP)—An Ontario dealer in meat for dogs and cats was arrested Tuesday and charged with smuggling more than 200 tons of beef into the United States.

Arthur L. Lorenz, 37, of Durham waived examination before U.S. Commissioner Thomas J. Ryan. Bail was set at $10,000.

Lorenz was charged with smuggling beef into the U.S. at the Peace Bridge in 20 separate truckloads since last March. Customs agents said the meat was delivered to a dog-food processing plant at Allentown, Pa.

Agents said the beef was buried under quantities of dutyfree goods. They placed the value of the beef at $80,000 and said $13,000 in duty should have been paid on it. The horsemeat they added, was worth $20,700.

CRUISER SHOVED OUT OF WAY BY FLEEING CAR

Evidence Heard In Bank Robbery

PETERSBOROUGH (CP) — Three or four bullets cut through the air a few feet from him during a car chase following a bank robbery at Havelock, Const. John McKendry told a court Tuesday.

Testifying at the trial of four Montreal men charged with the $222,000 armed robbery of the Toronto-Dominion Bank branch last Aug. 31, the provincial policeman said his cruiser earlier had been bounced out of the way by a fleeing car.

Roger Mariel, 41, Roger Poirier, 31, both of Montreal; Jean-Claude and Yvon Lalonde, 23 and 21, pleaded not guilty to the robbery charge. Poirier, Mariel and Jean - Claude Lalonde also pleaded not guilty to two charges of possessing stolen cars, resisting arrest by shooting at a policeman, and breaking and entering a summer cottage.

Const. McKendry, the 17th witness called in the trial, said he and Const. Moss Barker saw a green car approaching at high speed as they drove in a cruiser on Twin Lakes Road.

The officer said he swung the cruiser across the road to block it, but the approaching car crashed against the front end of the cruiser, knocking it out of the way, and drove on.

LEVELS SHOTGUN

The two officers gave chase, and came across the green car stopped near the Crown River bridge. Const. McKendry said he stopped the cruiser short of the car, got out and levelled a shot-gun at the car.

The vehicle immediately accelerated . . . its back window disintegrated and three or four rapid shots were fired . . . in our direction," the witness said.

He estimated the shots missed the cruiser by about two feet.

The chase continued until another hair mile before the green car was found abandoned on a track of the forest.

Arthur Bovair told the court Wednesday he witnessed the robbers at Twin Lakes about a week before the robbery.

Loot from the robbery never has been recovered.

Senior Constable Williams identified Roger Poirier as being in the police shop Aug. 23 with another man and identified as George Wilson, who died of a heart attack last fall in Peterborough County jail during preliminary hearing of the case.

The trial is continuing.

14 Prisoners Will Testify

KINGSTON (CP) — Fourteen prisoners are expected to be brought from Kingston Penitentiary to police court here to testify under oath at a closed hearing concerning the Nov. 24 slaying of a prison guard.

Assistant Crown Attorney J. E. Sampson of Frontenac County, in a statement today, said:

"The Crown has applied to Justice of the Peace David W. Acheti for a warrant on a charge of capital murder against an inmate of Kingston penitentiary."

Queen Elizabeth Will Have Her Way Over Pelican Skims the Surf Man Gets Ready to Quit This Earth

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The pelican swoops low over the surf, a relic of primitive prehistoric ages.

In a supermarket, a housewife fingers the frozen asparagus and debates about the high cost of living.

Across the turquoise sea where the coast curves out to a finger of land called Cape Canaveral, Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. balance look no more exciting than a Texas oil field.

But the pelicans probably have grown accustomed to living with one foot in the stars and one on earth.

Here, where U.S. prestige and many of its treasure and part of its defence capability have been placed on the line, there are few flag-wavers.

There are moments and hours of incredible tension when men stare into their souls and find condemn and ask if they have done everything they can. Generally there is little overt drama.

But the shot scheduled for this Saturday, when Glenn and Lt-Col. John H. Glenn will be strapped into a capsule atop the 90-foot Atlas as the count goes for the first time to orbit a man around the earth.

The beaches will be crowded with thousands of spectators, their eyes riveted on the fragile gantry 10 miles away. Millions more will watch on television.

But the cape itself, in the blockhouse, in the control centre, the professionals will find their jobs absorbing and their palms getting damper as the countdown approaches the last moment.

The layman, projecting his own fears, may wonder how the astronaut and the men who send him up can take this kind of tension. One answer is their expert knowledge.

They have, in the words of Dr. Stanley White, chief of the astronauts' medical support team, "reduced the unknown to finite smallness."

Agent Bought Heroin From Windsor Men

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — An undercover agent for the United States Narcotics Bureau told a Supreme Court jury Tuesday how he negotiated with two Windsor area men to buy narcotics and counterfeit money.

Agent James Attle is the key Crown witness at the trial of Nicholas Cicchini, 36, of Windsor and John Simon Sr., 56, of nearby Belle River.

Cicchini and Simon Sr. are jointly charged with conspiring to traffic in heroin and conspiring to possess counterfeit currency. Cicchini faces additional charges of trafficking in heroin and possessing counterfeit money and Simon is also charged with trafficking in heroin.

Attle testified he was introduced to Simon Sr. by an informer last May 1. The agent said Simon Sr. told him that a friend who could sell Attle all the pure heroin he wanted.

Cicchini Sold

A few days later, Attle was given a sample package of heroin bought by Simon Sr. and at first the federal government's food and drug department testified earlier that the sample contained almost pure heroin.

Attle said he met Cicchini May 9 and was offered a half-kilogram of heroin for $6,000. He said that while he was discussing the heroin purchase, he asked Cicchini for some samples of counterfeit money Simon had mentioned he was selling.

Later Cicchini gave him two bills which were described in earlier evidence as being bogus $5 federal reserve notes.

Attle said he was told he could buy $100,000 in bogus money for $10,000 in good currency.

Attle testified he purchased a half - kilo of heroin from Cicchini in a Windsor house May 16. On May 18 the agent was introduced to Mrs. Rena Allison. Mrs. Wilson, a Crown witness last week, had been charged with possessing heroin for the purpose of trafficking.

Attle said he asked Cicchini whether he could meet the person who supplied Cicchini with heroin and was told "you'll never meet them."

Detailed Program Drafted By Industrial Commission To Attract New Industries

The Belleville Industrial Commission this year will make a combined effort to attract new industry to the city and at the same time institute a program of co-operation with industry already located here.

Industrial Commission officials note that it is the first time that detailed plans for a systematic program of action have been prepared for the city.

The program, which is estimated will cost in excess of $15,000, was compiled using the recent Lake Ontario Development Association industrial survey of the city as a basis.

Council last fall approved the plan of action suggested in the survey and Monday Commission Chairman Alderman Jack Ireland presented the proposed program to the city body.

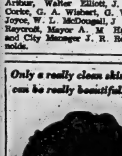
Aid, ireland told council that it was hoped the proposed would correct some of the declining trend of the past in industrial promotion in the city.

LIST ALL SITES

The suggested program of work includes preparation of a list determining all costs of industrial properties in the city, and also listing of all buildings available or available for manufacturing and warehousing. this information to be distributed to banks, railways, the LODA, government officers and industrial prospects.

Also proposed is the investigation of the possibility of forming a community corporation similar to those formed in certain other Ontario communities such as Lindsay Bowmanville and Port Hope.

In addition an attractive industrial brochure will be published for distribution to industrial prospects and to agencies engaged in industrial development in Canada and the United States.



PLAN INDUSTRIAL DAY

A Belleville Industrial Day is planned to bring to the attention of industrial development agencies the position of Belleville, as an industrial location and to give them "on the spot" knowledge of what the local committee has to offer.

Earl Hutchison, last year acting as secretary to the industrial commission, has been appointed commission manager.

Members of this year's industrial commission, besides Ireland, chairman, Jack McArthur, Walter Elliott, J. H. Corke, G. M. Wishart, D. W. Joyce, W. L. McDougall, J. J. Reynolds, Mayor A. M. Haig and City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

50 Per Cent United Appeal To Be Paid Out

It was decided that an initial distribution of the funds collected by the Belleville United Appeal, equivalent to 50 per cent of the annual member agency's allotments, be made at this time, at the regular monthly meeting of the Appeal's board of directors held early this week.

This means that a total of $36,250 will be distributed amongst the eleven member agencies at this time. Returns to date have also allowed reached for $47,000 mark and will go well over this mark when the additional donations, which have been definitely promised are received, it was stated.

The annual meeting of the United Appeal will be held on Thursday, Feb. 8th at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. Col. Charles O. Dalton, president of Loyalist University Ltd., will be the guest speaker.

The meeting will be preceded by a dinner for which tickets are available at the United Appeal office in the Kiwanis Centre.

Priest, Basilio Refuse to Attend Royal York Meet

TORONTO (CP)—The annual sports celebrities dinner Feb. 1 will be missing at least two persons—boxing champion Basilio crossing picket lines at the Royal York Hotel to sit at the head table.

Rev. John Crowley, invited to say grace, declined saying he understood it was the wish of Most Rev. Philip Pocock, Coadjutor Archbishop of Toronto, that Roman Catholic priests not participate in entertainment in the church by crossing the picket lines.

Father Crowley, former hockey coach at St. Michael's College, has been appointed acting secretary to the industrial commission, has been named commission manager.

Members of this year's industrial commission, besides Ireland, chairman, Jack McArthur, Walter Elliott, J. H. Corke, G. M. Wishart, D. W. Joyce, W. L. McDougall, J. J. Reynolds, Mayor A. M. Haig and City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

The dinner is sponsored by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association to raise funds for crippled children. A total of $200,000 has been raised in the last 10 years.

Ontario Likely To Accept Pension Hike

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is considered likely to accept federal proposals to increase pensions by improving the needy aged and the blind.

Premier Roberts said Tuesday he has not seen the papers but agrees with Ottawa's decision to go ahead.

In the past, Ontario has gone along reaction with such increases and informed sources predicted no difficulty with the latest proposals.

Under the old-age assistance program, the federal and provincial governments share the cost of the pension equally. Pensions to the blind are shared on the basis of 75 per cent from the federal government and 25 per cent of the provinces.

Both the old-age assistance and blind pensions for 65 to 69 years inclusive, and the blind pension for those 18 years and over, are subject to means tests Both are paid wholly by the province. Ontario returns during the province according to its agreements.

Bail Jumpers In Dope Case Held in Spain

TORONTO (CP)—An undercover agent of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Toronto led to the arrest in Spain of alleged leaders of an international drug smuggling ring, RCMP Superintendent C. H. Woods-Johnson said here today.

The U.S. Federal Bureau of Narcotics Tuesday announced the arrest of Frank Caruseo, 50, Vincent Mauro, 45, and Salvatore Manari, 40, who jumped bail in the United States last September while awaiting trial on drug smuggling charges.

Caruso and Mauri, described by police as kingpins in the $150,000,000 smuggling racket, believe it was subplaid last May, were arrested in Barcelona. Manari was picked up in the nearby Mediterranean island of Majorca.

All three carried falsely-obtained Canadian passports, police said. U.S. narcotics agent and Spanish police made the arrests.

The three will be questioned in connection with the murder of Toronto-accused Albert Agueci, whose nude body was found outside Rochester, N.Y., last November.

Agueci's brother Vito and another Toronto man, Rocco Scopelliti, were found guilty of drug smuggling charges along with nine others in New York Dec. 27. They are due to be sentenced Feb. 1.

The Toronto men were said by police to have arranged shipments of narcotics from Italy into the United States.

MELBOURNE ADAMS

A lifelong resident of the Thomasburg district, Melbourne Adams, was killed in a car accident on Highway No. 37 near Thomasburg, on Tuesday afternoon. He died in the Belleville General Hospital shortly after admittance. He was born in Huntingdon township, 83 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams. For many years he farmed in the district and was well known and highly respected. He has been retired for some years.

He was a member of the United Church and formerly was a member of the Orange Lodge. Surviving are one brother, Chester Adams of Hall's Glen and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Mary) Emerson and Mrs. Wesley (Catherine) Huffman, both of this city. His wife, the former Florence Marriott, died in 1958.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, Bridge Street. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. DELLA SMITH
Vermilion, Alberta

Mrs. Della Smith of Vermilion, Alta., died Monday in an automobile accident on Highway 27 near Thomasburg on Thursday afternoon, January 18, 1962, in her 77th year. She was the wife of Thomas Smith-law, Melbourne Adams of Thomasburg, at the time.

Della Smith was born in Plinton, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marriott. Her husband, Thomas Smith, predeceased her by seven years.

Surviving are three sons and three daughters in the West.

Miss Marion Fox, Dufferin-ave and would not comment until he has had a chance to study them. Public Welfare Minister Allan was not available for comment.

The Defalcation proposed, besides a $10 increase in the universal old-age pension, an increase on the same basis in payments under old-age assistance and blind pension programs in which the costs are shared 50-50 by Ottawa and the provinces.

In the past, Ontario has gone along reaction with such increases and informed sources predicted no difficulty with the latest proposals.

Under the old-age assistance program, the federal and provincial governments share the cost of the pension equally. Pensions to the blind are shared on the basis of 75 per cent from the federal government and 25 per cent of the provinces.

Grant Record To Liberals In Two Ridings

TORONTO (CP) — Recounts were granted Tuesday in two Toronto ridings, which Progressive Conservative candidates are retained their Commons margins over their Liberal opponents in the Jan. 16 provincial election.

County court Judge F. G. J. McDonagh ordered the recounts, said the time and place for the new counts will be set Jan. 31.

In Toronto Eglinton Leonard Reilly won by 14 votes. Jean Newman by 36 votes and in Bracondale Jack Harris was 256 votes ahead of Donald MacGregor.

Renfrew South is the only other of the five contested ridings where the results might be questioned. In the byelection Liberal Leonard Reilly defeated Progressive Conservative, Connie Mulvihill by 135 votes, Premier Robarts said Tuesday he is well until after the official declaration Jan. 25 before making a decision on requesting a recount.

WellandMember Attacks Govt. On Many Issues

OTTAWA (CP) — The year 1962 started and ended on a comic opera note, Welland MP Milton (L — Welland) told the Commons Tuesday.

Speaking during the throne speech debate, he said this note sounded from Dr. Strangelove, elected signing of the Canada-U.S. Columbia River agreement to the cabinet shuffle that failed to materialize at Quebec City.

The Columbia situation remains bogged down by the dispute with British Columbia, he said, unlike St. Lawrence seaway power negotiations which first made such of accord with Ontario.

The yeaf was marked by record budgets, record deficits and unemployment, said guilty of the government in not taking a stand on nuclear arms for Canada.

It had been "government by im g u j e." Finance Minister Fleming was churning out new money, which was the most ser, lous danger to Canada. The minister was an "inflation addict."

If Mr. Fleming "has sold out completely, I say Gold help Canada and God help the Conadian people."

In London, Rome and Lisbon, he had been questioned about Canadian financial stability, Mr. MacMillan said. In Lisbon, a restaurant operator accepted an currency but he declined a $5 Canadian bill — a sign of Canada's slipping prestige.

Parks Board Tells Council To Sell Lots

TRENTON — Following a meeting with Councillors Lloyd Worrall and Duncan McDonald and recreation director William Workman last night the members of the Trenton Recreation and Parks' Management voted unanimously that council "sell four lots in the Elmwood Acres housing development back to the developer, instead of retaining the land as park area, and that the money realized from the sale be used for parks purposes in the area near the subdivision.

Present at the regular parks' board meeting were: chairman, Mrs. Ruth Hall; secretary, Miss Marion Belter; treasurer, John Saylor and board members Norman Armstrong, William Ireland and Clyde Mason.

Councillor Worrall explained that the four lots in question were originally set aside as park land area which the sub-divider must allocate for parks' purposes. If a park in the development is not indicated, the developer must buy back the land from the corporation.

A few weeks ago, council was asked to decide in Hen of the lots. Last week, at Elmwood Acres residents petitioned council to have the lots set aside for a playground area for preschool children.

"We're not baby-sitters," said Mr. Worrall, "we're here to manage children attend the supervised playgrounds."

"What's happened to kids who played 'in their own back yards'?" questioned Mr. Parker.

"I don't think we're too interested in developing a park in this area," said Mr. Parker.

WILL ACCEPT AREA

Councillor Worrall said that there had been some suggestion in the immediate area of housing development and a 25-unit apartment building in the north. He said that the developer was obliged to give a lot and a half in lieu of parkage for park purposes and after discussion, the board members were agreed that they would be large enough for a playground for pre-school children, with larger children could continue to cross the road to Allison Street to the College Street school playground.

The board will have signs, similar to those for skating and hockey, placed in all parks where ice rinks have been flooded.

Mr. Parker said that many mothers had objected to children playing in hockey sticks being allowed on the rinks and that, on the other hand, he had received a similar number of complaints about skating children interfering with the hockey players.

"It would be Utopia on ice if the kids adhered to rules," Mr. Mason, "It's silly to make rules you can't enforce".

Treasurer John Saylor told the members that the board has still about $1,000 left of a surplus of $7,000 on parks' operations this year. This money has been earmarked for building a rest room in Hanna Park and towards the completion of a road on Mount Pelion.

Murray Twp. Wants to Form Planning Area

TRENTON — The Murray Township council passed two by-laws to do with area planning on Monday night's meeting. One by-law covered a request to the Ontario Municipal Board to be permitted to set up a "township planning area," the other a second by-law will ask the Ontario Municipal Board on the setting up of a township planning area. The latter would work in conjunction with Trenton and Suburban Planning Board which would be referred to as "the senior body."

The township is entitled to representation on the Trenton board but has not taken an active part in area planning.

Monday night, Reeve Douglas McMaster told a reporter that the general feeling in the township was that a larger representation on any area board was indicated. He said that the township had been entitled to send one representative to the Trenton board, but that he and the members of township council felt that this was not enough.

Trenton RCAF Firemen Third In Their Class

TRENTON — RCAF Station St. Sylvestre, P.Q. is winner of the grand second Dominion Fire Protection Competition for the 1961 National Fire Prevention Association contest.

Trenton RCAF Station Fire Chief, Trenton, Ont. placed third, and Edmonton, Alta. Namao was fourth in the two days of large competitions for large stations, most of Air Transport Command.

In the competition for medium size fire fighting units, RCAF Station Chatham, N.B. took the first place.

Since 1954 the RCAF Station Trenton fire hall has received honorable mention with the exception of two years, 1956 and '57, when it received second place among competing large fire fighting units.

Is Jailed for Month In Bad Cheque Case

TRENTON — In magistrate's court on Tuesday, Donald K. Sharpe of Trenton and British Columbia, who last week pleaded guilty to a charge of passing worthless cheques, was sentenced to one month in jail. Restitution of $68.77 was made by the accused.

Sharpe was also bound guilty on a charge of being the owner of a "malicious" car, but was to be allowed to take the dog with him when he moves out of the province. Sharpe's car had been ordered to dispose of the dog if the case has been enlarged until Feb. 13.

crease the universal old age pension, payable to everyone at the age of 70 years, and also boost blindness and disability pensions as well as old age assistance paid to needy persons in the 65-69 age bracket.

Trade Minister Hees marshalled statistic after statistic as evidence of progress under Conservative government since 1957 and said 1962 would be the wealthiest year in Canadian history if there is a period of operation among governments, management and labor.

Tommy Douglas (L—Hull) said English-speaking Canadians are not ready for the separatist movement and warned that unless they return to the "old" Liberal party they will be "wallowing in the trough" and a peaceful association.

Mr. Argue urged the government to handle unemployment immediately and then bring in a budget before calling a federal election.

"We feel the Canadian public has a right to know where the moneys will be raised to meet the many important expenditures that are being announced," he said.

CRITICIZES DISTRIBUTION

Mr. Argue criticized the government for distributing widely a pamphlet on the Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act, passed last session, and said so far he could learn not a project had been started under it.

"Not one agreement has been signed with the provinces," he said, "and is long at the propaganda gets around the country before the election, the small farmer can go without any benefit."

In another field, he said Mr. Diefenbaker has not given "proper recognition," to Quebec. He had refused to recognize that Quebec should have a bigger place in the cabinet and even had heralded on the "small minister" of providing bilingual cheques.

NOT AS PARTNERS

Mr. Caron picked up this thread later.

He said English-speaking Canadians should start behaving like "partners" in Confederation." If they did, they would find after examining their conscience that French-speaking Canadians have been real partners in Confederation but have seldom been treated as such by others.

Mr. Caron said he does not support the present government and that it has no chance for success at the present.

Surrounded by friends we'll long remember.
The days of our boys we've known.
With a smile on our lips we've a sadness.
And a lonesome dear dad, we sadly missed by son Ralph and daughter-in-law Ruby.

COLLINS. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Ingram, who passed away January 24th, 1960.

Sweet memories are treasures.
We remember you in silence.
Sacred thoughts are ours alone.
And what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
Never remembered by wife Norma and family.

KEEGAN. — In loving memory of a dear father and husband, Everett Joseph Keegan, who passed away January 24th, 1958.

Not lost, but gone before.
Not dead, but sleeping.
Will meet once more.
Sadly missed by wife Norma and children Orville, Charmaine, Jacqua and Bobby.

Wins Custody Of 2 Children

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A Canadian army officer's wife was ruled custody of two children by her husband's marriage.

Mrs. John R. Maddin, whose husband is stationed at Camp Borden, Ont., was given custody of the children Tuesday after a hearing in which her first husband, Mitchell F. Gleckman, a Northeastern University professor, testified.

Judge Frederick V. McManimon in Middlesex County Probate Court awarded permanent custody of Richard, 7, and Judith, 5, to their mother.

The Gleckmans were divorced in Nevada in 1958. At that time, the mother was given custody of the children. Last year Gleckman sought to regain the children. He has remarried.

New "Y" Will Be Started In Near Future

Local Kiwanians were given the latest picture on the campaign for a new YMCA building for Belleville by club member Tom Simpson, who is also a member of the local Y's board of directors, at their regular weekly meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Kiwanis Centre.

A net total of $750,000 was raised of the $850,000 objective required to erect what was felt to be the minimum building required for the "Y" by the community, he said. It has been decided to proceed with the erection of a building with reduced facilities but a building within the amount collected, he advised.

The new building will include neither a gymnasium nor activities rooms, both of which are usually considered as fundamental facilities in a YMCA. It will include a 60 by 25 foot swimming pool with underwater viewing room, two lounges or meeting rooms, two offices, an exercise room, a kitchenette and a general purpose room.

Work on this building will be starting in the near future, Mr. Simpson said, but it is not intended that this be the end of the program. The structure which will be erected is to be designed to allow for the addition of a gymnasium and other facilities at some future date with a modicum of confusion and inconvenience, he concluded.

For the entertainment portion of the meeting there was a film shown on the 1961 Macdonald Brier Bonspiel held in Calgary. The film was introduced by Kiwanian Don Hicks, who, who gave a brief but scholarly dissertation on the history of curling, which was first played in Canada by George Wade's regiment at Quebec.

He noted that the first Canadian curling club was established at Montreal in 1807 with the first in Upper Canada being founded at Kingston in 1820. A brief history of the Macdonald Brier — the Canadian championship curling event, was also given.

Next week local Kiwanians will be addressed by a Col. Wood, principal of Belleville College of Agriculture. Vice-president Ralph Graham conducted the meeting in the absence of club president, George Hume.

Finish Dates For Two Sewers Are Announced

Residents in the city's Avondale district will be able to hook into the new west-end trunk sanitary sewer by April 1st, and the completion date for the sewer to College Street is set for June, members of city council were told this week.

Alderman Ross Bellay, as chairman of finance, announced the expected completion dates for the two trunk lines, to allow residents in the area to make arrangements for installation of connecting sewers and hook-ups.

The two sewers being built by Beaver Construction Company of Montreal are part of the over-all sewage treatment system and plant to be built in the city.

Two Elderly Thomasburg Residents Killed in Crash

Two elderly Thomasburg residents, Margaret Adams, 83, and Mrs. Della Smith, 76, were fatally injured in a head-on crash Tuesday afternoon around one o'clock on Highway 37 near their home.

The Adams vehicle, proceeding north, collided head-on with a south-bound car driven by Thomas Lloyd Wansborough, 40, of Tweed, who is in serious condition in hospital.

The accident occurred one-and-one-half miles north of Thomasburg during a blinding snowstorm.

Provincial Doctor A. G. Allen of Tweed pronounced Mrs. Smith dead at the scene of the accident and Mr. Adams died shortly after being taken to the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Wansborough, alone in his car at the time of the accident, was admitted to hospital suffering from facial lacerations and other undetermined injuries. He is an employee of Beachcraft Boats Ltd., Tweed.

It is understood Wansborough was parsing a truck and did not know he was in the wrong lane due to the heavy wind-blown snow at the time.

Mrs. Smith, a former resident of Vermilion, Alta., was also a sister-in-law of Mr. Adam, and had been his housekeeper for some time.

The elderly couple were on their way to Tweed when the accident occurred.

Both vehicles were badly damaged as a result of the collision.

Dr. Allen of Tweed, coroner for the district, stated that an inquest would be held, that the date has not been set.

Constable Gordon Lebow of the Madoc Ontario Provincial Police detachment investigated.

Curriculum Re-Organization Topic at H—S

The regular meeting of the Princess Charles Queen Mary's Home and School Association met on January 17th with a good attendance. The president opened the meeting.

Fifteen new members were registered. One letter was read from the Belleville District Home and School Council, calling invfiling all members to a joint meeting held in King George School on January 22nd.

There were six speakers at this meeting. A letter was read announcing a leadership training course on Friday, Feb. 9th and Saturday Feb. 10th. This course will be held at Moira Secondary School. The president urged as many as possible to attend this course, especially the executive members.

The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of $25.55.

The banner call was as follows: Prince Charles School, Juniors, Miss Pitts' room; Seniors, Mrs. Phillips' room; Queen Mary School, seniors, Mrs. McMeehan's room.

Mr. Marsden said how sorry he was Mrs. Lockyer was ill with pneumonia.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Stewart introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Leslie Reid, principal of Bayside Secondary School, who spoke on the reorganization of the Secondary School Curriculum to be put in effect next year.

Mr. Reid began by showing a graph on how the pupils who enter high school drop off after Grade 9. He explained the exact situation in secondary schools in Ontario as it is today. He said that pupils do not have a motive to stay in high school and they must give them a motive."

The reorganization program will begin next September in all three schools in Belleville.

Mr. Reid showed the new courses to be taken and how they will be taken in four and five-year programs, two-year program and the one-year program.

Mr. Reid also answered questions and gave out pamphlets on the courses, also a form to be filled in for Grade 9 students entering high school this year.

Mrs. Cameron Hilchon thanked the speaker and Mrs. Taylor also added her thanks.

Delicious refreshments were served.

ARRIVES IN CUBA

HAVANA (Reuters) — The 7,800-ton vessel City of Detroit arrived here Tuesday—the second of seven former Canadian cargo ships purchased by Cuba to join Cuba's merchant fleet. The first vessel, the Canadian Constructor, arrived in Havana harbor Dec. 27 but the other six have been held up by a legal embargo in Canadian ports, which was lifted only recently.

Ranks Taylor Above Thomson As Tycoon

LONDON (AP)—Who is the wealthiest Canadian operating in Britain?

The question arises as E. P. Taylor, taking over chairmanship of the £48,000,000 United Dairies, is the financial genius to force in the British brewing industry.

The temptation naturally is to see him as a rival to newspaper publisher Roy Thomson, 1st Baron Thomson of Fleet.

"In the field of British industry, this powerful Canadian (Taylor) is likely soon to become aggressive and more wealthy than Roy Thomson."

The Evening Standard is controlled by still another Canadian, Beaverbrook. Beaverbrook has been one of Fleet Street's most lucrative publishers for many years.

WESTON AMONG LEADERS

The financial journal says Canadians in Britain, some experts on finance, "Beaverbrook, Taylor, Thomson and Beaverbrook well behind Garfield Weston, one of the world's leading grocers and bakers.

"Garfield Weston's and Weston's wealth is tied up in foundations and trusts.

Taylor is chairman of Canadian Breweries Limited, the biggest brewing company in the world. About two years ago he began moving into the British market, and in swift moves built up one of Britain's major groups. Last week he became chairman of United Breweries, with headquarters in York.

The Standard estimates his real estate interests in the Bahamas at about £3,000,000.

Beaverbrook at 82 is the oldest of the quartet. Thomson is 67, Weston 63 and the youngest, Taylor, will be 60 in March. Taylor was born in Ottawa, Thomson and Weston in Toronto and Beaverbrook in Maple, Ont.

Officials Mum About Probe Of Spying Jet

BONN (AP) — Italian and NATO officials today clamped tight secrecy around their investigation of a Communist Bulgarian jet that crashed Saturday in Italy near an Atlantic Alliance missile base.

The Italian defence ministry said Monday night there were "indications of a true and proper case of aerial espionage" and that an investigation was being conducted to establish whether these "can be fully proved."

A defence ministry spokesman added that investigators are anxious to see what was on motion picture and still film cameras aboard the cameras equipped plane.

Officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are processing the film at Bari.

The plane, a Russian-built MiG-17, crashlanded a few hundred yards from the NATO missile base at Gioia del Colle, outside Bari in southern Italy. The 22-year-old pilot, Lieut. Mikue Nikolov, suffered fractures of the left collarbone and left arm and a head concussion.

He is in hospital at Acquaviva, near Bari.

Telefis, a Rome evening newspaper, said Tuesday a special security guard has been put on him to make sure no one tries to kill him.

The right - wing newspaper hinted that someone might want to keep him from talking with investigators.

Canada, Japan To Play Key Role in Talks

WASHINGTON (CP) — A prominent U.S. administration official said Tuesday Canada and Japan would be expected to play key roles in any new negotiations undertaken by the United States to widen tariffs with the European Common Market.

This official said that if President Kennedy's new trade bill is approved by Congress, tariff reductions are negotiated between the U.S. and the Common Market will benefit all the free world's trading area.

But he emphasized the U.S. would hesitate to undertake major tariff negotiations with Europe on highly valuable categories of goods of particular benefit to Canada and Japan if these countries do not agree to provide tariff concessions of their own in return.

Canada and Japan are among the world's top traders and there will be no "free trade" for these countries, the official added. If trade pressure is required to get these countries to provide concessions, then this pressure would be exerted.

MUST CONFER

"We would expect them to be at the conference table when we start new trade talking with the Common Market."

Kennedy's new trade bill will be submitted to Congress today. It would empower the president to eliminate U.S. tariffs gradually during a five - year period on products of Canada and the U.S. and the Common Market combined now valued at 80 per cent of the world's trade. Duties on other categories would be cut by 50 per cent.

The official said the categories in which tariffs might be eliminated completely would include some aids and drugs, until he reached his present position in the conference.

Most of the trading was done while he worked on confidential reporting that time, he says, "We lived in several different places for a month or two and until the stove was done. But while I was travelling like that my wife stayed in Ottawa."

Ernie has four children, two boys and two girls One daughter Margot, is married to Russell Carter of Belleville and she now works with the Bell Telephone in the Belleville commercial office.

His other daughter, Julia, is still in high school. One son, Ernest jr., is a high school teacher in Ottawa, while the other, David, is air AB with the Royal Canadian Navy.

Ernie says he has no hobbies to speak of, but he does like fishing and gardening during the winter weather. His plans are fairly indefinite: "I'm not thinking of retirement yet," he says. "I've still got another nine years to go before that".

TAX CUT POSSIBLE

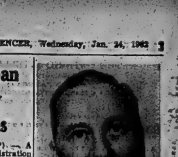
WSHINGTON (AP)— Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges says a tax cut is "entirely conceivable" if the United States sees increase its production by four per cent in the next year. Hodges said at a press conference that if annual U.S. productivity rises by four per-cent, instead of the 3¼-percent average annual increase of recent years, "we could cut taxes, not only corporate but personal."

Ernie Poirier 30 Years With Bell Telephone

J. E. "Ernie" Poirier, Bell Telephone Company central office man in Belleville, has recently completed 30 years service with the Bell.

A resident of the city for the past 30 years, Ernie had done considerable travelling since he joined the Bell in Ottawa in September, 1931.

He was born in Ottawa, and received his early education at St. Brigid's School and Lisgar Collegiate. For a short time after, he worked on a powerhouse project near Ottawa and even worked as a civil servant before joining the Bell Telephone Company.



Starting on installation work, he carried out other jobs including those as a lineman, on conversions to dial from the older magneto or crank telephone sets and dials, until he reached his present position in central office.

Most of his travelling was done while he worked on conversions, during that time, he says, "We lived in several different places for a month or two and until the stove was done. But while I was travelling like that my wife stayed in. Ottawa."

Legion Begins Weekly Dances

Last Saturday evening saw the opening of the 1962 series of regular dances held by the Legion at the Canadian Legion Memorial Home.

These dances are for Legion members and guests only, and it is hoped that members and friends were on hand for this opening night's dance ball.

Music for the evening was provided by Dan Fellman and his orchestra, which will be playing on a regular Saturday night engagement.

A pot of money is drawn for each Saturday. The names of the 1961 paid-up members are in the dance, he receives the pot of gold. If the member is not present, the amount of money is held over to the following week. Each week additional amount is added until the pot is finally won. The name drawn is published in the paper of who was not present.

J. Hunt was the winner of the draw for free admission to next Saturday's dance.

All members and their friends are asked to enjoy themselves and a great deal of credit should be given Fred Dowdell and his entertainment committee for a job well done.

Starting this Thursday evening, the Legion is commencing regular weekly social evenings at the Hall. A shuffleboard game will be played for handsome cash prizes. These are open to the public and everyone is cordially invited.

Time Is Wasting

Those who feel that it takes time to effect any change of policy by a government and that trade is one of those policy matters which has to be examined at length before any changes are made might have a look at the rapidity with which the United States has effected a tariff pact with the Common Market.

It would seem that barely days have passed since President Kennedy suggested that he was going to seek some tariff cuts. Canada, on the other hand, has been worrying about the Common Market for some time. We feel that a great deal of the energy consumed in the worrying has been most unprofitably spent especially in regard to the United Kingdom and her desire to enter the Common Market.

It is to be hoped that Ottawa will not send good energy after bad by attempting to throw a similar sort of a wrench into the United States' Common Market aspirations. Such efforts would achieve little if anything other than ill will or misunderstanding.

Why has not Ottawa taken a positive approach to the situation and made some decisive move towards establishing a Canadian pact with the Common Market?

For a country which is fast approaching its centennial year of self-government it would appear that we are woefully inadequate in propagating our own interests free of the "mother's apron strings" which have existed between us and the United Kingdom and the United States.

It is about time that Canadians cast aside the myth that because our country is such a good friend of the United States and such a doting daughter of the British Commonwealth that these two nations are going to spoonfeed our every need. There is a point when the offspring must go out into life on its own two legs, even if those legs might be a bit wobbly at first.

Canada is such a point now. If we do not strike out on our own we may find that we have been cast out.

Sacrilege

Many a disciple of Izaak Walton must have teamed pale around the gills on reading Thursday's issue of The Ontario Intelligencer.

It was there reported that Hastings County Council had voted to request the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests to open county lakes and streams for ice fishing for speckled trout.

Reeve Verne McMurray of Tudor argued that the average life of a speckled trout is only three or four years and that, because of difficulty experienced by fisherman in reaching remote lakes during the regular open season, many a trout is born to sparkle his speckled unseen and waste his fishy fragrance without ever being handed a line.

We have no intentions of arguing the facts of North Hastings life with the good reeve, but we do suggest to him, and to all county councillors, that their evident view a speckled trout is just another fish is not universally shared.

There are amongst us those who regard the trout with the awe that normal men reserve for beauty queens, a hole in one, and four aces. For them, there is only one way to fish for trout, with flies—the real purists among them insist on the addition of an adjective, requiring that the flies be "dry" and regarding wet flies as little better than spinners or other similar artificial bait. As for worms—the mere mention of their use causes them to bury their heads in the hands in horror.

And now it is proposed that the lordly trout be taken through the ice—on handlines in all probability!

The shock could not be greater if a wicket keeper at Lords yelled "Put it in there boy, give 'er me head, feed it, to me baby; let's go feller," to his bowler; or if Bobwinski brought a portable radio to his next world's championship chess tournament.

Hammarskjold was the embodiment of the noblest Western political achievement — that laws can be administered by judges and civil servants who have their first allegience to the law and not to their personal, their class or even their national interests.—Mr. Walter Lippmann.

One of the difficulties under which we British labor in our relations with other people is that we are often taken seriously when we are really laughing at ourselves.—Peter Revell.

"The public is not one great monolithic group of people; it is a lot of different sorts of people with all sorts of different ideas."—Francis Williams speaking in the BBC General Overseas Service.

Santa Claus Myth Fills Many Needs

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Although Barbie is just in junior kindergarten, she goes to school each morning in a car pool that includes Ken and a second-grader of outstanding sophistication.

During the pre-Christmas hustle, the older children were bum-rapping Santa Claus in the car, and expressing their scorn for the younger ones who still believed in him. "He's a fat man. The younger ones, of course, were then forced to pretend that they, too, were skeptics.

At home that night, however, Barbie began quizzing me about Santa, and I gave her the conventional, noncommittal, answers. She reflected for a moment, "I don't believe in Santa Claus," she finally said, "but he believes in me."

I was delighted with this remark. It really said so much about the nature of faith and doubt, and the curiously blurred borderline between them — not only in the mind of a child, but in grownups as well.

By "he believes in me," Barbie meant that even though Santa is a benevolent fiction, he is real only to those who need him. Therefore, there must be in the universe some response to her existence, and her needs.

She knows that this response comes from her parents, and through them (however vaguely in her mind) from a concept called "God." Even at her rudimentary intelligence is of course aware that Santa is a fake because she has been told that. He has no body and occupies no particular space. Therefore, can He be "real" any more than Santa?

What she is expressing, though, is the beginning of its use a glorious and much misused word: "spirituality." She is groping for the truth that what is "real" is not merely the physical and tangible; that "faith is the substance of things hoped for; the evidence of things not seen."

And the lifelong task of all of us is to strengthen the line of definition between "faith" and "illusion"; but to give up those childhood beliefs that are not rooted in truth, without at the same time relinquishing our belief in truths, that pass beyond the physical and the tangible.

Many of us throw out the baby with the bath water — when we give up illusion, we then call everything an "illusion" that is not subject to fact. When we call certain religious events "myths," we mistakenly imply the destruction of their validity — but the myth-maker is the truth-seeker. History is often the most important, most enduring and most true, for a myth is as distinct from a mere fiction — is mankind's way of expressing what cannot be uttered in any other form.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

If organized labor is afraid of automation, let's not forget it is industry. There is an appalling risk in setting up a clear and ultra-modern industrial plant, the last word in technical perfection, when you know that next week, or next month, somebody may come along with a new process that will settle you completely.

As a matter of fact, this goes on all the time in industry. In the past few years, during which scientific research has leaped head wise and tail wise ahead of them the atom, millions, and even billions of dollars have been lost and won in the tireless battle of innovation. We have seen the inflation of bombs and missiles that we have overhauled, the gentlemen's agreement white smocks, who have figured out a new way to make bottles or a pouch cheaper, way of creating soap chips.

Automation is the boogey-man of the labor unions. But, boys, with what a sense of panic do the opponents of automation, embrace — encrusted masters of industry — regard automation, too!

They are scared stiff of it.

STRENGTH for the DAY

NATURE OF INSPIRATION

We speak of the Bible as being inspired, and we seek "to inspire" means literally "to breathe into." Anything inspired, therefore, has a spirit breathed into it. There is inspiration in the best literature of all ages, but the fact that the Bible deals with man's relationship to God and the will and purpose of God for man makes that the inspiration of the Bible has about it a quality of inspiration superior to the inspiration of classical literature.

The authority of the Bible comes from the fact that it is so inspired. God has breathed into His word that spirit of truth which causes it to be a spiritual power in our lives. The Bible is the only book which has remained at the head of the bestseller list for generations. The probability is that it will always be so, because it deals with the most important things in life, those matters about which people are making the most searching inquiry.

Humanity has been coming to this fountain of spiritual wisdom through the centuries. No one is truly educated who does not know what the Bible teaches. Important as secular knowledge is, it can never take the place of religious knowledge. And in the field of religious knowledge there is nothing so important as the conviction that in the Bible we encounter God speaking to us, bedding us a light that we may walk in right pathways, warning us, giving us his solemn promise of triumph and eternal life.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

January 26th, 1942.

Warden Charles Bush, members of Hastings County Council and a representative cross section of Eldor county's agricultural professional and political life adjourned the hospitality of Superintendent Elmer Sandercock and Mrs. Sandercock at the Shelland County Home last night when they were guests of the institution at a banquet and entertainment. Included in the guests were Col. Roscoe Vanderlip, M.P., Tamworth, ex-MPP, Dr. Harold Welsh, M.L.A., Mr. Charles A. Payne, Dr. Van Blaksize and others. The banquet was an excellent repast and reflected the care which is being bestowed upon every worthy inmate by the institution heads who are the last words in efficiency, kindness and good will.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Alexander and daughter of Toronto were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Craighead of Catharine Street over the week-end.

Miss M. F. Lynch of Wis city and Miss B. L. Wilson are among those attending the C.W.A.C. Training School at Gananoque.

Mrs. Aylesworth of S. George Street entertained Wednesday in her son, Pte. P. Aylesworth, sleeping that he had arrived safely in England.

Among those from this district who were successful in passing the preliminary nurse examinations of the Department of Health were: Misses Marjorie Manico Dupras; Thora Rebecca Grover, Lois Elizabeth Gorman; Elizabeth Mary Lynch; Dorothy Emma Mae Lambshead; Mrs. Langhlin, all of Belleville.

30 YEARS AGO

January 24th, 1932.

The Rev. G. G. Wright of Carleton Place will be the newly appointed Rector of Christ Church, will arrive here to take some his duties on February 2nd.

Mrs. E. Logan of this city is spending a week with friends in Ottawa.

Miss Elizabeth Ethier spent the week-end at her home in Ottawa.

Mr. David Coach of Montreal, formerly of Belleville, spent the week-end here with friends.

Mr. Stewart Aman was home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crowe have left to spend the balance of the winter in Bradenton, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Norris and Miss E. Reinbird spent the week-end in Toronto and attended the Leafs-Canadiens hockey game.

40 YEARS AGO

January 24th, 1922.

The mercury sank to eight degrees below zero last night, which was slightly lower than the night before.

The members of the U-Go-It Club will hold a moderate-cost old time dance in the Natural Trend Shoe Company building in this city tonight (Tuesday).

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn addressed the Belleville and District Yonge People's Association of Bridge Street Methodist Church last evening. His illustrated talk last night and Mr. O'Flynn gave an interesting address on education as they are today compared with what they were one hundred years ago.

The Wharf Street Debating Club is in receipt of a gift of two pictures from Mr. W. E. Schuster. They show the Canadian Pacific Railway steamer Halifax and the same boat Empress of Asia after it thirty miles per hour.

50 YEARS AGO

January 24th, 1912.

Burns' anniversary will be celebrated by the Caledonia Society with a concert and dance.

The Stewards at the dance last night in the Academy were: Messrs. A. F. Allen, S. H. Burrows, G. B. Hanna, A. E. Carman, H. F. Clarke, J. V. Doyle, J. Downey, P. McG. Foran, B. L. Gray, Lyman M. S. Hudson, R. P. White, P. K. Kethchum, C. Gray Mindorff, W. H. Rathbun, W. D. M. Shorey and Dr. R. Tennent. It was a fashionable and enjoyable affair over two hundred guests were present.

As was expected there are several acclamations for the aldermanic vacancies for the city council. Samson Ward and Tobe Jones' nomination papers were filed. In Bleecker ward Boyer will be a contest between Mr. Hunter and ex-Ald. P. Flagler. The O. B. Allen Co. and Mr. Walter Alford have been declared elected by acclamation in Samson ward; and Dr. D. H. Ackerill has been elected by acclamation in Ketchum ward. Mr. J. M. Burley withdrew from the contest in this ward.

Together Proves Fatal

Vancouver Sun

It's many years since Judge Ben Lindsey shocked society by his views on marriage ideas. The idea being that, intending wedders should live together unowed for a while, to make sure they can stand each other's company.

He figured this would prevent a lot of unhappy marriages and cut down the divorce rate.

Well, the idea works in reverse. An Indiana couple started living together without shelter with their children as a experiment Not an experiment in marriage ideas, so much as in fallout shelters. But the hunt and opined the test would give them information to know each other better.

The latter result is that the wife is now seeking a divorce —after one week of it.

She told the judge of getting to know each other better it decisively knocks on the head Judge Lindsey's considerate suggestion.

And by the way — has anyone in Washington or Ottawa given thought to the possible detrimental effect of fallout shelters on the birth rate?

Municipalities Pay Low Laboring Rate

Editor,

Re winter works program of the Federal Government.

The Canadian Labor Congress has urged the Federal Government for the last two years to increase public works programs in order to combat the increasing unemployment.

Organized labor, be it on the national, provincial or local level, fully supports the Federal program. The slogan "Do It Now" is a good reminder to the individual home owner, the industrial corporations and the municipalities as they work for permanent installation during the winter months is a good thing.

Organized labor does not condone the attempt by any municipality to exploit labor by paying sub-standard wage rates. The wage scale per program, whereby the Federal Government pays 50% of the labor costs in agreement with the municipality on such a job, has never permitted the payment of sub-standard wage would be paid.

We can only assume the wages paid on such jobs will be based on rates existing in the area. In most casts the rates paid for skilled labor are fair as these people are protected by labor unions which have established fair rates in the area.

Those areas of labor which are exploited are in the semi-skilled and laboring category. In many areas of Ontario there is no laborers' union; rates paid for laborers are substantially the same as they were ten or fifteen years ago. We in organized labor are amazed that laboring rates of 65c per hour to $1.25 per hour are still paid.

The laboring rates quoted above are the rates which will the year round by a great many municipalities, supported by some unorganized industries. Laborers' rates have been established in many industries in various industries of up to $2.00 per hour. These are the areas where the latter rate has been established of $2.00 per hour, the local municipalities still offer a sub-standard wage of $1.00 per hour.

We are told the cost of living index is at 129.4; this rise in living costs, 29.4 per cent since 1949. A man earning $1.00 per hour or $40 per week can expect to purchase approximately $28 worth of products and services with his dollar.

Most municipal servants are bought at the going rate of wages in their own line of endeavor and, in local affairs, that may be true until 1949 when wages rates. We in organized labor, would think that some progress sireness would be carried over into the area of wage rates. In the face of increased cost of living since 1949, would it not be more feasible and more humane be set the minimum rate at least midway between the $1 per hour and $2.00 per hour basic wage of $2.00 per hour established in some organized factories.

Organized labor in this area supports the Federal Government's "winter work program", we believe the taxpayers endorse a Government Labor.

Vice-President,
Belleville and District
Labor Council,
Can. Labor Congress.

Hub Caps Are Costly

Des Moines Register

Theft of automobile hub caps is costing Iowa motorists hundreds of five million dollars a year. This is one of those things that sets a man to thinking. Why is hub cap?

In the opinion of high official source who operates the corner service station, hub caps do not keep cars from bogs clean or prevent rust in the radiator.

They might keep the wheel bolts a little cleaner and easier for me to work on, but they're outside of that they are just for looks".

Yet ordinary hub caps cost $2 to $35 a set and fancy ones as high as $50 a set.

The simple solution would seem to be to abolish hub caps. On that basis there is a big economic situation. With more than five million cars produced each year with four hub caps each the hub cap industry might amount to more than 20 million dollars a years. To abolish the industry would mean the loss of thousands of jobs, to say nothing of what would happen to the steel industry and they highly prized chrome

To Your Good Health

Reducing Will Help Some Sufferers of Hiatal Hernia

Dear Dr. Molner: Does bleeding of the mouth come with hiatal hernia?

I have had a hernia of the stomach, and would like to know if proper diet and loss of weight would help. Is it possible for hiatal hernia to shrink, or would medication help? — A.B

Hiatal (or hiatus) hernia is not one in the exact sense of the usual abdominal hernia, or rupture. Rather, it is a hernia, or fault, which is entirely internal, at the point at which the gullet passes through the diaphragm. It's a very great deal more common than it is popularly supposed, so it behooves people to have a mild acquaintanceship with the term.

As to "bleeding of the mouth" I don't understand correctly! Bleeding "of" the mouth, gums, nose, or related areas, is one thing. It has nothing to do with hiatal hernia. But bleeding "from" the mouth, that is vomited blood, can occur if an ulcer has formed at the hiatal hernia. This is not usual but it can happen.

There are also cases called "sliding hernias," in this respect, because the intestinal contents slide upward and downward at the faulty point, causing distress intermittently. This can be confirmed or ascertained that bleeding is from this path, or "slows" is required.

Otherwise such a diet cannot be expected to reduce or "shrink" or "cure" the condition. It may relieve discomfort, which is well worth while, however.

In my experience many patients with hiatal hernia are overweight — usually people of age (although other ages are not exempt). Reduction of weight usually helps to a great deal — for when we live in excess of needs, all of the excess is visible. Some is in the form of fat inside the abdomen, and it hampers breathing and pressure. This certainly can irritate a hiatal hernia which otherwise might not be a problem at all.

As to medication, yes, it can occasionally be used to counteract acidity and inflammation, and thus be helpful in treating the condition. In some cases surgery is the correct and only solution — in cases in which symptoms are severe or there is bleeding ecsura; there is persistent pain or difficulty, in swallowing.

For the most part, treatment such as for moderate cases of peptic ulcer is best. For severe cases, surgery — which is true of ulcers, too, of course.

Dear Dr. Molner: Next summer I will be 15-½. I would like to get my nose done at that time. My mother says I am too young and I should wait until I am at least 16 or 17. However she does agree that my nose needs it. I have a terrible complex about it and just can't wait until I am 16 or 17. Please tell me if I am too young. — J.S.

Since both you and your mother agree that this plastic surgery should be done, then I'd suggest consulting the surgeon as to the right time to do it. (I'd think 15-½ would be quite acceptable, but leave it to him.)

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My legs and arms are covered with black-and-blue and yellowish bruise marks. I seem to bruise easily, just by walking into a chair, for example. Does this indicate any abnormality? I am 41. — E.C.

Yes, such easy bruising may be significant. Sometimes dietary deficiency (lack of Vitamin C, from fruit juices, or calcium from milk) is the cause. Improving the diet is the cure, of course.

In other cases some blood abnormality may be present: Insufficient platelets, anemia, or the flaw in the clotting mechanism. It is well worth while to see your doctor.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "Keys To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of the Ontario Intelligencer Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Cooper Station, enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 25c in coin to cover handling and postage.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NOBILITY

I have always liked the very sound of the word nobility. When it is attached to a particular individual you immediately picture him as a little higher and are glad you are looking up to the fact of such a one.

The ancients always liked to attribute notable qualities to their gods. Thus Jupiter was made to represent a conqueror. Mars, a god of war. Whatever he sat or stood, whatever he did, he conquered.

The story is told of Daniel Webster that when he walked the streets of Boston the appearance was so noble that the people thought a god had come among them. Then he spoke, again how that voice would be heard of the time when he delivered his famous reply to Hayne. Even his friends feared for him, but hardly as he finished people his mouth but all realized that a true giant had arrived to defins the great principles of a nation.

Nobility walked with such man as Lincoln, Lee, Gladstone, and "Stonewall" Jackson.

Nobility hovers about the tired forms of the toilers and sound of the weary matter what station, who feel they are descended in the just Traits of labor and honest effort.

Nobility knows no caste or creed. Like sunshine it warms the palace and hovel alike.

Noble words, when they proceed from a whole and generous heart, are among the most beauty and meaning.

Nobility talks. A thousand barks at its heels make no difference. It rides with the sun and the stars. It takes the discouraged man or woman and sets them on their feet, understands. It binds up the broken in spirit and makes them take up the cross and follow it.

Nobility doesn't need Norman blood either-

British Common Mart Entry More of Help Than Threat Agricultural Meeting Told

By JIM WHELLY

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Britain's entry into the European Common Market was described at the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture Tuesday as more promising than threatening.

Dr. Arthur J. R. Smith of Montreal, chairman of the Private Planning Association of Canada, and H. Hannam of Ottawa, CPA president, see the ECM as a challenge to Canadian agriculture to improve its position in the international market.

Dr. Smith said "Canada's best hope for maintaining and developing agricultural exports may lie in Britain's entry into the ECM."

But he said that even under favorable conditions Canada should expect moderate rather than substantial growth in agricultural exports to Europe.

"We therefore need to work together vigorously to achieve further major gains in agricultural exports generally to develop new opportunities for agricultural exports in other directions."

Dr. Smith said Canada can achieve bright economic and political future "if we are prepared to be active participants in the world's rapid development in the international scene rather than stoic defenders of the status quo."

DEFENSIVE RESPONSE

"If we hope for a defensive response to changes in the world around us, we are very likely to have a soggy Canadian economy. It will find itself being dragged complaining and whimpering through the rapidly changing world of the second half of the 1960s."

Mr. Hannam said the interest of Canadian farmers could be gravely injured by Britain's entry into the ECM. "But we should not overlook the fact that these changes are not likely to be made quickly, more likely over a period of some years.

"During those years the dynamics of a large, expanding and prosperous community could so expand our market opportunities that there would be gain would more than make up for what we have to lose."

POLICY OF WISDOM

He said the CFA looks on the development of the ECM as one that, in principle, a policy of wisdom. But it recognized that as agricultural policies of Common Market countries took a protectionist turn Canadian markets in some commodities could be jeopardized.

Mr. Hannam said the federal government should seize every opportunity "to inform organizations like ours of developments and problems we may have to face" because of ECM developments. "And of the alternatives that may seem open to us for meeting them.

"I believe it would be a wise course to place a competent representative on a full-time appointment near the headquarters of the Common Market authority in Brussels for a few years. Such a move could return to Canada more than enough to fit many thousandfold the cost of administering such a project."

Mr. Hannam said he saw no prospect for improved farm income in 1972.

But there was an improved long-term outlook in the field of farm policy, he added.

"Definite gains have been made in farm policies, both domestic and international "and the prospects of there will show more distinctly as the programs develop," he said.

(1) The Church is the whole company of God's believing people; (2) The Church is the body of Christ by which He continues His saving work in the world; (3) The Church is the fellowship in which we grow to full stature in Him."

Mrs. Brenton was assisted by Mrs. M. Milton, who read the Scripture portion, and by Mrs. Botting, who gave a reading, "On Being Neighborly."

BIBLE STUDY

For the Bible study period, Mrs. Brenton, Mrs. Milton, Mrs. Bird and Mrs. D. Brenton enacted a play based on Matthew 12, and illustrated by verses of the same book and chapter from three or four different translations of the Bible. This was a most enlightening study and should prove of great benefit to all who read their Bibles, as it simplifies the King James version.

A few letters of appreciation for flowers and cards received were read and it was noted that three members were on the sick list and hope was expressed that all would be able to attend the February meeting.

The meeting closed with the benediction by Mrs. Douglas Brenton and a time of fellowship followed.

Mrs. A. Boyd presided at the piano.

Inaugural Services

CENTRE STREET CHURCH

On the evening of January 14, Centre Street Church held the inaugural service with the Rev. J. Vessey in charge. The service was prepared by the Rev. Norah L. Hughes for United Church Women. Mrs. Boyd presided at the piano for the occasion.

Those dedicated to office were president, Mrs. Lulu Longhurst; vice-president, Mrs. Dorothy Hudgins; secretary, Mrs. Fanny Stapley; treasurer, Mrs. Grace Woods; program, Mrs. Dorothy Hudgins, community friendship and visiting, Mrs. Rylotte and Christian education, Mrs. Keith Fergusson.

On Wednesday afternoon the ladies of Centre Street United Church Women held their first meeting for 1962 as a new organization. There was a fair attendance for the weather being so bad. Mrs. Vessey was present.

Mrs. Longhurst called the meeting to order and welcomed all.

Scripture was read by Mrs. A. Hawley from Colossians 1: 15-17 and 1:15 and the meditation by Mrs. Dorothy Hudgins, who stated: "Ours as each generation are learning more and more about the mystery of creation. The discoveries of science are far beyond the imagination of the past generations. We can think about the how wonderful is He who planned and created it all! What a mighty plan! How great is God the Creator!

"In the immensity of it all, we can recall that God, the Son, was there in the beginning and that "without Him was not anything made that was made." We know that the forces of these things and unimportant people. We remember with thankfulness that amid all the vastness of stars, planets and galaxies, God made us and loves us.

"In the world we see much evil, but we recall the world God saw everything that He had made, and behold, it was very good. God made a good world. His purpose for it is good. Here is our assurance.

"The New Testament promises us that God's redemptive purpose for His whole creation will be fulfilled. His creative power is still at work, not only in the universe, but also in Christian experience.

"There are so many people who do not know or do not believe that the living God is the Creator. We have good reason for such people to share with us.

"These days so many are afraid of the present and fearful of the future, we should make it an obligation to let it be known that we do believe God the Lord is the Creator, that He created the world in love, and that His loving purpose in creation will be realized."

Mrs. Wood gave the financial report. After new business, Mrs. Vessey explained some things concerning the program to be used during the new year. She also read a story concerning the different opinions of the minister and assistant in a church in a slum area in a big city. This story was touching.

CANNIFTON U.C.W.

Despite a cold windy day, there was a good attendance at the first meeting of the Canniffon U.C.W. held in the Sunday School on January 17. Mrs. Douglas Brenton, president, was in charge of the meeting and before starting with the new organization, gave a brief review of the early days of the W.M.S. and W.A. She said that these groups started from a small band of women in rural communities who wanted to help their neighbors in need. The first meetings in the horse and buggy days were attended by men also, since they had to drive their wives to the meetings and then wait for them to take them home again. It became natural for the men to sit in at the meetings and gradually they began to take an active part in the proceedings.

Mrs. Brenton said she hoped the U.C.W. would continue the work started by the W.M.S. and W.A and would do as much good, although to get a new organization started on the right path would mean a lot of prayer and work, but if the ladies all worked together for the glory of service to the Lord, she was sure it would be of great benefit to all She outlined the constitution of the U.C.W.

WORSHIP SERVICE

Mrs. Gerald Brenton conducted the worship service with the theme "What is the Church?" She said: "there were three main points to be considered:

BIG WELL ABLAZE — Workers shield themselves behind screens as they watch a well-head fire that has been blazing six days at a Sun Oil Company oil well 50 miles north of Fort St. John on the Alaska Highway. now rate formula based on actual rail costs.

AIDS CONTROLS

It advocated a system of minimum and maximum rate controls with full freedom for the railways to set prices on all non - statutory traffic between the two levels. The ceiling would apply only to traffic proved to be "captive" to the railways. Existing grain shipments would not be affected.

To keep track of railway costs, the report called for an expanded cost-finding section in the board of transport commissioners, but indicated that the new cost - based rules would eliminate much of the present regulation which hampers railway rate-making in the competitive business of selling cargo space and services.

Declaring that national transportation policy should be aimed at creating an efficient transport system, the commission urged a major reappraisal of existing legislation to make the laws conform with the competitive environment.

URGES SUBSIDY REPEAL

It also urged:

1. Creation of a national transportation advisory council to help the cabinet hammer out over - all policy decisions on transportation.

FINNS ARRIVE

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Finnish military delegation arrived in Tuesday for what was described by a Finnish embassy spokesman as commercial negotiations with Russia.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The state department charged Tuesday that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's proposed action against non - Canadian magazines is as restrictive as the repealed tax of the former Liberal administration.

It said it was sympathetic to the idea of fostering a Canadian publishing industry reflecting Canadian cultural aims, but it maintained the Diefenbaker move "is neither the proper action nor practical method to reach this end."

The department's spokesman observed also that the prime minister proposed banning entry of foreign publications containing advertising aimed primarily at the Canadian market and said the U.S. government will seek "an early opportunity" to present its views as soon as it studies the full Canadian announcement.

CRITICIZE MOVE

United States criticism flowed quickly as the prime minister announced his government will implement two proposals of the royal commission on publications with one modification. Instead of disallowing for tax purposes all Canadian advertising expenditures in non - Canadian magazines — as the commission recommended — the government proposed disallowing only one-half the expenditures.

Horace Hart, publications chief in the U.S. commerce department, said that as a restrictive device, disallowing one-half the expenditures "is almost as bad as a complete disallowance."

He described the Canadian proposal as unfortunate and regretted it might have some impact on U.S. friendship.

A spokesman for U.S. magazines said Diefenbaker's action would be discriminatory and restrictive.

Robert Kenyon, executive vice-president of the U.S. Magazine Publishers Association, said the prime minister's policy "is only half as harsh as previously expected but nevertheless it is still harsh."

MAY ASK COMPENSATION

In U.S. diplomatic quarters, the suggestion was raised that the U.S. might seek some trade compensation from Canada for the possible loss of trade if the Canadian proposals are implemented.

One official seized on the point that Diefenbaker proposed to consult with the U.S. and other countries affected.

The U.S. contends that restrictive Canadian action against American magazines would be a breach of Canada's obligations under the general Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

In Ottawa there was no immediate comment from the government. Qualified sources said the government would await an approach from the state department for an opportunity to present its views.

Defence Minister Says Red Missiles Can Wipe Out U.S. Centres With One Blow

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky said today the Communist bloc's rockets and missiles can wipe every United States industrial and administrative centre "off the face of the earth" with one blow.

But, the marshal added in an interview, if all the nuclear weapons stockpiled in the world today were used "the resulting irreparable disaster for all countries in the world."

The interview, published in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, was Malinovsky's answer to the "reckless boastfulness" of U.S. Defence Secretary Robert Macnamara's statement that the West could destroy targets pinpointed in Russia.

Malinovsky said Russia was "stronger now" than the West, but "we will naturally not stop there - we are going."

The Russians, he said, could destroy "whole countries" providing bases for the U.S., as well as America itself.

AGGRESSIVE DRIVE

Malinovsky said U.S. monopolies were making tremendous profits by exploiting the fears of the people. He ridiculed the present American drive to provide nuclear shelters.

They were nothing but "a coffin grave prepared in advance," since every sober minded person knew that no shelter could provide protection from a nuclear bomb.

He said anything with a sense of reality should seek solutions in peace, not war.

He declared that if Russia is attacked "we are always ready to retaliate by a crushing blow at the aggressor and we shall smash those who attack us and our allies."

Indian Village Girl Has Made Social History

BOMBAY (CP) — An Indian village girl has made social history and hit the headlines. She is 12-year-old Shanti Kumari of Ludhiana in Punjab state.

As Shanti's marriage ceremony was in progress, the bridegroom's father thought fit to renew his demand for a bigger dowry. The old man was not satisfied and had no intention of making an issue of it. But almost-wed blackbuired Shanti heard him and ordered the priests to halt the proceedings.

The 1,500 - strong wedding gathering was stunned as Kumari threatened to walk off the marriage marquee unless the would-be husband's father apologized and promised before the sacred fire not to raise the subject of dowry "as long as he lives."

The groom appealed to his father to give the pledge. Outnumbered and outvoted, the old farmer stood up and expressed regret. "I want nothing more, then the happiness of my son and daughter-in-law," he said.

Local social workers gave a reception for Shanti Kumari and lauded her as "the symbol of womanly courage."

The Experts Say

Potato No More Fattening Than an Apple or Orange

By EDNA BLAKELY

TORONTO (CP)—The potato has been painted as one of the villains in the diet for calorie-conscious eaters, but it just isn't so, according to experts of the nutrition section of the national health and welfare department.

A medium-sized potato has about 100 calories, compared with 200 in a piece of pie and 300 in a doughnut.

Furthermore, the potato contains vitamin C, plus vitamin B and an appreciable amount of minerals especially iron.

Other foods such as fudge, sugar and cooked white rice "contain no worthwhile amounts of vitamins and minerals so the calories they provide may be termed empty calories."

Still not convinced? Still turning down potatoes and happily munching on apples and oranges? The Ontario agriculture department notes that a medium-sized potato is no more fattening than a large apple or a large orange.

"It's not the potato that is fattening, it's what you put on it."

SIZE COUNTS

Potatoes are not graded according to cooking quality. Size, shape, maturity and relative freedom from dirt, blemishes, disease or injury all count.

Canada Fancy: Not widely sold, is 2¼ to 3½ inches in diameter.

Canada No. 1: 2¼ to 4 inches in diameter for round varieties; 2 to 4 inches in diameter for long shaped varieties.

Canada No. 2, Large: 3¼ inches minimum diameter.

Canada No. 2: 1¾ inches minimum diameter with not less than 75 per cent by weight of potatoes in the lot 2 inches or larger in diameter.

For new potatoes, until August each year, 1¾ inches in diameter is the only size requirement.

PREVENT SPROUTING

Storing potatoes in a cool place, about 40 degrees, will prevent sprouting and shriveling. However, if kept in this cool temperature, they should stand at room temperature for at least 48 hours before cooking. A lower temperature tends to develop a sweet flavor.

The storage area should be dark because light causes them to turn green and acquire a bitter taste. Properly stored, potatoes will keep for months.

One enterprising hostess recently invited guests to bring and prepare their own potato pancakes. The women peeled and prepared the potatoes and the men guests cooked them.

Quinte U.C.W. Inaugural to Be Held Here

The inaugural service of the United Church Women for the Bay of Quinte conference will be held at Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, on January 31st.

Presiding at the morning session, which begins at 9.00 a.m. will be the Reverend D. M. Smith, D. Th., of Campbellford, with worship service conducted by Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, of Belleville.

The address of welcome will be given by the Reverend M. G. McFarlane, B. A., pastor of the church, after which the Reverend E. C. Kellowy, B.A. of Cobourg, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference will conduct the inaugural service.

Greetings will be brought by Mr. Kellowy; Miss Anne I Ward, of the Board of Women; the Reverend E. Catherine McKeen, of the Board of Christian Education' and the Reverend Sterling Cook, secretary of the missionary and maintenance department.

Greetings will be brought by Mrs. Garn Dobbs, 168 Yeomans

At the afternoon session, which opens at 1.30, the guest speakers will be the Rev. Sterling Kitchen, and the Rev. R. C. McKeen. An open forum will also be held, and the questions to be discussed will be left with the secretary at the morning session.

Following the close of the afternoon session the Lord's Supper will be commemorated.

Delegates requiring billets are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Garn Dobbs, 168 Yeoman's Street, Belleville.

Holy Rosary P.T.A. held its January meeting recently in the school with Mr. F. Mulvihill presiding. Reverend Fred Purcell opened the meeting.

Mr. F. Mulvihill advised that there would be a joint meeting of the five Catholic P.T.A. units of Belleville and the surrounding area to be held in St. Michael's auditorium around Mar. 21st. He urged all members to attend this meeting.

A skating carnival for teachers, parents and children was planned in place of the February meeting. As a money-making project for the year, it was decided to hold a dance.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

The president announced that Nicholson College was having public speaking by the students on February 22rd. All were urged to attend.

The attendance prize was won by Reverend Sister Mary Cyril.

Mr. N. Assalitine, after citing the many and varied qualifications and accomplishments of Mr. E. J. Neville, B.A., Separate School inspector, presented him to the audience.

Mr. Neville pointed out that parents and teachers work together to accomplish what is best for their children. The school has to help the child to understand its interests; to understand intimate human relationships and to understand society. The child must be given the proper foundation in his religion. It orders to help him grow up physically, spiritually, mentally and emotionally, the church, home and school should work together.

The school has to help the pupil master abilities necessary in society. The teacher has to help the child develop some measure of success in what he is to do in order that he may keep his self-respect. Often the teacher, who is with the child a lot of his waking hours may be able to point out traits in the child that have completely eluded the parents.

The mutual understanding and co-operation of parents and teachers is absolutely essential for the good of the child. The parents must have a united front before the child.

In a great variety of ways, Mr. Neville said, the parents and teachers can help the child gain self-control. In dealing with the so-called behavior problems, the teacher must try to find out what conditions in the child's life could have led him to such misconduct. They must find out how they can help him to meet his needs that are acceptable to the group.

In conclusion, Mr. Neville reminded the audience that it takes everybody to make a better world. They don't just happen, they are brought up by parents and understanding adults, guiding them to help develop character maturity.

A question and answer period ensued after which Mrs. R. Murphy, one of the teaching staff, thanked Mr. Neville for presenting such an enjoyable and interesting talk.

Father Purcell closed the meeting with prayer after which lunch was served by Mrs. J. Hervey, Mrs. F. Mulvihill, Mrs. D. Slaughter and Mrs. A. Blastic.

St. Andrew's C.G.I.T. Plans Skating Party

St. Andrew's Presbyterian C.G.I.T. group held its weekly meeting in the evening in the church.

There was a worship service including the Scripture reading and a prayer.

A business meeting was held which included a discussion on the "pyjama" party which was held on January 19th. The party was well enjoyed by all.

Another party was planned for February with a committee in charge of games and decorations. It was decided to have the forms of a skating party. Other business was discussed and the business meeting was closed.

The mission study was also discussed. The field this year is of British Guiana.

Some games of South America were played and the meeting was closed with "taps".

C.A.R.S. Plans Future Activities

The C.A.R.S- auxiliary meeting for January was held at the home of Mrs S. Robb with the president Mrs. A. W. Hume, in the chair.

Plans were discussed for a bake sale to take place in February. Further business consisted of arrangements for the annual rummage and auction sale to be held in May.

The meeting was concluded with refreshments served by the hostess and co-hostesses Mrs. A. W. Hume and Mrs. J. Stock.

Q.F.N. Hears Talk on Raising Maskinonge

The January meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists was held on Monday in the Entomology Laboratory. Mr. Irwin Mills, 2nd vice-president, presided.

Considerable business was transacted and reports given on various committees. A nominating committee was struck consisting of Mr. Knight gave an excellent report of the last meeting of the Directors of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists. The item of special general interest was the proposal of members of the F.O.N. to purchase a 2,000 acre bog in the Bruce Peninsula that abounds in native wild orchids, including many rare varieties.

A discussion on a trip to Kingston to see a new film on "British Wild Life," particularly around Wales, was favorably received.

GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. Hammond introduced the guest speaker, Mr. John Hunt, of the Department of Lands and Forests. Mr. Hunt is in charge of the fish hatchery at Cordova and he gave an excellent account of his work of raising maskinonge. "Raising fish goes back to China and Rome, but the idea began in Canada about 100 years ago when a man named Wilmot of Newcastle tried to bring back salmon to this area. His effort was unsuccessful.

"The work on maskinonge took about years of trial and error before it succeeded. Now, at Cordova, about 4,500,000 eggs are gathered each year and about four million fry. Some of these are distributed, but only about 70,000 are kept to the fingerling stage. The lunge is a terrific eater and must be fed constantly or he turns cannibal."

Mr. Hunt finished his talk by showing some interesting slides of his work and of the Rideau Lake Tourists Association and their work helping to raise lunge. He also showed an excellent movie showing the work of Toronto's aquarium at Nogie's Creek and in the Kawartha Lakes.

Hearty applause and a vote of thanks expressed the appreciation of the meeting.

A social half hour closed the meeting.

Father's Idea Child Should Be Pianist Before She Was Born

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the ironies about child prodigies—and it's the one that keeps ordinary mortals from feeling shortchanged—is that when they grow up children they frequently are no longer prodigious either.

An exception is Ruth Slenczynska (pronounced Slen-Chinska).

As a plump four - year - old she climbed up on a piano stool to make her professional debut in Oakland, Calif. That was 33 years ago. Recently, she went back to that area as soloist with the San Francisco Symphony at a concert celebrating its 50th anniversary.

Recalling her precocious childhood, she says:

"I'm grateful for the experience, but it's like surviving a great calamity. You're glad you lived through it but you wouldn't advocate it for anyone else."

Her Berlin debut came at age six, Paris at seven. New York at eight. "Greatest keyboard genius since Mozart" was one of the milder accolades.

DIDN'T WANT ROLE

"I never had anything I wanted," she goes on, without bitterness. "I never wanted to be a pianist. It was my father's idea before I was born. But since I am one . . .

"I've learned when given a set of circumstances to make the most of them, to enjoy them.

"But I'd probably be the most happy, contented little housewife and mother."

With Rose Alone in a New York apartment. She'd like to have a pet, but she travels too much to keep one. In the last five years she has given more than 1,000 concerts on three continents.

Ruth, who is just under five feet, keeps diets down to a size seven. She can barely reach a octave with her tiny hands, and Serge Rachmaninoff, one of the famous teachers with whom she studied — always was on scholarships — used to give her stretching exercises.

"If they were a tiny bit smaller, I'd be out of business," she says.

FIRE AS WAITRESS

She once was fired as a waitress because "I couldn't hold trays high enough. That was when she was working her way through the University of California, majoring in psychology, after the family returned from Europe at the outbreak of the Second World War.

When seven-year-old Ruth is being domestic around the apartment, she wears spectacles. But let her sit down at a piano or appear in public, and it's contact lenses.

"There are any number of beaux," she blushes, "who wouldn't take a second look at me in spectacles."

May Be First Air Stewardess To Get Pension

MONTREAL (CP)—Ruti Kremer, 30, believes she is the first air stewardess ever to retire on pension.

Miss Kremer's flight to her native Holland marked the end of a 32-year career with KLM.

"There are only about 30 KLM stewardesses left who are eligible to retire and go on pension," she said. "Now the company only contracts stewardesses for a period of five years.

"I'm the first of an almost extinct breed."

Most of the airlines who hire stewardesses as regular employees try to clear them into ground jobs before they reach 40.

Miss Kremer, a still - attractive blonde, admits her age without hesitation.

"Why shouldn't I. Fifty is not old. I don't feel like playing tennis for hours straight any longer, but I still feel young."

She plans to visit various parts of Europe and South America and then hopes to work for KLM — "if so, perhaps I'll possibly in a travel bureau in New York.

St. Andrew's Guild Holds Card Party

WELLINGTON — The supper bridge and euchre sponsored by the St. Andrew's Guild last Friday evening was most successful, when between 60 and 70 sat down to a delicious supper.

Following the supper some left to go home while others arrived to enjoy a game of bridge or euchre. Thirteen tables were in play.

After the games, prizes were presented to — ladies high for bridge — Mrs. D. Adams; ladies low — Mrs. S. Downey; gents high — Mr. D Boyle and low — Mr. J. B. Lavender; euchre prizes went to: ladies high — Mrs. D. Murphy; low — Mr. Charles Brookbank; gents high — Mrs. M. Boyle playing on a man's ticket and low — Mr. Allan Davis.

Coffee, tea and pie were served at the close.

St. Mary's P.C. Plans 'Soiree Dansante'

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of St. Mary's Parish Council was held at their League Rooms on Monday evening with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. R. Kelleher, opened the meeting and presided. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. F. Freeman, the minutes and correspondence and a letter from the Diocesan convenor of the C.C.D. were read by Mrs. J. Smith. The treasurer, Mrs. L. Doherty presented her report which indicated more revenue is needed. The bingos continue to be the main source of revenue and Mesdames Doherty and O'Keefe will have charge of them for the month of February.

SOCIAL DANSANTE

The matter of having a social evening in the form of a dance was discussed and after much consideration it was decided that a "Soiree Dansante" would be held early in March at Edgewater Park with Mrs. J. Dihan as convener to look after tickets and decorations and select committee to assist her.

Mrs. Kelleher spoke re making basket articles and items for the fall bazaar and Mrs. P. Monaghan us authorized to buy wool from lunch money.

Mrs. N. O'Keefe spoke of receiving a letter from the Reverend Father O'Flaherty of Manitoulin Island, soliciting used clothing and it was decided to collect same and have it left at the Rectory for boxing next week.

Mrs. J. H. Smith was re-named to the Campbellford and Community Recreation committee.

CARD PARTIES

It was decided that the card parties will end when this second series is completed unless more response is given to them. The card party this week will be held in the Senior Citizens' rooms with Ward 4 as hostesses.

A "Truth" tape entitled, "You and Your Neighbor" was played during lunch.

The Spiritual Director was present and spoke to the ladies making several suggestions regarding different projects. Reverend J. Moloney closed the meeting with prayer and lunch was served. Mrs. E. Kelleher and Mrs. L. Doherty will be in charge of lunch for the February meeting.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Carl O. — Why must we do everything together?

Mrs. V.O. — He always wants to run off alone.

Carl O. — But I'm 13 years old and I have two younger sisters and two younger brothers. What gets me is why my parents insist that we all go everywhere and do everything together, even though I have plans of my own.

We had a big fight last week over their making me stay home. But they couldn't make me say more than Hello to the company.

I'm getting tired of latching on to the whole procession, whether it's a picnic or a visit or just a drive. It's about time they let a fellow follow his own ideas.

Mrs. V.O. — I feel these are the years to instil a strong feeling of family unity in the children. I know that when I was growing up my brothers and I were permitted to go our separate ways from kindergarten days on. We were in different schools, came home for different holidays, split up for camp and for plays with various relatives. As a result, we have little feeling for each other. We have very few shared experiences to hold us together.

My husband and I are trying to avoid this coldness among our own children, and he resents joining us. For the past few years he's been making a fuss over accompanying us to church, sitting down to dinner with the rest, attending parties en masse. Anything "family" seems like poison to him!

The Council: While Mrs. O's aim is laudable, our three cheers are for Carl who asked her, in his awkward teen-age way, to change her methods of attaining it. Too much togetherness, she must remember, can irritate rather than cement.

A feeling for family might have been inculcated in Mrs. O's childhood home, despite the rare reunions, had her parents nurtured it rather than — as it appears — ignored it. The trick is to underline and emphasize the special joys and comforts that a across us a family member, which may be denied to a lone individual. Then it might be easy to win Carl's acceptance of the special sacrifices involved, too. At present, the grandparents don't enjoy being entertained by a captive who endures their presence!

Carl, at the age of 13, should be permitted a number of excursions on his own, within agreed-upon limits. This would make the family enterprises more refreshing to him when he participates.

There are many ways of achieving a sense of family solidarity, besides the obvious physical ones, and psychological ones. One scattered lunch turns up every New Year's Eve for the wielding of the clock's clock! Another family uses its annual acres to plant a tree when a child is born. Rituals are well attended, with relatives shooting each other (and those they marry!) their own saplings. A delightful gimmick we've just learned of, which Mrs. O. might like to try and which Carl might actually enjoy, requires only a large sheet of brown wrapping paper and crayons. The parents draw the outline of a simple landscape. Then they divide the paper into 16-inch squares. Each member of the family, including the parents and grandparents, coloured and embellished a square. These three were reassembled, plastic-ized and framed. The composite "work of art" hangs in the parents' hall. An eloquent testimony to both family diversity and unity.

Mrs. O.'s best bet for a happy family is happy individuals — free to leave it, preferring not to.

Memorial H.A. Gives Dec. Report

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital Auxiliary was held on Friday evening with 34 members present.

The meeting opened with the hospital prayer and president Mrs. H. Scott welcomed the members and wished them all the best for the new year. Mrs. R. Fox read the secretary's report and Mrs. Smith gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. R. Craighead reported on a visit she and Mrs. Scott made to Norwood where Mrs. Scott addressed the Women's Institute and presented the ladies to sew for the hospital. Other visits are planned to neighboring towns and villages in the coming weeks.

Mrs. G. Vandewater volunteered to the position of secretary for the auxiliary as this was the only office not filled. The retiring secretary, Mrs. Fox will convene the lunch for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Discussion of the bazaar was held and Mrs. J. Douglas asked the members if it could be held earlier this year. It was finally agreed to hold it on the first Saturday of December, one week ahead of the usual date.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Miss V. Eddy gave the hospital report for December as follows: admission, 101; discharges 136; Deliveries 22; operations - minor 22; major 8; x-rays 209; laboratory tests CBC 3; B.M.R.s 3; E.C.Gs, 36; Blood transfusions, 36; meals 5,482. She stated that there was an increase in the number of babies born in 1961 276 as compared to 222 for 1960

St. Mark's WA Lists Officers For 1962

SONARLAW — The annual meeting of St. Mark's W.A. Bazaarlaw was held at the rectory, Manmore, recently. The meeting opened and the Rev. Fleming read the collect and Holy Communion was held.

The president, Mrs. W. J. Barlow, welcomed all present and thanked Mrs. Fleming for having the meeting at her home. Eleven members were present and their dues for the year. The officers for 1962 gave their various reports, showing much work accomplished during the past year.

Mrs. Barlow thanked the members for their help and cooperation and asked the Rev. Fleming to conduct the election of officers, who were as follows: president — Mrs. W. J. Barlow; vice-president — Mrs. R. Matthews; secretary — Mrs. B. Woodbeck; treasurer — Mrs. W. Neal; Dorcas secretary — Mrs. E. Heath; living message secretary — Mrs. M. Tanner; thank offering and cards — Mrs. J. Wellman; sports centre-day — Mrs. J. Eggett; little helpers secretary — Mrs. J. Prest and social service secretary Mrs. R. Jones.

Mr. Fleming thanked the ladies for their work during the past year and congratulated the new officers. Mrs. Barlow thanked Mr. Fleming for conducting the election and he kindly consented to do the study book for the following year.

It was decided to hold the annual oyster supper in February. Mrs. Heath asked all members to meet at her home for a pot-luck dinner and quilting on Thursday, January 25th.

The hostess served lunch.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

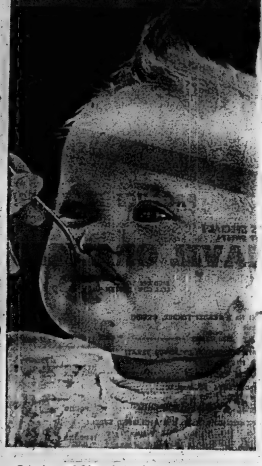
Sister-in-Law—Unfriendly

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—It is nearly a year since my brother and his wife set foot in my home. Yet they visit my brother often.

When they invite us we go, but they never come here, and never explain why not.

Last winter there was a clash in the family and we were all together for a day or two. In spite of all my efforts to be friendly, I was insulted by my sister-in-law's nasty remarks and went home feeling I could never go again and take such abuse.



My brother says that because I am a Christian, I should not get sore over her remarks. This thing is beginning to get me down and I don't know what to do next. Is not my brother partly to blame?—INSULTED.

DEAR INSULTED:—Be sorry for the brother who is married to her.

You do most harm to yourself when you let her rile you. If you have done your level, Christian best, put her out of your mind. You may find she will come afound by herself if you ignore her. Be honestly friendly when she does.

(There is a resource which can help. Let Doris guide you to it).

smooth, speedy, satisfying!

Baby hungry? It's a cinch to fix really smooth cereal in a flash. Gerber Cereals stir to creamy perfection in seconds when mixed with formula or milk. What's more, the consistency stays smooth throughout the serving. No wonder these quality cereals are so satisfying to a baby.

Digestibility assured. Gerber Cereals are thoroughly pre-cooked and twice-tested to insure easy digestibility. Nutritionally speaking, they have added iron, so important to your baby's well-being. Calcium and three important B-vitamins—thiamine, riboflavin and niacin are also added.

Gerber Cereals, like all good-tasting Gerber Baby Foods, are prepared by specialists who work in the interest of better nutrition for your baby.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

BORROWERS HAVE DISTINCT OBLIGATIONS

Many people excel at one sport: borrowing.

They borrow books, records, mink coats, cars, movie projectors, wheelbarrows, staplers, staple removers, typewriters, garden hose, carving sets, grills, he does have two distinct obligations as a returning borrower. First of all, he should return the borrowed property in the same condition as it was in when he borrowed it.

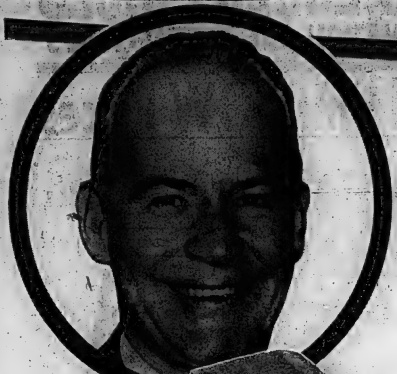
As long as the owner doesn't mind, parting company with this property for a time, there's no harm in borrowing. But the borrower should remember that to garden equipment as soon as it's let out. One neighbor of mine got his hose back in a dilapidated condition which took him two hours to untangle, and then he found a hole burned right in the centre.

I've gotten book book, back with the borrowers' own notations written in my margins. I must admit that one marginal note did do things to a curry, so I must consider it as interest on the loan.

But I do know of one person who fared less well, and couldn't make the roller on her typewriter roll when it was returned. Of course not, it was jammed with clay, put there by the red, then good manners — and borrower's ingenious young son common sense — dictate that who obviously had been nursing should be replaced.

Naturally, anyone who borrows anything dreadfully expensive — like furs or a car or the family jewels — should be suitable, but they indicated a fair estate sure they've fully insured or stipulated attitude on the part by the owner. If not, then the of some members of the borrowing fraternity.

borrower should be prepared to investigate the old homestead to pay for any loss or damage that might occur.



When anything is borrowed, it should be kept in a safe place — away from children, moths, termites and anything else that might prove damaging. If a should be established in advance, because, in this case, the borrower has a clear-cut obligation to replace anything that gets lost, strayed or shattered.

Morally, a borrower is responsible for damage even if it's done by a guest, or merely the family pet. Even if the lender demurs, some form of restitution should be made. It's one of the unwritten conditions of borrowing. It also shows good faith, consideration, and good manners on the part of the borrower.

Vegetables Transformed

by Mary Moore

Last night I had dinner at the Easterbridges' and - Edna had prepared plenty of carrots, onions and potatoes around a loin of pork. The vegetables were delicious and popular with all the guests.

After tasting the baked carrots I recalled the method Ivy McQueen used for baking root vegetables. These were almost mandatory for dinner on Monday when they had cold roast meat from Sunday to go with them.

BAKED CARROTS (with other root vegetables):

Your baking dish must have a tight-fitting cover. If you are using carrots alone provide 1½ medium carrots for each person so to be served. Let us suppose we are serving 4. Scrape and scrape 6 medium carrots. Cut each into 6 crosswise. (for 24). If desired, sprinkle over vegetables when you salt and pepper them, a little tarragon or thyme.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Breaded Shoulder Lamb Chops; Mint Sauce; Curried Rice; Fresh Frozen Green Peas; Cucumbers in Sour Cream Dressing; Canned Peaches; Oatmeal Cookies; Coffee.

Here is a Spanish way of preparing green beans.

GREEN BEANS ANDALUZAS:

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, ½ cup cubed ham or back bacon, 1 small onion, sliced, 3 tablespoons catsup, ½ cup water, 2 tablespoons pickle (chopped green pickle), 1½ teaspoons vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 cups hot cooked green beans.

Sauté ham or bacon and onion in butter until lightly browned; add catsup and water, pickle, vinegar and salt and pepper. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Toss thus drain. Saute the mushrooms in butter, season with pepper and soy sauce, and add to celery. Toss with almonds and serve hot. Six servings.

MUSHROOMS NORMANDY:

2 cups ¼" slices celery, 1 cup chicken broth or 1 cup hot water and 1 chicken bouillon cube, ½ lb. mushrooms or 1 3-oz. can sliced mushrooms, ¼ cup butter, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon soy sauce, ½ cup toasted slivered almonds.

Simmer the celery in the chicken broth until just tender;

INTERESTED IN POLITICS — Lorraine Robichaud, attractive wife of New Brunswick's premier, has been interested in politics most of her adult life. Now 33 and mother of four children, she says one of her brightest hopes is to see a woman elected to the New Brunswick Legislature. — (CP Photo).

Wife of N.B. Premier Much Interested in Politics

By GEORGE McNEVIN

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)— How does the wife of a politician feel when she sees that the battle is hot and the thrusts of the opposition cutting? Does she want to stand up and tell the "enemy" where to get off?

Not Lorraine Robichaud, attractive young wife of New Brunswick's Premier Louis J. Robichaud.

"I think Louis does a pretty good job of that," she said in a tea-and-sandwiches interview in her hotel-suite here while accompanying the premier on one of his frequent trips away from Fredericton, the capital. "I leave that to him."

She is additionly confident in her husband's ability to cope with any situation. Considering the accuracy of his childhood prediction that he would be premier at 35, confidence appears well-placed.

Although she leaves the speechmaking to Louis, she has a keen interest in politics dating from the time she was 13 — when he was now is 32 — when her brother Adelard Savoie was elected to the legislature. He served four years.

READS OF KENNEDYS

The medium - tall brunette mother of four says she would "rather read books on politics than novels or receipes." Material on the family of President John Kennedy rates high with her.

Adelard and Louis have been good friends for years; Lorraine's first meeting with her future husband was at Adelard's wedding in 1950. He was an usher and she a bridesmaid.

"I was 21 and I thought he was a real gift." Their wedding was 11 months later.

A schoolteacher before her marriage, Lorraine was born Sept. 3, 1929, at Neguac, a tiny village on the Gulf of St. Lawrence in northeastern Northumberland County. She taught at Bathurst and Tracadie as well as Nepisiguit, after graduation from St. Michael's Academy in Caraquet, N.B.

Despite her personal interest in politics and her husband's involvement, conversation at home is far from a continuous course of shop talk.

FOOTBALL FRUITFUL

"When Louis is home I try to make him forget his political troubles. He enjoys the children and the children love to play with him."

Paul, 9, is an extroverted pet and a worry to whom everything is grist for the mill. Jean Claude, 8, is more subdued and inclined to worry, she says. The others are Louise Rene, 3, and Monique, 14 months.

Of Paul she tells a story that could turn out to be prophetic. His teacher asked him what he would like to be when he grows up. "An archbishop or a premier," he replied.

The incident recalls a similar one concerning his father. When he was only a little older than Paul he declared: "Some day I'm going to be a political man."

Lorraine says her husband always nourished an ambition to be premier at 35—he made it at 34. "I thought it was just a dream but when Louis makes up his mind to something, he doesn't give up easily."

BOYS' SILENCIAL

The Robichauds, firmly rooted in the traditions of old Acadia, speak French in the home so the children will be bilingual. Mrs. Robichaud, although fluently bilingual like her husband, says she still feels more comfortable in French.

"The children attend school in English and all their playmates speak English and we would like them to retain as much of their French as they can."

Lorraine Robichaud cannot properly be called a suffragette, but high on her list of hopes is to see a woman member of the New Brunswick legislature.

"But this should only be if a woman has no family to look after or if her family is grown and away from home. Her first duty is to her family."

Local Tourist Attractions Receive Boost From Govt. Grants Under Self-Help Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Local tourist attractions throughout Ontario have received a $75,000 boost in the last six months through a provincial government program designed to encourage self - help on a regional level.

The money has come in the form of grants of up to $5,000 each to regional tourist organizations which match the government contribution and spend the money to improve and publicize their regional attractions.

Fifteen grants totalling close to $75,000 have already gone out, exhausting the money originally appropriated by the Ontario legislature for the program. Another eight applications are being processed and will be paid out of a supplementary $50,000 approved by the treasury board.

At the time legislation was passed at the 1960-61 session there were only five organizations in the province promoting tourist attractions on a regional level.

Now 25 regional councils are at work and another five to seven are expected to be operating when the province has been divided into tourist regions. The exceptions at present include the Sudbury and Timmins areas and certain sections of southern and southeastern Ontario.

"We're more than pleased with the interest shown by the tourist industry," said J. R. McKaitie, director of the development branch in the travel and publicity department and a key mover in the program.

Mr. McKaitie said the long-established Muskoka Tourist Association was the first to receive a $5,000 grant under the system in early August. Grants went out shortly after to Lake Simcoe and Lake of the Woods groups and the rush was on.

Legislation provides that the money be used for internal development of the tourist industry, promotion of local attractions and publicity. It must not be used for administrative costs or salaries, and it must be matched by the regional organization.

Regional organizations can apply for fresh grants each year.

"We're hoping they'll come through just as fast as they can after the fiscal year ends in April," Mr. McKaitie said. "If the money can be put to use quickly, there's bound to be an increase in tourist traffic this summer."

Court Rejects Kendall Appeal Against Sentence

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Appeal Court deliberated only eight minutes Tuesday before unanimously dismissing the appeal of Arthur James Kendall, 51, against his conviction on a charge of capital murder.

Kendall is to be hanged Feb. 14 for the murder of his wife, Helen, 33.

The court returned its decision without calling on W. C. Bowman, director of public prosecutions, for his arguments supporting the conviction.

Defence lawyer Charles Dubin said Mr. Justice W. D. Parker had misdirected the jury during his charge by omitting several defence arguments.

Kendall was sentenced to be hanged for the murder Aug. 2, 1952, of his wife in their one-room cabin near Johnston's Harbor, in the Bruce Peninsula. Her body was never found.

"She skinned out on me," Kendall told neighbors after his wife disappeared.

CASE REOPENED

Last summer the case was reopened after one of Kendall's five children told police a bizarre story which later led to Kendall's arrest.

At the trial before Mr. Justice Parker, three of Kendall's children testified they saw their father dragging their mother from the cabin. Later, tests many from the children told how Kendall returned to the cabin, removed the sheets, a bloody butcher's knife and some of Mrs. Kendall's clothing.

MARRIED AGAIN

Kendall subsequently married Beatrice Hogue of Wiarton, Ont., who also had five children.

The court heard Mr. Dubin for 5½ hour Tuesday and then said it did not feel it was necessary to call on Mr. Bowman for a reply.

Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw said the verdict was unanimous. "We find the charge to the jury (by the trial judge) was complete and correct and there was no room for misunderstanding or want of understanding."

Kendall's attorney has not said whether an appeal will be made to the Supreme Court of Canada.

ASKS TV DEBATES

REGINA (CP) — T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said Tuesday NDP officials have approached the CBC with a request for a series of radio and television debates between national political leaders during the next federal election campaign. He said the debates would follow the pattern established in the Nixon - Kennedy debates that highlighted the last United States presidential campaign.

YMCA WEEK ACTIVITIES — Many things go on at the local "Y" and several of them were on view yesterday evening. Viewing the Quinte Aqua-divers' display (upper left) are Bill Hurst and club president Earl Dickmother. Many items of over 100 years of age which had been retrieved from ship wrecks were to be seen.

Basketball, a game invented by a Canadian YMCA worker, some 50 years ago, is one of the popular "Y" activities. In the lower picture is a scene from last night's Youth Basketball House League game. Globetrotter George Howe may be seen driving in for shot at the basket as Satellite Murray Swan defends. The Satellites shone for 63 points against the Trotters' 44 to win the game.

Financial Problem of UN Brought to Light by P.M.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement against "free riders" in the United Nations has called attention anew to the staggering financial problem of the world body.

With total operating expenses running around $17,000,000 a month, the UN was some $94,000,000 in the red at the end of 1961. The deficit may hit $100,000,000 by mid-1962.

The UN has comparatively little trouble collecting from most of its 104 members for the normal operating budget of about $65,000,000 annually, but it's a far different matter where peace-keeping efforts are concerned. And these peace-keeping jobs are expensive.

Total arrears for the normal budget for the three years 1959 through 1961 stood at about $13,000,000 as the end of December — a small sum when compared with the over-all deficit.

The UN's brief arises from the special assessments for the Congo operation undertaken in 1960 and the UN Emergency Force set up in the 1956 Middle East crisis. Since Canada has been in both operations, it is doubly interested in the financial sickener.

The Soviet bloc, France, Belgium and South Africa are the principal countries refusing to pay anything for the Congo, whose 1961 assessment was $100,000,000 and 1960 cost $48,500,000.

The Soviet bloc and most Arab countries refuse to pay for UNEF, whose total cost so far has been about $34,020,000 with about $26,500,000 still outstanding.

Along with the countries not paying assessments because of stated disapproval in principle of the operations, other nations —including many Latin American countries — are delinquent because they say they cannot afford the cash.

The Canadian prime minister — in his parliamentary speech Monday — referred to the UN charter which provides that a country behind two years in its payments should lose its vote. He wants the charter provision made more effective.

The charter, after making its two - year stipulation, adds: "The general assembly may, nevertheless, permit such a member to vote if it is satisfied that the failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the control of the member."

The Soviet Union and other defaulting countries have refused to concede that the special assessments can be regarded in the same light as the regular assessments, especially when a great power disapproves in principle with the procedure and purpose of an action.

The United States has been asking in much of the time in UN finances in recent years, causing discontent among U.S. congressmen and others who sometimes do not agree with policies in The Congo.

As an emergency measure, the General Assembly in December approved a $200,000,000 bond issue, to be underwritten by governments, to relieve at least temporarily the financial crisis. The U.S. and Canada have agreed in principle to buy.

YMCA 'Week' Celebrated By 'Open House' at 'Y'

Yesterday evening was a busy evening at the local YMCA on Campbell Street with open house being conducted to show local citizens the work of the various clubs and groups which operate at the "Y". There is an open house every evening this week as the Belleville "Y" together with thousands of YMCA's across North America, celebrate YMCA week.

A very interesting display put on by the Quinte Aquadivers, the local skin and scuba diving group, featured many unusual items which have been collected over the past few summers. Pictures of club activities, as well as movies were on display as were various items of diving equipment and water safety information.

In the main entrance of the "Y" was a large display featuring the architect's model of the new building which was originally proposed to replace the present facilities. There were also displays of various club activities which are conducted in the "Y".

The Junior Leaders Club held its annual induction ceremony with a dozen new members being inducted in the impressive candlelight function. A large number of parents were on hand for the occasion.

Inducted were Gavin Scott, David McLean, Terry Miakelly, Kathy Gist, Linda McDonald, Bill Hazel, Judy Edwards, Joan McConnell, Ross Drysdale, Joan McNevin, John Hayman and Sandra Clerk.

The inducting team was comprised of Dave Phillips, Geoff Roulet, Richard Cherry, Helen Addy, Doug Row, Bob Doogan and Patti Bradford.

Following the Junior Leaders' ceremony there was a Youth Basketball House League game in the gymnasium and a ping-pong tournament.

Seek Damages Of $150,000

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) A Canadian couple has filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking $150,000 damages as the result of an auto crash three years ago on U21 near Fowler, Mich.

Mrs. Carol VanDyk and her husband, Sidney, of Oshawa, Ont., named Charles Pierson of Pontiac, Mich., as defendant in the action.

Their suits contend Pierson crossed the centreline of the highway causing his auto to collide with one driven by VanDyk. The plaintiffs seek damages for alleged injuries suffered in the crash.

Payments Given Company He Was Associated With Progress Money Says MLA

TORONTO (CP)—John Fullerton, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Algoma - Manitoulin, said Tuesday that reimbursement payments from the government to a company with which he was once associated were either progress payments for work done or salvage payments which subsequently were paid back.

Mr. Fullerton replied to a Dec. 14 speech in the legislature by Rene Sopha, Liberal member for Sudbury, which in effect questioned Mr. Fullerton's right to sit in the House. The Legislative Assembly Act prohibits private members from receiving payments from the crown.

Mr. Sopha said the Conservative member was part owner of Manitoba Contracting Company, which received $237,955.72 from the Ontario government in 1949 and 1950 for logging operations in the Sault Ste. Marie area.

Premier Robarts said later the government decided to salvage some of the burned timber after a massive forest fire in Mississagi Provincial Forest in 1948. It invited companies to tender but private capital would not accept such a risky proposition so the government decided to underwrite the job.

Mr. Fullerton said Tuesday in a statement the Legislative Assembly Act expressly permits members to be associated with companies engaged in cutting timber, and there were innumerable cases of members having such arrangements.

He said his company received $210,921.97 for the Mississagi work done but the timber always remained the property of the government.

In a concurrent arrangement, he said salvage operations were undertaken in an area flooded by an Ontario Hydro project and payments, under this contract amounted to $27,033.75, all of which was subsequently paid back with interest.

Another operation was undertaken to salvage pulpwood and $160,726.90 was paid to the company. This also was paid back with interest. A market later was found for the pulpwood and Manitoba purchased it from the government.

"In the above operations not only did Manitoba repay completely all advances made by the contract and the interest thereon, but additionally paid to the Crown stumpage and dues for pulpwood amounting to $87,758.56, an amount which otherwise certainly would have been lost to the Crown."

Mr. Fullerton, who was not in the House when Mr. Sopha made his statement and said later he wished to prepare a detailed statement in reply, said:

"I again want to point out that the member for Sudbury has stated things which were based upon not only public knowledge but public information and documents which have always been available to everyone."

Ontario NDP Leader Calls Member's Remarks Fatuous

TORONTO (CP)—Energy Resources Minister Macaulay Tuesday added more fuel to his "conflict of interest" charges against Liberal Opposition Leader Ontario New Democratic party leader.

The conflict, the minister said in a speech Monday, lies in the fact that Mr. MacDonald receives a salary from party funds to which some unions contribute.

Mr. MacDonald acknowledged his $6,000 supplementary salary as party leader but called the minister's remarks "fatuous." He also suggested, he said, that Mr. Macaulay had a conflict of interest because a portion of his salary comes from general revenues of the government, comes partly from brewery revenues.

The general revenues of the province, Mr. Macaulay said Tuesday in a statement, are paid by all the citizens of Ontario. He accused Mr. MacDonald of clouding the issues.

"The unions do not contribute to any salary fund for my self or any other member of the legislature that I know of. That they do to Mr. MacDonald is clearly indicative the special value they place on his services as a member of the legislature of Ontario."

Mr. MacDonald was addressing a meeting at Tara Tuesday night but Kenneth Bryden, NDP member for Toronto Woodbine, came to his defence, said the minister's remarks could be dismissed as frivolous except that they showed a dangerous tendency toward MacCarthyism.

Mr. Bryden said some NDP funds come from affiliation fees of trade unions but most are derived from membership fees and the contributions of individuals. They are paid to the party, not Mr. MacDonald, and disposed of as the party's council and executive decide.

"No one in his right mind would suggest that a political party does not have the right to pay a salary supplement to its leader, or any of its officers for that matter, if it sees fit."

SANS MAGAZINE PIX

PARIS (AP) — The French government Tuesday banned circulation in France and Algeria of copies of the Jan. 26 issue of Time magazine bearing a cover photograph of the secret army leader, Gen. Raoul Salan. The government said later it will permit circulation of the magazine without the Salan cover and that the magazine planned to remove the picture from the 13,000 copies for distribution in France.

Yardbird Suite in Edmonton Home for Jazz Musicans

Nepal's King Escapes Unhurt As Bomb Tossed

By BOW MacDONALD

EDMONTON (CP) — Through a back - lane entrance and down a flight of dark, steep stairs in South Edmonton is the Yardbird Suite, a cramped dimly lit den where the city's young jazz musicians sound off.

Tommy Banks, an orchestra leader and one of the organization's founders, says the Suite is the only place in Edmonton where young musicians can polish their performances by playing with older, more experienced instrumentalists.

Hundreds of local artists plus such jazz specialists as Red Powell, Oscar Peterson, Roy Hoyles, Ray Bonneville, Herb Ellis, the Addendals and "some amazing swingers from the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra" have appeared.

Banks says formation of the Yardbird Suite in 1957 as a non-profit jazz centre filled a need for a permanent Edmonton home for jazz. Musicians formerly held sessions in community halls or private homes.

NO LIQUOR

The club serves no liquor and doesn't allow alcohol on the premises. "We devote full attention to jazz," says Banks.

He says most Canadian youngsters who want to learn how to play music must turn to rock 'n' roll at high school and teen dances.

"The youngsters learn to play the music they want to play on instruments, such as the guitar. We try to get them playing good swing jazz — and the skills."

Rod Kark is a 17-year-old jazz artist who has found the necessary performances at the Suite helpful. He usually plays during the informal sessions between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. Sundays when anyone with an instrument can "spread the grease."

STARTED AT 11

Kark, described by fellow musicians as one of the city's best young jazz instrumentalists, began playing tenor saxophone with two years of formal lessons beginning when he was 11.

The sophomore high school student owns and plays an alto sax as well as a set of bongo drums "to keep in touch with a bass" when possible.

He began playing rock 'n' roll with his friends about the same time as he started jazz and now earns about $20 a week with a group that plays at school and teen dances.

Park intends to become a professional jazz musician but says Edmonton offers no professional opportunities. "I'll probably go to Vancouver; it's more Americanized musically."

Cupcake Says Stripping Helps Ward off Colds

TORONTO (CP) — Cupcake Cassidy took off only her dark glasses for this performance.

Dressed in a flowered 34-36-36 normally appears on the stage of a burlesque house, the star was in Sunday appearance before the Don Mills Rotary Club to help with a membership drive.

The all - male breakfast attendants of the Jewish organization learned some of the facts of life as keen to a burlesque queen (Cupcake is Toronto's favorite stripper) and left with the idea that stripping helps ward off colds.

"And, she says, stripping is here to stay."

A few more Cupcake quotes:

"Striptease isn't easy work. It takes a lot of time and practice. It isn't just a case of taking off your clothes.

"A stripper started to be more seductive for their husband. They would keep them happier and they wouldn't stray . . . stripping doesn't interfere with life with my husband."

"I am proud to say I have never been pinched—arrested, that is."

Cupcake, who broke the house record at a downtown theatre Saturday, almost did the same for B'nai B'rith Only one question stumped her:

"How do you show depreciation in your physical assets for income tax purposes?"

Urges Govt. Clothe Men on Winter Works

TORONTO (CP)—The provincial government should provide clothing for men taking part in suburban York Township's winter works program, a councillor said Monday night.

"These men spend hours outside shivering in the cold and unable to do their work," said Councillor Philip White.

Said Deputy Reeve Scollard: "They won't be cold if they're working. If they're standing around all day they'll be cold."

Council decided to ask its parks department for a report on the situation.

CANADIANS GO SOUTH — Winter holidays in the sun are becoming more popular with Canadians, many of whom now are splitting their vacations between summer and winter. Travel agents report bookings to such places as Florida, the Caribbean, and Hawaii up as much as 50 per cent this winter. This is a beach at San Juan, Puerto Rico. (CP Photo).

Travel Agents and Airlines Report Thumping Increased Bookings to Warm Climates

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

More and more Canadians are coming to the conclusion that winters are fun—provided they're spent some place warmer.

The tropical breezes in the Caribbean and Hawaii and the burning sun over Florida, California and Mexico are proving not too much to resist.

For the Canadian who has shivered once too often through a furnace breakdown, or shovelled one driveway too many, the waded on-block too far through city slush, the lure of a winter vacation in the sun is almost irresistible.

A Cross - Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that this winter more than ever before he's doing something about it.

Travel agents and airlines across the country report thumping increases in bookings to warmer climates.

"Winter holidays are no longer, strictly a rich man's game," a Vancouver travel agent explained.

MORE ARE FLYING

In Edmonton, advance bookings to southern areas are up a "fabulous" 50 per cent over last year, Trans-Canada Air Lines in Montreal expects a 60-per-cent increase in travel to Florida and the Caribbean. Other Canadian centres give much the same picture.

There are also indications that Canadians are straying from the winter-tourist's haunts in Florida and heading in greater numbers to the West Indies, Bermuda and the Bahamas.

Travel agents in Saint John, N.B., report that excursion rates to The Barbados, Nassau, Jamaica, Trinidad and Bermuda have proved a strong attraction.

Hawaii, once a Pacific playground for West Coast Canadians only, now is drawing substantial numbers from such other provinces as Manitoba.

But while the Pacific island remains on top of the list for British Columbians, Canadian Pacific Airlines bookings there are up 20 percent—Hawaii is getting stiff competition for the B.C. tourist dollar from the Caribbean. TCA expects more and more travel to the West Indies and Bermuda from Vancouver to double this winter.

CRUISES POPULAR

The Pacific and Orient line, whose cruise ships head from Vancouver to the South Pacific, had a 70-per-cent increase in the number boarding its ships last year and hopes for a similar jump this year.

Attractive airline fares are credited with luring Alberta holidayers to the Caribbean. Return fare from Edmonton has been cut by $80 to $215.

Agents in Regina note an increasing trend toward splitting holidays between winter and summer. All report heavy bookings.

OPERATE ON MAN, 116

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (AP)—An apparently successful abdominal operation was performed Monday on a man who claims to be 116 years old. Antonio Barbaro, of the little town of Platania in southern Italy, is listed in old community records as having been born in 1845. He says he fought in 1860 with the volunteers under Giuseppe Garibaldi, who unified Italy. Barbaro lives with four sons, the oldest 82 and the youngest 55.

IGA Is Seeking Settlement in Stamp Charges

CALGARY (CP)—Officials of the Independent Grocers Alliance announced Monday night that four IGA stores in Calgary will withdraw trading stamps from the market today.

The store officials added that IGA will try to settle with the Alberta government to avoid heavy fines.

IGA lawyers also announced they expect to appeal a ruling by Chief Judge Noles Buchanan of the district court upholding the provincial ban on trading stamps.

Lone American Subaltern Waged Own War on Japs

By MARK PRIESTLEY

This is the story of a man alone. One man — and how he vanquished an enemy horde in the vital days of the year in the Pacific.

His name is Lieutenant Hugh Miller. He was just a typical-looking young American subaltern who happened to be with one of the unheralded discoverers that covered the landings at Kiska, Anchorage, New Georgia, in 1943.

His keen eyes were straining through night glasses at a knocked-out batteries on the mangrove coast when a Japanese torpedo scored a bull's eye on his ship.

The explosion tore young Miller off his feet — and pitched him headfirst into adventure stranger than fiction.

Numbed, nearly senseless, he found himself clinging to a life net. Through the dark night the cheering voices of other survivors were calling and singing.

He held on. Pain began to hit him below the belt, gnawing and snapping. He did not know till then that he had been internally injured.

BEHIND JAP LINES

A parallel line, Miller and three sailors crouched in a cane-brake on Arundel Island miles behind Japanese lines.

Their position was desperate. The enemy island, only twelve miles long and three wide, was infested with Japanese. The Japanese had been seen only a while and a half away at the nearest water spring.

Every day, every hour, increased the risks of detection. Yet Miller was too ill to be moved. The sailors had dredged him ashore, hauling him boldly across the coral reefs, and had lugged him to safety. The Japanese had been seen only a while and a half away at the nearest water spring.

"I'm a dying man", he told them! "There's no sense in you staying around. You're spoiling your own chances of escape".

They refused to leave him. They tried to carry him, but he found the jolting agony too great.

And then, from a hilltop, one of the seamen saw the Japanese boating through the bush, yard by yard Equipment floating ashore had perhaps aroused their suspicions. The island was being toothcombed.

"I order you to leave me!" Miller told his three comrades. "I order you to leave me!"

They had to obey. Making him as comfortable as possible, leaving their last can of water at his side, they crept away.

DRANK ALL WATER

Convinced that he was dying, Miller drank all the water the first day.

The next day, though unable to move, he felt a little better.

Perhaps in those enervating hours he had passed the crisis.

Another night of sleep still further relieved the reddened head.

For ten days he had been unable to take solid food. But now came new torments — the anguish of thirst and growing hunger. And then — was it the pitying touch of God? — a heavy rainstorm replenished his water can and somehow struck a ray of hope into his dark resignation.

Four days after being left alone, he was able to crawl to the distant spring and take his first meal from a nut in a coconut clump.

Waking from another restless sleep, he heard stealthy footsteps — and from between the fronds of his hiding-place he watched one of the first scouting parties of the bush-combing enemy patrols.

From where he lay, within reach of coconuts and water, he could see the Tokyo troop barges and supply ships sneaking by moonlight up and down the Sound.

Once he watched a battle between the Japs and an American M.T.B. The Japs seem the worst fighters in the world," Miller thought," says Miller. But he had no chance to gain the admiration of the American crew.

DISCOVERS DEAD JAP

Then this strange Robinson Crusoe stumbled across his own man Friday.

It was a dead Jap, floating face downward just off a reef inshore.

From him Miller secured a pair of shoes and socks — a buy-post and a grenade holder with two grenades.

Now for the first time he had weapons against the encroaching patrols. He had, too, some small bits of Jap belly-food to help him build up his strength. It was wife-beating stuff and, as he chored it down, he saw a Jap patrol on the reef.

Presently they turned and scanned the shoreline. They had discovered the rifled body of their comrade.

Miller knew this meant action. He did not sleep that night. You've heard a lot about Japanese cunning in stealthy, soled jungle fighters, but Miller decided that this was bally-hoo put out by Tokyo.

WIPES OUT PATROL

When a little group came out to look for him, he says, he spotted them at 400 yards. He waited till they were 30 yards away and then lobbed over a grenade.

From the condemned equipment he collected six more grenades and five cans of meat. Then he buried the mixed patrol, smoothed and replanted the ground — and prepared for the next episode of his guerilla war.

Soon, Japanese machine-gun squads had been posted in every thicket and inlet overlooking the Sound. Miller countered their location night after night — and sometimes crept down to the beach shed of the engineers to forage for food.

More American M.T.B.s were now penetrating the Sound and more craft, though unmanned, covered by machine-guns ashore, were falling foul of their automatics.

From the wreckage that drifted ashore Miller began to build himself a raft. It seemed his only chance of escape. Yet it was behind a rock, collecting the flotsam and dodging the patrols.

One sniping nest in particular w s menaced every night but was too close to be pleasant.

"I determined," says Miller, "to throw a good scare into them."

Through the jungle he headed a path to within 35 yards of the nest. That night the grenades were landed as usual from a boat.

Not sooner were they settled than Miller lobbed over three grenades.

Every Japanese on Arundel now seemed to have joined the search for him. Still he eluded his hunters. Next night, when a machine-gun emplacement settled still nearer his hide-out, Miller repeated this strategy.

At 25 yards his grenades couldn't miss.

Just as well. It was their lives or his.

This was sure, for the next morning he was awakened by the thrum of a "plane. It was an American torpedo-bomber, and Miller dashed like mad for the salt flat.

SPOTTED BY PLANE

Madly he waved a towel he had captured. The plane saw him but made off.

An hour later a U.S. seaplane returned, spotted his frantic waves and landed on the Sound.

"I tried to wade out to them," Miller says, "I guess I was too weak. I just couldn't make it."

Those last few minutes were nightmarish. It was touch-and-go whether the airmen could get their inflated rubber dinghy to him before the nearest Jap patrols arrived on the scene.

Desperately, loaded down with Jap insignia and equipment, Miller swam. He got to the reef — and met them half-way.

Just as they reached the plane and moved out of range, the Japanese started shelling. But Arundel Island had given up its "ghost" — the avenging spook of the castaway who hadn't died.

Two years later, Lieut. Hugh Miller was sitting at an American lunch table at Munda, feeling as good as it is possible for a man to feel when he has some back from the dead.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Trenton RCAF Globetrotters, riding high on the crest of a six-of-seven win wave, are the guests of the Belleville Pepsi's tonight.

Apart from getting two months' leave, a pay hike and promotion the flyboys would like nothing better than to bang e defeat on the hosting infantry or-M'soo Lemieux.

They did it once, too. But the peaky Pepsi's with a break or two getting on assist, "smack in" with ten seconds to go and pilfered a win from the Trotters that was already in the scorebooks.

The league leaders will likely be at full strength and they'll need every shooting and checking arm they've got. These flyers can turn it on and throw. It beat when they waltz to and fondly they'll be out to avenge those 6-5, 5-4 and 5-1 setbacks the Pepsi's have handed them thus far this season.

If the Flyers are "up" for tonight's tilt, and they likely will be, fans should see one of the best Lakeshore clashes load here this season. The game gets under way at 8.30.

MINOR HOCKEY

This department has been in receipt of several queries as to why the Belleville Minor Hockey League did not arrange some suitable observance of Minor Hockey Week in Canada, currently being noted all over the nation.

It seems minor hockey officials felt that the schedules of the squirt, peewee, bantam, midget and juvenile leagues were in themselves sufficient, together with the fact ice time was difficult to secure.

However, some minor squad coaches feel that if the matter was discussed something could be done.

One suggestion was that a Belleville squirts all-star squad, which has been practising hard, and playing exhibition games, could entertain an outside team some night this week. The suggestion carried the note that if other ice time was impossible to secure, perhaps the squirts could play prior to the junior "B" hockey game on Friday night.

Manager Jack Dickens of Memorial Arena, said today that he would co-operate to the fullest extent with the suggestion.

The City Department Hockey League plays from seven to eight o'clock Friday night and perhaps they could help by cutting their time short a few minutes.

There is nothing scheduled officially between eight and nine o'clock, said Mr. Dickens and "if the squirts want to play their Minor Hockey Week game, I am sure we'll be willing to co-operate.

Minor Hockey Week in Canada is set aside to pay tribute to the men who do the real work with the moppets, the coaches, managers, referees, etc. - With its slogan, "Take—Don't Send Your Boy to the Arena," a timely tip to parents, the "Week" sponsors, the CAHA and the OMHA indicated that something of a special nature should be programmed.

"If the Belleville Minor Hockey Association does not feel like taking action worthy of committee of a special nature, or that it feels scheduled games are sufficient, then we shall arrange something ourselves," said one coach.

More power to your elbows!

Now the way is just been cleared for the squirt youngsters to show their wares against an outside all-star squad, thanks to their coaches and Mr. Dickens.

As of now they will play Friday from eight to nine or thereabouts prior to the junior "B" hockey game between the Belleville Macs and Peterborough Monsens. More about it later.

Top Tennis Star

Bob Bedard Retires

OTTAWA (CP)—Bob Bedard, whose rocket boomed him to invincibility in Canadian lawn tennis competition, is calling it quits while he's still on top.

Unbeaten by any Canadian since 1954, he announced his retirement Tuesday night from Canada's Davis Cup squad to enable him to concentrate on his teaching career and spend more time with his family.

"I think I have attained my highest possible standard of play," he said in an interview explaining his decision. "From now on the best I could do probably would be inferior."

The 30-year-old star from Sherbrooke, Que., whose retirement had been rumored since Lorne Main announced his resignation as captain of the Davis Cup team Jan. 9, earlier made public his own resignation at a sports awards dinner here.

Main, last player to turn the tables on Bedard, Tuesday night described him as "a plateau" above any other player in Canada. His departure would make it a trening slump coach.

As Coach He's Sad

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Doug Harvey, the defenceman had a great half season in the National Hockey League, But, these rainy days and days for Harvey, the coach.

His New York Rangers, after getting off to a fine start, are in a prolonged slump. So much so, that they're in peril of fading out of contention for a playoff berth.

Harvey, whose one consuming ambition is to win hockey games, appears to be taking Rangers losing ways in stride.

"There's got to be something wrong," he says. "But, I figure, we've been playing well enough to win."

The Rangers have lost seven straight games and nine of their last 10, dropping into a tie for fourth place with Detroit-Red Wings. Their only win of the new year was over last - place Boston Bruins.

Harvey, ever on a losing team in 13 previous seasons with Montreal Canadiens, probably will pull all stops in an effort to halt the backslide when the Bruins invade the Red Wings tonight.

In another game tonight, Toronto Maple Leafs will be attempting to close in on front-running Canadiens when they take on the Black Hawks at Chicago. The Maple Leafs currently trail Canadiens by three points.

Actually, the Rangers haven't been losing by top - heavy scores. Of their last five losses, two were by one goal and the other three by two goals.

"That could be the problem," Harvey adds.

"We're not getting big goals. We need a little more jump out there, a little more push to get just one more goal."

Harvey figures the team's main problem is lack of strength down centre.

He switched Andy Bathgate, the league's leading point - getter, to centre from right wing on his top forward line and that's not turned out too well, because Andy has been in on nine of the team's 19 goals.

But the club's second and third lines have been sputtering. Even Camille Henry, tried at centre between Andy Hebenton and Johnny Wilson, hasn't been able to score since getting his 20th goal of the season Dec. 23.

While Harvey is bowling in recent weeks hasn't been encouraging as Harvey he has, nonetheless, been collecting all sorts of accolades from NHL sports writers, broadcasters and telecasters.

Harvey was an overwhelming choice in mid - season balloting for the first all - star team and the James Norris Memorial Trophy, awarded to the best all-round defenceman.

He is also Montreal goalie Jacques Plante by 12 points in voting for the Most Valuable Player Award — the Hart Memorial Trophy.

Milt Pappas' Arm

Throw, Yes-Sign, No!

NEW YORK (CP)—Los Angeles Dodgers and Detroit Tigers signed players to 1962 baseball contracts, Tuesday but Baltimore Orioles received notice that they may have a tough time coming to terms with pitching ace Milt Pappas.

The Dodgers announced they have signed first-string catcher John Roseboro who, it is estimated, will receive a salary of $20,000, an increase of about $4,000. Roseboro last year improved his batting average to .251 from .213 and drove in 39 runs. He also led the Dodgers in home runs with 18.

Second baseman Jake Wood and outfielder Charlie Maxwell signed with the Tigers. In 1961, his rookie season, Wood batted .268 and led the American League with 184 singles although he struck out 161 times for a major league record. Maxwell, last year's Comeback player, batted .222 in 79 games.

At Rochester, N.Y., Pappas said he can't see any reason to throw fast balls but not to sign the contract with the Orioles.

"Certainly not the one they served up to me," said the 22-year-old hurler. "They offered me the same money as last year, $7,500. Of course, that's a lot better than I got as a rookie in 1959.

"I pitched in May with a sore arm that kept him off the mound for more than a month. He pitched three innings in the second half of the season, finishing with a 13-6 won-lost record, a 3.03 earned run average and 134 strikeouts in 201 innings.

"I completed games and four shutouts.

Cooper Wins Over Hughes

LONDON (AP) — Henry Cooper, British heavyweight boxing champion, Tuesday night stopped Tony Hughes of Cleveland, who relieved at the end of the fifth round because of a severe cut in the corner of his right eye.

Cooper, a ranking contender for the world championship, weighed 190½ pounds and Hughes, a protege of Rocky Marciano, the former heavyweight champ, 196.

Blasts Boxing Bosses

Archie Says Promoter 'Ran Out'

OTTAWA (CP)—Partial world light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore rounded off Tuesday night against Montreal boxing promoter Eddie Quinn.

A guest at a sports awards dinner, Moore accused Quinn of "running out on the fighters when a scheduled bout between him and Canadian heavyweight boxing champion Bob Clermont at Montreal Dec. 5 was cancelled at almost the last minute.

The fight was called off by the promoters on the grounds the advance receipts on ticket sales were not good enough.

"It's the first time I've ever heard of a promoter running out on a fight," said Moore.

He also accused the people who head the boxing world- as "political appointees" who make their own set of rules to suit themselves.

Moore, whose world title is disputed by various American boxing authorities, discounted rivals Eleanor Tavoli Johnson as a contender. Moore said he had put Johnson away in a 1957 fight.

Minor Hockey

The squirt division of the B.M.H.A. wound up its league schedule with six games last night.

D. DeMers scored three goals to lead the Rovers to a 7-2 victory over the Browns. R. Barbour scored two goals with one each for Hall and Lougheed. C. Powell potted both Browns goals.

The Black Hawks and Rangers fought to a 3-3 deadlock. M. Mumford twice and J. Holland once for the Hawks. R. Meagher and two Ranger goals with B. Buchanan getting the other.

Bruins Barons stopped the Frontenacs 6-1 with M. Lucas and D. Lapenette each scoring twice. D. Kimble and T. Lynch had the other goals. D. Hines bagged the lone Frontenac marker.

The Red Wings defeated the Maple Leafs 5-2 paced by D. Frebert's two goals. F. MacDonald and A. Wilson also scored. Scott Smith triggered the Mac goal.

D. Bleekman's three-goal performance led the Flyers to a 5-1 decision over the Maple Leafs. The Flyer marksmen and Kraig McCormack and A. Gannon. The Lead goal was scored by S. Muldoon.

The Bruins shaded the Rovers 3-2 in a close one. Bruin scorers were D .Cole, J. Cask, D. Bankey and M. Wood. M. Thompson, B. Boy and C. Adams had the losers' goals

WINNIPEG (CP) — Jimmy Murray, associated with soccer, here as a player and official for nearly 40 years, died Monday. At the time of his death he was on the executive of the Manitoba Football Association and treasurer of Alexander Park, the home of soccer here. He was an official with Winnipeg Scottish, 1954 Canadian champions.

But Terriers Leave Door Open

Won't Seek Govt. Aid

GALT (CP)—The Galt Terriers World Hockey Fund, attempting to raise at least $17,000 to send the Ontario Hockey Association Senior team to the world amateur championships in Colorado Springs, Colo., will try to obtain its goal without government assistance, the fund chairman said Tuesday.

"We're leaving the door open for government assistance," chairman Syl Assdoonian said, "but we aren't going to seek it any further."

The fund has been seeking aid for many months from the government's new $5,000,000-a-year program for amateur sports.

Meanwhile, the Terriers Tuesday acquired defenceman Jack Douglas of Chatham Maroons for the tournament. A four-year veteran of the Maroons, Douglas is to join the Terriers in Squaw Valley, Calif., five days prior to the opening of the tournament March 8.

MONTREAL (CP)—Ian Bruce of Ottawa and Bruce Airby of Dorval, Que., were named Tuesday to represent Canada at the North American firm selling championships in Nassau, the Bahamas, March 19-27.

He Should Sit in Our Arena

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Candlestick Park, where a pitcher was blown off the mound during an all - star baseball game, was involved in another zany first Tuesday.

A jury of 10 women and two men took only 20 minutes to award lawyer- Melvin Belli $1,507, the season's price in 1960 for a box, because the box proved to be cold.

Belli, known for his handling of damage suit cases, had charged San Francisco Giants and owner Horace Stoneham with breach of warranty because an advertised radiant heating system for the box didn't work.

The verdict giving Belli his money back involved only the baseball magnate. Judge Albert Drew Jr. Eyman dismissed all accusations against Stoneham.

The Giants announced they will appeal.

Says AFL Will Equal National

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League Tuesday claimed a better-than-ever record of signing draft choices this year and forecast improved television coverage and a "greater year by far" for 1962.

Foss said that following another year of competition, the AFL will be the equal of the National League.

Foss said the AFL lost eight top draft choices to the rival league but added that the NFL devoted its major energies to doing just that.

"Out of the top 100 boys on our draft list," he said, "as of yesterday we had signed 43. From last year's top 100, we signed 35 altogether."

From the complete draft list of 200, said Foss, the eight AFL clubs have signed 79 to date.

Foss said he expects the American Broadcasting Company to announce it was picking up its AFL television option well before the April 15 deadline called for under ABC's five - year contract with the league.

Jackie First Negro Honored

Robinson, Feller To Hall Of Fame

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the major leagues, is the first of 34 "race elected to baseball's highest honor — its Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

The former Brooklyn Dodger infielder was enshrined Tuesday along with pitcher Bob Feller, a quiet farm boy from Iowa who blazed a fastball through the American League for nearly 20 years with Cleveland Indians.

Both won election to the hall the first time they were eligible, a five - year retirement from baseball being mandatory. It was the first time the Baseball Writers Association of America had named anyone on their first eligible shot since the original five — Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson — were tapped in the first election in 1936.

Candidates needed 75 per cent of the 160 votes cast by association members. Feller, now a 43 - year - old insurance executive in Cleveland, received 150 votes, Robinson, 42, vice - president of a restaurant and coffee company, got 124 votes, four more than the minimum needed.

ROBINSON' THRILLED

It's a once - in - the - life-time thrill," said Robinson, at his home in Stamford, Conn. "It's hard to describe my feelings fully at this time. I am pleased and honored, my family is so excited no one wants to eat."

Feller, typically, was less emotional but just as thrilled.

"Naturally, I'm happy about it," he said. "But now I've got most as if I had nothing to look forward to — except going to Cooperstwn this summer. I thought I might have to wait longer. Joe DiMaggio had to go around a couple of times. Maybe the competition was tougher then."

Feller's entry is timed almost exactly with his story in the Saturday Evening Post in which he criticizes selection procedure. He explains it works against the modern-day player, especially pitchers.

"There seems to be a growing belief that modern ball players should be judged by more years as a whole than the old timers in order not to "cheapen the Hall of Fame," Feller says in his story.

There now are 88 men in the hall, including former players and officials.

BREAKS COLOR LINE

Robinson broke the game's color line in 1947. Branch Rickey, then general manager of the Dodgers, had startled the baseball world the year before when he signed Jackie to a Brooklyn farm contract.

Robinson was with Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League at the time. He spent one year of seasoning with Montreal Royals, leading the International League in batting and fielding, and then joined Brooklyn as a second baseman.

Quiet, hard working and always an effective and dependable first baseman, Robinson batted .311 in his first two seasons and batted a lusty .342 in 1949 to lead the National League.

His fielding and base running were key to his belief. In one season he committed only seven errors, a major league record, participated in 137 double plays that same season, 1951, setting a National League mark.

Jackie was the most feared base runner around from the late 1940s to the late 1950s. Once he stole home in a world series game.

Feller was a 17 - year - old youngster who had sharpened his eye by throwing at a bulls-eye painted on a barn when he arrived in the majors in 1936. He was what the game needed — a hurler pitcher who packed the fastball.

Twenty years later—with four years out for navy service during the war, Feller won 266 of his pitching prime—Feller had compiled 348 victories. He had fanned 162 defeats.

Among the wins were three no-hitters and 12 one - hitters. Only two other pitchers in history have pitched more than three no-hit games. None ever fanned 18 batters.

Six times Feller won 20 or more games. His high came in 1946 when he notched 27 triumphs. He set the modern mark of 15 shutouts in a nine inning game against the Athletics Oct. 2, 1938, though Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles Dodgers since has tied the record. Feller's 348 strikeouts in 1946 stands as a major league mark.

Guelph Defeats Teepees 7-4

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Guelph Royals moved to within three points of third place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standings Tuesday by defeating St. Catharines Teepees 7-4.

Duke Harris, who played three seasons with the Teepees before being traded to Guelph early in the current schedule, scored a hat trick with a goal and four assists.

Dave McComb scored two goals while Medwid went to Mike McMahon, Silky Taylor, Gordon Smith and Don Diberardino.

Rookie Fred Scandrett accounted for two of the St. Catharines goals while Bill Ives and George Standing had one each.

Rookie forward Jim Baird of Vancouver scored two goals Tuesday night, his 20th and 30th of the season, as Edmonton Flyers beat the Canucks 5-3 before 1,100 fans at Vancouver in a Western Hockey League game.

Gerry Brisson scored four goals in leading Spokane Comets to a 6-3 win over Seattle Totems and San Francisco Seals upset Calgary Stampeders 4-3. Warren Hynes led the Flyers with three goals, while defenceman Lloyd Haddon connected twice. Don Poile, Roger Desjardy and Tom Bergen scored a goal apiece. Baird and Phil Maloney counted twice for Vancouver, with George Ford and Larry Popein adding singles.

Comets' coach Bud Poile got 12 players after Springfield owner Eddie Shore recalled several players Monday to the American Hockey League.

Poile's brother's third - period goal at San Francisco won for the Seals. Other San Francisco goals were by Nick Mickoski, Harry Pidhirny and Al Nicholson. Cliff Retzlow, Norm Johnson and Ron Leopold replied for Calgary.

The line of Brisson, Max Mattlock and Yves Locas accounted for all but one of the Spokane goals. Mattlock had a goal and five assists and Locas two goals. Rev Bell scored the other Spokane goal, while Barney Kraske and Bill MacFarland scored for Seattle.

'Wonderful' Says Feller

Jackie Tributes Mother

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bob Feller, named to baseball's Hall of Fame at 43, says he gets more fun out of coaching sandlot youngsters than he ever did in his playing days with Cleveland Indians.

"It's wonderful," Feller said in an interview Tuesday after learning he had been elected to the Hall of Fame.

Feller was asked whether the youngsters treat him with awe.

"No, they're used to me. And I try to bring them out of themselves."

"I've always wondered what might have been if I hadn't had to go into the navy," he said. "But there's no use sawing sawdust.

"Still I might have come close to the victory totals of Walter Johnson (416) and Christy Mathewson (373). If I had approached their marks, I'd stayed in the game as long as possible in the hope of surpassing them."

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jackie Robinson, first Negro elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, says he is happiest because of the "effect it might have on humble people like myself. I am hoping it will make young people in such cases from humble beginnings with luck and perseverance can move ahead."

"No one had more humble beginnings than I did," Robinson, 42, said in an interview at his home here. "Why, at one time I was practically a juvenile delinquent. I didn't know where my next meal was coming from.

"And now to end up like this. You have to thank God for her. I'm a mother like I have who taught me right from wrong and for guiding me to my wife."

Jackie said that as soon as his wife, Rachel, had been of his election when he arrived home from work, he telephoned his mother in Pasadena, Calif., and Branch Rickey, who brought him up by the Dodgers and broke the color line in the major leagues.

"I felt they deserved this, since honor along with my wife and I had. I didn't tell either of them to find out from anyone else before I told them.

Depends on U.S. Visa Action

World Tourney In Canada?

GENEVA (Reuters) — John (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said Tuesday a speedy solution must be found to the visa problem which threatens to keep East Germany out of the 1962 world amateur ice hockey championships.

Ahearne said he called the federation's executive committee to a meeting here today to discuss if Switzerland's state department's delay in granting visas to East Germans. The tournament takes place March 8-18 at Colorado Springs, Colo.

"The state department has not yet refused to grant the visas, but they say they are still processing the applications," Ahearne said.

A federal decision taken in Prague in March, 1959, permits the world championships to be transferred to Canada or West Germany if any competing team is refused entry into the United States for the 1962 event.

"We do not want to appear as if we are issuing an ultimatum on what is, after all, a political issue," Ahearne said.

"But for purely practical reasons, some final date must be set, after which we shall have to offer the organization of the championships in Canada, or then to West Germany."

Terriers Pass Bulldogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Terriers had to overcome some spectacular goaltending Tuesday night to slip past the idle Windsor Bulldogs into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series leadership.

Goalie Bud Dietrich turned back 58 Galt shots, but the three he let in were enough for Terriers to claim a 3-2 win over their Woodstock Athletics. The win left Terriers with 40 points one more than the Bulldogs. But Windsor has three games in hand.

In other OHA Senior action Stratford Rockets moved to within a point of fourth-place Waterloo Tigers when they downed the hapless Sarnia Sters 6-3 in Sarnia.

Some 600 fans watched as Strathroy outscored the last-place Rams 2-1 in each period. Tracy Dunham and Bob Geddes each scored twice for the winners; Don Emms and Jack McCreight did the lone spiece. Rams scorers were Tommy Hadden, Don Sanglais and Eric Hadden.

At Galt, Tod Sloan fired two goals and Don Rope scored the winner at 4:34 of the third period—just 26 seconds after Jean Asselin had tied the score for Woodstock. Toby Black scored the other goal for the losers, who remain in their place, eight points off the pace.

Galt drew five of the nine minor penalties. Woodstock's Bryle Klinck and Galt's Rope were given majors for fighting in the first period.

Finns Play In Canada

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Clubs in northwestern Ontario and Finland have scheduled several games against teams headed for the world hockey tournament at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Fred Page, president of the Thunder Bay Amateur Hockey Association, announced that the Finnish national club will play in Nipigon March 1 and in Fort William March 2.

In Nipigon, the Finns will play Nipigon Flyers of the North Shore Intermediate League, with the Flyers bolstered by players from the other three clubs in the league. Opponents in Fort William will be Port Arthur Bearcats of the Thunder Bay Senior League, who recently completed a tour of Europe.

The Finnish team is coached by Joe Virkkunen, a former Port Arthur junior player. Warrood Lokers of the Ontario Hockey League will play Galt Terriers, Canada's representatives at the world tournament, Feb. 17. The Canadian team will also meet the Swedish national team March 1 at Warroad, Minn., and the U.S. at Duluth and the Norwegian team March 4.

Aces Nip Hershey In Overtime

QUEBEC (CP) — A powerful shot fired by left winger Danny Pawlicki past Hershey goalie Bobby Perreault two minutes after the overtime period opened gave Quebec Aces a 5-4 American Hockey League victory over the Bears Tuesday night.

Lewicki also picked up the tying goal, half way through the third period. Left wingers Guy Rousseau and Guy Black and centre Sidney Burchell scored Quebec's other goals.

Costly Productions Blamed On Big Star by Director

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Big stars who cause costly delays on movies aren't colorful. They're no better than thieves who steal money.

That's director William Wyler, one of the industry's great moviemakers, speaking.

He was commenting on a rash of over-budget productions such as the costly Mutiny on the Bounty which is in its second year of production—and second $20,000,000 of cost.

"The industry is being hurt by a lack of professional attitude on the part of some new stars," says Wyler.

He cited the case of one top star who gets $1,000,000 a picture. When he didn't show up one morning, the studio called him. He explained that he couldn't find the keys to his car—also he couldn't remember where he parked it.

"The price of a taxi would have saved his studio thousands of dollars," says Wyler. "But he wouldn't call one until the studio called him, hours after he'd come at work.

HAD NO MONEY

"Even then he insisted that someone meet him at the gate to take care of the fare. He said he didn't have any money."

When such an attitude becomes chronic, Wyler says costs mount into the thousands.

The director says he has no trouble with non - professional stars.

"When I made The Children's Hour for the Mirisch Brothers, I was hired first because the Mirisches put their money on the picture maker, not the stars.

"They believe that if you are going to cook a good dinner, you first hire a good cook. The waiters who deliver the food come second in their planning.

"I know before I start a picture that I will do it only with professional stars. If, half way through a picture, a star becomes non - professional, they know I walk out.

"I had two of the biggest feminine stars in The Children's Hour — Audrey Hepburn and Shirley Maclaine.

"Both know their place as stars and what their rights are. . . . . Their performances were as professional as their attitudes."

ADMISSION 25c — FREE GAMES

AT THE PARK—James Darren, Edward Wolley starred with Michael Callan in Columbia Pictures' "Gidget Goes Hawaiian." Also co-starred are Carl Reiner, Peggy Cass, Eddie Foy Jr., and Jeff Donnell. The romantic comedy, a Jerry Bresler production, is in Eastman Color and opens Thursday at the Park Theatre. On the same program are "They All Exploded" and "Sixteen" both filmed in Rural Belleville showing starring Michael Craig, Joan Greenwood, Michael Callan, Gary Merrill, Beth Rogan and Herbert Lom.

Hagen Likes 'Green' As Golf Color

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Hagen is not one of those golf oldtimers who laments that the game has lost its color. What nicer color is there, asks Hagen, than green—as in green backs?

"People are always asking me if I don't think the modern professionals are too stereotyped and businesslike and don't have the fun we had in the old days," the graying, bespectacled former champion said Tuesday.

"I tell them maybe so, but look at the purses they're playing for. If I'd been shooting for $25,000 and $50,000 purses as they do these days, I'm not sure I wouldn't have been a bit less playful myself."

Hagen was in New York to accept the Gold Tee award at Tuesday night's annual dinner of the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association. He was honored for his contributions to the game.

Hagen, 69, who won 11 national titles, has been out of competitive golf for almost 30 years and no longer swings a club.

"I couldn't stand the thought of shooting an 80, so I quit," he says.

LATER RECOGNIZED

Giacomo Puccini's famous opera, "Madame Butterfly," was considered a failure on its first production in 1904.

At the Park

"MYSTERIOUS ISLAND"
(First Showing)

Jules Verne's "Mysterious Island," brought to the screen in Charles H. Schneer's new production for Columbia release, is said to be one of the most astounding motion picture adventures of all time. Co-starring Michael Craig, Joan Greenwood, Michael Callan, Gary Marrill, Beth Rogan and Herbert Lom as Captain Nemo, the Academy Award film in Super-Dynamation and Eastman Color, is due Thursday at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showings.

Verne's astonishing adventure recounts what happens to a group of men and two women, castaways on a Pacific island amid the inconceivable terrors of a fierce new animal world. Hollywood reports that "Mysterious Island" is one continuous flow of exciting and incredible screen adventure whose rich resources of color, along with the SuperDynamation process perfected by visual effects wizard Ray Harryhausen, do Verne's story, full - entertainment justice.

Producer Schneer and Harryhausen, who collaborated earlier on such Dynamation films as "The 7th Voyage of Sinbad" and "The 3 Worlds of Gulliver," are said to have excelled even these, with "Mysterious Island." From the first thrilling escape by balloon of Union prisoners from a Confederate camp to their forced landing on a Pacific island, to their exciting struggle for survival, "Mysterious Island" is said to contain an ever mounting crescendo of excitement. Scenes without precedent include a savage fight with wooden spears against a monster crab; a hand-to-hand fight against a giant octopus and a man and woman sealed in a tomb of honey by a mammoth bee.

Second Feature

"GIDGET GOES HAWAIIAN"

Jerry Bresler's production of "Gidget Goes Hawaiian," starring James Darren, Michael Callan and newcomer Deborah Walley in the title role, opens Thursday at the Park Theatre as the second feature. The Eastman Color comedy co-stars Carl Reiner, Peggy Cass, Eddie Foy Jr., and Jeff Donnell, and Vicki Trickett and Joby Baker have important featured roles in the new Columbia release, reportedly a fine follow-up to the highly popular "Gidget."

Show Contained Things Kovacs Thought Funny

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The television show that Ernie Kovacs put together and taped a few weeks before his death on Jan. 13 was shown by ABC last night. Happily, it contained a typical and wide assortment of the things that Ernie thought were funny.

There were the wordless short sight gags—the beautiful lady of the harem who drops her veil to reveal a Van Dyke beard; the house of cards that drops through the concrete foundation as the last pasteboard is put in place; an art restorer working on Lincoln's twitching nose at Mt. Rushmore, to mention a few.

There were fine sketches, demolishing phoney avant garde poetry, painting and sculpture done in Person-to-Person style.

It was adroit, imaginative nonsense. The sponsor omitted the commercials, and at the end he announcer quoted the clergyman at Kovacs' funeral, "He loved this man. He gave happiness, joy and gaiety to the world." And he did, including Tuesday night.

Hugh O'Brian, who, after all those successful years playing a bold, intrepid western lawman in Wyatt Earp, has managed to pull out of the type-casting rut in big time. This fall he starred in a Broadway play, a family drama, and now he will play the hero in an upcoming NBC Theatre '62 adaptation of Spellbound.

Recommended Tonight: Bob Hope Show, NBC, 9-10 EST — made during a Christmas trip entertaining servicemen, with Jayne Mansfield and Dorothy Provine.

Our Man in Vienna, NBC, 10-11—David Brinkley takes a look at the old, romantic city.

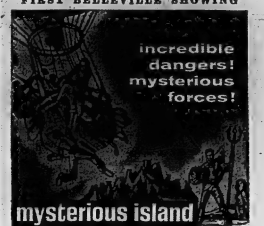
Minor Hockey

The Rovers topped the Untouchables 5-3 and Bishop Six downed the Blake Boys 7-5 in midget hockey league games played last night.



Carl Hannah and Rutherford starred in the Bishop Six win, each scoring three goals. Ron Chilcoden had the other goal, while Hannah and Stickle each had one assist. Brian Derry scored twice for the Blake Boys while Ron Post, Flindall and Cassidy and the other goals, Derry and Goulette an assist each.

Rutten and Lancaster potted two goals each to spark the Rovers' win. Goache had a goal and assist and Rutten a goal. Albert Letlim, Tomeo and Harvey scored in defeat while Letan drew one assist.

Astrological Forecast

By SUTHERN COMARE

For January 25

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Might pay you to solicit the opinions of others. You could be sure of one side of the problem. But there are usually two sides. Confide in a trusted friend. Don't bank on sure things.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): There is a great deal in "turning the other cheek" today. If you do so . . . instead of becoming belligerent . . . you can win friends and gain admiration. Go with tide. Don't buck it.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): If you feel you know it all . . . you will be in for quite a few surprises. Check your hand. Wait for the other fellow to disclose his knowledge. Pushing too hard will prove costly. Be patient.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Trick to getting along with what assets you possess today is to be versatile . . . keep sense of humor. In romance department, be easy-going. No pressing. No quarrels. Very good.

Leo - (July 23 to Aug. 21): Strive for serenity. Trying too hard could cause others to be irritated lead to disputes. Use caution . . . take it easy. Think problems through. Be independent, original.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 20): Charm could win the day. Those who know you may have their guards up for some Mercurial wit, criticism. Today, pay compliments . . . without being insincere. Look for the good. Be noble!

Libra (Sept. 21 to Oct. 22): Cycle moving toward top. Means much in your favor where previously odds were against. Start doing some good in your own home. Your loved ones know you care about what happens. Be mature!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You seek an anchor . . . something someone you can rely upon. All right. How about starting with yourself? You are filled with contradictions. Why should others be faultless? Understand?

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Study reading for Scorpio. Know that even family members can do things which make you think you stand alone. Then, revive your wonderful sense of humor. Evening favored.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Better by finishing them for irritating pretends. Procrastinate action, no matter how tempting, should be put off. Take time to survey situations. Press , never ditty.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Question authorities. Don't believe everything you hear. Authority once said no machine heavier than air would fly. Trust hunches. Don't be afraid to express beliefs, hopes.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Two opposing forces may be speaking you. Refuse to take sides. You could be interfering in a "lover's quarrel." Walk away from both. Not be willing to offer sympathy . . . to both sides.

* * *

If born today . . . you know what it is you want and you trust constantly fight tendency to be side-tracked. Could be one of most significant years. Outstanding months this year: September. Stop trying to make world perfect. You'll be happier!

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Virgo, Libra, Scorpio. Day which finds people admiring action. But public also able to "see through" those with much tactile, burlie, talk — and nothing to back it up. All signs could read Scorpio interpretation with profit.

SEES VOLTA DEAL

ACCRA (Reuters) — President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana signed a series of agreements Monday with an American aluminum consortium—the Volta Aluminium Company — giving the green light to Ghana's huge Volta River project. The company is to build an aluminum smelter which will be the main consumer of electricity produced by the Volta River dam.

"THE WORKING MAN'S FRIEND"

France's New Ambassador To Canada Veteran Diplomat

BRUSSELS (CP-AP) — Raymond Bousquet, named as France's new ambassador to Canada, is a veteran diplomat whose interests range from economics to the German Romantic school of music.

A Parisian born in 1899, Bousquet has been French ambassador in Brussels for 5½ years. He has made many friends in the Belgian capital and occasionally has become involved in lively public controversy.

The latest occurred when Belgium's state-controlled television network showed a U.S. TV interview with Raoul Salan, the French ex-general who was sentenced to death in absentia for taking part in last year's abortive general's coup in Algeria and who now leads right-wing extremist opposition to the French government.

Bousquet protested the showing of the interview and received excuses from Education Minister Victor Larock. Then some segments of the Belgian press accused him of interfering in the country's internal affairs.

The influential weekly Pourquois-Pas? carried a caustic editorial accompanied by a cartoon showing the irate Bousquet holding a pair of nine tails over the kneeling and contrite education minister.

NEW AMBASSADOR — Veteran diplomat Raymond Bousquet has been named France's new ambassador to Canada. A Parisian, he joined the French foreign service in 1923 and has served in Shanghai, Washington and the United Nations. He moves to Canada comes after 5½ years as ambassador to Belgium. (CP Photo).

A deeply religious Roman Catholic, Bousquet shows little concern for worldly possessions and prefers casual dress except for formal diplomatic events.

While he is an enthusiastic music lover, he has little interest in other art forms. His wife, on the other hand, has no inclination for music but likes painting and owns a remarkable collection of shells.

She is also fond of animals, but has never succeeded in getting her husband to have pets in their home—except for a boa parrot. They have no children.

Bousquet also shows deep interest in physical fitness. He follows a Spartan diet—giving up soup meals altogether—and takes long walks aimed at keeping himself in top form.

Bousquet, who holds a bachelor of literature degree and also is a graduate in higher history and geography studies.

He joined the French foreign service in 1925, was posted to Shanghai for two years and then moved to Washington, where he remained until 1933. He returned to Paris and was attached to the foreign affairs central administration until 1942.

After the war he was appointed French delegate to the United Nations Economic and Social Council, a post he held until 1948 when he again returned to Paris to become director-general of personnel at the foreign office. He received the Brussels posting in 1956.

Bousquet became a Knight of the Legion of Honor in 1937, was nominated an officer of the same order in 1947 and a commander in 1951.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Services from this vicinity attended the funeral of Mrs. Will Watson on Friday afternoon at the John Bush Funeral Home. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in the loss of a loving wife and mother.

Word was received on Sunday of the passing of Mrs. Jennie Kiernan, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ted Smith, in Hamilton. She had lived in this village all her life before moving to Hamilton to live with her sister. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved ones.

Mr. and Mrs. George Collier of Picton were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Owing to the extreme cold on Wednesday night the euchre party sponsored by the Wallbridge L.O.B.A. was not well attended.

A large number from this vicinity attended the household sale of effects of Mr. Ed Montgomery of Foxboro on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Gardiner and son Douglas spent Saturday with friends at Rossmore.

ACQUIT BARRYMORE

ROME (Reuters)—Italy's Appeals Court acquitted actor John Barrymore, Jr., Monday of insulting and resisting Rome police. The 30-year - old actor, son of the late John Barrymore, had received a suspended eight-month prison sentence after a trial before a lower court here in October, 1960.

CAMPBELLFORD

Northumberland H.S. Board Lists Personnel

CAMPBELLFORD — The inaugural meeting of the North East Northumberland District High School Board was held on Wednesday evening in Campbellford District High School with all members present.

The following are the members of the board for 1962 and key bodies appointed: them: Donald D. Bennett, town of Campbellford; A. J. Buchanan, township council of Percy; W. R. Loucks, township council of Seymour; L. Mountjoy, United Counties Council; F. G. Sullivan, Separate School Board; G. W. Rutherford, town of Campbellford; Dr. J. E. Trimble, Public School Board.

BOARD CHAIRMAN

The board, by unanimous approval of motions, appointed Mr. G. W. Rutherford chairman of the Board, and Mrs. L. Mountjoy as vice-chairman for the year 1962.

The committees for the board for 1962 are as follows: (the first-named on each committee being the chairman), management: D. Bennett, P. G. O'Sullivan, A. Buchanan; finance, L. Mountjoy, W. R. Loucks, D. Bennett; transportation: W. R. Loucks, L. Mountjoy, Dr. R. J. Trimble; property, Dr. R. J. Trimble, P. G. O'Sullivan, A. Buchanan.

GREAT PROBLEMS FACED

The chairman addressed the members of the board and said that the board had faced great problems during the past year and that the old board turns over to the new board a school which is operating admirably and could be the nucleus of a great school. The prime responsibility of this board is the education of all the young people in the district.

Mr. Rutherford expressed the opinion that the Board is capable of facing the challenge and assured new members of his complete co-operation as well as that of the senior members of the board.

It was decided to hold a special meeting on January 19th for the purpose of studying the budget for 1962.

Accounts presented for payment were studies and approved and the meeting adjourned.

Space Test Hope Brightened By Fine Weather

Countdown for Sat. Flight Starts Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Forecasts of good weather buoyed hopes today that astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., will be blasting around the world Saturday.

A preliminary report said favorable weather is expected to prevail through the scheduled launch date, both here and at all stations down range.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has scheduled a formal weather briefing for newspaper men today.

Meanwhile, routine missile work continued at the base, with an Army Nike-Hercules artillery missile on a successful flight of about 200 miles Wednesday night. Officials said the swift solid-fuel weapon, scheduled to become operational later this year, performed as planned.

The long countdown looking toward Glenn's space adventure will be started at 7 a.m. Friday. The "countdown" marks the checking and rechecking of instruments before the flight's success or failure in an orbital attempt.

BEGAN UP. COUNT

The count will extend over a period of 500 minutes — 8 1-3 hours. Then, instead of a continuous it will be split into segments.

The final five hours will begin early Saturday. This segment will be timed to the minute, plus time programmed in an effort to allow time to correct any trouble that might develop and still get the shot away on schedule at 7:30 a.m. If no trouble develops, these two hours will be consumed with automatic machines ticking down.

If all goes well, the 40-year-old marine lieutenant - colonel will be boosted on his historic mission to orbit sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

As Glenn himself, a space agency spokesman said he continued to be relaxed and seemingly unworried. His wife Wed, nesday was a light one.

DESPITE FAILURE

Rising hope that Glenn's orbital flight may go off Saturday has not dimished by space failure early Wednesday.

The U.S. had hoped to hurl Discoverer 36 into polar orbit with a single rocket, a Thor-Agena B.

But the rocket's upper stage didn't develop enough thrust to put the satellite in the cluster of satellites, containing a variety of military study experiments, plunged into the sea several hundred miles south of here.

KILL POLICE CHIEF

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—A burst of machine-gun fire from a speeding car killed the chief of the Guatemalan secret police, Francisco Gonzalez, Wednesday night as he was leaving his home, Gonzalez' driver and one of his bodyguards were injured. The attackers escaped.

Gonzalez had made himself an extensive search the...

GOVT. IS STILL PAYING OFF ARROW DEBTS

Program So Far Cost $407,638,339

OTTAWA (CP) — Paper fall-out—bills, bills, bills — is still raining down as a result of the political and military explosion three years ago when the government cancelled the Arrow jet interceptor.

Bookkeepers and auditors are still closing out the costliest—up to that time—single weapons program in Canadian history.

Informants say the 1962-63 defence budget will include a couple of hundred thousand dollars which should complete payment of all the bills.

The latest accounting shows that the government has paid out $407,638,339 on the Arrow program, including $27,439,905 for the Sparrow air-to-air missile which is to have been the interceptor's main armament.

In the 1960-61 fiscal year, which began one month after the government decided to junk the Arrow because of enormous cost, expenditures still amounted to $29,626,286. They were mainly cancellation costs for the prime contractors, Avro Aircraft Limited and Orenda Engines Limited.

The government explained that 100 Arrows would have cost $780,000,000 on top of what had already been spent.

WELL SURPARS

The $407,638,339 spent on the Arrow will probably be surpassed by the current program to procure 222 CF-104, low-level jet bombers, including trainers, for the RCAF Air Division in Europe. The estimate for this program now stands at some $430,000,000. The design was acquired from Lockheed Aircraft Corporation of California and therefore there were no research nor development costs.

Two and a half years after cancellation of the arrow the government acquired for America ican Voodoo jet interceptors for RCAF Air Defence Command. The cost will be $155,000,000 or about 30 per cent of the estimated cost of 85 Arrows.

Trenton Rescue Team Trying To Free Plane

BAYSVILLE (CP) — Rescue teams from Trenton air force base are working to free an RCAF Otter plane buried deep in the wings in ice covering Lake of Bays near here.

The plane, carrying six RCAF airmen, crashed Friday while on manoeuvres near Dorset, 40 miles north of Orillia.

Cal Martin, a marine dealer, said the pilot bounced the plane twice on the ice to test its strength preparatory to landing. It appeared strong enough to bear the weight but on landing the plane's skis began to break through the crust of snow.

The drag caused it to nose over, breaking a hole in the ice which was only two inches thick at that point.

None of the men was injured and all were able to climb to safety.

An average man is one who isn't so good as his wife thinks he is before she marries him, and not so bad as she thinks he is afterward.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis—Cold air is expected to push southward over central Ontario today and into southeastern Ontario by Thursday night, bringing colder weather with some snow.

CLOSING THE GAP — Workmen swung a 60-ton section into place to close the gap in a 346 million dollar bridge linking U.S. and Canada over the lower Niagara River. Flags of the two nations were affixed to the section. The international span will have connecting sections to the New York State Thruway and the Queen Elizabeth Highway in Ontario. (AP Wirephoto).

Rusk Appeals to Member States of OAS To Save Hemisphere From Reds' Assault

PUNTA DEL EASTE, Uruguay—The United States in a searing indictment of Castro communism appealed to the other American states today for a four-pronged counter-attack to save the hemisphere from the ravages of global Red assault.

U.S. Secretary Dean Rusk told the inter-American foreign ministers' conference countermeasures against the threat of Cuba's communism that the Americas need a shield to protect democratic processes if the alliance for progress program is to succeed in its attack on the hemisphere's economic ills.

Rusk called on the 19 American states to (1) declare Castro communism incompatible with the inter-American system, (2) exclude the Havana government from participation in the Organization of American States, (3) interrupt its "limited but significant flow of trade between Cuba and the other countries of the hemisphere," (4) set in motion individual and communal acts of defence against the various forms of political and indirect aggression, mounted against the hemisphere.

Rusk's speech came at a critical moment as Brazil and several other countries pushed a drive to soften hemispheric retaliation against Cuban communism.

The Brazilian campaign indicated there was little hope of unanimous action by the 19 American states sitting in judgment on the Havana government.

Jehovah's Witnesses Taking Battle to Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP) — A members of the Jehovah's Witnesses is taking his sect's battle against compulsory flag salute to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Ronald Fern Wolfe of London, Ont., will ask the court Monday for leave to appeal lower court decisions upholding the verdict of a coroner's jury which investigated the death of his infant son in London, Ont., April 15, 1960.

The baby died of haemolytic disease of the newborn for which the standard treatment is transfusion of new blood. A transfusion was recommended by doctors, but Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe refused consent on grounds that blood transfusions were against their religious beliefs as Jehovah's Witnesses.

The child was made a temporary ward of the Children's Aid Society which ordered a blood transfusion. However, the child died after receiving a transfusion.

The coroner's jury said contributing factors to the death were delay in giving a transfusion because of the parents refusal to consent, and delay in holding a hearing to make the infant the temporary ward of the Children's Aid Society.

Attempts by Mr. Wolfe to have a verdict of the coroner's jury quashed failed in the Ontario Supreme and Appeal Courts. He now plans to ask the Supreme Court of Canada for leave to appeal against the lower court decisions.

Elaine Hood, Toronto, counsel for Mr. Wolfe, says in documents filed with the Supreme Court, that the jury at the inquest permission at the inquest to be heard because counsel and to examine and cross-examine witnesses called by the Crown.

"This practice is a usurpation of evidence and a denial of justice," Miss Hood says.

"Only cross examination of medical witnesses could have elicited the full story."

Will Question Men Arrested About Slaying

NEW YORK (CP) — Three New York men arrested in Spain in connection with an international narcotics ring will be questioned in the kerosene-fire slaying of Albert Agueci, a Toronto taxi driver with the ring, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Albert Agueci, 30, had skipped bail on smuggling charges before he was slain.

Two other Toronto men, Agueci's brother Vito, 42, and Joseph Scoppelliti, have been convicted of being a part of the narcotics ring.

Albert, 30, had skipped bail on smuggling charges before he was slain.

Cherif) Albert W. Skinner of Monroe County, N.Y., said the three, arrested Tuesday, will be interrogated about the November killing near Rochester after they are returned to the United States.

Two other Toronto men, Agueci's brother Vito, 42, and Joseph Scoppelliti, have been convicted of being a part of the narcotics ring.

Kennedy Favors Civilian Control Of Military Speeches on Govt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says the defence department should continue its "very valuable policy" requiring military men to get advance clearance of their public speeches.

The president told his press conference Wednesday that he favored the system that provides civilian control of the military "and the co-ordination of speeches which interpret government policy."

The result, he said, is "that the United States speaks with force and strength."

At the same time, Kennedy gave his blessing to an investigation by a special Senate committee into the defence department's practice of censorship, "if am sure it will be useful," he said.

The inquiry goes into its third day today.

Charges by Senator Strom Thurmond (Dem., S.C.) that the defence department has been "muzzling the military" on anti-Communist statements set off the current Senate investigation.

Kennedy told reporters he had submitted to the state and defence departments for advance checking portions of his own state of the union message to Congress dealing with foreign policy and defence.

He said this is the way a government as large as this one, which deals with complex, sensitive problems involving relations with the rest of the world, can make "effective expressions of our views."

Kennedy suggested that military men "seem to me to specialize in the problems better than some civilians."

The president said he didn't think anyone could do better than to read remarks on the subject by Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

In his testimony before the subcommittee Wednesday, Lemnitzer vigorously defended the present speech clearance procedure. The top ranking U.S. military officer, he testified he submits his own speechs for advance checking and welcomes the chance. Like Kennedy, he viewed it as part of the tradition that civilians rule the military.

RCAF Searches Ottawa Region For Lost Plane

OTTAWA (CP) — Search planes are checking an area 40 miles east of here for a twin-engined plane reported missing soon aboard missing on a night flight from Bonnie to Ottawa.

The RCAF said it is checking reports of aircraft sighting which might be the lost Piper Apache, owned by Ottawa Aero Services. It had been due here at 2:05 a.m.

One report was from the Cornwall area on the St. Lawrence River and the other from Hawkesbury, on the Ottawa River, 30 miles north of Cornwall.

An RCAF Dakota transport and two small planes from Ottawa Aero Services began crisscrossing the area at dawn.

NUCLEAR ARMS DEBATE SUBJECT IN PARLIAMENT

Wants Question Sent to Voters

OTTAWA (CP) — Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) Wednesday accused the government of following a double standard on nuclear armament that has made Canada a laughing stock on the international scene.

In a fiery denunciation during the throne speech debate, he challenged the government to have the "guts" to state a policy for or against nuclear arms for Canadian forces and submit it to the judgment of the electorate in a general election.

"... One of the greatest heartbreaks of my life is to see the way in which this government has brought Canada into international disrepute and made her the laughing stock of the nation, of the world."

At the United Nations, External Affairs Minister Green sponsored a resolution for no expansion of the nuclear club. At the same time, Canadian forces were equipped with weapons useful only with nuclear warheads.

Finance Minister Fleming led off the day's throne speech debate for the Liberals in the Liberal party of indifference to Canadian trade interests in Britain.

If Britain entered the European Common Market without protection for Commonwealth trade interest "our industry and trade could suffer enormous losses and distortions." Canada welcomed British assurances that it would protect these interests in negotiating EEM membership.

But the Liberal party was "trying to push Britain into the Common Market."

He said Opposition Leader Pearson's contention that Canada should list priorities of export interests to be protected was equivalent to setting up conflicting other Canadian industries.

Orvis Godin (L—Nickel Belt) said a federal grants program should be called—but only after a budget is brought down. Since 1958 the government had had 11,500 days to talk about itself, Mr. Winch said. It was passed, he one day to make their views known.

O. W. Weichel (PC—Waterloo North) said all Canadians were "deeply impressed" by Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Bill of Rights. Since it was passed, Mr. Weichel said, people in all walks of life had said to him, "it's great to be a Canadian."

Write New Chapter Now For Atlantic Community Kennedy's Plea On Trade

Wants Power to Adjust Tariffs As Step to Open Trade Partnership

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy today unveiled far-reaching proposals for vast tariff - bargaining power, describing them as stepping stones to "an open trade partnership between North America and Western Europe to frustrate Communist dreams of shattering the West through trade wars.

"It is time now to write a new chapter in the evolution of the Atlantic Community," Kennedy said in a 5,000-word trade message to Congress calling for eliminate U.S. tariffs on a broad range of industrial goods and to reduce other rates by half during a period of five years or more.

Reductions would be reciprocal. For every benefit the U.S. provided, it would expect a benefit in return from overseas markets.

Negotiations would be directed mainly at the Common Market bloc of 17 but the offer would be extended to all the free world. However, where big U.S. sales to Canada obtained major benefits, the U.S. would e p e c t corresponding concessions" in return, Kennedy said.

NO NICKEL PRODUCERS

"Nuisance" tariffs — five per cent or less — would be withdrawn. This would be of particular help to Canadian exporters of aluminum, copper and nickel.

But officials said the U.S. would reserve its right to refuse to negotiate on such highly-sensitive products as oil, lead, zinc and certain agricultural products strongly protected by import quotas and other curbs. They said this reservation would be used sparingly.

Canada and the U.S. oil market without quotas, Other suppliers are restricted.

Financial aid would be given to U.S. workers and industries hit by changes.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Wednesday, Jan. 24, 1962

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said the Canadian government is willing to listen to U.S. protests but will make no fundamental change in its proposed magnesium legislation.

The government tabled supplementary estimates of $62,350,000, including $42,000,000 in acreage payments for Prairie farmers and $40,000,000 for winter works.

Finance Minister Fleming accused the Liberal party of indifference to Canadian trade interests in Britain.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East), speaking on the nuclear question, said the government has made Canada a laughing stock among other nations.

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. EST to continue the throne speech debate. The Senate sits at 3 p.m.

Union Strike Threat Raises Merger Hurdles

NEW YORK (AP)—Congressional questions and a union strike threat raised hurdles Wednesday in plans of American Airlines and Trans World Airlines to merge into the biggest air carrier in the United States.

The Transport Workers Union threatened to set a strike date unless there are guarantees by Feb. 1 that jobs would not be eliminated in the merger. An American Airlines spokesman replied that the airlines already had promised all employees they would be retained and said a strike would violate the union contract.

One influential congressman said there may be a full-scale investigation into the merger if another, while withholding immediate judgment, was lukewarm to the merger plan.

More opposition, from other U.S. airlines, was expected to follow that of Trans World Airlines.

The proposal would weld the two lines into a $900,000,000 operation, subject to approval by both companies' stockholders boards.

Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem. N.Y.) said he is asking the chief of his House of Representatives judiciary committee to study the proposal to indicate if there should be a full investigation. He said he wants to know whether the public welfare and national security would be adversely affected.

Wreaths Stripped From Memorial, So Angry Europeans Roam Oran

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Bands of Europeans roamed the streets of Oran, in western Algeria, today after a lightning strike in the European quarters over the removal of wreaths placed at the war memorial yesterday.

The wreaths were placed during demonstrations staged to protest the Algerian government's abortive revolt in Algiers against President Charles de Gaulle.

The wreaths had disappeared this morning and storekeepers closed down their businesses to join others known to be a protest strike. More then 5,000 Europeans massed around the war memorial and placed new wreathers.

Meanwhile two Moslems were killed today by gunmen in Algiers as the racial strife continued in the city.

Police have ceased their grip on the city after a big sweep Wednesday to cope with the anniversary demonstrations. Only six persons were killed and eight wounded—the lowest daily toll so far this year.

Police had cleared the demonstrations, called by the outlawed Secret Army Organization, might develop into a major test of strength between the government and rightwing European extremists.

Not a Moslem was in sight in central Algiers where thousands of Europeans assembled to place wreaths and pay homage to the victims of the anti-Gaullist revolt.

POLICE OFFICER INDENTIFIES TWO MEN ACCUSED

Says He Saw Them In Stolen Vehicle

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Two of four Montreal men, charged with the $532,000 holdup last summer of the Havelock branch of the Toronto - Dominion Bank, were identified in court Wednesday by a provincial police officer.

The loot was never found.

Const. Miles Chapman, testifying during the fourth day of the trial, said he saw Yvon Lelodie, 31, and Jean - Claude Lalonde, 31, in a stolen 1961 blue car which he passed along a back road shortly after the robbery.

Also charged with the robbery in the holdup which involved three stolen late - model autos, mobiles are Roger Martel, 41, and Roger Poirier, 31.

Mrs. Mary Reid, a farm wife, of the Havelock area, 20 miles north of Havelock, testified she was walking along the dirt road when a blue car passed her at a high rate of speed. She identified Lalonde as the driver but said she could not identify the passenger.

Const. Chapman said he came upon Mrs. Reid a short time after the blue car had gone by. He was talking with her, he said when the car came back down the road.

The constable said he turned his cruiser around and gave chase, later finding the automobile abandoned. He said shot, prints led into the bush.

Govt. Is Facing Two Key Questions in Rail Report

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — Two basic, inter-related decisions appear to confront the cabinet in considering what to do about the transportation proposals of the MacPherson royal commission.

The main findings of the six-man commission, condensed in two volumes, were made public last April, the other released Tuesday, are incredibly complex and not easily translated into legislative action.

Boiled down to its essence, here's how some observers see the key questions as they face the cabinet:

1. Should railway freight rates be set free, subject to safeguards for "captive" traffic?

2. If so, should the commission's first volume plan for subsidized rail subsidies also be implemented?

DECISIONS AWAIT

Major policy decisions on many other recommendations in the two reports hinge on the answers to these questions.

A decision to go ahead on the two basic issues would forestall far-reaching consequences, politically and economically.

Even if the government decided to proceed, the necessary legislation would be comprehensive, involving new measures as well as sweeping amendments to existing laws governing freight rates, railway operations, subsidy assistance and so on.

The task of drafting such legislation would be neither easy nor short.

For these reasons, most observers do not anticipate hurried or immediate action in Parliament.

The commission's central argument is that competition can create a more efficient overall transportation system at lower cost than can a welter of new regulations and rules and perpetual subsidies.

Train Hits Station

EGANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—An uncoupled CNR station was demolished Wednesday when six cars of a CNR freight train left the train at Hyndford, just east of this village.

No one was injured in the accident, which blocked the branch line. The boxcars were loaded with pulp logs.

Eganville is 60 miles west of Ottawa.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — John McGovern, 23, of Hull, Que., who travels in the company of a German shepherd dog and a timber wolf is on his way to British Columbia, thanks to a lift by a motorist. McGovern has been told by Ontario depairtment of health and foreign officials to remove his wolf from the province or have it confined.

Will Study Ambulance Applications

Belleville city council in all probability will hold a special session some time next week to name an ambulance operator for the city.

The three Belleville operators now offering ambulance service have notified council they will discontinue service on January 31st.

Alderman Ross Bailey, chairman of the city finance committee said his committee would sit next Tuesday to deal with applications from four or more persons interested in setting up an ambulance service in the city. A Kingston ambulance operator and also a Trenton man are said to be interested in securing the Belleville franchise.

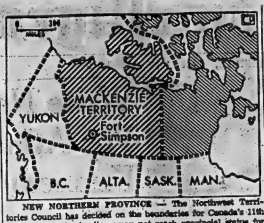
Accused Admits Blood-Stained Shirt Was His

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The case of Kenneth Raymond Summerhayes, 26, charged with capital murder in the slaying of Mrs. May Wilson, 64, is scheduled to go to the jury today.

Both the defence and crown attorneys finished up their cases late last night and Mr. Justice J. F. Donnelly said he would begin his charge to the jury this morning.

In his statement to the jury, Defence Counsel Harold Stafford said "the circumstances of this case defy all human type quality."



He said testimony in the six-day trial Summerhayes had displayed a knife in a downtown restaurant some hours before Mrs. Wilson was found dying of a stab wound had nothing to do with the case. Evidence showed that Summerhayes' knife was an entirely different type of blade than that admitted into evidence earlier in the hearing, he said.

Summerhayes was the only defence witness called.

The young dishwasher denied any connection with the slaying.

Under cross-examination by Crown Attorney Wilson, 34, was stabbed to death on the street as she was walking home from work Oct. 19.

Summerhayes identified a blood-stained shirt introduced at the trial as his, saying he had worn it "in a week or two straight" before Oct. 19 but had no idea how the blood got on the garment.

NEW NORTHERN PROVINCE — The Northwest Territories Council has decided on the boundaries for Canada's 11th province but the territory may not reach provincial status for 25 years.

By 1964 the Northwest Territories will be sliced into two giant territories as outlined on map. The eastern section is as yet unnamed.

The heavily-populated mineral-rich Mackenzie Territory, to be governed by a nine-man council, is bounded by the Yukon, B.C., Alberta and Saskatchewan. Its eastern border runs along the 106th meridian. Fort Simpson, at the junction of the Liard and Mackenzie rivers, is the tentative capital. Included in the territory are the Arctic islands of Banks and Victoria. (CP Newsmap.)

Archbishop, Rock 'n' Roller Get Together

LONDON. (AP) — Adam Faith, 21, pop - singing idol of the teen - agers and the Archbishop of York met to settle a difference of opinion about sex and all that jazz.

"Delightful young man," said the archbishop when the talk was over.

"I really must listen to more of his records," said the archbishop, Dr. Donald Coggan.

"I'd like to hear one of his sermons," said the singer.

The smoothly - talking son of a rock 'n' roller and the Church of England met in private Wednesday to record a discussion about teen - age sex and religion for a BBC television program. Earlier Faith had been locked in 2:11.8 minutes in the men's event for the four-kilometre track which had 18 competitors gates and drop of 1,000 metres. Another Austrian, Pepi Stiegler, was second with a time of 2:13.3.

DENIES CLAIM

Faith denied it and said he was not prepared to have it out with the archbishop.

Before the TV recording began — it will be screened Sunday — the archbishop and the pop - singer had a private chat for a few minutes to settle their differences.

"I think we cleared up this matter about sex," said Faith. "Then we talked about everything under the sun. I didn't argue with him. I mainly asked questions.

"He called me Adam and we left on friendly terms."

The archbishop invited Faith to his home in York and said with a smile:

"There are no differences between us now."

Canadian Girl Wins Downhill Ski Event

SAALBACH, Austria (AP)—Canada's Nancy Greene today won the girls' international downhill event on Saalbach Mountain while Martin Burger of Austria won the men's competition.

Miss Greene, of Vancouver, streaked down the 2.74-kilometre track, with nine gates over a drop of 750 metres, in two minutes and 8.1 seconds.

Linda Crutchfield of Shawinigan, Que., was third-after Austria's Edda Mueller — in 2:11.9. Nancy Holland of Montreal was sixth, with a time of 2:15.2 and Vicki Rutledge of Ottawa finished eighth in 2:13.9.

Burger was locked in 2:13.8 minutes in the men's event for the four-kilometre track which had 18 competitors gates and drop of 1,000 metres. Another Austrian, Pepi Stiegler, was second with a time of 2:13.3.

Sounds 'Slow Up' Warning To Ambulances

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. C. W. Kelley, chairman of Ottawa board of health, Wednesday sounded a "go slow" warning for speeding ambulances in congested city areas.

"They are going to kill somebody some day and it will not have one person, he said, as the board referred to the city traffic committee a letter outlining the importance of speeding ambulances.

The letter received from the Ottawa Academy of Medicine, urged the board to extend reasons for special traffic privileges granted to ambulances. The few minutes lost in conveying patients made little difference.

Dymond Wants All Meat Inspected

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Dymond said Wednesday night that if the federal government can't extend inspection to cover all meat in Ontario "then we'll have to go ahead provincially."

He told the East York Young Progressive Conservatives the aim is to have all meat in the province inspected before buyers consume it.

He said recent bad meat cases "point to the necessity" nothing has been proven yet) these cases are still before the courts" — indicate a nothing wrong with the inspection system as far as it goes.

He said those concerned were not supposed to be producing meat for human consumption and if they did, all the inspecting in the world wouldn't have caught the meat, but a policing would. "And if what we've told is true, it did."

Engineers Finish Phase Of Bridge

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) Construction engineers clasped hands 80 feet above the Niagara River in a brief ceremony marking the completion of Interstate route 190's $16,000,000 bridge Wednesday.

The symbolic ceremony took place a short time after the workers had guided a 47-foot long, 60-ton, girder into place that filled the gap in the span. The girder carried the flags of the United States and Canada as cranes jockeyed it into position.

Scheduled for completion in September, the bridge will link the New York state Thruway with the Queen Elizabeth Way into Ontario.

Comedian Left Estate Of $2,100,000

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The widow of comedian Ernie Kovacs appears to be left an estate of $2,100,000.

Actress Edie Adams, in a court petition Wednesday asking for support for their three children, said they no will has been found. She estimated her late husband's income at $160,000 a year.

The petition said Kovacs' property included $4,888 in cash, $2,200 in stocks, $100,000 in bonds, and extensive real estate holdings.

Kovacs died when his car skidded and struck a utility pole Jan. 13.

Former Interim Leader of UN Attacks Govt.

QUEBEC (CP) — A French-language lay movement to establish neutral — outside religion — schools came into being Wednesday in the Quebec legislature.

Mr. Prevost, given permission by the members to speak on behalf of the movement's countries, all over the world have, recognized that religion must be taught in schools.

"Le Mouvement Laic de Langue Francaise seeks a neutral state - supported schools which would not teach religion and which would parallel existing Roman Catholic and Protestant systems.

Mr. Prevost said in Quebec there is "absolute liberty" of education.

She said it is an accepted principle that non - Protestants have the right to withdraw their children from religious classes. The same has been the case in Roman Catholic schools since 1957.

The Jewish population of the province had been able to solve its education problems with little difficulty.

"Why all this propaganda by Le Mouvement Laic?" asked Mr. Prevost. "I do not know of one religious sect which found it necessary to make this sort of campaign to regulate its educational problem."

The family and social welfare minister, Emilien Lafrance, told the assembly more than 10 per cent of the population — about 600,000 people — are receiving some form of government aid, including school grants.

300 Gypsies Are Evicted From Woods

DARTFORD, England (Reuters) — Some 300 gypsies who gave up the wanderlust in favor of a modern Darenth Woods near here were back on the road Wednesday, evicted by the local council.

The gypsies, camped off the highway near Swanley, a southern English town, took part in a demonstration by the national assistance board here Tuesday.

They were led by Labor MP Norman Pentony, who championed the gypsies' cause in Parliament for several years.

The council descended on the encampment Saturday in a convoy of trucks and tractors to oust the gypsies.

One trailer, however, was returned to the second by its owner because its wheels were in a bad state, and the caravan left.

Dodds recently lived in the camp two weeks to protest discrimination against the gypsies. He says: "It is senseless and cruel and callous to turn these people out with nowhere to go but the streets."

But a Darenth municipal spokesman said: "Nobody cannot be expected to provide facilities for the gypsies. We have no woods but become a meeting place for campers, "and they are not all Romanies (gypsies)."

Darenth incident follows months of controversy over living sites for Britain's estimated 30,000 gypsies. Many local authorities and residents object to them out of fear of thievery and general distrust of the gypsies' alien, wandering way of life.

Though we have only half the population and far less than half the territory, we can pool our resources and resourcefulness in an open trade partnership strong enough to outstrip any challenge and strong enough to underwrite all the many enterprises around the world which the maintenance and progress of freedom require.

If we can take this step, Marxist predictions of capitalist empires warring over markets and stifling competition would be shattered for all time—Communist hopes for a victorious struggle between these two great economic giants would be frustrated—and Communist efforts to split the West would be doomed to failure.

14 Prisoners Tell Story of Guard's Killing

KINGSTON (CP)—A day and a half of questioning ended Wednesday for 14 Kingston penitentiary convicts testifying under oath in the knife-slaying of a guard.

The prisoners were chosen from among 42 who had been in jail with guard William Wentworth when he was slain in a prison dormitory Dec. 19.

The questioning, which began Tuesday, may be resumed later this week.

Assistant Crown Attorney J. E. Sampson of Brockville County said he had applied to Justice of the Peace David Mc-Lockey for a warrant "on a charge of capital murder against an inmate of Kingston penitentiary."

Wentworth, 42, of Cataraqui, Ont., was found dead at 8 a.m. in a washroom in the large dormitory where he was sleeping unarmed, nightly. He had 11 stab wounds, mostly in the chest and abdomen.

Court Quashes Conviction Of Seaman

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal Wednesday quashed the conviction of a 28 - year - old Montreal seaman who had been sentenced to 17 months in jail for assault causing bodily harm.

The court directed a verdict of acquittal be entered in the case of Joseph Joseph McGillgott, who was convicted by a Supreme Court jury at Belleville Oct. 12, 1961 in connection with the death of a fellow seaman, James Arthur Reece, 28, of Arthur.

At the trial the charge was reduced from one of capital murder.

Evidence was that Reece was drowned after a scuffle on a Port Colborne dock with McGillgott. Both were crew members of the tug James Whalen. Evidence was that Reece was drunk at the time and McGillgott admitted to having drunk 27 bottles of beer before his encounter with Reece.

McGillgott will be tried to carry Reece back to the tug after knocking him out, and that Reece slipped from his grasp into the water while McGillgott was trying to keep his head up from one shoulder to the other.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market showed signs of recovery from the doldrums that gripped it all week during light morning trading today.

The banks group advanced slightly with Montreal and Nova Scotia each ahead ½ and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce up ⅛.

Beverages were also strong. Gelds fell .39 at 32.84, base metals .17 at 206.33 and western oils .62 at 118.30. The 11 a.m. volume was 261,000 shares compared with Wednesday's 1,030,000.

Base metals were led lower by a loss of ¾ to Noranda. International Nickel advanced ¼. Only significant change in speculatives went to Northgate which dropped 55 cents to $5.70.

The stock market dipped to its lowest point in more than two months in moderate trading Wednesday.

The industrial index toppled as much as 4.37 to 390.68—its lowest point since Nov. 1 — before reviving slightly to close at 392.70.

Biggest losers as a group were banks, with Nova Scotia, Montreal, Royal, Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all off in a ¼ to 1¼ range.

Among other losers, Aluminium was off ¾, Canadian Celanese one point, Price Brothers ¾ and Moore Corporation ½.

Industrial Acceptance dropped ½ to 31¾. Earlier it had gone as low as 30 on the stock prices for 1961 - 62. Consolidated Paper and Walker - Goderham both touched new lows for 1961 - 62 before climbing slightly.

General Motors advanced 1¼ for one of the day's few significant gains. National Drug and Chemical gained 1¼ to 18½. It had gone as high as 18⅝ to a new high.

On the exchange index, golds declined .35 at 70.53, base metals 1.34 at 209.00 and western oils .53 at 118.32. Closing volume was 4,035,000 shares compared with Thursday's 4,064,000.

Base metals were led lower by Noranda's 1⅛ drop, in spectacularly. Northgate added 13 cents at $6.25 and Lake Dufault 2 cents to $6.90.

Geo. Wishart Retires After Long Service

Member of the Dominion Entomological Service at Belleville since the local laboratory was established in 1939, Mr. George Wishart, Dufferin Ave., has retired after 38 years' service with the department.

For the past four years a member of city council, Mr. Wishart has been active for many years in municipal work. Prior to being elected to council he served for 12 years as member of the Belleville Public School Board and later on the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

He has also been active in other fields and for the past four years has been a city representative on the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Alderman and Mrs. Wishart will continue to make their home in Belleville.

"We consider Belleville our home now", Mrs. Wishart stated today.

"Actually my husband seems busier than ever, even though he is officially retired".

Town Destroyed By Mutinous Congolese

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—A British officer returned here today with the only Belgian missionary who survived the New Year's Day massacre at Kongolo in Northern Katanga and said that most of the town had been destroyed.

Maj. Dick Lawson also reported to the United Nations here that he believed 22 Roman Catholic missionaries had been killed on New Year's Day by mutinous Congolese troops—not 19 as originally thought.

Lawson reached Kongolo two days ago and returned here today with Father Jules Daumont, the only missionary who survived the massacred when the Congolese troops shot and butchered the priests.

Lawson reported that the town of Kongolo was destroyed and most of the inhabitants had fled into the bush.

STILL AT MISSION

He said three Congolese priests and about 30 Congolese nuns still were at the Holy Spirit Mission, Kongolo and were not in danger.

He was not able to travel to Sola, where another Roman Catholic mission of white fathers and Franciscan sisters was reported overrun by troops, but said according to reports "there were no loss of life there."

Lawson reported that Congolese troops responsible for the massacre were undisciplined "and devoid of training". Most of them were boys between 17 and 18 years old.

U. N. troops said Wednesday that about 2,000 mutinous Congolese troops were in the Kongolo area. They were attacked at Kindu several days ago, and Leopoldville spokesmen for the UN reconnaissance planes over Kongolo last weekend.

Bad Weather Affecting Fish Harvest

Field officers have reported very poor catches of fish by commercial operators in Lake Ontario waters. Drifting ice on the lake makes fishing conditions difficult and perilous. Fishermen operating through the ice on the Bay of Quinte have had similar reports to show and prevailing gales. Elsewhere, the hoop-net fishermen are encountering low waters and are unable to set their gear.

Anglers are making use of the extended season for pike and pickerel. This source of recreation is being enjoyed by many thousands but indications the fish population is under-exploited. Conservation Officer Claude Winters says that Lake Ontario anglers report seeing many of the fish under the ice, but only a few are taking the bait.

United Appeal Presents Y With Cheque

As part of the local "Y's" observance of National YMCA Week, members of its Board of Directors were guests at luncheon on Wednesday to the executive of the Belleville United Appeal.

President John C. McDonald described to the gathering of some 23 the "Y's" year round way regarding construction of a new building this spring. Reports were also presented by the general secretary, D. Dismantling and the treasurer, Hugh Murray.

In thanking their hosts for their kindness, Mr. J. J. Trudeau, president of the United Appeal, said that Mr. McDonald with a cheque for $10,000 in payment of the "Y's" share of the initial distribution of funds raised by the local United Appeal campaign for the 1962 operations of the participating agencies.

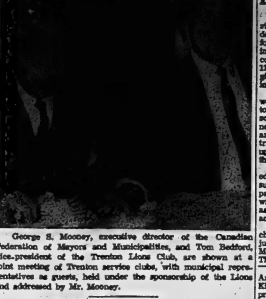
May Call School Tenders In March

Tenders for the construction of the proposed new classroom addition to the Quinte Secondary School are expected to be called some time in March, it was noted today by an official of the Hastings and Quinte High School District Board.

Architects' plans for the new school addition, expected to be ready for 100 per cent by the senior governments, were approved at a special meeting of the board this week and have been forwarded to Toronto for department approval.

The proposed new addition would be of two storey construction and would slightly increase the College Street length of the present building and then extend south and west forming a courtyard in the centre between the old and new structures.

The addition would up the school enrolment capacity to about 1,200 students. Estimated cost of the building is about $900,000.



Included in the plans are seven regular classrooms, one typing room, two laboratory rooms, five shop rooms, a drafting room, a library, a guidance room, cafeteria extension and the required general wood-working shop and music room.

CHOP PERSON TERMED

BEIRUT (AP) — A military court sentenced three Lebanese newspaper men Wednesday to prison for articles "affecting the morale of the armed forces" after the abortive coup d'etat New Year's Day. The director of the news agency Akhbar Elyom received four months and two days and editor of the newspaper As Ahams was sentenced to three months each.

George B. Mooney, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, and vice-president of the Trenton Lions Club, are shown at a joint meeting of Trenton service clubs, with municipal representatives as guests, held under the sponsorship of the Lions and addressed by Mr. Mooney.

Mayor's Federation Director Predicts Canada May Turn To Single Tax Upon Income

TRENTON — George S. Mooney, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, last night advanced theories of the "shape of things to come", for upwards of 175 representatives of Trenton area municipal governments and members of the town's service clubs. Speaking at the Legion Hall, he called at Canada's present tax structure antiquated and mid-Victorian.

"Municipal governments are operating within a straight jacket", Mr. Mooney told his audience. "The revenue sources available to such governments are rigid and limited. In spite of increased property values, there is a marked resistance to higher taxes on the part of property owners".

Mr. Mooney said that it was entirely possible that this country might come to a one-tax system . . . a tax levied against annual income collected at national level and distributed to municipalities as the need for public works, improved and extended school facilities, expanded hospital programs and the like arose.

"We'd all be better off", the speaker said.

Conceding that the Fathers of Confederation had been "pretty far-sighted", Mr. Mooney said that these men who had brought Canada to nationhood in 1867 could not possibly have foreseen the growth of the country, the "cars, TVs, radios and so on in sham areas. Everyone has a telephone".

ONCE ADEQUATE

Mr. Mooney said that at the time of the confederation, sources of revenue, allocated to municipal governments, had been reasonably adequate.

In the progression of the 30's, municipal governments had experienced a shrinking of revenue. Hundreds and thousands of people were shifted on to the relief. Municipal works and maintenance piled up in an ever-mounting backlog of "things to be done."

During the Second World War municipalities marked time while brought forward the National Government.

Since the end of the war, Canada's economy has experienced an unparalleled expansion. Mr. Mooney said, but increased municipal revenue had been offset by pyramiding wages and costs of building, which had "kept about a decimated value of the dollar".

Mr. Mooney contended that the present system of municipal taxation was inadequate to cope with the needs of the times. Each town and city must give consideration to sewage improvement programs, expansion of school facilities, improvement of sewage disposal systems, housing, and civic design or "face ruin".

"Are we getting ready for the future?" Mr. Mooney asked.

NOT WORRIED ABOUT FUTURE

"If not", said the speaker, "am not worried about the future. The world is going though a crisis unparalleled in history, but it's a gross oversimplification to think the problem up as Communism versus the West. Whatever comes out of the confusion of our times, I venture to say that there will be some measure of integration of the two factions within the next 20 years . . . if we can prevent war . . ."

Mr. Mooney said that the real measure of a good society was to be found in the "little towards community life of the citizens" . . . "greater communities.

"And broadly speaking," said Mr. Mooney, "Trenton is 'typical' of smaller communities in Canada".

Mr. Mooney was introduced by Tom Bedford, first vice-president of the Trenton Lions Club and thanked by Earl Mackenbach, 3rd. vice-president.

SPONSORED BY LIONS

Last night's banquet was the first of a series of joint service club meetings of service club members and civic governments to be presented by the Lions Club. Annually, the Trenton Lions Club plays host to civic leaders, but this year it was decided to combine this evening with the Lions' regular meeting night. Members of Trenton's municipal and Professional Women's Club also attended the dinner.

30 Students To Take Part In Contest

TRENTON — Friday night, starting at 8 o'clock, 30 students, contestants in the search for cash prizes and certificates in the annual public speaking contest, sponsored by Branch 150 of the Royal Canadian Legion. The contest is to be held in the Trenton Legion Hall.

Competing in four groups, will be students from Trenton's public, high and separate schools. Friday night's winners will go on to Zone 2 level and may go on to Legion district and area events, winding up at the provincial finals in the spring.

Each student has been allowed 10 minutes talk on any subject and all material is prepared by the contestants, who will be judged on such points as delivery, memory, timing and stance.

Legionnaire Esli Donaldson is chairman of the event and the judges are Miss Hazel Farley-Mrs. Harold Campbell and Thomas Spear.

Lde, president of the Trenton Kiwanis Club; D. McMullen, president of the Trenton Rotary Club; Mrs. Sprague, international counsellor and secretary of the Trenton Lions' Club; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Sarjeant, F.M. Parker, jr., chairman of the Trenton Parks Board; L.G. Phaney, chairman of the Trenton Board of Education; Charles Hinds, chairman of the Trenton Public Utilities commission; Ernest Craddock, president of Trenton Branch 210, Royal Canadian Legion; John Kerr, Mrs. Ernest Cruickshank, George Kempf, (program chairman) Wm Short and Ross Forster; Al Weaver, past Lt. Gov. of Kiwanis; Legionaires O. C. Hubbs, Ken Wright; Douglas McMaster, secretary of Trenton Lions; Harmon Montgomery, reeve of Ameliasburg Township.

Reeve H. Harmon Montgomery of Sidney and Councillor D. McDonald of Trenton were unable to attend the dinner.

Following Mr. Mooney's address, Mayor MacDonald and the service club members, civic representatives and others as guests that they constituted a representative group of community-minded citizens of the Trenton area and that he would depend upon them to set aside some time in the coming year to help their community.

R. D. McDonald and Howard Aziz thanked the Trenton Lions for their hospitality on behalf of their respective clubs, and George Kempf thanked the members of the Trenton Legion Ladies' Auxiliary who had catered to the banquet.

Lion president Robert Reid brought the meeting to a close by thanking the members of the host club. Mr. Reid announced the meeting of the Trenton Community Co-ordination Council for suggesting an annual inter-service club meeting. The first such get-together will be held next Mr. Reid especially mentioned the efforts of the council secretary, R. B. Smith.

Interesting Implications

The suggestion by Hon. Robert Macaulay, Ontario's minister of energy resources, that Donald MacDonald, provincial leader of the New Democratic Party, may be guilty of contravening the Legislative Assembly Act on conflicts of interest is nothing if not intriguing.

Mr. MacDonald, on being told of the minister's remarks, said he was receiving a $6,000 supplementary salary as party leader from the general revenues of the party. Mr. Macaulay's contention is that, because part of these funds is supplied by union contributions, Mr. MacDonald might be construed as being paid to represent the unions' interests in the legislature.

This seems to us so far drawing an unusually long bow, though in many cases as small as Cupid's compared with Mr. MacDonald's suggestion that it is analagous to saying that Mr. Macaulay is in conflict of interest because his salary is paid from government revenues to which breweries contribute through taxes.

However, the revelation that Mr. MacDonald might be construed as being paid to represent the unions' interests in the legislature.

This seems to us so far drawing an unusually long bow, though in many cases as small as Cupid's compared with Mr. MacDonald's suggestion that it is analagous to saying that Mr. Macaulay is in conflict of interest because his salary is paid from government revenues to which brewe

PRIZES FOR HOBBIES

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville are donating prizes to the Scout, Cub, Guide and Brownie who submits the best feeding station for birds at the Hobby Show. This is in line with their interest in young people and their conservation program.

Boys and girls competing for the prizes must place the feeding stations out of doors and give a written report on their observations of the birds who stop for lunch. The feeding station together with the report will be judged when displayed at the Hobby Show. Ask your teacher for further information.

HOLY ROSARY CUBS

Cubs S. Meagher and L. Dezan have been promoted to Sixers. Cubs T. Meagher and R. Osborne are now Seconders. Cub M. Peck gained the Kim First Star. Proficiency badges were awarded to the following Cubs: W. Curtis, Pete and Tremblayers; M. Tingley, Collectors and Tyrol. R. Lyon, Collectors and Tyrol. R. Peck, Artist and Tremblayers. Two new chums were invested, M. Meagher and R. Lazenby. C. Peck and P. May have joined the Pack as New Chums and Cub Randy Adams has transferred from the 3rd St. Michael's.

CUB SANDY MAY

Sandy picked up the Pets Collectors and Teamplayers badges and now cannot get any further because he has all the cub badges. A wonderful achievement for any boy and makes his Leaders very proud of him. Our heartiest congratulations to you Sandy.

The 15th played the 16th Cubs to a 0-0 tie in a hockey game. Several near misses and loads of fun, but no score. A.C.M. Jack Harris took the boys to Tweedsmuir for this memorable game. Hot chocolate and doughnuts were served by the ladies of both groups. Jim Hultquist was referee.

1962 ELECTION

Mr. W. Smith was elected group chairman, and wife secretary J. Hogan and treasurer J. Adams assures the 13th a good working committee for the coming year.

CANNIFTON — CORBYVILLE

The entire Troop has enrolled for St. John Ambulance courses under A.D.C. Lillian Ashley. It would be a wonderful thing if we could encourage all Belleville Scouts to follow this example.

TWEET-TWEET, AND THEN—

We read in the Victoria Times of a public school teacher herding her class through the security-conscious National Art Gallery, Ottawa used a whistle to control her flock.

The first shrill blast brought more action than she expected.

In the words of a spectator, "All hell broke loose. Guards came running from every direction."

We presume it would be good judgment if Scouters under similar circumstances will act like the bad guys in the western. Instead of leaving your guns at the door yourself leave your whistles outside.

ADJOURN HEARING

ROME (Reuters) — A case brought by the public prosecutor to annul the Mexican marriage of Italian film star Sophia Loren and producer Carlo Ponti was adjourned Wednesday until March 26. The public prosecutor says the Mexican marriage is void because Ponti is bound by a previous Italian marriage.

Black State Of Transkei Gets New Govt.

CAPE TOWN (AP) — South African Premier Hendrik Verwoerd's plan to give local self-government to a black state of Transkei was attacked Wednesday by opponents of his racial segregation policies.

Verwoerd told Parliament Tuesday that the 2,000,000 Negroes of the Transkei area south of Durban on the Indian Ocean will be given a "wholly black" parliament and cabinet next year with authority over agricultural, educational, land, highway and other local affairs.

Foreign and defense matters and certain aspects of the administration of justice will be handled by the all - white South African government.

Transkei is the first of several bantustans, or local self-governing black states, which Verwoerd plans under his apartheid or racial separation policy.

Dr. Bernard Friedman, leader of the Transvaal Progressive Party, said Verwoerd's announcement was "a cynical device" to turn aside foreign criticism of South Africa's racial policies.

MUST PROVE IT

Alan Paton, titular president of the small multi - racial Liberal Party, said the security of Verwoerd's plan would be proved "when police and troops cease pushing Africa (Negro) people around."

Albert Luthuli, the Negro Nobel Peace Prize winner, said that so - called self - government for Transkei is bad in principle and cannot work in practice. He said he opposed "this division of South Africa. I stand for a united country."

A major problem of the new state will be to make it economically self - supporting. Some prominent business leaders doubt that efforts to set up industries in the state to supply employment will prove successful. The 16,000 square miles Transkei area has a population of 2,065,770, nearly all blacks.

Cutting School Lunch Hours Brings Reaction

BARRIE (CP)—Barrie school officials, who advocated shorter lunch hours for their students because "girls from the country are being picked up by young chaps," said Wednesday public reaction to a routine request" has "grown out of all proportion."

Officials said country girls are no more likely to be picked up than city girls.

Wednesday night the Barrie district collegiate board approved a request initiated by students that asked the 90-minute student lunch period be cut to 40 minutes effective in September.

The request said "country girls are being picked up during the long lunch period by young chaps and complaints had been received that there was trespassing on private property near the school and problems with students downtown."

J. A. Hamilton, principal of Barrie North Collegiate, and T. T. Bowman, principal of Barrie Central Collegiate, said Wednesday the question has been taken out of its order of importance.

"The point about the pickups was away down on the list," Mr. Hamilton said, "and this represents a minor reason for the change." He said he had received complaints from a few rural parents asking him to keep their daughters at school during the noon hour, but he explained this is impossible.

"This move is a natural development for the schools due to the increase in enrolment."

He added that the Barrie collegiates are among the last in the area to shorten lunch periods.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics, this week: Popular conceptions about aging and religion, adoption and motherhood and complications of childbirth.

AGING AND RELIGION

There is a popular impression that the older persons grow the more religious they become.

To test the validity of the belief, Dr. H. L. Orbach studied the relationship between age, religion and church activity in a cross-section of 5,211 adults in the Detroit metropolitan area between the ages of 21 and 84.

He found "no adequate proof to substantiate the view that people become more religious as they age," and said his studies suggest that older people's religious behavior "is determined by more direct social and cultural factors."

Another popular assumption is that if a childless woman adopts a baby, she vastly improves her chances of giving birth later.

To test this possibility, Dr. A. L. Banks, R. N. Rutherford and W. A. Coburn of Seattle, Wash., made follow-up studies of 31 infertile couples who were treated at a fertility clinic and later adopted one or more babies.

They reported in the publication fertility and sterility that only one woman in the group subsequently gave birth to a child. They concluded that the belief that normal pregnancy frequently follows adoption is false.

Another general medical belief has been that a mother who has had many babies must expect complications in the birth of another child.

Two pediatricians from Israel, Drs. K. Fuchs and A. Peretz, studied the records of 23,238 deliveries between 1948 and 1958 at the Rambam Government Hospital, Haifa. Of this total, 1,971 deliveries were to mothers known medically as grand multiparae—those who had babies seven or more times in the past.

Their report, published in Obstetrics and Gynecology, showed:

There was no greater incidence of complications in the multiparas group; there was not one mother death in the group; and the infant mortality was no greater for this group than for the others.

Contact Club Plans Social Evening

Trudy Sands thanked the girls for their help with the rummage sale.

Margaret Deck gave her final report on the membership campaign.

Barbara Jones handed out wool for the layette parcel and the parcel will also include toddlers' clothing.

As January 29th is the annual vestry meeting of the church, there will be no regular meeting of the club and, it is hoped that as many members as possible will attend the vestry meeting.

February 8th, will be a social evening convened by Beverly Shannock's group.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Gerry Carter, Marion Novobotsem and Barbara Bertrim.

Club Activities

HARMONY STUDIO CLUB

The Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. Emily Veley last Wednesday.

Reports, announcements and offering were received.

Best wishes from the club were extended to Wayne Vance, who would be trying his A.R.C.T. examination in Hamilton.

Linda Nostrea and Debbie Bertrim were promoted from grade one to grade two. They each played two numbers and later in the program were presented with a card of recognition by Mrs. Veley.

Susan Halsey assisted with the program by playing "Minuet" by G. H. Stolzel and "Sonatina" by Jakob Schmitt, as did Michael Bradshaw playing "Night on the River" by D. Kabalevsky and Vickie Hart playing "Bourree" by Handel.

MUSICAL CONTEST

Mrs. Harold Hancock conducted a musical term contest. Mr. Ralph Bertrim one of the parents, present, was declared the winner.

Grade eight students presented the following program: Stephen Pittendrigh, rendering, "Air" by Henry Purcell; Carolyn Shoney "Rondo" by Kuhlau; Grace Hancock, "Tranquillo" by G. F. Handel and Patricia Shoney "Sonata" by Beethoven.

Mrs. Don Shorey served light refreshments.

Bemersyde IODE Enjoys Turkey Dinner

CAMPBELLFORD — Forty-four members of Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E., enjoyed a turkey dinner at the home of Mrs. D. Mayhew.

Following the delicious meal, the business portion of the meeting was opened in the usual manner with the Regent, Mrs. Helen Vice, in the chair. Reports were heard from the secretary and treasurer and Mrs. Vice read a paper from headquarters concerning the work of the order at Christmas.

Mrs. Fox, Services at Home and Abroad convener, reported that boxes of fruit had been made up and delivered to patients in the hospital and nursing homes. She also read a list of those who had turned in their knitted articles for display.

BIBLE PRESENTED

Education convener, Mrs. W. Kingston, reported on the presentation of the Bible for the high school auditorium.

The committee for the I.O.D.E. dinner was appointed and Mrs. R. Craighead consented to take charge of the event. Another committee for the dance to be held in February was appointed, with Mrs. D. Carswell as convener.

Mrs. E. Steele thanked Mrs. Mayhew for opening her home to the members and after the meeting was brought to a close in the usual manner, a social hour of games and contests was enjoyed by all.

MONTREAL (CP) — A cameraman trade mission from the Hebrides is seeking Canadian investment in the weaving industry in those islands north of Scotland. Catriona MacIver of Lewis in the home of Harris Tweed, is secretary of a newly-formed island industries association.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Anyone familiar with current trends in juvenile delinquency is aware of the tremendous number of youngsters from so-called good homes who are running afoul of the law, or who come very close to breaking it. It was once supposed that prospective candidates for delinquency were bred "across the railroad tracks," and that the products of "good homes" and "fine neighborhoods" made good citizens. It's time we read more of the signs of our times: increasingly, social offenders are landing into trouble straight out of comfortable and loving, middle-class homes.

Instead of feeling guilty for not giving them enough love, parents should ask themselves: are we giving our "kids" too much? Do they sometimes have it too good, for anybody's good? This feeling is rampant and widely trumpeted that all one has to do is to name his problem, sit back, and love will magically solve it. For blind love is the "saving religion" of modern men. Contemporary writing is filled with the half truths of the "love cult." Archibald MacLeish is not quite certain of God's justice, but he is sure that J.B. can go on building his destroyed world, for only he will learn to love. William Inge and Paddy Chayefsky feed their audiences through three acts in which no villians appear. There are only heroes who fail to realize themselves. As the curtain is about to fall, they invariably show their capacity to love; difficulties melt away as love conquers all.

None can have an argument with love — neither religionist nor secularist, sociologist nor psychologist. Without love, the world would not go round. Without love, would stand still, vitality would be sapped. Even Bathsil in the "love cult" which leads us astray for it suggests that love is all, and turns our attention away from other equally-important needs of man — the laws of ethical behavior, the immovable moral obligations we have to society, the necessity for personal compromise in suppressing our private passions in order to achieve the large social good. The "pursuit of happiness" turns out to be the principal goal of the modern love-worshippers. Which, of course, is not best at all. But the essential question still perplexes: whose happiness?

The worship of love has blinded many parents to their true role as teachers, weighted them down with a carload of unearned guilt feelings, thus preventing them from being really effective guides. Frantically, overloving, everloving parents may be more blameworthy than we suppose for some of the very problems the New Psychology has been busy laying at the door of the so-called loveless. For, as there are no really bad people in life, so there are no villains at home, say the learned writers and teachers — only parents who have not learned to love their children. Mothers are preached at, told to "relax" and enjoy their children," yet are simultaneously scolded by the same mentors, if they deny their children what they want.

On balance, our worship of the love-cult can cause us more difficulties than it claims to overcome. We must stop worrying about giving our children all the things we did not have. Instead, we should check our own childhood to recapture from an objective perspective some of the things we did have. Then we may transmit a more realistic, more integrated way of life to children who will know where they are going, who will believe that we are right, and not fear that people will call us loveless parents. Our children need to feel wanted. But, if we fritter away our moral authority as the price we pay for love, we will soon discover how superfluous we really are.

Alpha Lambda Finalizes B-G Dance Plans

Following a short business meeting, Mrs. J. Thompson took charge of the program for the evening entitled, "Self Analysis".

After a brief talk by Mrs. Thompson, all members participated in a stimulating discussion and everyone greatly enjoyed listening to the personal views of other members, besides expressing their own views points on several suggested questions concerning the subject.

The meeting continued with dance convener, Mrs. N. Desmond, reporting on the final plans for the "Black and Gold Ball" to be held at the Club Commodore this week.

The highlight evening was brought to a close with refreshments, served by hostesses Mrs. Simonds, assisted by co-hostess Mrs. N. Desmond.

Missionary Tells of Work In Angola, Africa, at M.C.

Three Baptist Women's Mission Circle met in Victoria Ave. Baptist Church, Tuesday evening, to hear Miss Nancy Mitchell, Reg. N., whose home is in Lindsay and who has recently returned from the Canadian Baptist Mission Field in Angola, Africa.

The new president of the Vota Vita Mission Circle, Mrs. Nellie Burn, welcomed all present as well as any newcomers.

The Scripture reading was from II Corinthians, 6-15 inclusive.

Solos consisting of Mrs. Shirley Wigand, Mrs. Carol Soltys and Miss Marjorie Hales rendered a hymns.

LIFE MEMBERSHIPS

Two members of the Vota Vita M.C., Mrs. Nellie Burns and Mrs. Grace Pearson, were presented with life memberships for their valued work in the group for the past number of years.

The president of the Senior Women's M.C., Mrs. Hattie Neal, introduced Miss Nancy Mitchell Reg. N., as guest speaker of the evening. Prior to being accepted as a missionary nurse in Angola, Nancy had to spend a number of months in Scotland where she took a course in midwifery and then to Portugal for a year to learn the Portuguese language.

In 1957 the Canadian Baptist Missions added to their overseas missions five stations in the northwestern part of Angola. Miss Mitchell, being fresh from her training school, was one of the first to enlist for service there.

RUNNING SORE

Nancy Mitchell described the situation now existing in Angola as a sore that started when the Portuguese colonized Angola back in 1482, and which has grown steadily ever since.

Last summer missionaries were forced to evacuate all newly-established missions except two centres, at Quimpondo and Calenda, where only three Canadian Baptist families, including a medical doctor and his wife, are still allowed to remain.

Over 150,000 natives north of the Congo have fled into the Republic of Belgian Congo. There have been close to 40,000 Africans killed in Angola in the past four months.

Miss Mitchell stated that the standard of educatin there is only at primary school level. There are no high schools at all.

In this area only boys are allowed to go to school. The great purpose of missions was to bring the educational standards to at least high school level as well as encouraging spiritual growth, giving medical care, improved farming and living conditions in the smaller communities. The work will be retarded once more until the political situation improves.

Nancy Mitchell illustrated her address with many colored slides depicting the work where she was in charge of the Quimpondo Maternity Clinic where hundreds of Africans were treated every week.

Mrs. Irene Woodcock thanked the speaker for her address after which three individual mission groups met for a short business session and the refreshments and a social time together.

Mr., Mrs. Wilfred Clare Mark 40 Years of Married Life

Forty years ago Miss Olive Alberta Walker and Wilfred Rutledge Clare, attended by Mildred Conley, the present Mrs. R. C. Gilmour, and Harry C. Bey, and Mr. Harry Walker of Cortyville, were married on the morning of December 28th, 1921, in Hamilton parsonage by the late Reverend E. Farncomb, and, on December 28th, 1961, commemorated this occasion.

Following the honeymoon spent at Kincardine, they took up residence on the bridegroom's farm on the 9th concession of Thurlow in Hastings County, where they have resided ever since.

They have three children: Mrs. Alexander (Anne) Leslie of Scarborough; Mrs. Derek (Norma) Henry of Kingston, and George Clare of Cortyville. There are also seven grandchildren, Stephen, David and Kendall Clare; Ian and Hugh Leslie, and Lynne and Susan Henry.

Mrs. Alex Leslie, Ian and Hugh of Scarborough; Mrs. Walter Oke of Bowmanville, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Clare spent the dinner hour on Thursday with their son, George, and family.

SURPRISE PARTY

During the evening about 50 relatives gave them a surprise party, with Mr. Frank Walker of Belleville, acting as chairman for a program of readings, instrumentals and duets, provided by their nieces and nephews.

A unique address was composed and read by Mrs. Harry Walker, "This is Your Life, Olive and Wilfred," telling of many amazing happenings of the 40 years.

The bride and bridegroom were presented with a radio from the relatives and a silverne suite from the family. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clare expressed their appreciation for the lovely gifts and for the kind attention shown them.

During the serving of refreshments, the bride and bridegroom, brothers and sisters, and Mr. Will Casey were seated at a lace-covered table, centred by a large wedding cake, and a delightfully decorated anniversary cake, a gift from their oldest daughter, Mrs. Leslie.

MEMBERSHIP

The initial meeting of the new organization followed with Mrs. Mildred Wrightsman presiding. Mrs. Harry McAdam received for the membership committee. The five life members and 36 paid members received their charter cards in the new organization.

The meetings will be held the second Thursday of each month and the program committee is arranging the plans.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe presided over the program and used the devotional booklet prepared by Joan and Blair Coleman. The devotional theme was "The day of beginning again."

DEVOTIONAL

The call to worship centred around the theme, "Wait in the Lord and He shall strengthen thine heart," and Mrs. Donald Knight assisted in the responsive reading of Psalm 90. Mrs. Harry McAdam read an article in the new United Church Women's organization, Mrs. Thomas Sarles sang, "The Stranger of Galilee". Mrs. Stanley Williams read a newspaper article about Grace Lake, newly appointed editor of the United Church Woman, in the Observer. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver gathered offering after which it was dedicated. Mrs. Sales introduced the study packet which included the main study book "Signals for the Sixties" and programs for each chapter. The reading book "Hands of Time" which contains ten stories of interest and the devotional book, also a packet of the ten United Church programs with special services for Easter and Christmas were on display.

Mothers Will Take Part in March of Dimes

WELLINGTON — During the week of January 29th, Wellington mothers will be calling on the citizens of Wellington and vicinity for their contributions for the new March of Dimes, the proceeds of which will go to the rehabilitation foundation for disabled. Through these contributions, help is given to bring the light of hope to those who out for a trick or treat, do not have to look to the public for help.

Chairman for Wellington mothers is Mrs. H. Pierson; captains, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, Mrs. S. Yount and Mrs. H. Earl Volunteer mothers are Mrs. R. Moore, Mrs. C. Broadbridge, Mrs. W. Foster, Mrs. A. Ogilvy, Mrs. F. Harris, Mrs. G. Bovaird, Mrs. B. Smith, Mrs. S. Tripp, Mrs. J. Mercer, Mrs. H. Dick, Mrs. R. Head, Mrs. G. Parks, Mrs. R. Blower, Mrs. V. Vanderweiler and Mrs. A. Hudson.

Arlene C. — He doesn't make me work, he lets me.

* * *

Dolly R. — The minute my sister Arlene's second child was born she got to work on the nursery school at the age of 3, and by the time it was 5 it was. That's not so bad, but it led to a full-time job a year later.

As a result Arlene is running herself ragged. For five years now she's been trying to keep house, bring up her children and bring home the bacon. And it's very peculiar to see a husband home most of the time while his wife carried himself more, he could earn whatever part of their income Arlene brings in. It would permit her to be a real homemaker.

Arlene C. — I'm for the children. But I can't do anything for Arlene. Her husband should be his wife's job.

* * *

Arlene C. — Dolly has it all wrong. If anyone has a kick coming it's Charlie, my husband. Hold on, Dolly, while I take my work and he lets me carry at it. He doesn't make me do it!

Charlie's a salesman and he can work as long and hard as he likes, plugging away at his line and prospects. We get it over and we decided to try things this way — he gets his money when he calls, I get mine at school, and he's home early to welcome them and get dinner started. The money I make adds up roughly to what Charlie would make if he worked a full day. We use part of it for a twice-a-week maid.

It's not easy. But I enjoy the arrangement, and Charlie doesn't complain. He deserves credit from Dolly, not criticism.

* * *

The Council: Not caring how things look to Dolly and others, Arlene and Charlie are to be congratulated with how things are — and they're fine, we think! Their arrangement may be S.O.P. (Standard Operating Procedure) in many homes a few years hence when it is prudent for the wife and woman of the children in high gear will be only 35 years old, with decades of life ahead. Mrs. Arlene shows one pleasant way to fill it.

Far from being the sluggard Dolly envisages, Arlene's husband is a fine, fully acceptable type of man, secure enough within himself to approve of a working wife. His own ego is sufficiently well nourished to permit Arlene the pleasure of feeding her own ego through self-expression. Nothing sadder of a guy, Arlene's a lucky doll.

Charlie's smart, too. In fact Dr. Leslie R. Hobbies of Johns Hopkins University has this advice for all men: "Pick a girl who'll go on working. Work, like himself, is very important because the greatest danger to marriage in everyday situations is boredom." Charlie is helping Arlene from repetitive housework. Now, she may not end up with more money, but he'll have more humming, purring and a happier home and wife to show for it.

Dolly forgets one fact of life that Arlene and her husband recognize, namely: a home, a husband, a child can be neglect. And whether a woman is there or not. If she's chafing under the yoke, she's taking it out on them in hidden, or even open, ways. If she's happy earning her keep on the outside, the necessary neglect may not be as permanently harmful as that of the resentful homemaker.

Thanks to her husband, obviously a creative person himself, Arlene becomes a happy homemaker by not being one too much! She fills her potential through outside work. Dolly may enjoy filling hers by staying home (or does she?). At any rate Arlene's move to be envied than pitied!

Legion Branch Installs 1962 Officers

At the regular meeting of the Col. Peter Wills Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, held Monday evening at the Legion Hall, the 1962 officers were duly installed by the president of Branch 99 and assisted by his Sgt.-at-Arms.

Re-elected candidates who were paraded by Fred Hodge and Lyn Jefferson, take the oath of office, included; "Bill" Kirby, president; Betty Dale, vice-president; Kathy Smith, treasurer; Olive Schmidt, secretary; Janet MacDonald, Sgt.-at-Arms; and "Kenny" Chambers, executive. Serving a first term on the executive body are: Elizabeth Robinson and Hilda Olsen.

A member who had visited England, Doreen Burney, was welcomed back and asked to continue as membership chairman.

Following the acceptance of Mrs. Thomsina's application for membership, she was initiated by the president, with the assistance of the vice-president.

Among the year-end reports heard by "Billy" Kirby were; auditors Hodgins, Donnell's Barriage, and Clare Jamieson, welfare activities by Elizabeth Robinson, financial summary from Kathy Smith, property listing by Olive Schmidt, who also composed a poetic resume of the Branch's accomplishments to be read by the president.

Les Digby told the group of a further plans Branch is under for utilizing the new hall, which includes a weekly social evening and a Saturday night dance. He asked for volunteer helpers for both enterprises stating the proceeds would go to the building fund.

Choir Aux. Plans Several Social Events

WELLINGTON — St. Andrew's Choir Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. S. Tripp, recently with ten members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Tripp, opened the meeting in the usual manner and Mrs. Durand, the secretary read the minutes. A discussion on the Farm Forum was held which followed. A thank-you letter was received from the Library Board and Mrs. Moore read thank-you notes from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Pierson, Mrs. Ian MacDonald, Mrs. Hood, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Foster. Mrs. Ogilvy reported receipts of money spent for Christmas giving. It was moved that $15 be donated for further sick fund necessities, and it was also decided to cater for the Boy Scouts banquet to be held March 23rd. An amount of $2.50 was received from St. Andrew's choir for the purchase of gas for the church. Mrs. J. Calder sang and Mrs. Thompson replenished the birthday box.

PRAYER PROGRAM

Mrs. Jackson presented the program for this meeting which included a poem of the month by Mrs. J. Calder, and current events given by several members. Mrs. Jackson replied to Mrs. Harry Pierson, chairman of the March of Dimes for this district, who had attended the convention in Toronto, recently. She told of all the uses the money collected, with the primary use being rehabilitation. Mrs. Durand, Mrs. Bess Yount and Mrs. Pierson contributed an interesting quotation and answer sorted, after which, Mrs. Pierson called for volunteers for marching mothers to canvass the village on the night of January 30th and several of the W.I. members volunteered their services.

Mrs. Jackson expressed appreciation to Mrs. Pierson and Mrs. Yount.

Mrs. Hood and Mrs. Yount sang a lovely duet entitled "Whispering Hope", and Mrs. F. Harris gave a reading, "New Year's Resolutions". Mrs. Jackson read a short paper on how the Ontario Hydro Blooms, since the Women's Institute, 65 years ago. Mrs. Ogilvy and Mrs. Thompson gave reports on the training school they had attended recently and it was decided to hold the extension course on meat and how to buy it, and how to cook it, which is to be held every Thursday afternoon for a period of 5 nos.

A contest followed with Mrs. J. Dick the winner, and Mrs. Jackson held the lucky cup so was presented with a prize.

Group one served delicious refreshments.

Fresh Doughnuts

by Mary Moore

The one extra gratifying thing about a fresh batch of doughnuts is that within less than half an hour of cooling them you can be eating them.

These are giving 500 takes from batches to fry and one minute after that you can pop one in your mouth and the surrounding mouths that are agape.

A doughnut making spree compares somewhat to popping corn for it can be part of the entertainment and the snack of the evening — with coffee for adults and milk for children.

These are easy. An amateur adult cook can make them for I am going to describe every step in detail.

I do not recommend encouraging children to fry doughnuts because the fat is so hot and consequently dangerous.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Pineapple Juice; Eleanor's Macaroni Casserole - (see Monday); Celery and Mushroom Normandy (see Wednesday); Blueberry Cobbler; Pouring Cream or Rich Milk; Tea.

SUNDAY

Chicken Aequinalt (see Tuesday); Spinach with Mushroom Cream Sauce; Combined Cauliflowerets and Carrot Chunks with Chopped Parsley Individual Salads of Dressed Greens on Lettuce with Sliced Avocado; French Dressing; Caramel Meringue Pie (see Friday); Coffee.

LEGION BUTTERMILK DOUGHNUTS

2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons soft shortening, ¾ cup thick buttermilk, 3½ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon mace, 2 tablespoons grated lemon rind.

Beat eggs well. Beat in sugar and shortening. Stir in buttermilk. Sift dry ingredients together. Add lemon rind and beat until smooth. Turn dough, half of it at a time, on well floured board or counter and lightly floured. Shape into round and roll out gently, 1-3 inch thick. Set fat or oil (3" deep) in heavy kettle to 375 deg. Fahr., or just beginning to smoke if you do not have a thermometer. I used a pound of lard for shortening. Some is leftover and is gray. I may be strained and chilled for other frying purposes. Cut dough with floured 2½" or 3" doughnut cutter. (Lid doughnuts carefully from board or counter on wide spatula; slide quickly into hot fat. Fry only as many at a time as may be turned easily. Turn as they rise to surface and show a deep gold color. Caution: When you turn them over big them, away from you, not toward you, to avoid fat splashing your face or arms or even instep. Fry 2 to 3 minutes total, or until golden brown on both sides. Adjust heat as you fry doughnuts for they chill the fat when first put in. Lift out with slotted spatula. Drain on unglazed brown paper or paper toweling. Makes about 2½ to 3 8 2¾" or 3" doughnuts. Sift icing sugar over when cool or cold, if desired. Eat these and they are fresh. Make half of this recipe for a small family.

Kinettes Hear Talk on Fall Out Shelters

TWEED — The Kinettes of Tweed held their regular meeting at Hotel Tweedsmuir on Monday evening. President Kathy Moffatt was in charge of the meeting.

During the business discussion a donation of $100 was made to the Tweed Rink Committee.

Mrs. and Ted Courneya who operate Hotel Tweedsmuir where the Kinette dinner meetings are held, were presented with a gift in appreciation of their courteous extended to the club.

Two guests, Mrs. Marlene Spencer and Mrs. Lillian Johnson were introduced. Winners of the draw prizes were: Mrs. Muriel Wood and Mrs. Ruth Crawford.

After the business session, Mr. Eugene Refousse of Tweed, and public school principal at Moira, was introduced. "Fall-out shelters and what to do in case of an attack" was the subject of his discussion. This is a subject of interest. International interest, and Mr. Refousse in his capacity as a member of the reserve militia, trained in civil defence, gave advice on the necessary action in a time of emergency. His address made the evening a most interesting one.

Congregational Meeting

CENTENARY UNITED

CENTENARY — On January 18, the congregational meeting of Centenary United Church was held in the church hall. The Rev T. F. Townsend opened the meeting with prayer. Reports were given by Mr. E. Edmondson for the church; Mr. R. Edmondson for the session, which showed an increase in church membership; Mr. Keith Johnston for the Sunday School; Mrs. R. Edmondson for the Women's Federation and Mrs. H. Milburn for the Mission Band and Cradle Roll.

Auditors report was given by Mr. B. Harder.

The reports showed that much thought, work and prayer had been given in each society.

The names of Mr. Lloyd Pearson and Mr. Albert Christopher were added to the session and Mr. Fred Meems, Mr. H. Milburn and Mr. Mac Nobes were added to the Stewards.

After the meeting closed lunch was enjoyed.

BABY CHECKED

VICTORIA (CP) — Junior League members operating the checkroom at a Government House reception checked clothing, ceremonial swords and a six-months-old baby, duly ticketed and left for 10 minutes by its father.

Speaking of Manners

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I am a copy-writer in an advertising agency. I mention this because the conditions under which I work are very informal. I am in my personal relationship with a number of the people I work with. I have truly cultivated many friendships.

Occasionally, I invite a few co-workers and their wives to my home for dinner. Invitably though, other office friends hear about it, and a few have acted hurt because they were not invited, too.

Although I have no particular plan or program, I intend eventually, to have all my friends at the office at dinner or guests at home. I believe had small dinner parties at home are gracious and I want to continue them. Yet, I can hardly tell those I haven't invited yet that their turns will come eventually. What is your solution? I don't think this problem is at all uncommon. — S.C., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: Socializing after hours with co-workers always is a ticklish situation. It's unfortunate that those you've already invited to dinner had to spread the word around the office, and doubly unfortunate that anyone felt "hurt" not to be invited.

Naturally, you should give preference in your invitations to those who have shown you favors in hospitality. Once these obligations are cleared up, you might consider giving a dinner and invite those whom you couldn't include in your small dinners. It also would be wise to invite a few personal friends so the occasion won't seem like an office party.

In the future, though, it would be wise to be more careful about the manner in which you issue invitations. Instead of sending them through interoffice memos or issuing them offhand in the corridor, your wife should call or write a note to the wife of each guest. This is certainly a more correct procedure, and your office friends are likely to think of a proper invitation as something special. Mail should not be a talk about it to others. An invitation should be put on a purely personal level if it's to be treated as such.

Question: My son is inviting a group of boy to his 11th birthday party. Should "Master" or "Miss" be used when addressing the envelopes? The boys are all about the same age. — Mrs. L.C.F., Passaic, N.J.

Answer: A boy is addressed as "Master" up to age 12. Between 12 and 18, only his parents — "John Brown" — appears on the envelope. After 18, he assumes the full-grown title of "Mister."

Moscow-Peking Axis Topic At Women's Canadian Club

"The world is no longer our bread basket", was one of the views expressed by Sir Robert Hadow K.B.E., C.M.G., M.C. in an inspiring address to a large gathering of the Women's Canadian Club, in Queen Alexandra School auditorium last evening.

The speaker who was introduced by Club president, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, was born and educated in England, served with the Seaforth Highlanders from 1914-18 in France, Mesopotamia and Palestine, where he was twice wounded, mentioned in despatches and was awarded the Military Cross. He served all over the world in the United Kingdom diplomatic corps from 1928-31 and was knighted in 1953. After retiring in 1958 he lectured extensively for the U.K. and with his outstanding knowledge of Russo-Chinese relations he chose as his topic the "Moscow-Peking Axis".

LACK OF HISTORY TEACHING

Sir Robert, in his opening remarks laid down the qualifications of a good lecturer. He also expressed the opinion that there was not enough history taught in the schools today.

He continued by saying, that that the Soviet has accused the western powers of exploitation of economy, but yet the countries such as Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Hungary, the products could only be sold through the Russians to the profit of Soviet economy. But with a cold war going on, and the threat of a nuclear war, the nation is filled with a fear and foreboding; but it is hoped for a peaceful co-existence with New Asia, dominated in succession by Mr. Khrushchev and in Peking, by Mao.

AFRICAN STUDENTS

The Soviet has taken students from Africa and educated them in Russian universities in the hopes that in approximately ten years Africa would belong to the Axis group. In Russia at the present time there are 78,000 students taking the engineering and science courses alone. Mr. Khrushchev has increased the privileges of this new class and has also laid the foundation of increasing more and progressive production and by so doing has gained the goodwill of the masses of the people of Russia and for the first time in many years his population is multiplying.

SUCCESSOR UNKNOWN

Sir Robert dealt with the fact that no one knows who will be Khrushchev's successor, or what his politics might be, but it is believed that he will be a younger man and it is rumored that it will be Mr. Kosiov. The new economic policy of the Soviet was the declaration of war in the peaceful field of trade and thus the threat at the present time of the Moscow - Peking Axis in the field of peaceful production.

Especially in the steel industries, New Asia is going ahead in leaps and bounds, and has seven hydro electric power stations with two of these each twice as powerful as the largest in America. There is also hope of increasing light industries and Mr. Khrushchev hopes to compete with the West in imports as well as exports.

TWO SYSTEMS

In the world today there are two political economic systems and there is keen competition between the Soviet Union and the free Western world. Russia has given help and both for the countries of New Asia and New Africa to a point where these countries can support themselves without aid from the West and, provided that the political and economic end is secure, the price is of little importance.

The speaker went on to say that even though America, with its high standard of living, has to import millions of tons of steel; also copper from Chile, and tin from Malaya. In all it has to import nine out of 15 of its raw materials which in itself proves that the entire economy of the world is based on peace, although Russia may try to compel the rest of the world to buy through her. By this new economic policy, Mr. Khrushchev hopes to gear the economy of new lands to the Soviet bloc consisting of Red China, instead of the west. Even though Moscow and Peking are both communistic governments, the Axis still has as many differences of opinion as there are in the west.

NATION OF TRADERS

The nations of the west have achieved a position of success because they are a nation of traders, with a much higher standard of living than in many other countries who have never known a full meal and these comprise four-fifths of the world's population. The answer to this problem must be economic co-operation with each other, even though this might necessitate painful negotiations, but can result in world peace, through mutual opportunity.

WOMEN'S INFLUENCE

In his closing remarks Sir Robert stated that there must be a drive on for the feminine qualities with possible resultant success. He maintained that the women of the nation could accomplish a great deal by making objections and asking those in power and to express their own views and voices to those who represent them in parliament. "Women can influence politics in the right direction", he stated.

A most interesting and enlightening question and answer period followed after which Mrs. D. I. McKinnon, expressed appreciation to Sir Robert on behalf of those present for a most stimulating address.

Mrs. J. S. Loynes and her group served refreshments, at the close of the meeting.

Legion LA. Wins Euchre Tournament

DESERONTO — The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion branch 320, challenged the men's branch to a euchre tournament on March 23, 1961 in an effort to win back the trophy donated by Comrade Arthur Hall for competition between the two groups.

The contest was closely fought and the ladies emerged as winners by a lonely three points. The ladies' scores were: ladies 096, and the men, 093.

The high scores for the evening were as follows: ladies— Edith Fraser 69, and the men, Cy Martin 82. The low scores were won by Carol Reid with 47 and Fred Thompson 32. Dorothy Parrott won the lucky head prize.

A social hour followed the games.

River Valley WI Holds Euchre Party

STIRLING — Recently a most successful euchre party was held at the Valley Heights School with 36 adults in attendance. Guests were present from Plainville W.I., Wallbridge, Mount Pleasant and Stirling.

The committee were Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. Allan McDonell and Mrs. Harry Morrow, with the guests amounting to $10.10. Mrs. MacMullen welcomed the guests and announced that two card parties would be held in February in charge of another group. She also announced the West Hastings District Farm Forum night on February 5th, at River Valley School and that the public is cordially invited to attend these functions.

The winners were announced and Shirley McDonell distributed the prizes as follows: ladies' high — Mrs. J. L. Donohoe; second — Mrs. S. Kerkey; men's high — Mr. Percy MacMullen; second — Mr. Fred McDonell.

Eight members of River Valley W.I. were in attendance and provided the lunch. At the close, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

This completes the work of the agricultural and Canadian industries committee for this term.

The home economics and health group are convening in February card parties under the direction of Mrs. Ross Bath and Mrs. Alef Bath.

CRIME INCREASE

Number of crimes reported to police in England and Wales in 1956 was 120 per cent higher than in 1938.

Club Activities

EGGLETON "MESSENGERS"

MADOC JUNCTION — The 1st meeting of the Eggleton Messengers was held on Friday afternoon at the school.

The new president, Glenn Stapley, presided over a program which had been prepared by Sheila Clarke and Lois Danford. He opened the meeting with hymn, "Jesus Bids us Shine", with Lois Danford as pianist.

The selected Scripture lesson was read by Dianne Frost.

A poem, "The Snowflake" making objectives and duties and following this an interesting reading was given by Sheila Danford.

The secretary, Dianne Frost, called the roll showing 24 children and three adults in attendance.

Judy Johnson gathered the birthday offering.

Next meeting to be held at the school on February 9th with some Valentine numbers.

Brian Kovack read a poem, "The Hike."

A "Messenger Ceremony" was conducted by the leader, Mrs. Maurice Clarke, assisted by Kenneth Danford, who read St. Matthew,11: 10 containing the word "Messengers". Carol Ward, Mary McMullen, who read 2nd Corinthians 8 verse 24.

The leader, three of the girls in the Jr. grades had each been given a coloured picture, mounted on cardboard. Mrs. Frost came forward first, her picture depicted (Christian refugee) and girl, Carol Stapley, showed her picture, (a missionary teacher teaching others about Jesus); 3rd little girl, Sandra Stapley, and held up her picture, showing children at a playground taking turns at the games (sharing). These pictures illustrated how "Messengers" can be "Helpers" in work for Jesus.

A special prayer was read by Mrs. Clancy, with the pupils giving the response, "Thank You, Our Father."

Following this, the leader read the story, "The School in the Hollow," written by Gertrude Jennes Rider, which told of a missionary's work in a mountain region.

All present signed a pretty get-well card to be sent to Mrs. R. Danford, who is a patient in Belleville Hospital.

Sheila Clarke, lunch convener, served delicious homemade cookies.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

The meeting was called to order by the president, Harold Pound, opening with a call to worship. George Clare read the Scripture from Psalm 27 followed by a meditation given by Kelly Swan.

June Treverton gave a reading, "Away to a Happy New Year". Ruth Swan gave an accordion solo; poem by Linda Rose "New Year Greetings" and a prayer for each day of the New Year, by Eloise Clare.

Several letters of "Thank-you" were read from members who had been ill.

A discussion on catering to a wedding the last of March also took place.

The annual report was given by the secretary, Ruth Rose, which was most gratifying.

Bruce Swan presented the "Carol singing" money to the Guild.

The next meeting to be held in the community Hall, February 16 with a Valentine program to be arranged by the Young People of the Guild with Gwydon Pound and Gerry Rose as leaders.

Handsome Hatlet

By ALICE ALDEN

As a variation on the favorite fur theme, here is a bit of a hat-with a face veil.

This wonderful whimsey of a hatlet by Don Marshall is fashioned of deep myrtle green felt with a feathered quill fancy and a patterned mesh, dark green veil.

A hat of this type is designed with an eye to protecting the current coiffures, which means that there is really less hat than there is veiling.

It's Battle of Skirts At Paris Fashion Show

By PEGGY MASON

PARIS (Reuters) — A battle of skirts emerged at the end of today's showing of the Paris spring and summer fashions.

Counterattacking against Tuesday's Miss Ricci display of wasp waistlines and full skirts, Guy Laroche showed a bloused bodice, rounded waistline and slim skirts.

The seal of approval on one of the two looks is expected to come today when Marc Bohan's Dior collection is shown.

Couture president Jacques Heim turned out to be a middle-of-the-road man, dividing his collection equally between the two ideas.

Heim's street clothes had flaring, umbrella, gored skirts, tiny waist lines and glove-tight bolero bodices or boleros. But the majority of Heim coats and laced day dresses featured slim and supple sheath lines.

The ideas that received complete endorsement in Paris today included belts, pleated skirts in both full and restrained—effect, bias - cutting, fitted jackets, and the ever-popular panelled necklines and riotous use of bold accessories.

ALL KINDS OF BELTS

Belts varied from Ricci's wide and stiffened leather belts to Laroche's soft, pleated sashes that caressed rather than clutched the natural waistline.

Pleating have re - emerged. Full skirts were widened with pleats and accordion-pleated effects, especially effective in diaphanous sheer afternoon dresses. Box and even knife pleats showed up in tailored suits, paired with sawed - off jackets of fitted "bus boy," bolero and cropped.

Evening clothes featured a series of trailing scarves attached to ones shoulder or trailing but behind like angel wings.

The big color splash was tangerine, repeated many times in both the Laroche and Heim collections. Sharp yellow also was emphasized. The Ricci designer, Jules Crahay, recently suffered from jaundice and has a pale look. The "yellow look" very seriously for spring.

WMS Executive Honored at Final Meeting

RAWDON—Mrs. George Carlisle, president of Belleville Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society and, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, literature secretary day included a pleated skirts in both full and restrained—effect, bias - cutting, fitted jackets, and the ever-popular panelled necklines and riotous use of bold accessories.

RAWDON—Mrs. George Carlisle, president of Belleville Presbyterial Women's Missionary Society and, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, literature secretary attended the last executive meeting of that organization on Monday, January 22nd, at Foxboro United Church.

There were two sessions and the business group served the hot luncheon provided. Mrs. Carlisle presented each member of the executive with a small memento of her years as president. She has accepted office in the new United Church Women which was inaugurated on Sunday.

Mrs. MacMullen has served in Presbyterial and Bay of Quinte conference branch for 30 years, since church union and joined the Presbyterial in 1927 as press secretary.

Says Child Is Not His

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have a big and bad problem. I went with a guy three years and now I have his baby. He says it is not his and will not marry me. I swear to the Bible that it is because he is only guy I ever had.

His parents hate me. He loves his parents, but he also loves me. One time he tells me to wait for him, then next time he tells me I can do what I want. He is 24. His mother tells him they will leave all the property to him, but some people tell me she is just bluffing, and is only trying to get him to give me up.

I know he loves me because the last time we were together he cried and cried. He has to make a choice between me and his home. How can I make him want his home less and me more? I think it is too late for him to give me up, when I have a baby.—SAD STORY.

DEAR SAD STORY—From where I sit it will be a sadder story if you stick with him.

Your hero is an overprotected coward. If he won't admit his own child, he fears his parents more than he loves you. There is no way to prove it is his—and if there were, this would be a poor start for marriage.

His parents have coddled him and will keep running the show if they can. You must have a showdown, and be ready to send him back to the home roost for keeps unless he begins to act like a man.

And for your own help, see a counsellor from the Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira St., Belleville.

* * *

DEAR DORIS:—I am a 15-year-old girl who is very interested in people and would like to become a social worker. I have a grateful idea about the work but would like to learn more about it.

Could you please give me the universities I could attend and something about the work itself.—HARRIET.

DEAR HARRIET.—Do you enjoy social studies more than chemistry? And do you love to figure out why people act the way they do? Do you want to do your share in making the world a better place to live in?

Then you are right to find out about social work—because the likes and dislikes I mention are apt to go with the girl who will make a success of this career.

There are many branches of the work: casework, with children, or men and women, or crippled and sick people; group work, with teen-agers, children, old people; community organization, with committees and citizens who plan for better things for everybody. Several Canadian universities have schools of social work.

There is so much variety that I would be hard put to put it in a nutshell. I'm sending you a booklet—and would suggest a conversation with a flesh-and-blood social worker. The family or children's agency in your area has one or more who would love to tell you about what he or she does all day.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. G. Q.:—Deafness is a terrible isolater. I am sure Silent World will appreciate your interest. I cannot send you his name, but I can tell him you would like to hear from him. Thank you.

Never on a Sunday

Cabinetschizophrenia Said Six-Day Disease

OTTAWA (CP)—Give three politicians a hall, an audience, an election year and seven minutes apiece and the result is a gloves - off, no - holds-barred debate.

Two MPs and a federal cabinet minister did this truth Tuesday in debating the issues of the next election at the invitation of the Business Paper Editors Association, holding an annual meeting here.

In summary, their positions seemed to be this:

Frank Howard, CCF MP for Skeena—Can we stand "another four years of John's delay, procrastination and indecision?".

Maurice Lamontagne, Liberal candidate in Quebec east and special assistant to Opposition Leader Pearson—The Liberals are a bold alternative to Conservative lack of policy on trade, refusal to remedy basic weakness in the economy and divisive effect on national unity.

Frank McGee, Progressive Conservative MP for York-Scarborough — The Conservatives offered balanced and thoughtful action in place of the scramble for a left-of-centre position displayed by Liberals and the New Democratic Party.

DEBATE GENERAL

However, this general statement soon got tossed aside in a rapid cross-fire ranging from a national flag to political corruption in Quebec.

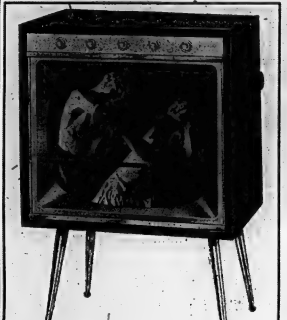
It ended with Mr. Howard saying the country should be concerned about things like the "cabinetschizophrenia" on defence with External Affairs Minister Green arguing for disarmament and Defence Minister Harkness plugging for nuclear weapons.

The prime minister, he said, solved this by being on Mr. Green's side Monday, Wednesday and Friday and on Mr. Harkness' side on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

What's he doing on Sunday? asked Moderator Charles Lynch, chief of Southam News Services.

On Sunday, he's praying that things won't get any worse during the week, Mr. Howard replied.

STARTS VOLTA



AKOSOMBO, Ghana (Reuters) — President Kwame Nkrumah Tuesday pressed a button and blasted a slice out of a hill here to formally launch the multi - million - dollar Volta River project — one of Africa's most important hydro - electric projects.

PASS TAX BILL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to the White House Tuesday the controversial du Pont tax relief bill. It would more than halve the federal taxes E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. stockholders would have to pay if they receive General Motors stock under a du Pont plan to comply with a Supreme Court anti-trust order to get rid of its GM stock.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1962

Liberals Putting Election Campaign in High Gear With Groups Planning Strategy

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberals are putting their election campaign into high gear, convinced the Conservatives are on the run.

Five separate groups of campaign workers, will meet here during the next five days to plan Liberal strategy and put the final seal on the Liberal policy platform.

Opposition Leader Pearson said Monday night the Conservatives have got the jitters and are stooping to distortions and baseless charges to get re-elected.

"When little men see big power escaping from them they get shrill and desperate," Mr. Pearson told the 3-speech.

The Liberal leader, speaking to 30 attending the annual meeting of the West Ottawa Liberal Association, struck back at two of Mr. Diefenbaker's recent attacks on the Liberal camp.

DELEGATES MEET

Two hundred delegates to the Canadian university Liberal federation began their 24th day meeting Friday. The national council of the Liberal party will bring 400 together on Thursday and Tuesday. During the weekend, the national campaign committee and the executive of the Women's Liberal Federation meet, and Young Liberals also plan meetings.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberals should not be cocky, but they can take a good deal of satisfaction from the progress they have made since their defeats in 1957 and 1958.

Mr. Pearson referred to Mr. Diefenbaker's speech last Saturday in which the Conservative leader quoted from a transcript of part of the Liberal leader's press conference in Amherst, N.S., last Nov. 9. Mr. Diefenbaker quoted Mr. Pearson as saying he would leave it to the Quebec members of a Liberal cabinet to decide what symbols should be used in a distinctively Canadian flag.

CLAIMS ALTERED

"Now, nearly three months later," Mr. Pearson said, the script of an off-the-cuff press conference is produced, a paragraph is altered, and material is used without relationship to the full script."

Mr. Pearson also referred to Mr. Diefenbaker's speech in the Commons Monday and Tuesday this week, in which the prime minister accused the Liberals of down-grading Canada and of having as their candidates a number of "bureaucrats" who pushed Canadians around during the Second World War.

The government, Mr. Pearson said, should defend its policy, and not descend to the level of personal attack on men who served the country well in war and peace, and were not in the Commons to defend themselves.

NOTES PREVIOUS PROTEST

J. W. Pickersgill (L — Bonaventure — Magdalen Islands), Finance Minister Fleming, as a private opposition MP, had protested against the previous government's 20-per - cent excise tax on advertising revenues of Canadian editions of foreign-owned magazines.

"When did the minister see the light on the road to Damascus?" Mr. Pickersgill asked.

Speaker Roland Michener said the question was improper, but Mr. Fleming jumped to his feet to say the government's proposal was "very different from the tax the Liberals imposed."

The tax imposed by the former government was repealed when the Conservatives came to power.

WILL ENTERTAIN RED

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Kennedy will have the daughter and son-in-law of Soviet Premiey Khrushchev as luncheon guests at the White House Tuesday. The son-in-law is Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the Russian newspaper Izvestia, who interviewed Kennedy in November. The White House said Wednesday Adzhubei and his wife Rada now are in Havana.

Prime Minister Says Govt. Not Prepared to Depart From General Plans on Mags

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite protests, the Canadian government doesn't intend to change "the general plan and purport" of its impending tax and tariff measures to divert advertising dollars from American to Canadian magazines.

"We believe that this legislation is necessary in the interests of Canadian identity and as an assurance that Canada's destiny will be preserved," Prime Minister Diefenbaker told the Commons Wednesday.

He had been asked in statement on a Washington report that the U.S. trade department regards the plan as improper and that it may seek some form of trade compensation if the Canadian plan is carried out.

On compensation, Mr. Diefenbaker said the government regards the proposed action as "entirely within our rights" and not just as a commercial question within terms of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

"... We are naturally prepared . . . to listen to the views expressed regarding it, though not in depart from the general plan and purport as placed before the House by us.

HAVE THE RIGHT

"We in Canada believe we have the right to assert the preservation of those things which are Canadian and unless action is taken we shall, in the days ahead, be dependent entirely or almost entirely on the viewpoint of another nation, however friendly."

One of the proposals announced by the prime minister Monday would deny entry to Canada of foreign magazines containing advertising directed primarily at the Canadian market.

The other would halve to 50 per cent the deduction for tax purposes that Canadian advertisers can now get on ads printed in foreign - owned magazines printed in this country, and would apply to commercial radio ads in such magazines that may set up Canadian operations in the future.

Both proposals are based on the report of the royal commission on publications and are aimed mainly at Reader's Digest and Time magazine, each publishing Canadian editions which together corner 40 per cent of all domestic magazine sales.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that last August, two months after the commission's report was published, a "message" was received from the U.S. He did not reveal its contents.

"All I can say is that there has been no official communication directly received by the government since I set forth the terms of the projected legislation."

"THEY'RE AWAY" — The Bay of Quinte Bonspiel opened last night with ceremonies. Mayor A. McLean Haig looks on with Quinte Club president Bob Lanning as Ben Cowie throws the first rock.—(Photo by Riley).

Quinte, Trenton and RCAF Combined Spiel Officially Opened Here by Mayor Haig

The combined Bay of Quinte spiel, which includes the Belleville, Trenton and RCAF Rink is officially on its way and if the opening ceremonies at the Quinte Club last evening are any criterion, this district is in for one of the best weeks of curling and good sportsmanship that it has ever seen in many a year. The clubroom was filled to capacity and the crowd stayed until after the first rock was thrown.

Ald. James Duncan of Trenton, general chairman of the spiel, Flt. Lt. Bill Turner of station Trenton, Bill Riley and the genial president of the host club, Bob Lanning were on hand to get the show on the way-and his worship, Mayor A. McLean Haig officially opened the proceedings with the Deputy Mayor, Ald. Ben Corke throwing the first stone, which incidentally journeyed through the house.

After President Bob Lanning had welcomed the guests, explained the system and thanking all for the co-operation thus far accomplished, introduced the mayor, who welcomed all to the spiel and explained the committee for the co-operation that has been displayed in putting this event into being. He stated that the combination of the three clubs to put on this spiel shows what can be accomplished by a concerted effort.

Ald. Duncan and Skip Sandy Keith and Pat Stuparyk with Drummond Dennis assisted players of the Trenton station hotel headed the curlers who were to participate in the opening game in a march around the ice and through the curlers marched the president, Mayor and Deputy Mayor. Ald Ben Corke threw the first rock and the spiel was under way. The opening ceremonies will be repeated in all the rinks.

EXCELLENT CURLING

The curling was excellent to say the least and only one game was won using away. Quinte rinks came through with flying colors, Chambers of Lovett defeated Henderson of the RCAF by an 11-5 score losing one up coming home. Lovett started with a big three but Henderson pecked away to tighten the game right to the end. Tom Cowie defeated by an extra end to beat Jerry Fraser of RCAF and the skip made the shot that is the best in a game, a perfect draw to the button to keep his rink in the game. Fraser scored a point in the ninth and tenth to tie. The score was 8-7.

John Doe of Downsview easily defeated Herm Chambers of Trenton 13-3, the Trenton rink giving up the ghost in the ninth. Bill Caull's rink had to score a double in the last end to win 11-10. The Quinte rink had a five-ender scored against in the first end but Doug Attley who was playing last stone rallied his rink and they finished on top. The opening shots will be in Trenton and RCAF this Thursday morning and the curlers will knock off after the six o'clock draw to attend the dinner and entertainment at the RCAF mess. This "do" will be for curlers only but the women and invited guests will have their innings on Sunday, when again another party will be staged.

50 RINKS ENTERED

There are 54 rinks in the spiel and some of the best curlers in the province and Ontario are entered. Play will be seen in action. The curlers are playing for valuable trophies and prizes and the public is invited to come and witness these curlers in action.
